The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Strange Interlude

Three weeks of the daily newspaper strike provided a strange yet a very busy interlude.

Stepping up our production from a normal of 72,000 copies per week to 156,000 and from an average of 20 to 24 pages per week to as many as 64 pages was by no means a small job.

But the whole incident points up that emergencies often bring out our real potentials. This was true of our organization as a whole and was certainly true of most of our associates.

Many fine people have called and written letters to say how much they appreciated our efforts during the strike. A great number have become new subscribers to our papers.

We have had a gratifying response from many advertisers who have told us they got excellent results.

All told, we are glad we could be of service. It was a strange but a very busy interlude.

It is good to have the dailies back in operation. There has been no account of who won the strike. Regardless of what happened it would be safe to say that no one won.

The Green Sheet?

Many people have asked "Why did you cease using the green cover sheet on The Spectator?"

It was merely a matter of inability to keep the green stock on hand during the strike, and now until we use up our large supply of white newsprint the green will be absent for awhile.

Short Takes: Three young fellows who had been selling The Spectator on the street last week stopped at a restaurant at noon and ordered a round of hamburgers. When asked if they wanted onion they said, "No onion. We're in business now you know" . . . Hilltop shoe man Harry Graham will play Mr. Oshira in Stadium Theatre's next production, "The Teahouse of the August Moon."

ON SUNDAY SALES . . .

Columbus: 'Citations To Continue' Whitehall: 'Will Arrest Violators'

By BETTY DAFT

Columbus' sweeping crackdown on Sunday violators of Ohio's Blue Law with the issuance of nearly 160 citations, and Whitehall's announced "one-better" policy of actual, on-the-spot arrests of violators in that city, have set the stage for an unprecedented enforcement of the law.

During the 1962 enforcement period 116 citations were issued, resulting in 92 convictions.

REYNOLDSBURG OPEN

Reynoldsburg citizens on Tuesday night heard Mayor George Twyford say that he would not order enforcement of Sunday closing laws in the city until the state legislature clarifies violation.

At the same time he said he would join any group in negotiating voluntary closing and asked Rev. Charles Kirsch of Reynoldsburg Methodist Church to organize such a committee.

In explaining his stand, Mayor Twyford said he considered himself a servant of the public, charged with enforcement of laws. However, he continued, he felt that he would become master if required to interpret a state criminal law.

Safety Director Fred Simon and Richard Sensenbrenner, executive assistant to Columbus' mayor, have assured the public that their enforcement policy will continue.

All Whitehall firms operating on Sundays received letters this week from Safety Director Donald Waddell, informing them that "The City of Whitehall intends to enforce Sunday closing this coming Sunday, June 5 . . . failure to comply with this law will subject the violator to arrest and fine if found guilty."

"Anyone found violating the law," Mayor Holzhause spelled out, "whether employe or management, will be arrested, taken to the police station and must make bond at that time.

"Only those caught actually violating the law by making an illegal sale will be arrested."

Whitehall Council will meet in special session tonight, July 2, at 7:30, to consider Sunday closing legislation.

By passing such an ordinance, the city would be able to prosecute its own cases of Sunday sales violations, eliminating the time-consuming need for City Solicitor Paul Haytcher and the arresting police officers to appear in Columbus' Municipal Court.

The legislation will be patterned after the existing state statute.

Rev. Larry Lewis, spokesman for Christians United For Action, group of 100 clergymen whose persistent efforts triggered the new enforcement policy, said of Whitehall's action:

"This is the strongest yet, and will get the job done. It is the only way the discount stores will close."

He also applauded Mayor Sensenbrenner for directing Sunday sales' enforcement in Columbus' calling him "a courageous and dedicated public official."

He pointed to the need of continued vigorous enforcement in Columbus and in the

Illness Forces Canoeists' Return After 300-Mile Stint

By BETTY DAFT

Paddling down the river isn't as easy as it sounds . . . there are dams that advisors insisted weren't there, problems created by heavy pleasure traffic on the river that nobody thought to mention, logs that come from nowhere and fishing for your supper after paddling 15 hours is for the birds!

Columbus' adventuring canoeists, Gary Mock, son of aviatrix Mrs. Jerrie Mock; Richard Conrado and David Hutchison, were back home Tuesday, six days after they launched their canoe at Greenlawn Dam for a trip down the Ohio, Scioto and Mississippi rivers to New Orleans.

Illness forced their return after they had traveled only to Rising Sun, Ind., about 300 miles of their proposed 1,780-mile trek, sadder, disappointed, and wiser in the ways of the river.

The boys had hopefully set their sights on reaching Portsmouth the first day, June 24, but got only as far as Chillicothe. And succeeding days of the week repeated Wednesday's experience, proving that river miles far exceed a crow's flight.

The winding routes of the Scioto and Ohio, complicated by lack of current and problems from other river craft, made their optimistic estimated timetable impossible, and it wasn't until Sunday afternoon that they reached Cincinnati.

By then there were dents in the canoe from shooting a couple of small dams on the Scioto and by a floating log on the Ohio, and their equipment was extensively damaged by water.

"The worse time was outside Cincinnati," Gary said. "We shipped about 30 gallons from wakes of heavy boats, completely ruining our camera and film, and soaking our two-way radio. And all our supplies, sleeping bags and equipment were drenched.

"There is no current on the Ohio, so it's paddling all the way," he continued. "The heavy river traffic is a problem. We had to pull over to shore to avoid wakers from barges and bigger boats, and then there were the smaller, faster boats and water skiers."

But by Monday afternoon, dried out and rested after a night in a motel, their canoe pounded out, and bolstered by sound advice from Gary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mock (who flew down to survey their situation), the boys

Fresh Fuel Feeds German Village Feud

By JANE ROBINSON

Faced with an almost certain override of his recent veto of five German Village ordinances, Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner is still determined the legislation shall not become law.

Before leaving for New York Monday he stated that if the threatened override becomes a fact he will consider taking the issue to the people.

With a stinging message last week, the mayor refused to sign the emergency ordinances passed two weeks ago by Columbus City Council.

He objected to the laws establishing an executive secretary's post with a salary in excess of $8,000 annually on grounds of spending money which was not budgeted, of establishing a dangerous precedent of giving municipal aid to neighborhood organizations and of "shoving down the throats of German Villagers something that they did not want."

He also stated (though this was not included in the veto message) that he regarded the ordinance lengthening the terms of the commissioners' office as a direct and unveiled attempt to usurp his appointive powers.

Gockenbach Files Rebuttal

Before council convened Monday night C. H. Gockenbach, German Village commissioner, sent to City Clerk Gordon Serrott a rebuttal to Sensenbrenner's statements.

He stated that the message demonstrates "the mayor's complete misunderstanding of the city government, the German Village, and the German Village Commission."

Referring to the "tremendous increase in requests for certificates of appropriateness as well as requests for advice and counseling" Gockenbach accused the mayor of being unwilling to provide the necessary administrative personnel.

He maintained that since the commission was established by City Council and "empowered to advise" the body, its status is apart from that of any private neighborhood group.

The commissioner went on

Eastern Hospital In Bond Issue Request

A new satellite hospital of Mt. Carmel Hospital, to be built on the East Side, is included in the $19,869,000 bond issue request the Columbus Hospital Federation approved Wednesday for the November Franklin County ballot.

The new 140-bed East Side Hospital, proposed for construction on land Mt. Carmel already owns on E. Broad-st, near McNaughten-rd and the future outerbelt, would cost $3.5 million.

If passed, the bond issue, supplemented by privately issued bonds, would finance an improvement and expansion program for seven additional area hospitals.

Projects approved by the federation's hospital expansion committee are:

Replacement of St. Anthony's older section of the building, adding 115 new beds; a new wing for nurses and other resident personnel at St. Ann's, and conversion of the hospital's second floor from residential use to an operating room and 26 beds.

Conversion of Grant hospital to a 50-bed, long-term care unit, and construction of a new nurses residence and school; renovation and fireproofing of part of Mercy

Resolutions Keep Both Plans Alive

By FRANK RYAN

Columbus City Council will conduct a second flood plan public hearing Wednesday, July 8, in council chambers at City Hall.

The 7 p.m. meeting will deal with plans proposed by the Scioto Conservancy District and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for construction of Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects.

Although the hearing date has a "semi-official" status, it may be changed if representatives of either affected agency indicate that they cannot attend, or will not be prepared to answer all questions.

The Corps of Engineers will be represented at the hearing by Col. Harrington W. Cochran, chief of the Huntington, W. Va., district office. He indicated that he will be prepared to answer any questions pertaining to the Army's proposal for the multi-purpose projects.

The first public hearing (June 19) covered the SCD plan as it affects the City of Columbus and Franklin County as political entities and those property owners who will receive direct benefits under the SCD plan. The second hearing was scheduled to examine the SCD plan in greater detail, and to hear direct testimony from the Corps of Engineers.

The July 8 hearing date was set following Monday night's council meeting, during which two resolutions were adopted to keep the door open for adoption of either plan.

The solons were unanimous in support of a resolution asking the Corps of Engineers to recommend federal funding for both the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects. Councilman Robert Southwick introduced the resolution as a means of hearing details of both plans before making a decision. He stressed that it did not constitute an endorsement of the Army plan.

The second resolution approved was submitted by Council President William Fornof. It calls for a $9.5 million bond issue on the Nov. 3 ballot to permit the city to enter a water supply agreement with the SCD. The Fornof proposal failed as an emergency measure when Councilmen William Hoermle and Roland Sedgwick voted against it. Six affirmative votes are required for emergency legislation.

Re-introduced with the emergency clause deleted, the resolution passed by a 5-2 vote, Hoermle and Sedgwick maintaining their "no" votes. Councilmen Hoermle, Sedgwick and Southwick were not given advance notice that the Fornof resolution would be introduced.

Councilman Ronald DeVore, in voting for the Fornof proposal, said he did so in the belief that it will be rejected if placed on the ballot. He said this would clear the way for the Corps of Engineers' plan, which he favors.

Voting on the bond issue resolution was preceded by discussion from the audience on relative merits of the two proposed plans. Most members of the audience who spoke favored the Army plan. A notable exception was State

SAFE, SANE, FUN 4TH FESTIVALS FOR COMMUNITY

As American in its traditions as the flag, as apple pie and Yankee Doodle . . . nothing in today's sophisticated spectrum of entertainment will ever match an old-fashioned, community Fourth of July celebration.

And this year, features of festivities so popular they live long in people's memories have been updated for modern appeal and combined with brand new ideas for an exciting Fourth in Whitehall, Bexley and Liv-Moor.

Traditional parades, ball games, athletic contests, games, street dancing and fireworks will star, along with a Bexley sidewalk art show, a midway at Robinwood Plaza, and swimming meets in Bexley and Liv-Moor.

And it's all planned with a purpose, to entice residents to stay at home, enjoy a safe and sane but fun Fourth with friends and families, and stay off the highways.

The holiday program in Whitehall is sponsored by Eastern Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce, the one in Bexley by the Bexley Celebrations Association, and Liv-Moor Civic Association is staging the celebration in Liv-Moor.

Schedule of events in the communities is:

IN BEXLEY . .

9 a.m. — Decorated bicycles assemble at Maryland.

9:30 a.m. — Parade with more than 100 floats moves from Maryland School to Roosevelt-av, to Mound-st, Pleasant Ridge-av, Dawson, Fair-av, to Cassingham, to disband at the high school.

8 p.m. — Program and fireworks at Bexley football field for BCA members and guests.

Bexley Art Guild will stage a sidewalk art show during the day in front of First Federal Savings and Loan, 2450 E. Main-st. More than 200 oils and water colors will be exhibited for sale.

IN WHITEHALL . .

1 p.m. — Parade from Whitehall-Yearling High, north on Whitehall to Broad, west to Robinwood Plaza for flag raising. Units include Scouts, antique autos

Bexley Post Names New Commander

Robert H. Smith, 87 S. Chesterfield-rd, attorney and former Columbus councilman, has been installed as commander of Bexley Post 130, American Legion.

A World War II Air Force veteran, he was service director of the Ohio American Legion for several years before entering private practice. His law partner, James M. Burchfield, is a past commander of Bexley Post.

Other top offices are held by Daniel Oestreicher, 2590 Dover-rd, first vice-commander; Rev. Harrison A. Gruenler, 750 S. Roosevelt-av, second vice-commander; Ralph Streng, 1241 Haddon-rd, third vice-commander.

John Burns, 1350 Kelton-av, adjutant; Murl E. Poetker, 3756 Dehner-dr, finance officer; Richard Darst, 1144 Little-av, chaplain, and Richard Lech, 3764 Dehner-dr, sergeant-at-arms.

Commander Smith, Alfred Darst, Howard Lewis and John Burns have been elected delegates to the state convention, July 24 to 26.

At that meeting another Bexley Post member, Past Commander C. William Heacock, 1652 Bostwick-rd, is expected to be elected first vice-commander of the Ohio organization.

Next post meeting at the Legion home will be held Monday night, July 27, and then meetings will be recessed until Sept. 28.

Summer Band Program Set In Whitehall

Whitehall Schools' summer band instruction will close with a program on Wednesday, July 8, 6:30 p.m. on the high school athletic field.

In the event of rain the program will be postponed until Thursday or Friday, at the same time.

Participating will be 25 students in beginning strings, 85 in beginning band, 50 in the intermediate band, 55 in the junior band, and 60 in the advanced band.

Refreshments will be available. Public is invited, and admission is free.

Lawrence Griffin will conduct the program, assisted by J. M. Day.

BOHEMIAN TAMED

PETER HARRIS and Beth Brickell star in "A Thousand Clowns," now playing at Playhouse-on-the-Green through Saturday, July 4. A major Broadway hit in 1962, the comedy concerns the taming of a carefree bohemian who has sniffed at making a living on the world's terms. Harris plays a television writer who has thrown up his well-paying job because of his conviction that life should be enjoyed and not just endured.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Sweet Corn Harvest Starts Here This Week

Fruit — watermelons, cantaloupe, seedless grapes, plums, lemons.

Cookouts and the Fourth of July are almost inseparable words. This year you can put homegrown roasting ears on the menu. And it should be easy to round out the meal with July plentifuls: lots of high quality beef, plenty of poultry and dairy products, and increased supplies of summer fruit and vegetables.

Mrs. Franks

Sweet corn harvest started at local farms this week. The supply will be light at first and increase substantially by mid-July. Don't hesitate to buy this early corn if you can get one of the improved varieties such as Earliking and Spring Gold —they eat much like mid-season corn. And, much of it is hydrocooled at the farm to preserve its sweet flavor during marketing.

Other homegrown vegetables on the increase are snap beans, yellow and zucchini squash, beets and cabbage. Greenhouse tomatoes will remain in good supply throughout July and harvest of field grown tomatoes will begin in southern Ohio in about 10 days.

FRESH FRUIT is rolling to market in volume now and prospects are for bigger crops of all fruits than we had last year, except peaches. In Ohio, the sour cherry crop is expected to total 2,000 tons, the second largest crop in 11 years. Harvest starts this week in northern Ohio, our main cherry producing area. And, don't miss the black and red raspberries during the next two weeks. They have a very short season.

Watermelon-eating season begins in July and there will be lots of good ones at low prices this year — production is estimated at three per cent above last year. In California the grape harvest is in full swing and there's a record supply of plums this year — nearly 35 percent above average. Cantaloupe supplies increase each week and prices are lower.

Beef Supplies for July will continue at record levels according to U.S.D.A. economists. Despite good summertime demand, beef steaks will be specialed from time to time. However, you can expect to see more frequent low-priced specials on chuck, rump and rib roasts and cuts from the round. Forequarters are being offered by quantity meat dealers at very reasonable prices, if you are interested in them for the freezer.

Turkeys are increasing seasonally and the supply will be heavier than a year ago — as much as 10 percent larger. A large turkey roasted in the cool of the evening can mean easy and inexpensive meat dishes for several busy summer days.

Diocese Offers European Tour

The Diocesan Councils of Catholic Men and Women will sponsor a 22-day European tour departing from Columbus Sept. 10 and returning Oct. 1. The 11-country tour includes visits to England, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, and France, as well as a number of other countries, and will be highlighted with a special Papal audience in Rome.

The jet tour, for the first time, is open to ALL Council members, their families and friends. Reservations are now being accepted. Additional information is available from Mary Selleck, chairman, 267-6684 or AM. 8-5664. Mail queries should be addressed to 306 E. N. Broadway, Columbus 43124.

Kiddies To Learn Foreign Dances

A children's program, "Around the World in Art and Song," will be held at Indianola Presbyterian Church each morning, Aug. 3 through 7. This is the sixth annual program sponsored by the Columbus chapter of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Children will be introduced to guests from Israel, Sierra Leone, France and China, and they will learn songs, dances and crafts from these countries. An open house will be held Aug. 7, 7:30 p.m., for parents.

FARM FORECAST

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman asked for support of the Food Stamp Program in recent testimony because pilot studies showed participating families made significant increase in their purchase and use of food under the stamp program. In response to his plea, the National Grange has expressed approval of the Food Stamp Plan of 1964, "to increase the distribution of foods in surplus supply and up-grade the diets of needy people in the United States."

The Foreign Agriculture Service reports that Australian farmers are likely to plant a record acreage to their 1964-65 wheat crop. FAS said the Australians were encouraged so much by the record harvest and fast disposal of their 63-64 crop that they are ready and eager for a larger crop. Communist China and the Soviet Union absorbed much of Australia's wheat this year.

From the Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster comes news that a mechanically transmissable virus has been isolated from some of the diseased plants that were collected near Portsmouth. It has been suspected that the corn virus was causing the disease but, as yet has not been determined. Tests have shown that it will infect sorghum, Sudan grass, and Johnson grass. It isn't known yet whether this virus is related to the corn stunt virus, nor which virus was responsible for last year's damage.

Richard Ritter, a fieldman trained in entomology and plant pathology, has been assigned to the study by the Experiment Station. Ritter will make frequent observations of conditions as they develop during the 1964 growing season in the Southern Ohio area. He will collect plant and insect samples as part of a coordinated research effort.

Schmitt Named Science Center Coordinator

William C. Schmitf, 5505 Rockwood-ct, has been appointed educational director of the Center of Science and Industry, 280 E. Broad-st, and co-ordinator of the center's lectures in the Battelle Planetarium.

CADET PRINCIPALS ASSUME FIRST ADMINISTRATIVE POSTS

FIRST ADMINISTRATIVE ASSIGNMENTS of 11 cadet principals were among promotions approved by the Columbus School Board, June 16. Cadets, chosen from the ranks of teachers throughout the school system, are assigned to the administration building for training before they appointed as principals and vice-principals. One of the cadets, Robert W. Carter, at right, was named assistant director, Administrative Services, and those assigned to schools were, from left, James Torrie, vice-principal of Monroe; James Tharp, vice-principal of Champion; Maris B. Stinson, vice-principal of Franklin; William Serr, vice-principal of Medina; James Park, vice-principal of McGuffey; Thomas McCormack, principal of Koebel; Dale James, principal of Avondale; Ned England, principal of Fulton; Patti Denney, principal of Dana, and Ruth Ann Brooks, principal of Walford.

They were in Rising Sun when they became ill. David's parents, who had driven down to check on their progress, brought them back by car. The canoe was left in the safe keeping of the police department.

Plans for continuing the trip are undecided. "We simply don't know at this time," Gary said, "I do hate to give up, and we'll wait a few days and see how we feel before deciding to continue or to postpone the trip."

Village--

to ask if the mayor is so "interested in his power, his authority, his control that he would take a step backwards to the slums and decay of yesterday."

The rebuttal, after further accusations extending to the activities of the urban director, ended with the conclusion that the mayor has "apparently allowed either his personal political dislike for the alleged choice of personnel for this job, or the opinions of someone anxious for personal gain who wishes to occupy a place on the commission," to influence him toward disservice to the community. (Frank Fetch is acknowledged as the commission's choice for the post.)

Mrs. Scheurer Appears

Welch apparently sided in with the mayor; Mrs. Scheurer, whose husband is one of the five commissioners, spoke of the accomplishments that have been wrought in German Village.

Robert Shamansky, a Bexley attorney and an avowed Democrat, confirmed later the statement of an observer that his role was that of "a dove of peace."

He believes that the statements of Gockenbach were intemperate and a disservice to the cause of German Village to which Shamansky is committed.

Stating frankly that as a holder of considerable real estate in the village and upon its fringes, he sees the German Village Commission and ordinances a valuable protection to his investments.

Furthermore, he agrees with the mayor's standpoint that lengthening the commissioners' terms of office beyond the tenure of the mayor is "dirty politics."

Cat And Dog Fight Seen

Stating that the whole thing could develop into "a cat and dog fight," Schamansky feels that such a development could destroy an urban project that "any city in the country can envy."

He implied that — in working to save the commission and the work started in the village — getting the job for Frank Fetch as an individual becomes of little importance.

John Young, city attorney, stated that the law does not limit the time within which council must act after a mayoralty veto.

It is plausible that a council favorable to the ordinances will not let the matter ride indefinitely, as the legislation is dead until they do act.

Anytime within 30 days, according to Young, after the veto might be overridden and become law, by petition the issue could be presented to council for reconsideration. It would take signatures equalling five percent of the number of votes cast in the last municipal election to accomplish this.

If council then failed to reconsider the matter, it could then be placed on the November ballot if filed 30 days before the election.

However, until the law was voted upon, any money spent by its provisions would be upheld as legal.

South High Graduate Receives Soroptimists' $500 Scholarship

Large balls of blue delphinium and yellow mums representing the world decorated the tables at Ilonka's for the installation dinner of Soroptimists June 21, and gold stars on the globes marked stops made by the honored guest, Mrs. Jerrie Mock, on her world-circling flight.

New officers assuming their posts were Mrs. T. Vaughn Bancroft, president; Mrs. Marjorie Hewitt, vice-president; Mrs. Roy Burton, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Cadwell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James T. Schrader, treasurer, and directors, Miss Lois Booker, retiring president; Mrs. Stephen Ivanhoff and Mrs. George O. Petrie.

Mrs. Ruth Norris, past president of the Mt. Vernon Soroptimist Club, was installing officer.

A $500 scholarship was presented to Diana Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reid Parsons of 947 Kelton-av. A graduate of South High, she will enter Ohio University in the fall.

The award was a departure from Soroptimists' past policy of granting scholarships for post graduate study. Mary Montibello, winner of the past two study grants of $800 each, will receive her doctorate degree in the field of social studies in elementary schools in August.

A former elementary principal, she will teach at Capital University.

The club also presented a $500 controlled reading device to Glenwood School, Columbus State Hospital.

Mrs. Jack Love, toastmistress and chairman of the affair, was assisted by Mrs. Howard Hutton, Mrs. Eva Genereaux, Mrs. Paul Dutoit and Mrs. James R. Cole.

Invocation was by Miss Barbara Potts, benediction by Mrs. Fred Behmer and greetings by Miss Freda Frazier. Dr. Mary Williams welcomed a new member and Frances Williams presented awards.

CORRECTION

In an article last week concerning a recital, the word "pupils" was used istead of "faculty." It should have read: "The faculty of Bertha Daarud Studios will present a group recital June 30, at Summers and Son, Gay and High-sts. Those participating are: Dollie Trent, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Miller, Arnold Graves, James Sommerville, Sam Shie, Carolann Martin, Marge Breckenridge and Bob Balogh."

OAGC Officers Named June 22

President, Wendell Woodruff, Hamilton Township Garden Club, vice-president, Col. Seth G. Dildine, Canal Winchester Garden Club; secretary, Ruth V. Schultz, Columbus Horticulture Society, and treasurer, Ronald L. Leeper of Worthington Garden Club.

Mrs. Henry L. Young, Bexley Garden Club and Franklin County contact Chairman, Region 9, OAGC, served as general chairman.

'Kooky Look,' 'Pop Art' Join Fall Fashion Parade For '64

By MARIANNE TOMLINSON
WRFD Women's Director

New York—Fall is shaping up this week in New York, and from all indications it's going to be a swinging season . . . fashionwise.

Fashion editors from radio, televisions, magazines and newspapers have gathered to see the showings that started Sunday, June 28 with the fashion forecast by Eleanor Lambert, New York publicist and press director of the American Designer series. She claims the feelings will be "swingy . . . romantically pretty . . . school girlish . . . and sexy in the James Bond heroine way."

Shapings are important in any fashion season and this fall we're getting back to fundamentals. The clothes are planned for specific modern doings. For modern day dancers we have the discotheque (dis-ko-tek) dresses, bare and slim to allow the freest of movement. For more conservatives we have the easy skirted suits and dresses with soft folds and pleats that never look untidy and the at-home clothes are comfortable . . . with ease in the longer skirts and the swingy pants fashions.

Designers are ever aware of their customers and one of their biggest tasks is to combine fashion with comfort and this season they've done it. However, they've gone beyond that point; they've created a very feminine, interesting, mysterious look for all this fall.

From the Byzantine they adapted the crusader tunic usually worn with pants and boots but also shown in softer versions of the period . . . draped chiffon and jeweled necklines. Some designers were inspired by the yashmal, or harem veil, and created even hats in that mood.

The modern pop art cropped up in the showings and was evident in the very direct cut and in the bold colors. In any fashion season we see many expressions of freedom of choice and the fashion-wire lady in Columbus or Timbucktoo chooses what is most flattering to her . . . her height . . . her size . . . her preference.

Also in any fashion season milady will find the kooky looks. We can't ignore them . . . they are there and they do have a place in fashion. The big job is to decide whether they are for you or not.

In the shapings of fall 1964 we have many choices . . .

The waistlines are clearly indicated and you can take your pick.

Dresses are independent except for evening when they depend on matching coats.

The "streak" coat is news because of its slimness.

To sum it up, the collections in New York of the leading American designers look promising and exciting. And despite the summery atmosphere in Columbus, we'll soon be swinging into the new fall season.

With Pet Shows Past, Whitehall Playgrounds Plan City-Wide Horseshoe Tournament For Next Week

Pet shows in all the city's playgrounds highlighted the past week in Whitehall's recreation program.

A city-wide horseshoe tournament is slated, with playoffs held in all playgrounds next week, and the city-wide tournament planned Wednesday, July 15, 7 p.m. at Norton Field, San Jose-in at St. Ann.

All junior and senior high school students in the city are invited to a free dance this Friday evening, 7 to 10 at the recreation center, in the basement of the Municipal Building.

At Kae . . .

Ribbons were presented to the following:

In the dog category, a blue ribbon went to Raymond Luzader; two red ribbons to Bonnie Cosner and Steve Anderson, and gold ribbons to Debbie White and Ronda Lindsley.

In the cat category, a blue ribbon went to Kim Francis, two red ribbons to Sue McClurg and Terry McClurg, and gold ribbons to Cathy Hess and James Hess.

At Norton Field . .

Norton Field's pet show was attended by 125 children, with 26 entries ranging from beetles to dogs.

Judges were Norton Field advisory council, including Mrs. Virginia Lee, Mrs. Carol Gibson, Mrs. Margaret Fortney and Mrs. Donald Gall.

Awards were in the following categories:

Cat — first, Bill Blaynee; second, Terry Blaynee.

Best performing dog—Kenny Maybury.

Smallest dog — Mark Mowere.

SOFTBALL

Last Wednesday the Norton Field Trotters defeated Etna Road with a seven run rally in the last inning, featured by Bill Simpson's grand slam home run.

Clarence Sesco had three hits for the winners, while Steve Southworth hit a home run for the losers. Finn Darnell was the winning pitcher on relief of Rocky Napier.

Next week the Trotters take on Beechwood.

At Etna Road . .

Twenty pets were entered in the Pet Show at Etna Road Playground June 25. Judges were Mrs. James Antoniak and Mrs. Dockeray.

The most unusual pet was the crow belonging to Jerry McKinney.

Mice — best cared for, Steve Tippett.

Frog — best cared for, Susan Graler.

SOFTBALL

Etna Road played its first softball game of the season against Norton Field. Norton Field won with a score of 10 to 7. Steve Southworth made the only home run for Etna.

At Beechwood . .

Largest, Christy Sallee; smallest, Debbie Williams; tamest dog, Mitchell Crabtree.

BEECHWOOD BELLES

SAMANTHA, A BASSET owned by Jerry and Christy Sallee, in front, won first place honors in the biggest pet category at Beechwood Playground's pet show last Thursday. Other entrants in the show included Dutchess, exhibited by Kenneth Gribbie, and Fredericka, calico cat owned by Renee Reynolds.

Scouts Camp In Back Yard

Nobody can say that Boy Scout Troop 367 was lacking in pep, vitality, zip and go, with enough left over for a fresh start the next day. The boys, parents, leaders, and committee members deposited the young Scouts on Rt. 16 and Taylor-rd, Summit Station, Saturday from where they followed a path through the woods.

Weary but happy they arrived at their destination, the Keith Dentner back yard. Advancement tests were passed along with the fun of a cookout. Sunday morning the leader Joe Burkey, conducted worship services in which all the Scouts participated.

BACK FROM TRIP

Members from the Columbus chapter who attended the 16th conference of the Brandeis University National Women's Committee in Waltham, Mass., were: Mrs. Jack Resler, Mrs William Wasserstrom, Mrs. Harry Schwartz, Mrs. Maxwell J. Papurt and Mrs. Stanley Wasserstrom.

More Indians live in Arizona than in any other state: about 82,000 at latest count.

Asks Court To Rule On Oil Well Zoning

Franklin County Common Pleas Judge Joseph Harter will probably determine next week if county zoning regulations are adequate to cover oil well drilling.

Tommy Thompson, assistant county prosecutor, said his office will submit the question to Judge Harter during the first week of July. A decision is expected shortly thereafter.

Two main questions will be answered: does the heavy manufacturing classification legally cover the drilling of wells and does the County Board of Zoning Appeals have the right to grant a zoning variance for drilling if zoning is other than heavy manufacturing?

The decision to take the questions to the court stems from a meeting last week during which county officials decided they had no right to stop the sinking of a well at 7901 Riverside-dr, Dublin. Prosecutor Allison advised the County Commissioners they may be liable to a law suit of they forced the operation to halt without legal authority.

Commissioner Henry Koontz said there is nothing in the zoning regulations, adopted in 1948, that covers the then unforseen drilling of oil wells in the county.

Thompson said this does not prevent local residents from filing complaints against oil well operators as a public or private nuisance.

Last week the operator of the Dublin drilling operation, John D. Adams, 1759 Cooke-rd, sought a court injunction to allow him to continue work at the well after the Rural Zoning Commission "tacked-up" the operation as illegal. Judge George B. Marshall refused to grant the order.

This resulted in the Saturday meeting, where officials decided they had no right to stop the drilling.

Thompson added that if Judge Harter does not allow the current zoning law to be stretched to cover oil well drilling, the commissioners will have to ask the townships to amend the zoning laws for an additional classification to cover these operations.

Auble Assigned To USS Intrepid

John H. Auble, Jr., seaman, son of Mrs. Florence Auble of 118 Maplewood-av, is serving with Patrol Squadron 56, an all-weather anti-submarine warfare patrol unit, at the Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va.

He is scheduled to report for duty aboard the anti-submarine warfare support aircraft carrier, USS Intrepid, operating out of Norfolk.

Before entering the Navy in May 1962, Auble attended Ohio State University. He is a former editor of Hartley Newspapers.

Representative Kenneth Creasy (Delaware County). He indicated that neither plan is desirable, but that the SCD plan is considered less offensive.

Creasy based his support of SCD over the Army plan on the fact that about 4,000 fewer acres of land would be acquired. He said the Army would acquire this much more area for recreation purposes. Creasy said he had been told that the state had dropped plans to purchase area for recreation purposes.

Will Include Both Dams

Col. Cochran, contacted by Hartley Newspapers on Tuesday, confirmed that he will recommend inclusion of both the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects in the budget being prepared for submission to Congress next year.

While Cochran confirmed that he would attend a Columbus public hearing if invited by City Council, he emphasized that he had no intention of turning the hearing into a "debate" between his agency and the SCD.

"I will not engage in a debate," Cochran said, "because I don't want the Corps to be considered a part in the controversy."

He said he would be available to answer questions, not to ask them, and that continuance of the funding request in the budget would depend on continued evidence of local support for the Corps' plan.

Representation at the public hearing by the Scioto Conservancy District is expected, but could not be confirmed Tuesday evening by Richard Midden, executive secretary of the SCD. Midden said that he had not received official notification of the meeting date, and that acceptance "would be a policy matter that would have to be considered by our directors."

Must Certify Appraisals

Midden said that questions other than those answered at the June 19 hearing can't be answered until the SCD appraisal record "is certified as final" by the Board of Appraisers. This is a preliminary action to filing of the appraisal record with the Conservancy Court. Midden said he could not say if the court filing would take place prior to the scheduled July 8 date for the public hearing.

If a public hearing is held prior to the court filing of appraisal records by the SCD, Midden indicated, answers would not be available for such questions as:

Potential assessments, if any, against school districts and other public corporations throughout the district; list of communities other than Columbus assessed as benefiting "political entities," (presumably this will include Franklin County cities and townships, as well as similar "political entities" elsewhere in the five-county district); and possible exception of farm and south of Chillicothe from any assessment.

Mawhirter Aboard Dock Landing Ship

Jerry A. Mawhirter, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Mawhirter, 273 S. Chase-av, is a crewmember of the Navy dock landing ship, USS Fort Mandan, operating out of Norfolk, Va.

During Armed Forces Week, Fort Mandan represented the Navy as the host ship for the St. Thomas, Virgin Islands Armed Forces Day celebration.

ARMY MAN TRAINED

Pvt. John McDougald, son of Wallace McDougald, 1250 Windsor-av, completed an eight-week fire control instrument repair course at the Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., June 5.

The 18-year-old soldier entered the Army in October 1963 and completed basic combat training at Fort Gordon, Ga., after attending Linden McKinley High School.

GETS OSU AWARD

Midshipman 4/C Walter T. McCracken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey T. McCracken of 146 E Lakeview-av, received an academic award at OSU for maintaining a cumulative point hour ratio of 3.4 or above.

surrounding suburbs, saying "Columbus will be wide open in just a few months if the closing law isn't enforced."

The four big food chains set down prosecution of violators as a condition to their voluntary closing, in response to Mayor Sensenbrenner's plea. In addition to Kroger, Big Bear, A&P and Albers stores, many independents voluntarily closed their doors last Sunday.

The chains had opened this summer with the announcement that it was an economic defense measure, a protection against the discount food stores who were experiencing such large sales on Sundays.

Their action spurred clergymen to form the CUFA group, to serve as a protest organization and exert pressure for enforcement of the law.

Concerning Sunday's citations, Richard Sensenbrenner said, "We have stacks of mail from people who approve, and very few letters and calls from those who do not.

"And most of their objections are based on the inability to buy milk and bread, but the legality of purchasing 3.2 beer on Sunday. I agree. But it is the law, and must be enforced.

"The police chief will continue to enforce the law," Sensenbrenner said. "Elected officials take an oath to uphold the law. They cannot make laws meet their own political needs.

"We are urging people who protest to go to the legislature for clarification of the law."

Meanwhile, Columbus police will use City Attorney John Young's list of recommendations as a basis for enforcement.

TO ALTER BUILDING

Ham-Liv Corp., 1415 S. Hamilton-rd, has applied for a permit to alter a masonry building at an estimated cost of $3,000.

TRAINED

Marine Pvt. Ray E. Powers, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Powers of 2413 McGuffey-rd, completed recruit training last month at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif. He will report to Camp Pendleton, Calif., for advanced infantry training.

Roller Coaster Spirit

There are days when we feel on top of the world. Everybody loves us and shows it. Nice things are done for us. Sunshine and happiness drenches everything. And then there are other days — when we're blue; people are busy. We're alone. We're afraid. It might as well be raining. Nobody knows the trouble we're in. Needed is a little self-discipline, not a lot of self-pity. We must learn to face the fact that life is not always a flowery bed of ease, and pleasure. Children dodge hard places, responsibility, and painful experiences. A mature person stands on his own two feet under God. Time, insight, and the grace of God can remove mountains — and take away that roller coaster spirit. Begin the road to spiritual maturity by attending church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Urban Renewal Commission Asks Hospital Project Bids

Columbus' Urban Renewal Commission decided last week to ask for competitive bids in the redevelopment of a 26-acre tract in the Children's Hospital project.

To date, only one redeveloper, the Columbus Redevelopment Company, has presented a plan.

In other action, the Commission:

- reaffirmed its earlier judgment in paying $305,000 for a modern, seven-year-old apartment building in the university district to be demolished as part of the OSU North development plan. The commission has been criticized for including the structure.
- asked city councilman Roland Sedgwick, to introduce legislation calling for a study as to the feasibility of a city multi-story parking garage in the Market-Mohawk area.
- agreed that the name for the Near Eastside combined urban renewal-metropolitan housing project, Bolivar Arms, might be confusing and asked residents to suggest a new name for the urban renewal phase.

There is no historical evidence that Betsy Ross made the first American flag.

ROLLING HOUSE CAUSES NO MUSS

STRADDLING THE CENTER line, Mrs. Harless Loxier led the convoy escorting this house down S. High-st last week to its new home on Bexley Rd. But for once, police had no complaint with a woman driver who practiced a "middle-of-the-road" policy. When Mrs. Loxier of the Loxier house moving firm began the three and one-half hour trip from Hanford Village across town, her itinerary was carefully planned. Firemen were alerted to choose other emergency routes, the trip was coordinated with bus schedules and off-duty policemen were with her all the way. By "hogging the road" the convoy made sure two-way traffic could be maintained. The house movers are shown raising utility lines to assure adquate clearance.

Bell Telephone Laboratory Holds Switching Symposium

Columbus Bell Telephone Laboratories was host June 12 to more than 30 faculty members of Ohio State University at a switching symposium at Western Electric Co., 6200 E. Broad-st.

Program included papers on telephone switching, a tour of the company's laboratory and a luncheon talk on company-sponsored employes' education.

Frank Korn, director of Local Crossbar Switching Laboratory, was chairman and speakers were Seth Washburn, Curt Anderson, Terry Lowry, Frank Myers, and Julie Luck.

A. J. Busch, executive director, Bell Laboratories Switching Division, presented a check for a tuition matching grant to Association Dean M. L. Smith of the College of Engineering, OSU, for training for Bell Laboratories employes enrolled at Ohio State. It is in addition to regular tuition charges, also paid by the company.

Bell Telephone Laboratories is the research and development organization of the Bell System, and in Columbus is located in the Western Electric Co. on E. Broad-st.

Donnenwirth Retires July 1

O. A. Donnenwirth, a vice-president and director of the Huntington National Bank of Columbus since 1958, was to retire Wednesday, July 1. He will continue to serve on the bank's board of directors. He had previously been a vice-president and director of the Market Exchange Bank from 1943 until its merger with the Huntington in 1958.

Donnenwirth entered banking after receiving his B.S. from OSU. He was assistant examiner of the Columbus Clearing House Association for 15 years, and was associated with several other Columbus financial institutions prior to joining the Market Exchange Bank.

He is a trustee and treasurer of the Methodist Theological School in Ohio, at Delaware, and a director of Pilot Dogs, Inc.

Local Writer Tells Story Of Columbus

Robert E. Boyd, sales promotion manager, Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, is author of a feature article in the current annual "Markets of America" magazine.

Boyd says of the Columbus market, "It's big, it's strong, its's dependable. Into it (the market) flow earnings from farm, factory and government, plus myriad associated businesses and enterprises that in turn pour into a flourishing economy."

He then points out that surrounding counties add more than 2,000,000 people who will spent $2,250,000,000 this year. In summation Boyd stated, ". . . . it's evident men of vision are seriously considering the Columbus market. It's a rapidly growing distribution center with airlines, railroads, expressways, freeways, all within 550 miles of 8 of the 10 largest cities in United States."

A Social Security Supplement

If Social Security and/or Pension aren't large enough to meet your monthly needs and you have a savings account, by the use of interest, you can stretch your savings account for twenty years if necessary to supplement your income.

A Monthly Allotment To Students

If you would like to put your son or daughter on their own while attending school, plan a program of monthly allotment checks for the total number of school years. Checks could be sent to foreign countries, if necessary.

A Systematic Payment Of Debt

Suppose you made a large purchase and had the money, but did not wish to pay all the money down, you could pay monthly and earn interest on the remainder.

HERE IS HOW THE PLAN WORKS

Merely go to any office of Central Savings and confer with an officer about your problem. He will tell you how you can make an automatic withdrawal of both interest and principal for any period from one to twenty years on amounts from $5,000 to $10,000 in $100 increments. The account can be added to or decreased at any time with only slight computation. This plan is based on a current interest rate of 4%. However, we reserve the right to change with economic conditions.

"STUDENTS KNOW MORE"

Dr. Miller Ends School Administrative Career

From a one-room schoolhouse to Columbus' complex school system; from teaching a country school to guiding the instruction program of all the city schools. . .

W. W. Miller, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, officially closing a 45-year career on Aug. 31, is retiring from Columbus Schools, but not from his profession.

When the fall term at Bluffton (O.) College opens, he will be teaching some classes in the Liberal Arts and Teacher Education College.

Miller has accepted an invitation to teach at the college for two years, replacing an instructor who is going with a team to Addis Ababa, Africa, to start a college there.

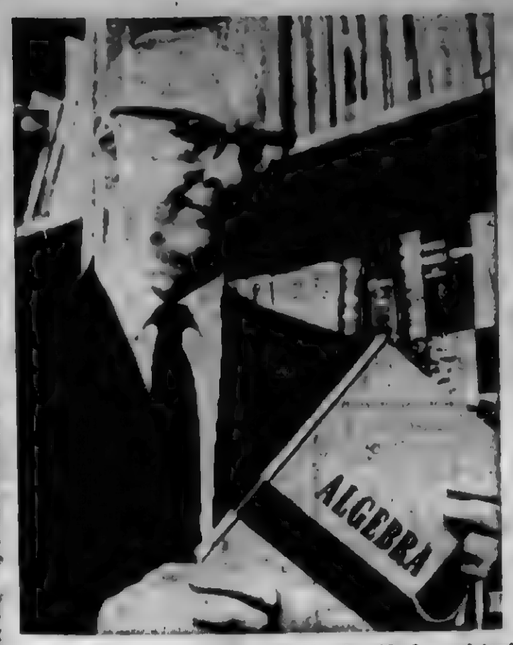
"I'm excited," he enthused, "and very pleased. I've always been interested in teacher education, and this invitation to teach it will get the desire out of my system."

He discusses "going out to pasture" with humor. "Leisure, no work and sleeping late in the morning is a fine idea. And I'll like it fine . . . for just about one morning."

Perhaps the greatest tribute to Miller as an educator is the one paid him by his three daughters — each of whom chose to follow his footsteps and become teachers.

Mrs. Vincent (Rosemary) James is a teacher at Marburn Elementary, Mrs. Jerry (Martha) Kuntz teaches at Des Plaines, Ill., and Mrs. David (Sarah) Neidig of Pickerington, in the Bexley School System.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller also have eight grandchildren. "These are our real assets," Miller said. "All five girls and three boys are in school and Judy, the oldest, is a senior at Whetstone High next year."



Contentment with the way of life he chose is expressed by Miller with, "I'm grateful for the opportunity society has granted; grateful for such an interesting assignment."

Dr. Miller started teaching in a one-room school in Iowa in 1917, moved to Indiana in 1922, and two years later came to Columbus.

He joined the Columbus School System in 1927 as a teacher at Indianola Junior High, and before being named to his present post eight years ago served as assistant superintendent in charge of elementary curriculum, instruction and personnel.

He was graduated from a liberal arts college in Goshen, Ind., and received his master's and doctor's degrees at Ohio State University.

Changes in children through the years? "They're not much different," Dr. Miller said. "They know more; I don't suppose they have more potential, but they are exposed to more knowledge."

DR. W. W. MILLER, 3147 Morningside-dr, assistant superintendent of Columbus Schools since 1936, will retire from the post Aug. 31, after 45 years as an educator.

Stephen Hoster Gets Commission

Stephen M. Hoster, son of Mrs. Donald W. Dawson of 353 W. Drexel-av, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon completion of the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps program at the University of Virginia.

Lieutenant Hoster also received his bachelor of arts degree upon graduation at the university.

The new lieutenant is a graduate of Columbus Academy and is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

IN MEDITERRANEAN

Marine Lance Cpl. Charles H. Barker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Barker of 425 Exeter-rd, Whitehall, is a member of Marine Battalion Landing Team 2/6 which recently departed Camp Lejeune, N.C. aboard the Navy dock landing ship USS Lindenwald for a tour of duty with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

ART SHOW SCHEDULED

Bexley Area Art Guild will sponsor a Sidewalk Art Show in front of First Federal Savings and Loan, 2450 E. Main-st, on the Fourth of July. The public is welcome to view the exhibition from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The average length of life in the United States as of 1959 was 69.7 years.

Joseph Culp Wins Scholarship

Joseph Michael Culp, 1404 Byron-av, was one of 117 high school seniors receiving a scholarship to St. Louis University for the 1964-65 school year.

Richard M. Keefe, chairman of the committee, said that more than 500 applications were received for scholarships from high school seniors throughout the country.

Loo, a card game dating back to the 17th century, originally was known as Lanterloo.

Vicki Lauffer Will Vie For 'Miss Ohio' Title

Vicki Lauffer, Ohio's Junior Miss of 1962, has added another accomplishment to her growing list of honors in the field of talent and beauty.

Selected as "Miss Southeastern Ohio" at the annual beauty pageant on June 20 in Zanesville, the talented young lady from Gahanna will now compete for the state title at a contest in Sandusky.

She recently returned from South Carolina where she won as Ohio's representative in the "Miss Sun Fun USA" pageant. In 1962 she was one of the top 10 finalists in the national Junior Miss Pageant.

Vicki is a 1964 graduate of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., where she received an Associate in Arts degree with honors. She was a member of the Honorary Dramatic Society Junior Collegiate Players and took part in the Stephens Summer Stock Playhouse at Lake Okoboji, Iowa, last summer.

Her next step toward national fame will be the Ohio finals in the Miss Ohio Contest, July 22, 23 and 24. The winner of this competition will compete in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., later this year.

Kull Jewelers Has Show Of Oval Gems

A special showing of many unusual oval-shaped diamonds to be displayed through July 18 can now be seen in the windows of the Kull and Sons Jewelry Store, 205 S. High st.

The display, entitled "'Oval Elegance," was created by the same diamond firm that cut the famous Yonker diamonds.

This large collection, according to Jack Kull, includes both mounted and unmounted stones varying in weight from one-fifth of a carat up. Of particular interest are the many original and unusual designs in engagement, wedding and special occasion rings.

Play On Retarded Will Be Offered To Organizations

Should the mentally retarded be permitted to assume jobs in the community? Who determines when such individuals are able to leave the confines of family and friends? How do parents of a 20-year-old mentally retarded youth solve such dilemmas for themselves and their son?

These are just a few of the questions raised in the one-act drama "These are Not Children," which will be offered to organizations in the Franklin County area free-of-charge this fall by OSU Family Players. A cast of five actors, under the direction of Family Play Director David Hagans of Rt. 2, Marysville, will present the problems faced by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jordon and their retarded son "Joey."

Booking arrangements for a performance of "These Are Not Children" may be made by phoning the OSU Department of Speech, CY. 3-2361.

Fornof Bond Plan Won't Decide Anything

Apparently, Columbus Council President William Fornof has adopted the old political maxim "if you can't beat 'em, confuse 'em." Fornof's resolution to place a $9.5 million water system improvement bond issue on the November ballot calls for some "between-the-lines" reading.

The main purpose of the proposed bond issue is to seek approval of voters to participate with the Scioto Conservancy District in a water supply agreement as part of the Alum Creek dam and reservoir project. But there is much more at stake for local taxpayers than the stated $9.5 million.

Adoption of the bond issue would assure the SCD the needed funds to begin construction of both the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects. This in turn would commit local taxpayers to paying an additional $16 million in property assessments above and beyond the $9.5 million bonding authority.

The $16 million in Columbus assessments is a major point of contention in the controversy over who should construct the projects, the SCD or the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Under the Army plan, federal funds would pay all costs except the water supply feature at Alum Creek. The Army plan would not require any assessment of property.

Fornof's sudden decision to "go to the people" is difficult to understand in the light of his past actions. He did not consider asking the people to approve council's loan of $950,000 to the Scioto Conservancy District, nor the additional city expenditure of $800,000 for the SCD's construction plans.

If Fornof is really concerned that the people should decide the issue of which agency should build local dam and reservoir projects, he should have proposed that they vote ratification of the full $34 million of local costs, including interest.

We think Fornof's action may have an undesirable effect on the six other bond issues to be decided by Columbus voters in November. It is not unlikely that many voters will cast a blanket "no" vote on all bond issues to be certain that they avoid a $9.5 million issue that would, of course, jeopardize the other essential and necessary issues on the ballot.

The simple fact is that the city's ability to participate in a water supply agreement with the SCD was taken into consideration when water rates were raised earlier this year. There was no plan to submit the matter to a vote of the people.

In fact, the people could defeat the bond issue and council could still commit city finances to a water supply agreement with the SCD. Conversely, the people could pass the issue and council could refuse to enact a water supply agreement with the SCD. So what is proved? Nothing that couldn't be equally evaluated at a public hearing.

It is also true that the Scioto Conservancy District could proceed with both projects — without the water supply feature — regardless of action by the voters or city council.

It seems to us that the main attention should focus on bringing to public attention ALL facts—as was requested this week by the League of Women Voters—concerning both the SCD and Army plans. A decision could then be reached on the basis of relative merit of each plan.

Freedom And The 4th

An 81-year-old man in Memphis recently surrendered his driver's license voluntarily. Even though his friends questioned him as to why he would give up his freedom to come and go, this elder citizen explained that he had found a new freedom—a freedom from concern about being involved in a traffic accident that might injure another person.

He said, "If I have learned anything in 81 years it is that real freedom comes only from facing up to responsibility."

Rev. Clark

As we face the Fourth of July and its precious meaning for "the land of the free and the home of the brave" each one of us should pause and take note of the full meaning of "freedom" as it is presented in the Bible.

Paul has written to the church at Rome—"Do not allow that good gift of freedom which you possess to become a thing which gets you into disrepute. For the Kingdom of God does not consist of food and drink, but of righteousness and peace and joy which are the gifts of the Holy Spirit." (Romans 14:16-17)

A man's liberty has its dangers unless it goes hand in hand with love. For men who desire liberty must hold fast to brotherly love and mutual consideration, one for another. Real freedom consists not in just eating and drinking but in three great unselfish things.

First, there is RIGHTEOUSNESS—that is, giving to man his due and to God his due, too. In true freedom, we owe sympathy and consideration to others, thereby putting others first and self last. We can't give to man what is due to him and still do what we like. Yet being right with man and God is to be unselfish.

Second, there is PEACE. To Paul and throughout the New Testament peace doesn't mean simply the absence of trouble, it means everything that makes for man's greatest good. True Christian freedom is conditioned by the Christian obligation to live in a right relationship in peace with God and our fellow men.

Third, there is JOY. This joy does not consist in making ourselves happy but in making others happy. For our freedom in America is never freedom to trample on the feelings of other people. It is joy for a person to bring joy to others, even if it costs us personal limitations. This is true freedom—to become a slave of Christ and to treat men with the same attitude of love that Jesus shows us.

Let us remember this Fourth of July that man can only be free and possess true liberty in the love of Christ. This love implies personal responsibility. Yours and mine.

Freedom—yes—not just of speech and religion but freedom to LOVE. "Let us then pursue the things that make for peace and build up the common life." (Romans 14:18)

Says Sunday Issue Sugar-Coated With Piety

Letters to the Editor on topics of public interest are always welcome. They should be written or typed legibly on one side of the paper only, and limited to 350 words. Always sign your name and address so that authenticity of the letter may be checked if necessary. The writer's name will not be printed if so requested.

To the Editor:

In your June 24-25 issue you are greatly concerned with reporting and supporting the recent move by Mayor Sensenbrenner to enforce the Blue Laws with reference to local grocery store chain sales on Sundays. As your editorial ("Mayor Jack on Right Track") and the article on page 7-B carefully point out, compliance with these ordinances is purely a matter of economic necessity. Why, then, bring in such statements as, "An aroused public, led by a group of Catholic and Protestant clergymen, pressured the administration into its promise of vigorous enforcement" and "the mayor's apt reminder that the Fourth Commandment . . . has never been 'repealed, revised or revoked' "?

The definition of "holiness" implied here is that certain businesses but not all, (such as hotels, gas stations and a precious few restaurants) are by public opinion and local law deprived of taking in money on Sundays. How unhappy the local Christians must be that these businesses carry on their "unholy" practices the other six days of the week! (Or are they unholy only on Sunday?) No mention is made of what these businesses should do to "keep the Sabbath holy," but only what they should not do.

Apparently the grocery stores were singled out for this righteous attack because the public can get along without their services on Sunday. This is not the case with the other public service businesses mentioned above. A tank of gasoline bought on Saturday might not last all day Sunday, for example, and the Christian gas stations' practice of "holiness" would not be worth the Christian motorists' inconvenience. A large number of statewide and national gas station "chains" also compete with independent discount stations on Sunday, but this fact does not seem to have caused any great public wrath as yet.

It is not my intention to crusade against Blue Laws or the religious life. I am only trying to make clear that an economic decision should be recognized for what it is and not sugar-coated with pious but inconsistent pronouncements of local 20th-century Chrisitanity.

Burley Channer
1850 North Star-rd

(Ed. Note — Our editorial referred to the economic factor only as a factor, not as the sole reason for enforcement. And, because we expressed our belief that "all laws should be obeyed," it follows that we believe enforcement should extend beyond local grocery store chains. When it comes to wanting to keep the Sabbath free from unnecessary business activity, as a matter of Christian principle, we plead guilty.)

Readers Appreciate Papers

To the Editor:

May I congratulate you on the terrific job you did in supplying us with a fine newspaper during the strike. In addition to the regular issue you doubled the size and content . . . and had everything of importance in just the right order. I do hope your fine efforts will not go unrewarded. Here's hoping you will pick up many new subscribers, and pick up lots of advertising accounts.

For a number of years we have always looked forward for the arrival of this fine little paper, both at home and at the office.

Once again, thanks and congratulations for a wonderful job.

Mrs. J. A. Thompson

Co-featured the other three days will be "Mary, Mary."

Stadium's Next Presentation Award-Winning 'Teahouse'

Beginning Tuesday, July 7, OSU's Stadium Theatre will present "The Teahouse of the August Moon." The comedy, during its 128-week run in New York, won the Pulitzer Prize, the Drama Critics Award and about every other available citation for the best play of its time.

The comedy gently mocks the planning arranged in Washington that cannot be made to work in occupied Okinawa, and has become one of the most entertaining, popular and significant plays of the present time.

Jackson Babcock will be seen as the comedy's Oriental Sancho Panza, named Sakini, a ragged Okinawan employed as an interpreter by the US Army Military Government. Robert Joyce will appear in the other major role, Capt. Fisby, assigned to bring democracy and economic revival to the Okinawan village.

Susan Collis will have the principal feminine role, a geisha girl whom the earnest Capt. Fisby is embarrassed to have presented to him as "a gift."

"Teahouse" was written by John Patrick, author of "The Hasty Heart," "The Curious Savage," and other stage successes. He has also authored such movie hits as "Three Coins in the Fountain," "Love and "Lee Girls."

June Valli Featured; Parks To Play Devil

Another big week for entertainment is being offered at Tommy Henrick's, 257 E. Broad-st. Starting Thursday, July 2, and continuing through July 8, recording star June Valli heads a double-barrelled bill. June has recorded such hits as "Crying in the Chapel," "The Wedding," and "Apple Green."

Through Saturday, July 4, Benny Meroff and Kathleen will appear with her, with shows scheduled for 9 and 11:30 p.m. and 1 a.m. Starting July 6, the Three Suns will be co-featured. Their music styling has firmly established them in top rooms throughout the country. Two of their better known recordings are "Peg O' My Heart" and "Twilight Time."

Kenley Players

Bert Parks has been in town for the past two weeks, rehearsing for "Damn Yankees," which opens next Tuesday, July 7, at Veterans Memorial. Described as a "modern morality play," the Kenley Players show deals with the temptations and desires everyone experiences.

Parks portrays the Devil, who gives an aging real estate broker a chance to play for the Washington Senators so that the team can beat the Yankees. Transformed into a young ball player who can out-bat and out-field everyone, the broker does cause the Devil some concern. And even the Devil's temptress, Lola (Sherry O'Neil) has trouble keeping the ball player from trying to break his contract.

Playhouse...

Playhouse-on-the-Green has its new tent up, so people can leave their galoshes, raincoats and umbrellas at home. On the circular stage this week is "A Thousand Clowns," and starting next Monday will be "Pursuit of Happiness."

Written by Lawrence and Armina Marshall Langner, "Pursuit of Happiness" will feature Ray Girardin, Beth Brickell and Don Barton. The play tells the story of a young Hessian (Ray Girardin) who comes to America in 1777 to find freedom and happiness. He believes with all his heart in the American "pursuit of happiness" ideal he has heard about, and with boyish innocence begins the free pursuit of a pretty, young farmer's daughter (Beth Brickell).

After being restrained by the Puritan reverend of the community, who explains there is a difference between the "pursuit of happiness" and "Cherchez la femme," he becomes hopelessly confused when the young lady turns around and introduces him to the bumbling custom of the day.

Fornof Bond Plan Won't Decide Anything

Apparently, Columbus Council President William Fornof has adopted the old political maxim "if you can't beat 'em, confuse 'em." Fornof's resolution to place a $9.5 million water system improvement bond issue on the November ballot calls for some "between-the-lines" reading.

The main purpose of the proposed bond issue is to seek approval of voters to participate with the Scioto Conservancy District in a water supply agreement as part of the Alum Creek dam and reservoir project. But there is much more at stake for local taxpayers than the stated $9.5 million.

Adoption of the bond issue would assure the SCD the needed funds to begin construction of both the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects. This in turn would commit local taxpayers to paying an additional $16 million in property assessments above and beyond the $9.5 million bonding authority.

The $16 million in Columbus assessments is a major point of contention in the controversy over who should construct the projects, the SCD or the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Under the Army plan, federal funds would pay all costs except the water supply feature at Alum Creek. The Army plan would not require any [redacted] of property.

Fornof's sudden decision to "go to the people" is difficult to understand in the light of his past actions. He did not consider asking the people to approve council's loan of $950,000 to the Scioto Conservancy District, nor the additional city expenditure of $800,000 for the SCD's construction plans.

If Fornof is really concerned that the people should decide the issue of which agency should build local dam and reservoir projects, he should have proposed that they vote ratification of the full $34 million of local costs, including interest.

We think Fornof's action may have an undesirable effect on the six other bond issues to be decided by Columbus voters in November. It is not unlikely that many voters will cast a blanket "no" vote on all bond issues to be certain that they avoid a $9.5 million issue that will cost them a basic $22.7 million. This type of voting would, of course, jeopardize the other essential and necessary issues on the ballot.

The simple fact is that the city's ability to participate in a water supply agreement with the SCD was taken into consideration when water rates were raised earlier this year. There was no plan to submit the matter to a vote of the people.

In fact, the people could defeat the bond issue and council could still commit city finances to a water supply agreement with the SCD. Conversely, the people could pass the issue and council could refuse to enact a water supply agreement with the SCD. So what is proved? Nothing that couldn't be equally evaluated at a public hearing.

It is also true that the Scioto Conservancy District could proceed with both projects — without the water supply feature — regardless of action by the voters or city council.

It seems to us that the main attention should focus on bringing to public attention ALL facts—as was requested this week by the League of Women Voters—concerning both the SCD and Army plans. A decision could then be reached on the basis of relative merit of each plan.

Freedom And The 4th

An 81-year-old man in Memphis recently surrendered his driver's license voluntarily. Even though his friends questioned him as to why he would give up his freedom to come and go, this elder citizen explained that he had found a new freedom—a freedom from concern about being involved in a traffic accident that might injure another person.

He said, "If I have learned anything in 81 years it is that real freedom comes only from facing up to responsibility."

Rev. Clark

As we face the Fourth of July and its precious meaning for "the land of the free and the home of the brave" each one of us should pause and take note of the full meaning of "freedom" as it is presented in the Bible.

Paul has written to the church at Rome—"Do not allow that good gift of freedom which you possess to become a thing which gets you into disrepute. For the Kingdom of God does not consist of food and drink, but of righteousness and peace and joy which are the gifts of the Holy Spirit." (Romans 14:16-17)

A man's liberty has its dangers unless it goes hand in hand with love. For men who desire liberty must hold fast to brotherly love and mutual consideration, one for another. Real freedom consists not in just eating and drinking but in three great unselfish things.

First, there is RIGHTEOUSNESS—that is, giving to man his due and to God his due, too. In true freedom, we owe sympathy and consideration to others, thereby putting others first and self last. We can't give to man what is due to him and still do what we like. Yet being right with man and God is to be unselfish.

Second, there is PEACE. To Paul and throughout the New Testament peace doesn't mean simply the absence of trouble, it means everything that makes for man's greatest good. True Christian freedom is conditioned by the Christian obligation to live in a right relationship in peace with God and our fellow men.

Third, there is JOY. This joy does not consist in making ourselves happy but in making others happy. For our freedom in America is never freedom to trample on the feelings of other people. It is joy for a person to bring joy to others, even if it costs us personal limitations. This is true freedom—to become a slave of Christ and to treat men with the same attitude of love that Jesus shows us.

Let us remember this Fourth of July that man can only be free and possess true liberty in the love of Christ. This love implies personal responsibility. Yours and mine.

Freedom—yes—not just of speech and religion but freedom to LOVE. "Let us then pursue the things that make for peace and build up the common life." (Romans 14:18)

OUR READERS' Views . . . Says Sunday Issue Sugar-Coated With Piety

Letters to the Editor on topics of public interest are always welcome. They should be written or typed legibly on one side of the paper only, and limited to 350 words. Always sign your name and address so that authenticity of the letter may be checked if necessary. The writer's name will not be printed if so requested.

To the Editor:

In your June 24-25 issue you are greatly concerned with reporting and supporting the recent move by Mayor Sensenbrenner to enforce the Blue Laws with reference to local grocery store chain sales on Sundays. As your editorial ("Mayor Jack on Right Track") and the article on page 7-B carefully point out, compliance with these ordinances is purely a matter of economic necessity. Why, then, bring in such statements as, "An aroused public, led by a group of Catholic and Protestant clergymen, pressured the administration into its promise of vigorous enforcement" and "the mayor's apt reminder that the Fourth Commandment . . . has never been 'repealed, revised or revoked' "?

The definition of "holiness" implied here is that certain businesses but not all, (such as hotels, gas stations and a precious few restaurants) are by public opinion and local law deprived of taking in money on Sundays. How unhappy the local Christians must be that these businesses carry on their "unholy" practices the other six days of the week! (Or are they unholy only on Sunday?) No mention is made of what these businesses should do to "keep the Sabbath holy," but only what they should not do.

Apparently the grocery stores were singled out for this righteous attack because the public can get along without their services on Sunday. This is not the case with the other public service businesses mentioned above. A tank of gasoline bought on Saturday might not last all day Sunday, for example, and the Christian gas stations' practice of "holiness" would not be worth the Christian motorists' inconvenience. A large number of statewide and national gas station "chains" also compete with independent discount stations on Sunday, but this fact does not seem to have caused any great public wrath as yet.

It is not my intention to crusade against Blue Laws or the religious life. I am only trying to make clear that an economic decision should be recognized for what it is and not sugar-coated with pious but inconsistent pronouncements of local 20th-century Chrisitanity.

(Ed. Note — Our editorial referred to the economic factor only as a factor, not as the sole reason for enforcement. And, because we expressed our belief that "all laws should be obeyed," it follows that we believe enforcement should extend beyond local grocery store chains. When it comes to wanting to keep the Sabbath free from unnecessary business activity, as a matter of Christian principle, we plead guilty.)

"THE INCREDIBLE MR. LIMPET," starring (from l. to r.) Don Knotts, Carole Cook and Jack Weston, opens at the four Miles Auto Theatres this Saturday, July 4, and continues through Tuesday, July 7. John Rose, producer, who was part of the Disney Studios crew for nine years, brings the D[illegible] to life. On July 4, co-feature will be "Spencer's Mountain. Co-featured the other three days will be "Mary, Mary."

Stadium's Next Presentation Award-Winning 'Teahouse'

Beginning Tuesday, July 7, OSU's Stadium Theatre will present "The Teahouse of the August Moon." The comedy, during its 128-week run in New York, won the Pulitzer Prize, the Drama Critics Award and about every [illegible] available citation for the best play of its time.

The comedy gently mocks the planning arranged in Washington that cannot be made to work in occupied Okinawa, and has become one of the most entertaining, popular and significant plays of the present time.

Jackson Babcock will be seen as the comedy's Oriental Sancho Panza, named Sakini, a ragged Okinawan employed as an interpreter by the US Army Military Government. Robert Joyce will appear in the other major role, Capt. Fisby, assigned to bring democracy and economic revival to the Okinawan village.

Susan Collis will have the principal feminine role, a geisha girl whom the earnest Capt. Fisby is embarrassed to have presented to him as "a gift."

"Teahouse" was written by John Patrick, author of "The Hasty Heart," "The Curious Savage," and other stage successes. He has also authored such movie hits as "Three Coins in the Fountain," "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," and "Les Girls."

June Valli Featured; Parks To Play Devil

Another big week for entertainment is being offered at Tommy Henrick's, 257 E. Broad-st. Starting Thursday, July 2, and continuing through July 8, recording star June Valli heads a double-barrelled bill. June has recorded such hits as "Crying in the Chapel," "The Wedding," and "Apple Green."

Through Saturday, July 4, Benny Meroff and Kathleen will appear with her, with shows scheduled for 9 and 11:30 p.m. and 1 a.m. Starting July 6, the Three Suns will be co-featured. Their music styling has firmly established them in top rooms throughout the country. Two of their better known recordings are "Peg O' My Heart" and "Twilight Time."

Kenley Players

Bert Parks has been in town for the past two weeks, rehearsing for "Damn Yankees," which opens next Tuesday, July 7, at Veterans Memorial. Described as a "modern morality play," the Kenley Players show deals with the temptations and desires everyone experiences.

Parks portrays the Devil, who gives an aging real estate broker a chance to play for the Washington Senators so that the team can beat the Yankees. Transformed into a young ball player who can out-hit and out-field everyone, the broker does cause the Devil some concern. And even the Devil's temptress, Lola (Sherry O'Neil) has trouble keeping the ball player from trying to break his contract.

Playhouse...

Playhouse-on-the-Green has its new tent up, so people can leave their galoshes, raincoats and umbrellas at home. On the circular stage this week is "A Thousand Clowns," and starting next Monday will be "Pursuit of Happiness."

Written by Lawrence and Armina Marshall Langner, "Pursuit of Happiness" will feature Ray Girardin, Beth Brickell and Don Barton. The play tells the story of a young Hessian (Ray Girardin) who comes to America in 1777 to find freedom and happiness. He believes with all his heart in the American "pursuit of happiness" ideal he has heard about, and with boyish innocence begins the free pursuit of a pretty, young farmer's daughter (Beth Brickell).

After being restrained by the Puritan reverend of the community, who explains there is a difference between the "pursuit of happiness" and "Cherchez la femme," he becomes hopelessly confused when the young lady turns around and introduces him to the bundling custom of the day.

AT VETS

PEGGY CASS stars this week in the Kenley Players production of "Bachelor's Wife." She is well-known for her appearance as the comic myopic secretary in "Auntie Mame," which won her an Antoinette Perry Award as well as a Theatre World Award. A repeat performance of the role in the film production resulted in an Academy Award nomination. She is also well-known for her many television appearances.

TopPuttingPlumRipe For Picking Friday

One of the nation's top miniature golfing plums — the Professional Putter Association's National Tournament — will be ripe for the picking this weekend as some 300 top national putting stars converge on Columbus.

Sweet success will taste like $5000 to the first-place finisher when the tourney is wrapped up Sunday, July 5.

THE NATIONAL tourney, which opens up July 3 at Putt-Putt's layout, 599 S. Hamilton-rd, will find linksters laboring through four rounds or 72 holes per day in quest of part of the $30,000 at stake.

Besides the professional field, some 120 qualifying amateurs will test their putting skills with trophies going to the winners.

Any winner should be satisfied with his prize since Miss America, pretty Donna Axum, will be passing out the winnings, July 5, at completion of the tourney (between 4-6 p.m.).

APPROXIMATELY 100 title aspirants will be trimmed from the field Friday and Saturday to lineup Sunday's finalists. Matches will begin at 7 a.m. and continue through 5 p.m., if necessary. Opening 'tee-off' time Sunday should be noon with a narrowed-down field.

Tourney manager Tom Rohm announced that spectator admission to the three-day tourney would be $1 per day or $3 for the entire tourney.

Spectators should find plenty of good vantage points with all three Putt-Putt courses being tested by the pros and amatuers.

IN CASE of rain, the tourney play will be scheduled for later in the day.

Also on tap at the Hamilton-rd course, Friday and Saturday, will be the Ladies National Tourney with $2000 in prize money awaiting the top gal putters.

Soap Box Derby Date Is July 25

The East Fifth-av hill just east of Nelson-rd will be the scene of the Columbus Soap Box Derby Race on July 25 at 2 p.m. when approximately 90 to 100 youngsters will send their entries postward following the 9 a.m. time trials."

Two inspection days will be held at the St. Charles High School (2010 E. Broad-st) Saturday July 18 and Sunday July 19 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The schedule of inspection and a final derby clinic will be forthcoming.

A $500 Savings Bond will be the top Derby prize along with the right to represent Columbus in the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, O. Aug. 15.

Every boy who races in the finals on July 25 will automatically qualify for a free trip to the All-American classic in Akron as a part of the local Derby prize.

The local race is sponsored by the Columbus Jaycees, WLW-C T-V and the Greater Columbus Chevy Dealers. The Columbus Transit Co. will continue service by a different route on the Fifth-av circuit from 2-5 p.m. the day of the race.

Smith Aims For Third CMS Title

Excellent weather, exceptional racing and turnout of fans made it a great weekend of action last Friday and Sunday at the Columbus Motor Speedway where the super-modifieds, late-models and sportsman cars and drivers performed before appoximately 5000 cheering customers.

Friday evening, Bob Smith of Columbus, made it two-straight modified features, as he edged Don Townsend, Curt Kraft, Neal Sceva and Bob Davis, in the 25-lap headliner.

ON SUNDAY NIGHT, Don Gregory out-performed the best of the late-model and sportsman drivers as he notched the feature victory in each division with a standing and cheering crowd of better than 3000 roaring their approval.

This weekend, the South Side blacktop raceway will have Independence Day Championship events on Friday and Sunday with gigantic fireworks — off the track — both evenings.

Bob Smith will try for his third straight feature and his second championship feature on Friday night as he competes against some of the finest super-modified drivers of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Michigan in a 50-lap headliner.

SUNDAY, the late-models and sportsman will have their championship races that will windup with a 35-lap late-model and a 30-lap sportsman championship feature.

The time trials will start at 7 p.m. both nights and the first race will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Ohio Hunters Reject Extended Season Bid

With the Fourth of July holiday weekend upon us, most folks in the heart of Ohio are wrapped up in such summertime pastimes as boating, fishing, swimming, camping and water skiing. However, the state's wildlife officials and many sportsmen are already looking forward to the crispness of fall and hunting.

Last week the Ohio Division of Wildlife held its annual fish and game hearings in Columbus, and during those sessions pushed the proposal of changing the opening days for six hunting seasons from their traditional dates to the second Fridays in September, October and November.

THE WILDLIFE experts reasoning for the change included thinking that it would (1) "reduce the opening day hunting pressure on any one species," and (2) "reduce the problems experienced by landowners during two or three separate opening days."

Also, a Friday opening date, according to the division, would provide practically all Ohio's hunters with a chance to hunt during at least one prime day.

Sportsmen and farmers apparently didn't buy the reasoning completely and as a result the opening days of hunting seasons this fall will follow about the same pattern as years past.

BARRING ANY last minute changes, here's how your Buckeye State hunting seasons shape up for this autumn:

White-tailed deer — longbow, Oct. 9-Dec. 26; shotgun, Dec. 3 and 4, limit one a season.

Ring-necked pheasant cocks and Hungarian partridge — private land, Nov. 16-Dec. 19; state-owned land, Nov. 16-Jan. 30, limit two.

Cottontail rabbit — statewide, Nov. 16-Jan. 30, limit four.

Mink and muskrat — hunting and trapping, Nov. 16-Feb. 28.

Speaking of hunting, the League of Ohio Sportsmen is in the process of setting up a new organization — the Coonskin Cap Brigade. The new group is aimed at building and training our youth with hunting as its foundation.

The idea, and we think it's a highly commendable one, is for adults to teach and interest our youngsters, both boys and girls, in hunting and our valuable out-of-doors by taking them out and showing them.

IF YOU'RE interested in more information on the Brigade, you can write to Earl Schaeffer, League of Ohio Sportsmen, 995 Summit-st, Columbus.

Finally, a reminder — we're giving valuable Cortland fishing lines to those Spectator-land sportsmen who sent us the best tips and time-saving suggestions on fishing, camping and other of our outdoor sports.

Send 'em along and watch this column in future weeks when you'll see the best ones.

THIS ONE DIDN'T GET AWAY

JACK McKINNEY of 279 Southwood-av, made sure this 42 pound, 4 ounce Striped Bass didn't get away on a recent fishing trip in the upper Sheepshead Bay in New York. The Southside hurler, using 50-pound test line, needed almost one hour to land the huge sea bass who reeled off 300-400 yards of line when hooked. McKinney burned up a deep sea reel landing the fish who was caught on a 12" piece of rubber tubing (½" in diameter) that had two hooks. Several boat captains claimed that McKinney's catch was the largest of the species they had seen in five years.

'Revitalized' Jets Continue Current Homestand Tonight

The Columbus Jets continue their current homestand tonight at the Stadium when a huge Ladies Night crowd watches Jacksonville close out the series. Ladies will be admitted in the upper grandstand for 50 cents and 50,000 Buckeye Stamps will be awarded to the fans.

Friday's opener with cellar-dweller Atlanta will be followed by a gigantic fireworks display.

THE JULY 4th activities will have picnic space available when the park opens at 4 p.m. and a big fireworks show will follow the second game with the Atlanta Crackers.

The Richmond Vees move in on Monday for a four-game set. Family Night rates are $1 for men, 50 cents for women and children under 12 free when accompanied by a parent.

Grandview Little League Night is slated for Tuesday night at the stadium, followed by the Electric Company night on Wednesday and another Ladies Night for Thursday's final with Richmond.

Crow Feathers Always Taste Better In July

OK—OK, cool down, Gene Mauch, we believe you.

The soft-spoken Philadelphia miracle-maker might be thinking out loud soon if the press keeps up that persistent question: "Are the Phillies really that good?"

GOOD ENOUGH to win the NL pennant this fall? Maybe and maybe not. But the Phils should be no worse than even money to plop right there on top on July 4, the established measuring stick for selecting flag flyers in October.

Look at it this way: anyone who even jokingly suggested their '64 rise while the Phillies were setting a new major league consecutive losing record just a few pages back wouldn't even draw a chuckle.

Some cynics will say that the hapless Colts and hopeless Mets rescued the Phillies but that's classified in literary circles as begging the question.

THREE REASONS which seem more tangible are Quinn, Mauch and the Phillie farm system.

General Manager Quinn, while not the press-conscious wheeler-dealer of the Frank Lane school, has quietly but carefully manipulated Philadelphia into a now-enviable position.

Quinn has brought new life to the Phillies with additions like Jim Bunning, Johnny Callison, Gus Triandos, Wes Covington and Roy Sievers—several of which were being written off as 'twilight timers.'

MAUCH, ONE of the forgotten managers in baseball, is much like Quinn. He's not a colorful losing clown like Casey Stengel nor does he possess the overpowering tonsils of a Leo Durocher.

But Mauch, who seemed an interim choice at best when he arrived in Philadelphia, has gotten the job done and has managed to hang around longer than many of his more verbose playmates.

Perhaps the greatest key to the Phillie reformation is a highly productive farm system which has yielded some fine young batsmen and a wealth of pitching talent.

AMERICAN League non-Yankee fans used to ask mournfully where the perennial junior circuit champs "kept getting all those good, young ball players?"

That same question is making the rounds around the NL now with guys like Ray Culp, Art Mahaffey and Dennis Bennett firing the strikes and Richie Allen and John Herrnstein ripping the cover off the ball.

All five are of the home-grown variety and from the looks of things there's plenty more ripening on the vine.

BUT OUR sixth-place spring pick certainly doesn't look justified now nor do those scattered fourths and fifths where most other scribes offered the Phils.

Speaking of pre-season pennant picks, we're sailing along quite a bit better than this time last season. At last count, we weren't too far off in the AL (New York, Baltimore, Chicago, Minnesota, Detroit, Cleveland, Boston, LA, K-C and Washington).

We apparently ran out of gas by the time we got to the NL with LA, SF, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Houston and guess who.

WE STILL haven't been completely shaken from our stand on the Dodgers. (Cincy Enquirer's Lou Smith suggests LA might be lucky to finish in the first division, much less first place.)

When asked if he was glad he didn't have to face the Yankees anymore, Phillie Bunning replied last week, "Yet, but I'll see them in October."

Maybe Bunning's right and maybe that's why this column. It proves 'tis better late than never to jump on a bandwagon. Besides, crow feathers are much more digestible in July.

Who's On First? Nobody!

Pitcher Jim Tanks was thrown out at first Saturday in a round-about way. In fact, 2-5-4-6-3.

Tanks, playing for South against Hartley in a High School Summer League game, was instructed by coach Bob Nolan to lay down a bunt, but got run to first due to the hot, humid temperature on the field.

Upon his return to the bench, the Hartley coach insisted that Tanks reach first and told his players not to resume play until the Bulldog hurler touched the base.

The umpire called Tanks out for delaying the game and Nolan protested, insisting that the pitcher was not out until the ball reached first.

The stalmate was officially broken when the Hartley infield which had been whipping the ball "around the horn" during the rhubarb, returned the ball to first, where the first sacker touched the base.

COACHES' CORNER

BUD TRAPP

(This week's guest on Coaches' Corner is Bud Trapp, new head baseball mentor at Bishop Ready High.)

Q—WHAT ARE SOME COMMON BATTING FAULTS THAT YOUNG HITTERS DEVELOP AND THEIR RESPECTIVE SOLUTIONS?

A — There are several hitting faults that younger players sometimes fall into the habit of using and I'll elaborate on a few of these faulty tendencies:

(1) Head-turning. This tendency can be corrected by keeping the head down and immobile while striding toward each pitch. Watch the ball all the way into the catcher's mitt in practice to sharpen your concentration on each pitch.

(2) 'Foot-in-the-bucket' hitting. This habit develops when the batter starts pulling his stride foot and body weight away from the plate for fear of being hit by a pitched ball.

Since the problem is mostly a mental one, place more body weight on the striding leg so the rear leg is anchored securely in place and is immobile at all times.

(3) Bat-dipping. This problem can be eliminated by raising the bat higher, leveling the shoulders, and swinging down on the ball to get backspin on the batted ball. A lighter bat can also stop bat-dipping.

(4) Foot-moving. Foot-moving can be eliminated by digging the spikes of the rear foot into the ground and driving off the rear leg.

Another solution to this problem is to place a bat or another object behind the rear foot in practice to hold it firmly in place when the batter is in the box.

(5) Hitching. This fault can be corrected by cocking the wrists before the start of the swing to lock them firmly in place.

If the hitching continues, your bat is still more likely to meet the ball quicker. Another way to cut down hitching is to keep the arms away from the body, keep the bat high and swing away with a positive attitude.

Peterson Third In Junior Play

Bob Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peterson, 2778 Bexley Park-rd, finished in a tie for third place in State Junior play last week when he fired a 77-74—151 on the par 72 links at Canton Brookside.

Peterson was the only high schooler to finish in the top five in the tournament. The recent Bexley grad recently captured the Mid-American Junior Golf title and carded a first-round 75 in the qualifying round of the District Jaycee tourney.

Cards Open Tryout Camp

St. Louis Cardinal scouting director George Silvey has announced that the Cards will hold a baseball tryout camp in Zanesville July 7, 8 and 9, for all Central Ohio athletes.

The sessions will be held at Municipal Stadium at 10 a.m. each day under the experienced eyes of Card talent-seeker Ollie Vanck.

ANY PLAYER between 16 and 23 is welcome to participate in the tryouts and he should bring his glove, shoes and a uniform. The bats, balls and catching equipment will be furnished by the Red Birds and there will be no fee.

A player signed to a contract will be reimbursed for the expenses he incurs in connection with the tryouts. All American Legion candidates must have a letter of approval from either his coach or Post Commander to take part.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT OF ZONING CODE

A public hearing will be held by the Council of the City of Whitehall, Ohio, on Tuesday, August 4, 1964, at 7:30 P.M., at the City Hall, 380 South Yearling Road, on Ordinance No. 65-64, "AMENDING SECTION 135-16 OF THE CODIFIED ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF WHITEHALL, OHIO (RE: YARDS IN COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL DISTRICTS) AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY." Said ordinance would amend Section 135-16 of the Whitehall Zoning Code to read as follows:

"Section 135-16 Yards in Commercial and Industrial Districts.

"In all commercial or industrial zoned areas the minimum building set-back from the front property line shall be 75 feet and the minimum distance from the building to the side property line shall be 10 feet where such side line abuts the line of an intersecting street not the principal means of egress. No side yard shall be required along any interior lot line which is adjacent to property zoned for business or industrial use.

"(1) Existing Alignment. On property fronting upon any street where 40% or more of such frontage is improved with commercial establishments, the alignment of the existing buildings along such frontage shall be the front yard line, provided such alignment be regular within a range of variation no greater than 5 feet and in no event shall the minimum set-back of property fronting upon any street be less than 15 feet. For cases where existing alignment varies to a greater extent, the Planning Commission shall establish such regulating building lines as may, in its opinion, serve the purpose of this section, after due notice and public hearing."

Ordinance No. 65-64, the Codified Ordinances, and the report of the Planning & Zoning Commission on the proposed amendment are on file at the City Hall and available for inspection to any interested person.

GLORIA M. CONN,
Clerk of Council
ES—6-25 - 7-2

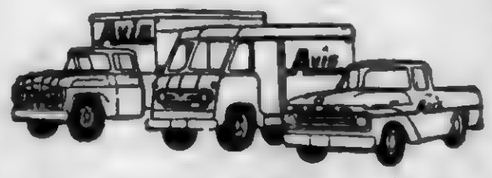
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for Sewer Improvement No. 251, Sanitary Sewer in Easement North of East Main Street from Big Walnut Creek to a point 1600' more or less East of Country Club Road, will be received by the Director of Public Service of the City of Whitehall, Ohio, at the City Building, 380 South Yearling Road, until 12:00 o'clock Noon, Eastern Standard Time, on July 16, 1964, and at that time and place will be publicly opened and read aloud. All bids will be considered valid until 35 days after the opening date although not accepted or rejected.

The work for which proposals are invited consists of the furnishing of all labor, materials, equipment and the construction of approximately 1,135 lineal feet of 15-inch Sanitary Sewer, 395 lineal feet of 10-inch Sanitary Sewer complete, with manholes, Y-Branches, risers where required and all appurtenances; 30 lineal feet of Temporary Pavement Replacement, 15 Square Yards of Permanent Pavement Replacement, Seeding, 15,500 cubic yards of Grading Excavation, 600 Cu. Yds. of Rock Excavation and other appurtenant work.

Copies of the Contract Documents, specifications and plans are on file in the Office of the Director of Public Service of the City of Whitehall, Ohio, 380 South Yearling Road, where they are available for inspection by prospective bidders. Contract Documents, specifications and plans may be obtained from the above office upon payment of $3.00 per set, which amount will not be refunded.

Each bid shall contain the full name and address of each person or company interested in the same and shall be accompanied by a bond in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the amount of the bid or a certified check in the same amount on a solvent bank within Franklin County made payable to the City of Whitehall, Ohio, conditioned that if the bid is accepted a contract will be entered into within 10 days after notice of acceptance. A performance bond of One Hundred Percent (100%) of the amount of the contract with a satisfactory surety company, conditioned according to law will be required as security for the faithful performance of the contract.



The bidder will be required to state in full detail, on his proposal, his experience in this class of work and bids from contractors inexperienced in this particular class of work will not be considered.

The work on this Contract shall commence within ten (10) calendar days after signing of the Contract and shall be completed within eighty (80) calendar days thereafter.

The City of Whitehall, Ohio, reserves the right to reject any and all bids, including any bids which, in the opinion of the Engineer, show evidence of unbalancing prices.

Central Ohio's first appearance of a topless bathing suit was reported by deputies at Hide-A-Way Hills resort, a leisure home community located south of Lancaster. When questioned by red-faced deputies, Miss Brewer Webster, 6, stated, that she could see absolutely nothing offensive about the new style. In fact, she told them with a beguiling smile, she rather liked it. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Webster of Oxford, Miss.

House Speaker Sees No Need For Reapportionment Session

(WRFD News Service)

Republican candidates for the Ohio legislature met last week and the air crackled with resentment over the U.S. Supreme Court's recent ruling that state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis.

Many of Ohio's GOP lawmakers hail from small rural counties that conceivably will lose representation if the House of Representatives is reapportioned.

Despite the urging of Republican Attorney General William Saxbe to call a special session to deal with the problem immediately, House Speaker Cloud said the reapportionment issue is not at this time a legislative matter. Cloud explained that the lower federal courts must first render a decision on the issue. Then, Cloud said, the legislature probably would consider a constitutional amendment and submit it to the voters.

The meeting also failed to establish anything definite on a possible special legislative session later this summer or in the fall Governor Rhodes, in his talk, did not indicate one way or the other whether he favored a special session, and the GOP legislative leadership said it saw no emergency developing now that would necessitate a special assembly.

Among state issues most often voiced by Republican candidates were state aid to public schools and highways. Consensus of candidates was that these issues will be pivotal in the campaign this fall.

NAMED BOSS

J. D. BRADSHAW, vice-president and general manager of WRFD Radio and WRFD-FM, recently was named "Boss of the Year" at the annual Boss Night Banquet of the American Businesswomen's Association, Flambeau Chapter. Bradshaw, confined to Doctors Hospital following minor surgery, was presented his trophy by several staff members during the first announcement of the honor over WRFD Radio news. He was nominated by Mrs. Effie Smith, an accountant for WRFD.

Science Center Now Featuring Vacation Films

With vacation fever at its peak, the Center of Science and Industry, 280 E. Broad-st, will feature color motion pictures on prominent vacation playground and historic restorations throughout June, July and August.

The film series gets underway this weekend with "New England Calling." Another film on the program, "Milestone in Motoring," reviews the years when horseless carriages were changing to automobiles. Joe E. Brown plays the part of the man who witnessed the great transition.

The new Battelle Planetarium show at the center, "Wonders of the Summer Sky" continues to draw large crowds.

The coming weekend schedule for the films and for the planetarium can be obtained by calling the center.

Admission is 50-cents for adults and 25 cents for students. Memberships are available at the admission desk.

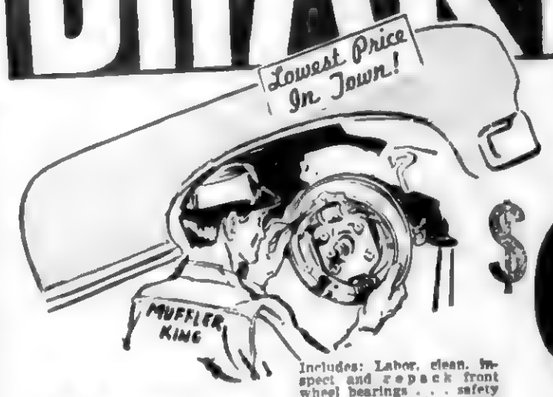
Peace Corps To Test Applicants Saturday, July 11

U.S. Civil Service Commission will hold Peace Corps placement tests in Room 204, Tonti Building, 34 N. High-st at 8:30 a.m., Saturday, July 11.

Openings are available in the Far East, Africa, Latin America and the Near East areas for both technical and non-professional appointments.

Applicants may be between 18 and 68 years of age. Questionnaires may be obtained from local post offices.

Schedule Moth Hikes



The public is invited to attend the month hikes at Darby Creek Metropolitan Park, July 10; Blackwood Woods, July 17; and at Blendon Woods, July 24. At dusk participants will meet the naturalist at the trading post. Armed with flashlights, they will observe moths and other insects.

INSIDE . . .

WHEN THE pro golf circuit and estimated crowds of better than 20,000 per day invade the Columbus Country Club Monday for the PGA, the local site will be ready and waiting. Course superintendent Bob Mueller, who has been directing preparations for the event since 1962, reports that: fairways have been shrunk to 30-35 yards width, the rough has been grown to the five-inch maximum, existing traps have been enlarged, some 75 to 80 yards have been added to the regulation 6900-yard course at the tees and par has been lowered two strokes to 70.

FINISHING TOUCHES APPLIED FOR PGA

Block Blue Law

Whitehall Mayor William Holzhause Tuesday night failed in his second attempt to have council pass the city's own Sunday closing legislation as an emergency measure.

A special council meeting, called for that purpose last Thursday night, failed to produce enough members to act on the measure.

And at last night's regular session, council voted four to two against passing the ordinance as an emergency action. It must now be read at two more council meetings before it can be voted on.

Copied after Ohio's Sunday closing law, the legislation would permit violators to be tried in Whitehall's mayor court, relieving the city's police officers and prosecutor from the tedious, time-consuming burden of appearing in Columbus Municipal Court.

If tried in Whitehall, the city would also benefit from fines.

Councilman Ray Shipley explained his motives for voting against the ordinance as an emergency measure: "I would vote for it if I could understand the law, but I cannot. I would be in favor of Whitehall making its own law."

Les Ballenger, Roger Stahley and Loren Mason joined Shipley in voting no.

Marvin Levine, while agreeing that Ohio's law was not clear, commented that "Nevertheless, as public officials we're sworn to uphold laws of Ohio and of Whitehall. If the mayor is going to enforce Sunday closing here it's up to us to make it as easy as we can on our officials to save their time."

Councilmen O'Shaughnessy and Toomey also voted yes.

Mayor Holzhause indicated that enforcement would continue in the city. Fourteen will be cited for violations last Sunday.

Okay Bonds To Check '65 School Room Crisis

Columbus Board of Education Tuesday approved placing a $34,650,000 bond issue on the Nov. 3 ballot to finance a vast construction and site-acquisition program during the next four years.

The board's decision was based on a study of projected school needs conducted by Ohio State University's Bureau of Educational Research and Service.

It is the fifth such survey completed since the end of World War II, a period that has seen enrollment in Columbus schools more than double from 40,359 then to September's expected 103,000 plus.

Columbus schools' annual enrollment increase of 4,500 pupils each year is expected to continue and, according to Dr. Harold H. Eibling, school superintendent, this September will "equal or exceed capacity in many schools.

Sees Crisis In Year

"By September of 1965," Dr. Eibling continued, "the situation will have become serious. . . We must continue our construction program beyond Dec 31, 1964, when all of our funds will be exhausted, or we shall have to resort to emergency measures that adversely affect educational opportunities. . ."

Improvements in every section of Columbus, in existing neighborhoods and in proposed residential developments, would be provided by the bond issue.

The expansion program, to be completed by 1968, would provide 24 new schools, including 16 elementaries, six junior highs, one junior-senior high, and a school for deaf children.

Forty-one additions to schools, including 31 elementaries, five junior highs and five senior highs, and remodeling projects at 40 other schools, singling out 29 elementaries, eight junior highs, six senior highs and three special schools for improvements.

Want 25 School Sites

Twenty-five new school sites would be purchased, providing for 20 elementaries, four junior highs, and one senior high, and ground purchased for the expansion of 19 elementaries and seven junior high school sites.

Other major projects included in the proposed bond issue, are, conversion of Mohawk Elementary-Junior High into a junior-senior high school through the construction of an addition to the buildings and interior alterations.

Purchase of a 26-acre urban renewal tract bounded by Grant-av, Livingston-av, Parsons-av and the Innerbelt.

Redevelopment of Ft. Hayes in accordance with the application submitted last February to the Federal Government. Dr. Eibling emphasized here that if the schools are unsuccessful in their efforts to secure the tract, the programs proposed would have to be located elsewhere in the school district.

Miscellaneous projects also provided for in the package are for the construction of a new maintenance shop-warehouse and two school bus garages, and the expansion of the Trades and Industries site, the warehouse and the administration building sites.

One Of Fastest Growing

Five growth factors were cited in support of the board's decision to seek a bond issue — growth in population and in geographical area, acceleration of home building in the city, continued high birth rates and enrollment estimates.

Columbus, still one of the fastest-growing cities in the nation, increased its population by 60,000 during the first four years of the '60s, according to the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce, which predicts the city will number 1,250,000 by 1980.

More than 100 annexation tracts were added to the Co-

'De Facto Progress' Reported

By BETTY DAFT

Columbus School administration took a step toward accord with civil rights groups Tuesday with its progress report on plans to resolve "educational problems resulting from de facto segregation."

The civil rights organizations had repeatedly indicated that such evidence of the administration's sincerity of purpose in searching for a solution to racial imbalance in schools, and open recognition of the problem were the first step toward its solution.

Dr. Harold Eibling, superintendent, presented the progress report to the Board of Education at its regular session.

Civil rights' representatives, present at the meeting, acknowledged the advancements made in the report, and welcomed the announcement from Dr. Watson Walker, School Board president, that a citizens' advisory council would be formed to sit in on future planning sessions.

At the same time, however, they soundly denounced the administration's continuing policy of building more schools in predominantly Negro areas as "going farther into racial imbalance; creating more and more problems to correct."

Monroe Junior High, due to open in September, was singled out as an example of moving Negro youth studying at the integrated Linmoor to a school predominantly Negro.

The purchase of land by the School Board Tuesday for a possible future elementary at Gladstone and E. 25th-st was also questioned as placing a third Negro school in the immediate area.

Move Over Jets, It's Billy's Turn At Bat

His business is looking for sinners.

His calling is to reach them.

His sermon is "Ye must be born again."

His name is Billy Graham.

Dr. Billy Graham, the Carolina-born evangelist who has drawn thousands to Christ by his God-fearing magnetism, will take his stand at Jet Stadium Friday, July 10 through 18, at 7:30 p.m. each evening and Sunday, July 19, at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

A crusade that has been two years in the planning is about to happen.

Local clergy and lay church workers, business and professional people, housewives and youth alike have worked diligently to bring it to Columbus.

On June 28, thousands of church people knocked on doors and invited residents to the crusade, offering transportation and literature. "The response was wonderful," said a spokesman for the workers.

Crusade meetings are free and open to all who wish to attend. Plenty of parking space is available in the regular stadium parking places and an additional 2,000 automobiles will find parking in the lot next to Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

Dr. Billy Graham

Arrangements have been made to seat 19,000 persons in the stands and an additional 10,000 on the grass. In the event of rain, the nightly crusades will still go on. Ginny Booth, director's secretary, said, "Even a July snow storm will not keep Dr. Graham from preaching!"

Church members from all over the area will find their places in a massed choir and will serve as ushers.

Parents of young children are invited to bring the youngsters with them, however, there are no nursery facilities. If the children become restless, parents may feel free to leave the stands.

Youth nights are scheduled July 13, 16 and 18, 7:30 p.m. Dr. Graham has said of youth, "Young people today are searching. They're questing. They want something they can sink their teeth into, something they can commit themselves to."

Extra Columbus Transit Company buses will be provided to take care of the overflow. These buses will originate from downtown and will be marked "Jet Stadium." Additional buses will also run the W. Mound-st circuit. At the [illegible] of the crusade meetings, (approximately 9:15 p.m.) buses will be waiting at the gates to return visitors to their homes.

Although no one Columbus man is responsible for the crusade planning, much of it was instigated by Rev. Harold Dutt, superintendent of Southeast Conference of the EUB Church, and by Jerry Spears, Jr.

Scioto Conservancy Court Holds Answer In Controversy Over Local Dam Projects

By FRANK RYAN

There is growing evidence that the controversy over who should build the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects will be brought into the "mainstream" of local political thinking. This is particularly true as it relates to the re-election bid of 12th District (Franklin County) Congressman Samuel L. Devine.

Devine has not "officially" endorsed either the Scioto Conservancy District or the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as building authority for the projects. It is no secret that as a matter of political philosophy Devine would prefer to see the SCD plan of local financing and local control put into effect.

But Devine has said that he will favor the plan that will "get the projects built the quickest." If substantial local support builds for the Army plan, and there is a concurrent withdrawal of support for the SCD approach, Devine's support could be gained for federal aid.

But, until the recently passed resolution by Columbus City Council, Devine had not been asked to seek federal funds for the project. The council action requests the Corps of Engineers to include funds for the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects in its fiscal 1966 budget request to Congress. Copies of the resolution were also directed to Devine, Senators Stephen A. Young and Frank J. Lausche, Ohio Congressman Michael Kirwan and President Johnson.

Council "Goes Both Ways"

But the Columbus council action does not constitute a clear "mandate" to Devine because, as he puts it: "They've gone both ways on this." And what Devine says is true. Council, while making the "formal" request for federal assistance, is also asking Columbus voters to approve a bond issue that would assure construction of the projects by the SCD.

Devine is keenly aware that his predecessor in Congress was the victim of a "limb-sawing" job by a previous Columbus City Council. The council reversed itself on the construction of Hoover Dam by forcing then-Congressman John Vorys to reject

City Council Refuses Bids For Rezoning

Columbus City Council Monday night refused for the fifth time a request to rezone a sever-acre tract on the south side of Livingston-av between Cunard and Courtright-rd, for a shopping center there.

Council turned down developer William Davis' request by a two to two vote. President William Fornof abstained from voting.

By unanimous vote, council also refused approval of the REPRESENTATIVES OF ABOUT 70 ORGANIZATIONS last week heard Rev. Russell Jones, executive secretary of Civil Rights Council, explain the "Community Position Paper On De Facto Segregation," along with a request that all of them take the paper and explanation back to their respective groups. Rev. Arthur Zebbs of CORE and Collin Bryce, Columbus Call and Post, also appeared on the panel at the public meeting, held at the downtown YMCA.

CRC ASKS

'Adopt Racial Policy'

The Civil Rights Council took its problem to the people last week, enlisting the aid of interested organizations in its effort to explain the cause and effects of claimed "de facto segregation" in public schools.

At a public meeting held at the YWCA, former city councilman Rev. Russell Jones, executive secretary of CRC, asked approximately 70 representatives of organizations present to take the "Community Position Paper On De Facto Segregation" back to their various groups.

The paper, authored by members of various civil rights organizations and presented to the school board at its June 16 meeting, closely followed the school administration's paper on "Intercultural Problems In Education" adopted by the board on June 2.

The civil rights' statement, while applauding certain features of the schools' policy paper, took exception with other points and included a strong recommendation that Columbus Schools, before the start of the school year, "adopt an official policy of explicit concern with the solution of the problem of de facto racial segregation."

Rev. Jones, with the assistance of Rev. Arthur Zebbs of CORE and Collin A. Bryce of Columbus Call and Post, outlined at the public meeting the councils most immediate concerns:

"We are not specifically recommending bussing children from one school district to the other . . . we are not proposing methods to change racial imbalance in schools; this is the school board's responsibility.

"By upholding the neighborhood policy of school districting the school board is continuing de facto segregation. By adding new schools and buying land for more in predominantly Negro areas the school board is reinforcing the system.

"Junior high students who attended mixed schools will next year attend a bigger and better ghetto school (Monroe Junior High). Nineteen Columbus schools are already predominantly Negro."

Particularly emphasized by Rev. Jones, Rev. Zebbs and Bryce was their desire that the school board "recognize the problem for what it is, and move towards a solution."

Rev. Jones said, "We eat the same hamburgers, speak the same language; I'm confused about the term 'intercultural' problems in education."

The groups ask that a series of sessions be set up between the school board and administration, representatives of Civil Rights groups, and a citizen's advisory council composed of members of organizations who have expressed concern about the problem.

X-Ray Schedule Given

The free Christmas Seal chest X-Ray cruiser will be located at the rental office of the Beverly Manor Apartments on Thursday, July 16, and at the James Road Plaza on Friday, July 17.

At both locations the cruisers will be in operation from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

There are 39,000 square miles of lakes and rivers in the province of Manitoba, Canada.

Winners In Whitehall 4th Games, Contests Announced

Whitehall's Fourth of July celebration, a first-time effort by Eastern Columbus Jaycees last year, came into its own tnis year, with a "bigger, better, more successful" event reported.

Chairmen of the affair, again sponsored by Eastern Jaycees, were Dr. Donald Plotnick and Paul Knoblauch.

Grand prize winner in the decorated bicycle contest was Dale Wise, also first prize winner for the most original.

First, second and third place winners in five categories were;

Most patriotic, Kay Henry, Greg Funk and Phil Harris, and funniest, Barbara Archer, Jerry Curry and Paul Knoblauch.

Mifflin Township Fire Department won the rotating trophy, an oaken bucket, as winner in the water battle between four fire departments, and Whitehall placed second.

In the silli-olympics events, the egg throw was won by Joan Garman and Becky Holzhause, first, and Mike and Terry Bennett, second.

Mother-daughter race winners were Mrs. Eleanor Sullivan and Veronica, and the father-son race was won by Ernie Harris and Phillip, with William J. Del Rio and William, Jr., placing second.

Sharon Nunemaker was first place winner in the balloon race, and Fred Dempsey placed second.

A power failure to booths at Robinwood Plaza prompted the committee's decision to stage the fireworks display earlier than had been announced.

Bonds—

lumbus School District in the past 10 years, with others pending and still more in the planning stages.

Consecutive annual enrollment increases in the city schools during the last 16 years has moved Columbus from 35th to 18th place among the country's largest school systems.

Concerning tax increase, Dr. Eibling explained:

"A bond issue will have a comparatively slight impact on the school tax rate." He continued, "a typical homeowner is only paying about 50 cents a week to retire $75,000,000 worth of school construction bonds issued during the last 15 years."

Dam—

federal aid he had requested and won for the project. The dam was built by the City of Columbus.

And while the controversy seems to center over Columbus council and Congressman Devine, the final decision, as matters now stand, cannot be decided by either. The question of who will build local dams rests squarely with the five-judge Conservancy Court.

If the Conservancy Court so decides, the SCD can construct the projects, opinions of city council and Congressman Devine notwithstanding. SCD officials have yet to submit to the court the official appraisal record of benefits and assessments. It is on this submission that the court will act in approving, rejecting or modifying the plan.

Bellepoint In Background

And when the appraisal record is submitted, a third project — the Bellepoint dam — will be included in addition to the Mill Creek and Alum Creek projects. The Bellepoint project, with a total estimated cost in excess of $18 million, is proposed as an SCD project, and would follow an assessment plan similar in application to the Mill Creek project.

Construction plans have not as yet been prepared for Bellepoint, listed by the SCD as a "stage two" project. According to Richard Midden, SCD executive secretary, the project would not be built for "several years."

But Midden confirmed that assessment to those who are adjudged to receive "direct" benefits would be confined to Franklin, Pickaway and Ross Counties in the cases of all three proposed dam projects. The official SCD plan includes multiplepurpose projects for Pike and Scioto Counties, the remaining two counties in the Conservancy District. But these projects are being undertaken by the Corps of Engineers, and thus will be financed entirely by federal funds. There will be no assessment of property owners or municipalities for the benefits received.

Council was also notified Tuesday night that Todd Tibbals was withdrawing his rezoning request for the $3 million Fairway Oaks development.

He offered as reason council's negative attitude toward rezoning a five percent portion of the 50-acre tract to permit the building of apartments.

Single residences had been planned for the rest of the development.

De Facto—

ment of a citizens' advisory council, other moves urgently recommended by the civil rights groups in its position paper submitted to the School Board June 16 were shown in the progress report to be implemented.

The report's seven points included:

• Negro teachers on the instructional staffs of almost 100 schools by September.

• Planned visits by Joseph Davis, assistant superintendent of the new department established to study educational problems of the disadvantaged, and James Wade, coordinator, to other school systems to view their progress in solving problems of racial imbalance.

• A council of professional personnel set up within this department to assist with the work.

• Study of plans proposed to solve problems resulting from de facto segregation, and a statement of resolve to continue assigning pupils to schools in their own neighborhood until a plan deemed feasible is devised.

• A policy of employing enrichment teachers in an attempt to raise academic levels of schools in economically poor areas

• Improvement in the selection of textbooks that have all ethnic and cultural groups represented appropriately.

• And finally, a reiteration that Columbus Schools' staff will make every effort to meet the educational needs of each individual pupil.

Rev. Arthur Zebbs of Columbus CORE, while commending the board and administration on these points, pointed out that, "We had hoped that by 1964 there would be some beginning of progress." "But," he continued, "the opening of Monroe will perpetuate the present plan; going back to 1963 would be better.

"If the (school) board wishes to show a real interest in the problem it can show it by not permitting school boundary lines to reinforce the system. Why send these students to Monroe? Send them back to Linmoor."

Rev. Russell Jones, head of Community Resources, Inc., and executive secretary, Civil Rights Council, also expressed "concern about continuing the building of schools in segregated areas.

"I am also concerned," he added, "that out of 11 proposed solutions to de facto segregation the board has considered, it finds none to fit Columbus' situation. It is incumbent on the board to try one here."

The proposals, tried in other cities, were studied by the administration and school board and found to be not completely successful, or applicable to Columbus.

They are: bus transportation, Princeton Plan, open enrollment, limited open enrollment, free-choice transfer, mandatory transfer, feeder patterns, school recombination, single grade schools, redistricting, school rezoning and educational parks.

A four-lane check area was located in the plant's parking lot at 6200 E. Broad-st. The car check, held June 29, 30, July 1, 2, was sponsored by Bell Telephone Laboratories and the Franklin County MAPS Committee.

WINS NAA SCHOLARSHIP

JOHN LA VERNE REGNER, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Regner, 248 S. Gould-rd, is the recipient of a scholarship for a full college education from North American Aviation, and will enter Ohio State University this fall where he will major in aerospace engineering. W. H. Yahn, president of Columbus-NAA, made the presentation. John was graduated first in his class from St. Charles Preparatory School where he was a letterman in tennis. He also won a Glenna R. Joyce Scholarship to Notre Dame University.

Mayors Committee To Study Incinerator Need

The expressed hope of members of the Franklin County Board of Health for a centralized trash incinerator system is now being carefully studied by a committee from the Franklin County Mayors' Council. Mayor A. K. Pierce of Grandview, president of the council, said the committee has held several meetings on the subject and visited plants operating on the same plan in other parts of the country.

The idea, advanced several months ago by local health officials, calls for the construction of large incinerators in four different areas of the county. Trash can then be taken there by refuse collectors for destruction.

If implemented, this plan will do away with the need for dumps for trash and garbage.

Serving on the committee to make the study are: Robert Wells, city manager of Upper Arlington, chairman; Mayor Anton Patzer, Grove City; Mayor William Schneider, Bexley; Tom Baye, city manager of Westerville, and Mayor Robert Baer, Groveport.

Mayor Pierce said the committee is expected to make a recommendation on the plan by late August and this in turn will be forwarded to the Franklin County Board of Commissioners for further study.

Arledge Graduated

Airman 3C. Donald J. Arledge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe N. Arledge of 4850 McAllister-av, has been graduated from the technical training course for U. S. Air Force jet aircraft mechanics at Amarillo AFB, Tex.

Airman Arledge, trained to repair current jet fighters, is being assigned to a Tactical Air Command unit at Shaw AFB, S. C. The airman attended Walnut Ridge High.

Big Junior Fair Set This Year

Officials say this year's Ohio State Fair will see nearly 2,500 Ohio 4-H Club boys and girls taking part in one of the biggest Junior Fairs in history. Dates are Aug. 28 through Sept. 7.

New Junior Fair exhibits include a cafe display featuring foods and nutrition projects at the north end of the building, a "Project-of-the-day" display showing outstanding projects from throughout the state, tractor operators' contest, steer and market sheep judging, selection of a queen, horse show and square dance.

International farm youth will take part in dances, discussions of music and culture and customs of their native countries. Participating will be International Farm Youth exchangees from New Zealand, Thailand, Korea, Switzerland and Turkey.

Council Rejects Zoning Changes

Columbus City Council Monday night rejected two area zoning requests after public hearings on the proposed zoning changes.

Developer William Davis lost a bid to enlarge an existing shopping center when council refused to rezone the southeast corner of Livingston-av and Cunard-av. Davis had asked that the seven-acre tract be changed from Suburban Residential to a C-4 Commercial designation.

The plan had been approved by the city's planning staff, but was rejected by the Planning Commission.

Also turned down by council was a request to alter a Commercial zoning from C-1 to C-4 at the southeast corner of Livingston-av and Wilson-av. Petitioner had planned construction of a coin shop. Both the Planning Staff and Commission had recommended against the change.

Switching Artist Is At It Again

An envelope switching artist gave another unsuspecting clerk a lesson in his art last weekend.

The thief walked into Morgan's Drug store at 3000 E. Broad-st, and asked the clerk, Dedorah Linick, 18, of 181 Chesterfield-ct, to give him two $20 bills for some $5 and $1 bills.

He put the two $20 bills into an envelope and tucked the envelope into a pocket while the clerk counted the money. She found only $39.

Miss Linick asked the thief for another dollar and he gave her an envelope from his pocket, supposedly the one which he had the money in, and asked for his money back. He then left the store.

The clerk opened the envelope and found only play money in it. The thief had switched the envelopes.

The same switch was worked many times in Columbus last spring.

High Accident Areas Announced By Police

In the past 15-day period high accident intersections were: Fifth and Cassady and Livingston and Mayfield. Chief causes or contributing factors were changing course without safety, failure to keep assured clear distance ahead and speed.

Accidents totaled 763 in the city for the period, and 37 pedestrians were involved in accidents, according to police reports.

JANET MICHAEL

Archa O. Dart in an address to those gathered for the conference of Seventh-day Adventists at Mount Vernon said, "Love is a tender plant of heavenly origin and its charm depends on the care it gets when it is entrusted to mankind."

To husbands and wives he advised, "Though difficulties, perplexities and discouragements may arise, let neither husband nor wife in the home harbor the thought that their union is a mistake or a disappointment. In every way encourage one another in fighting the battles of life." Then marriage will be a foretaste of the joys of heaven.

Along the same vein comes this "Short Course" from Parents Without Partners, Inc.

The six most important words: "I admit I made a mistake."

The five most important words: "I am proud of you."

The four most important words: "What is your opinion?"

The three most important words: "If you please."

The two most important words: "Thank you."

The one most important word: "We."

And finally to the main point — Billy Graham's arrival in Columbus. From all over the world come pleading invitations for Graham to conduct Crusades. It has been estimated that about 200 years would be required for him to accept all the invitations now on hand.

Graham's coming to Columbus will long be remembered. The stands will be filled with truth seekers. The lasting effects will be humbly felt by each individual.

Crusade Sidelights Dated

Team Men Will Speak

The Columbus Christian Women's Club will present the Billy Graham Crusade Musical Team, at a luncheon Tuesday, July 14, 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., at the Southern Hotel.

Featured as speaker will be Cliff Barrows, a native of Greenville, S. C. Barrows is choir director for the Billy Graham Crusades and also directs and plans the radio broadcasts of "The Hour of Decision."

Sharing the spotlight with Barrows will be Don Hustad, George Beverly Shea and Ted Smith. These men have appeared before many local groups in the past months.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Vivian Mock, AM. 7-2469 or Mrs. Juanita Will, BR. 4-3098.

Socialite To Tell How Crusade Affected Her

A Billy Graham Crusade product of seven years ago, the New York socialite Eleanor Searle Whitney, the former Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, will tell of her conversion at a mass meeting for women at Broad Street Methodist Church, E. Broad at Washington-av, Monday, July 13, 10 a.m. Mrs. David Skeen, wife of the pastor of the church, is the chairman.

In preliminary Crusade rallies Mrs. Whitney has spoken to thousands of women in Chillicothe, Dayton, Mansfield, Lancaster and at the Youth Center on the State Fair grounds.

Mrs. Whitney, a concert soloist, pays her own expenses as she devotes her time to urging a Christ-centered life and weekly Bible classes. When she went forward at Billy Graham's call for decisions for Christ she said, "All my past was taken away and forgiven, I was beginning a new life. I had the assurance of the Holy Spirit dwelling in me, and my eternal life with God started at that moment."

Numbered among those in her Bible classes on Long Island are such names as Bill Wade of the Chicago Bears, Dick Van Dyke of television fame, and the president of RCA.

As one who once thought that only fanatics talked about the Lord in a personal way, now her special lettered slogan is "PTL" — "Praise The Lord!"

Eleanor S. Whitney

Awarded the "First Golden Hat" by the American Millinery Institute she is no "high-hatted" individual but every time she puts on her hat she breathes a prayer, "Lord, who do you want me to talk to today."

SPECTATOR SURPRISE SPOTLIGHT

Mary Jane Mack

Hands that reach and a heart that feels . . . these are the hands and heart of Mrs. Lawrence (Mary Jane) Mack of 3811 Surrey Hill-pl.

Several years ago, in 1937, a crown was placed on the head of West High School's Homecoming Queen and a year later an even better title was given our queen, for it was then she became a bride. Then in 1941, Mary Jane and Lawrence became the parents of a son whom they called David.

Into every life a little rain must fall and Mary Jane found herself the victim of polio while the family was living in Newark in 1945. The two ensuing years were spent in Children's Hospital and finally she progressed to a wheelchair where she is still confined.

Her courage was further tested when she was involved in an auto accident in 1958. Upon examination, doctors found a broken pelvis, fractures of both legs and a hand and internal injuries, which caused them to shake their heads and say, "She's got a 50-50 chance."

True to form, Mary Jane chose to live and, in living, she chose to give of herself to others. Mary Jane is active in the Polio Foundation Board and has been president of the following: World Neighbors, Westgate Methodist Church, Caprice Unit of Columbus Symphony and a cancer ray.

Her friends insist that she is equally enthusiastic about politics and loves a good argument. Those who have found themselves in a card game with Mary Jane attest to her skills in bridge and poker.

On Aug. 15, Mary Jane will celebrate her "39th" birthday and will probably receive many gifts which are "too nice" to use.

Mary Jane, your SECRET ADMIRER is Dorothy Hartley.

You too may honor the woman of your choice by sending a letter telling what you know about her to: The Spectator, c/o Society Editor, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, 43204. Include a copy of her favorite recipe and her picture if possible. (We shall return all photos.) Remember, this is a surprise . . . so keep it secret. Please include your phone number and the name of a member of her family.

MR. AND MRS. J. ALLEN REED AND MR. AND MRS. TIM O'NEILL

Silver And Gold Weddings Marked By Mother, Daughter And Husbands

A unique celebration was held July 5, marking 75 years of married life.

Fifty of those years belong to Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Reed and 25 to their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Tim O'Neill. Both families reside at 3607 Seabrook-av.

Silver and gold predominated as 175 guests visited the couples bringing gifts and offering best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed were married at the Methodist parsonage in White Cottage, July 5, 1914. Both are members of Martha Washington Chaper 210, OES and are past matron and patron. Mrs. Reed is a member of JM Wells Relief Corp 66 and Mr. Reed is a member of Roseville Lodge 566, F&AM and is past worshipful master.

Both are members of Redeemer Lutheran Church. Mr. Reed is a retired tool maker at Timken Roller Bearing Co. and enjoys woodworking as a hobby. His wife spends much of her spare time in the garden and doing sewing.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill were married July 5, 1939 at St. Patrick's rectory, Columbus. She is a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church and is a past president of Johnson Park PTA. He is a member of Christ the King and has been a Prudential agent for 15 years. Both are Eastmoor Boosters.

They have two sons, Jay, age 17 and Pat, 15. They are students at Eastmoor.

Miss Ardner Becomes Mrs. Paxton In Ceremony At St. Ladislas Church

MRS. DANIEL KEITH PAXTON

Wearing a white gold cross, a gift of the bridegroom, Miss Roberta Jean Ardner became the bride of Mr. Daniel Keith Paxton, June 6, at St. Ladislas Catholic Church.

Msgr. Frank T. Riehl performed the double-ring ceremony at the Nuptial High Mass. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Ardner, 1363 Innis-av and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Paxton, 978 Geers-av.

The bride approached the altar wearing a floor-length circular gown of lace and tulle tiers in front and featuring a solid lace panel in back over taffeta.

Her veil of nylon illusion was held in place by a crown of tiny pearls and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis, carnations and ivy.

Miss Barbara Neugebauer served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Judith Kusan and Miss Pauline Wyant. They wore matching dresses of pale pink and white.

Mr. Frank Brown was best man and Mr. Robert Slane and Mr. Michael Ardner ushered the guests.

Hostesses for the reception included Miss Sandra Shaffer, Miss Linda Markus, Miss Sharon Ackers, Miss Mary Ardner and Miss Kathleen McDaniel.

The new Mrs. Paxton is a graduate of St. Mary's High School, attended Ohio State School of Cosmetology and is associated with the Defense Construction Supply Center. Mr. Paxton is a South High School graduate and is employed by Western Electric Co.

Patio Exhibit By Art Guild Planned At Heritage House

Members of the Bexley Area Art Guild will have a patio exhibit at Heritage House, the Columbus Jewish Home for the Aged, 1151 College-av, Sunday afternoon, July 12, 2 to 4 p.m.

A number of exhibiting artists will demonstrate by sketching during the afternoon. There will also be many articles on exhibition and for sale by the residents of Heritage House.

Chairman of the hostess guides for the afternoon is Mrs. William Rosen and the following are her hostesses: Mrs. Sol Milenthal, Mrs. Albert Sutton, Mrs. Ted Schmidt, Mrs. Martin Keller and Mrs. Al Karmia. Mrs. Myer Mellman is in charge of the tea table and Mrs. Fay Ruben is chairman of the art committee of the auxiliary for Heritage House. Public is invited.

Miss Debora Kayne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Kayne, 2785 Elm-av, has been chosen as an American Field Service representative in Brazil this summer. Debbie left July 1 for San Paulo, Brazil where she will live with a Brazilian family. This family has two daughters, aged 16 and 17.

It is winter in Brazil now, and Debbie will attend school there. She will be a senior at Bexley High School next fall.

Hebrew PTA Needs Rummage Donations

Columbus Hebrew School PTA is collecting rummage. All household goods, appliances, dishes and clothing are acceptable.

Anyone wishing to contribute or have their rummage picked up may contact: Mrs. Sol Zeldin, 2600 Schaaf-dr., BE. 5-6164; Mrs. Daniel Waltzman, 2883 Floribunda, 237-4156; Mrs. Irvin Cohen, 2603 Burnaby-dr, BE. 5-7338; Mrs. Victor Rofsky, 2911 Ivnho-dr, BE. 5-5310, or Mrs. I. Berliner, 603 Collingwood, BE. 1-6527.

Mrs. Thomas Heads Fleet Reserve Aux.

Installation ceremonies for new officers of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fleet Reserve Association will be held July 10, at Veterans Memorial.

Mrs. Josephine Rigan 1783 Stickel-rd, Reynoldsburg, the past president will install the following:

SUCH A SAVING!
Actually, the smart woman who goes regularly to a beauty salon such as ours, saves more money than the home-treatment neighbor. By the time a do-it-yourselfer gets to the shop, she's apt to require a great deal of extra conditioning treatments. It's a luckier lady who listened the first time we suggested a rinse for better hair health. She corrected the trouble before it doubled and saved both her good looks and her good cash! Let us show you . . . this week!
WHERE DOES HAIR START?
Realistically speaking, hair is a fibrous growth extending from our scalp. Remember that funny little Irish-face planter folks used to have, with green "hair" growing all over it? This grass-like plant came from seeds inside, as does the hair on your head. It is deeply rooted below your scalp, in a protective "follicle," with glands and natural chemicals to nourish it. Let us take care of it for you.
SETS IN A BREEZE!
We've a new aid for our nimble fingers . . . a specially formulated beauty salon hair setting lotion that saves you one-third the regular drying time! This breezy new time-saver contains four fabulous hair-conditioning oils. You come away from your combing with a lustrous new sparkle in your hair . . . more body and more manageability. Call for an appointment and then come in, let us show you!

It's Not What You Say But How You Say It

The very latest in National Football League scouting is out.

We are sure that all four men will be intentionally impartial.

HOWEVER, most people who put things into words often have difficulty being completely impartial and often subconsciously editorialize one way or the other.

One scout, for example, is a former coach with Green Bay—one of the teams benefitting from the reports. Without being dishonest or unfair, a dual scouting report on a particular player could go something like this:

VINCE: Grab this guy in early round. He's quick through the line and almost unstoppable in open field. Leading scorer (148 points) and scored all his team's points in 22-0 upset of fifth-ranked Miami.

Terrific on defense but was used sparingly due to hip injury. Stands 5-10, 165 pounds, but he's still growing and makes up in speed what he lacks in stature.

Kicked 45-yard field goal into wind against Ohio U. for winning points. Will supply more info later.

F'ALL COME

Poor old Atlanta, Ga. That beleagured southern city has been promised Finley's Athletics, the pro-football St. Louis Cardinals and now—the Milwaukee Braves, none of which the metropolis seems likely to get.

ONE MAN'S POISON

Cigarette manufacturers weren't too happy about Arnold Palmer's decision to quit smoking. But have you noticed that wide grin on the Little Ol' Winemaker's puss since Tony Lema's recent string on the golf circuit?

LOTSA LUCK DEPT.

Look for some changes in personnel at Los Angeles soon. Dodger President Walter O'Malley put baseball's "kiss of death" smack dab on Walt Alston and company last week with "I have confidence in my organization from top to bottom."

NOBODY LOVES ME

Outspoken Bosox slugger Dick Stuart can now add Senor Al Lopez to his list of "bad guys." Miffed last year when then Yankee skipper Ralph Houk passed him up on the AL All-Star list, Stuart finds himself out in the cold again, behind Bob Allison, Norm Siebern and Lopez's bonus pick Joe Pepitone.

Maybe a switch to another position (God forbid) might change Dick's luck.

Attorney Mark McCormack, head legal beagle and bookkeeper for Messrs. Nicklaus, Player and Lema, assured British Open officials his threesome would tee off in Scotland, despite reports that the trio would skip the Open like Arnie Palmer.

After the $28 million doggie dupe last week in London, we doubt if the Empire could survive another such economic setback.

A RACE FOR SPACE

HE RACE FOR space at first base was just about as important to these two diamond sprinters as the bigger shots' attempt at the moon Friday in High School Summer League play at Worthington. Whitehall pitcher Mark Blackstone (right) won the race by a step, retiring Worthington base runner Rick Suiser who had hit a ground ball to Ram first baseman. (Staff photo by Craig Weaver).

$25,000 Helps Solve Water Pollution Woes

By Ken Mack McCreary

Well, it looks like somebody is finally grabbing the old water pollution dilemma by the horns. That "somebody" is the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

A few days ago the Division received a check for $25,000, marking the largest sum ever received by the state for replacing fish killed by water pollution.

THE PAYMENT covered the recent accidental pollution of a 51-mile stretch of the Scioto River northwest of Columbus. When notified by area residents that huge numbers of fish were dying, Wildlife Division investigators immediately launched a full-scale probe. Along the river banks they found masses of fish dead and dying.

The pollution began on May 24 and over a week destroyed almost half a million fish and a quarter-million shell fish. The probers discovered that the cause of the pollution was a large quantity of phenol, a chemical used in plastics manufacturing.

The deadly pollutant was traced upstream to the Durez Plastics Plant at Kenton where a cracked heating coil in a storage tank has allowed the deadly acid to seep into the river . . . . it then moved downstream in a "slug" ravishing the fish as it went.

THE $25,000 received from the Hooker Chemical Corporation of New York will, according to Wildlife Division Chief Dale Whitesell, be used to replace some 100,000 bass, bluegills, sunfish, crappies, catfish and minnows in the afflicted stretch of the Scioto. In an effort to improve fishing, rough fish won't be stocked.

The really notable aspect of the whole case is that it marks the beginning of a hard-hitting program of anti-pollution enforcement by the Wildlife Division.

THE SCIOTO polluton case is the first in which trained investigators of the division's law enforcement section were used. It paid off in a big way and it's expected they'll be utilized in all future cases probed by the division.

Why is this particular case a milestone? Let's face it, up 'til now the enforcement against water pollution in Ohio has been hit or miss at best. The Wildlife Division is charged with probing all cases in which aquatic life or habitat is affected.

Records show that since 1947 only 29 cases resulted in payment to replace lost fish. Last year alone the division investigated 52 cases; in only seven was there enough evidence to file claims, and only two resulted in payments, a total of $1038. That, in our opinion, is a pretty sad record.

THE OTHER state agency charged with prevention and prosecution of water pollution is the Water Pollution Control Board of the state Health Department. Many conservationists feel, as do interested citizens, that the board has fallen far short of its responsibilities as outlined by law.

The Water Polluton Control Board has the power to levy fines up to $500 per day against offending municipalities, industries and persons. However, spokesmen for the board say that since the group was legislated into being in 1951, NOT ONE FINE HAS EVER BEEN IMPOSED!

The entire problem of preventing, controlling and correcting pollution of Ohio's valuable waters ends up as a frustrating, highly complex and long-standing one. And with such pollutants as detergents and pesticides flowing into our waters it's a dilemma which will be with us for a long time.

Perhaps we need stronger laws against pollution. But perhaps more importantly we need both personal and public responsibility to face and correct the situations. The experts say that public apathy is one of the biggest stumbling blocks in effective enforcement of pollution cases. and we're inclined to agree.

New York is the only state in the Union which directly touches both the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean.

A WINNER'S KISS . . . JUST OUT OF REACH

BRAND NEW Professional Putting Association champion Bob Williamson flashes the winner's smile as he clutches PPA trophies and accepts another prize from Miss America Donna Axum Sunday after out-putting everyone in sight in the $30 thousand national tourney.

Approximately half of the total land area of the United States is used for pasture and grazing.

Scotty French Sparks Hartley

Hartley squared its Tuesday-Friday High School slate at 4-4 Tuesday night after Scotty French stymied Whitehall on four safeties and 16 whiffs in a 4-3 Hawk conquest.

Terry Moore had a 4 and 4 evening and batted in the tie-breaking score in the last of the seventh with a two-base blow. Mike Fleming went the route for Whitehall on the mound.

Two-Way Tie In A-K Softball Set

While a two-way tie for first place in the first round has yet to be played off this Sunday, the Jewish Center A.K. League rolled into the second round under a full head of steam.

Wolman's Insurance nipped Ontario 11-7 on four runs in their half of the seventh inning. Irv Flox paced a 14-hit attack with four hits, including two doubles and a circuit clout.

AARON DACHNER also hit for the circuit in the win. Ben Weis and Sandy Goldston shared pitching chores for the victory. Larry Lawrence and Norman Krause had home runs as Ontario also collected 14 hits. Jim Jacobs had three hits, including two doubles, while Leon Mark toiled on the mound for the loss.

Reeb's Restaurant blasted B'nai B'rith 15-3 as Julius Margulis' twirled a magnificent 10-hitter. Harvey Roth hit a four bagger for Reebs and Jack Gaiser and Benton Block had three hits each in the win.

Ike Cohen picked up his second loss of the season as Reebs got to him for 23 hits. Irv Smith was the only B'nai B'rith player to get two hits.

HACKMAN REALTY, winless in the first round, broke out to an 11-6 win over Martin's Market as Howard Byer pitched a clever six hit ball game for the win.

Howard Banchefsky and Jules Vogel stroked home runs and Harold Fenner had three for three to pace a 16-hit Hackman attack.

Jules Garel and Stan Freedberg had two hits each for Martins. Bob Masser took the loss.

Classes will be offered for intermediates 9 to 10 a.m., beginners 10 to 11 a.m., and women 11 to 12 noon. These classes will run for four weeks meeting every Tuesday and Thursday. The fee is $5 for Center members.

REEVES AT LACKLAND

Airman Richard R. Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Reeves, 2657 Tudor-rd, has completed the first phase of his Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Williamson Is PPA Champ

The oft-echoed adage about 'If first you don't succeed, etc.' rang clear as a bell Sunday as 26-year-old Bob Williamson, a husky, tattooed metal worker from Jacksonville, Fla., charged from behind to capture $5 thousand and the '64 PPA National Championship crown.

Williamson, who has competed in every Professional Putters Association tourney, was the 'champion in the clubhouse' as a last-ditch effort by two-day leader, Pat Youmans of Savannah, Ga., fell short on number 17.

CHAMPION Williamson, who upped his money earnings to an all-time second-high of $14,006, closed at 359, 73 whacks below par for the 216-hole, three-day tourney.

Youmans, who opened his final round with five straight aces, collected $3 thousand for his runnerup 361 total.

COACHES' CORNER

BOB NOLAN

Q—WHAT IS THE CORRECT PROCEDURE TO FOLLOW IN A RUNDOWN PLAY? A—The "rundown" play shouldn't involve more than two throws and the runner should NEVER get away in a rundown situation.

The idea is the same no matter what bases the runner is caught between. Turn the runner back toward the base he came from as soon as he commits himself to the defense.

A good point for the defensive player to remember in a rundown is to keep the ball in view at all times so your teammates can see it during the play.

WHEN THE RUNNER is trapped off first, the first baseman should trail the runner by three or four feet and run the man toward the shortstop, who should be covering second.

The first baseman should toss the ball to the shortstop and retreat back to his base where the pitcher should be backing up the play. The shortstop pursues the runner back toward first base and makes the tag unassisted or throws to the first sacker who makes the ensuing tag.

If two men are on base and one baserunner is hung up, go for the baserunner that is hung up first and if the other runner attempts to advance, try to always eliminate the front runner.

WHEN TWO men are on base and one runner is trapped, I instruct my infielders to chase the baserunner at a moderate speed so he can watch the other baserunner.

However, if only one man is on base, the infielders should chase the trapped baserunner at full speed.

All coaches should have a set plan on how to create a rundown play on a delayed-steal attempt when baserunners are on first and third base.

THE MAN on first base breaks for second at a slow trot. I have my pitcher back off the pitching rubber and "face" check the runner on third back toward the base.

My second baseman should head straight for the baseline and my shortstop should cover second base.

After the pitcher makes his motion toward third base, he throws to the shortstop on the base or the short man in the baseline who makes the tag or starts the rundown on the runner coming toward second.

Whitehall 9 In Showdown

Don Marcum's Whitehall Merchant nine moved into a first-place deadlock in the Central Ohio Baseball League with Washington C.H. by virtue of a 10-4 win over the Piutes Sunday afternoon.

A big seven-run fourth frame proved the difference for the Merchantmen who now stand 5-1. Bill Dildine sparkled on the mound for Whitehall and gave up only two safeties to the Fayette County crew.

HAL METZGER had a 3 for 4 afternoon that included a bases-loaded triple in Whitehall's big seven-run uprising in the fourth. Dave Reinstein had a pair of singles in the fourth frame.

Bill Hedges (3-1) will start on the mound Sunday afternoon (2 p.m.) for host Whitehall when Washington C.H. comes to town to settle the league's top spot deadlock.

It's Not What You Say But How You Say It

We are sure that all four men will be intentionally impartial.

HOWEVER, most people who put things into words often have difficulty being completely impartial and often subconsciously editorialize one way or the other.

One scout, for example, is a former coach with Green Bay—one of the teams benefitting from the reports. Without being dishonest or unfair, a dual scouting report on a particular player could go something like this:

VINCE: Grab this guy in early round. He's quick through the line and almost unstoppable in open field. Leading scorer (148 points) and scored all his team's points in 22-0 upset of fifth-ranked Miami.

Terrific on defense but was used sparingly due to hip injury. Stands 5-10, 165 pounds, but he's still growing and makes up in speed what he lacks in stature.

Kicked 45-yard field goal into wind against Ohio U. for winning points. Will supply more info later.

Y'ALL COME

Poor old Atlanta, Ga. That beleagured southern city has been promised Finley's Athletics, the pro-football St. Louis Cardinals and now—the Milwaukee Braves, none of which the metropolis seems likely to get.

Remember this, just "thinking it over" has made do-nothings out of a lot of nice people. There are so many things you can do without . . . things such as cars, refrigerators, television or waterfront property. You can do without them, but who wants to? Now—today, come out to Lake Choctaw, just minutes away, and make the buy of a lifetime. You'll be so glad you did. We're open 'til 8 p.m. every day including Sunday.

DIRECTIONS: Take Route 40 West to Summerford Township. Follow Indian Signs to Lake Choctaw.

A WINNER'S KISS . . . JUST OUT OF REACH

BRAND NEW Professional Putting Association champion Bob Williamson flashes the winner's smile as he clutches PPA trophies and accepts another prize from Miss American Donna Axum Sunday after out-putting everyone in sight in the $30 thousand national tourney. At right, two-day leader Pat Youmans looks glumly toward number 18 after his bid to catch Williamson faltered two strokes short in the final round. Playing partner Jim Ryan records score at left.

Approximately half of the total land area of the United States is used for pasture and grazing.

Scotty French Sparks Hartley

Hartley squared its Tuesday-Friday High School slate at 4-4 Tuesday night after Scotty French stymied Whitehall on four safeties and 16 whiffs in a 4-3 Hawk conquest.

Terry Moore had a 4 and 4 evening and batted in the tie-breaking score in the last of the seventh with a two-base blow. Mike Fleming went the route for Whitehall on the mound.

Two-Way Tie In A-K Softball Set

While a two-way tie for first place in the first round has yet to be played off this Sunday, the Jewish Center A.K. League rolled into the second round under a full head of steam.

Wolman's Insurance nipped Ontario 11-7 on four runs in their half of the seventh inning. Irv Flox paced a 14-hit attack with four hits, including two doubles and a circuit clout.

AARON DACHNER also hit for the circuit in the win. Ben Weis and Sandy Goldston shared pitching chores for the victory. Larry Lawrence and Norman Krause had home runs as Ontario also collected 14 hits. Jim Jacobs had three hits, including two doubles, while Leon Mark toiled on the mound for the loss.

Reeb's Restaurant blasted B'nai B'rith 15-3 as Julius Margulis' twirled a magnificent 10-hitter. Harvey Roth hit a four bagger for Reebs and Jack Gaiser and Benton Block had three hits each in the win.

Ike Cohen picked up his second loss of the season as Reebs got to him for 23 hits. Irv Smith was the only B'nai B'rith player to get two hits.

HACKMAN REALTY, winless in the first round, broke out to an 11-6 win over Martin's Market as Howard Byer pitched a clever six hit ball game for the win.

Howard Banchefsky and Jules Vogel stroked home runs and Harold Fenner had three for three to pace a 16-hit Hackman attack.

Jules Garel and Stan Freedberg had two hits each for Martins. Bob Masser took the loss.

Classes will be offered for intermediates 9 to 10 a.m., beginners 10 to 11 a.m., and women 11 to 12 noon. These classes will run for four weeks meeting every Tuesday and Thursday. The fee is $5 for Center members.

REEVES AT LACKLAND

Airman Richard R. Reeves, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Reeves, 2657 Tudor-rd, has completed the first phase of his Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Williamson Is PPA Champ

The oft-echoed adage about 'If first you don't succeed, etc.' rang clear as a bell Sunday as 26-year-old Bob Williamson, a husky, tattooed metal worker from Jacksonville, Fla., charged from behind to capture $5 thousand and the '64 PPA National Championship crown.

Williamson, who has competed in every Professional Putters Association tourney, was the 'champion in the clubhouse' as a last-ditch effort by two-day leader, Pat Youmans of Savannah, Ga., fell short on number 17.

CHAMPION Williamson, who upped his money earnings to an all-time second-high of $14,006, closed at 359, 73 whacks below par for the 216-hole, three-day tourney.

Youmans, who opened his final round with five straight aces, collected $3 thousand for his runnerup 361 total.

COACHES' CORNER

BOB NOLAN

Q—WHAT IS THE CORRECT PROCEDURE TO FOLLOW IN A RUNDOWN PLAY? A—The "rundown" play shouldn't involve more than two throws and the runner should NEVER get away in a rundown situation.

The idea is the same no matter what bases the runner is caught between. Turn the runner back toward the base he came from as soon as he commits himself to the defense.

A good point for the defensive player to remember in a rundown is to keep the ball in view at all times so your teammates can see it during the play.

WHEN THE RUNNER is trapped off first, the first baseman should trail the runner by three or four feet and run the man toward the shortstop, who should be covering second.

The first baseman should toss the ball to the shortstop and retreat back to his base where the pitcher should be backing up the play. The shortstop pursues the runner back toward first base and makes the tag unassisted or throws to the first sacker who makes the ensuing tag.

If two men are on base and one baserunner is hung up, go for the baserunner that is hung up first and if the other runner attempts to advance, try to always eliminate the front runner.

WHEN TWO men are on base and one runner is trapped, I instruct my infielders to chase the baserunner at a moderate speed so he can watch the other baserunner.

However, if only one man is on base, the infielders should chase the trapped baserunner at full speed.

All coaches should have a set plan on how to create a rundown play on a delayed-steal attempt when baserunners are on first and third base.

THE MAN on first base breaks for second at a slow trot. I have my pitcher back off the pitching rubber and "face" check the runner on third back toward the base.

My second baseman should head straight for the baseline and my shortstop should cover second base.

After the pitcher makes his motion toward third base, he throws to the shortstop on the base or the short man in the baseline who makes the tag or starts the rundown on the runner coming toward second.

Whitehall 9 In Showdown

Don Marcum's Whitehall Merchant nine moved into a first-place deadlock in the Central Ohio Baseball League with Washington C.H. by virtue of a 10-4 win over the Piutes Sunday afternoon.

A big seven-run fourth frame proved the difference for the Merchantmen who now stand 5-1. Bill Dildine sparkled on the mound for Whitehall and gave up only two safeties to the Fayette County crew.

HAL METZGER had a 3 for 4 afternoon that included a bases-loaded triple in Whitehall's big seven-run uprising in the fourth. Dave Reinstein had a pair of singles in the fourth frame.

Bill Hedges (3-1) will start on the mound Sunday afternoon (2 p.m.) for host Whitehall when Washington C.H. comes to town to settle the league's top spot deadlock.

FOOD MARKET THIS WEEK:

Tips Offered On Canning And Freezing

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — watermelons, lemons, plums, grapes, cantaloupes.

This is peak season to reach for your canning and freezing equipment — to capture the good fresh flavor of summertime vegetables and fruit for wintertime meals.

Whether you raise the product yourself or buy it at a market, food you put up yourself is always something special. When vegetables or fruit are at their best for table use is usually the time to can or freeze them. This ideal time, as a rule coincides with peak of harvest . . . the time when supply, quality and price are all in your favor.

Mrs. Franks

Cardinal rules for successful home preservation are: (1) Get the product at its peak of freshness. It probably isn't worth your time and money, to can or freeze "what's left over," if high quality isn't there. (2) Use the correct method of processing. For home canning these general rules hold:

For fruit, tomatoes and pickled vegetables, use a boiling-water bath canner. You can process these acid foods safely in boiling water.

For all common vegetables except tomatoes, use a steam-pressure canner. To process these low-acid foods in a reasonable length of time takes a temperature higher than that of boiling water. Be sure the pressure gauge is accurate and process the full time prescribed.

Four free bulletins are available at our office on food preservation that could get even a "first timer" through the canning and freezing season with success. They are:

—Freezing and Using Vegetables, Fruit and Prepared Foods (OSU)

—Home Canning of Fruit and Vegetables (USDA)

—How To Make Jellies, Jams and Preserves At Home (USDA)

—Making Pickles and Relishes At Home (USDA)

If you want one or more of these bulletins drop a card or phone the Franklin County Extension Office, Room 317, Old Post Office, Columbus 43215. Phone 221-6411, Ext. 454.

Each year during the canning season we get calls asking, "Is it safe to use aspirin as a preservative in canned foods?" It seems that such a recipe was clipped some years ago and is still being passed around. The answer is NO.

Aspirin is acetyl salicylic acid. When in solution it becomes acetic and salicylic acid. The latter is a powerful preservative, destructive of any kind of microorganism, but it is a severe corrosive agent to the intestinal tract. The use of aspirin in commercially canned food is prohibited by the state and federal pure food and drug laws.

Fruit and vegetables may be successfully canned by sterilizing with heat, and there is no reason for running any risk by use of preserving powders. Do your neighbor a good turn by passing this information along.

Plenty of ROOM!

Have you ever, when on a vacation, in the peak of the tourist season, looked and looked along the highway for a roadside park with an empty table so that your family could have a picnic lunch and rest? Then, of course, all might travel refreshed. How nice it is to come upon a park like this one, with the breeze blowing across the water.

Isn't it wonderful that there is always plenty of room at the House of God? There is always a church where you can receive spiritual food, and sweet rest of the soul. The church holds out its arms in welcome to all, inviting everyone to come and learn of God. Won't you attend this week?

"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Matthew 11:28.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH . . . THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Southwest Communities Opens Columbus Office

Don Cossman, formerly sales director for the Chicago office of Southwest Communities, Inc, has been appointed head of the firm's new Columbus office, which is located at 1646 W. Lane-av in Upper Arlington.

Cossman

Southwest Communities is one of the largest land development firms in the Southwest. The firm specializes in land and home sales in the states of Arizona, New Mexico and West Texas.

A veteran of 15 years of sales management, marketing and merchandising experience, Cossman will direct the information center section in addition to his duties as sales director. The new Southwest Communities office will, in addition to sales development, function as an information center for numerous Southwest landowners in the Columbus area.

A former lieutenant commander in the Navy, Cossman served as administrative assistant to Admiral "Bull" Halsey during World War II.

Local Man Crushed In Train Wreck

A Columbus man and two others were killed in a train wreck near Pittsburgh, Pa., early July 1.

Carmen J. Blundo, 57, of 345 S. Ashburton-rd, engineer of a 39-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train which plowed into the rear of a stopped train was pronounced dead in the wreckage before rescuers could free him.

The three men were working in the engine when Blundo realized there was a stopped train in front of him and applied the emergency brakes.

It was too late, however, and the train plowed into the caboose ahead. A freight car located immediately behind the engine driven by Blundo crashed into the engine and pinned the three workers.

Blundo is survived by his wife, Bertha.

July Specials For Tweens Set At Center

July will feature four Tween Specials at the Jewish Center, starting Tuesday, July 7, with a splash party, relay races, diving for a watermelon and for coins, and other games.

A fee of 35 cents will cover the evening and refreshments will be served.

Telephone Exchange Switches To Area's New Facility, July 19

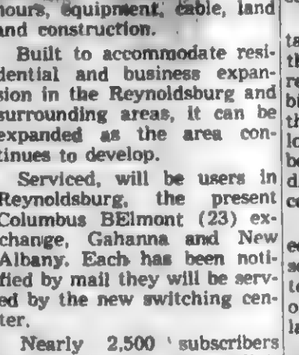
The Ohio Bell Co. announced the new Reynoldsburg Telephone Exchange, 1260 McNaughten-rd, will go into operation with the flip of a switch during the middle of the night, Sunday, July 19.

The exchange is expected to provide service improvements to nearly 8,000 customers. The completed operation represents $2,300,000 in man-hours, equipment, cable, land and construction.

Built to accommodate residential and business expansion in the Reynoldsburg and surrounding areas, it can be expanded as the area continues to develop.

Serviced, will be users in Reynoldsburg, the present Columbus BElmont (23) exchange, Gahanna and New Albany. Each has been notified by mail they will be served by the new switching center.

Nearly 2,500 subscribers have received new seven-digit telephone numbers with the prefix "866." Subscribers already having phone numbers beginning with "866" or UNion-6, will not get a number change.



Service improvements introduced by the new exchange are:

- Subscribers with "866" or UNion-6 telephone numbers will no longer have to dial "240" to reach a party in the greater Columbus calling area, except when calling Galena.
- Calls within the new exchange will be handled in about five seconds, about half the time it now takes. However, calls to most other points in Columbus will still take about 10 seconds because of differences in exchange equipment.
- When dialing long distance from "866" telephones, the calling number will be recorded automatically for billing purposes. This means that the customer will no longer have to give his number to the operator and long distance calls will go through completely uninterrupted.
- The new exchange is equipped for Touch - Tone service, featuring push-button telephones which will be offered in the "866" exchange late this fall.

Due to the equipment's speed, a hesitation of more than eight seconds while dialing may cause a high pitched signal. If this happens, it will be necessary to redial the call.

In addition, within several seconds after a phone call has been completed from an "866" telephone, the equipment will disconnect that line, preventing it from being tied up for any length of time.

Crusade Objectives Worthy

The long anticipated Evangelistic Crusade of Dr. Billy Graham will begin Friday evening at Jet Stadium. We commend the meetings to the community at large, and particularly to the skeptics; to those who fail to recognize a spiritual life which transcends denominational religion.

In his appeal to Christians to find a rebirth in Christ, Billy Graham avoids the doctrinal. He dwells, instead, on the mainspring of all religions — the personal, spiritual union between the Creator and the created.

It is not surprising that those responding to Dr. Graham's invitation to make a "Decision for Christ" average less than four percent of his audience. Most of those who attend the "Crusades" have long before made such a decision, and are already members in good standing of various churches. They are in attendance to give witness to their faith, and to gain spiritual refreshment.

Though Dr. Graham may face thousands, his words are directed to each member of the audience as an individual. He asks not that his listeners follow him, but that they accept Christ. He offers a simple solution to the problems of a complicated people; reminding us that the answer, while simple is not necessarily easy to accept.

Billy Graham should be particularly welcome in the Columbus area, where only 40 percent of the populace claim membership on any church roster. He does not need our wish for success, because, in doing God's bidding for him, his success is already assured.

Instead, we say: "Welcome Billy Graham. May you leave behind you a generous measure of the spiritual contentment and zeal that is so desperately needed by so many of us."

New Pool Is Sure To Save Lives

Mother dear, may we go swimming?
Yes, my son and daughter
If you go to Sunshine Park
For clean, protected water.

The first Columbus-built municipal pool is now in operation at Sunshine Park. The outdoor facility is more than the keeping of a campaign pledge to build the swimming pools authorized by voters in 1960. It is much more important for the lives it will surely save..

The facility is available to all residents of Metropolitan Columbus, and there is little doubt that it will draw capacity crowds on most summer days. And the most important feature—swimming lessons for the youngsters—will be free of any charge. Classes will be conducted from 10 a.m. until noon on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.

We cannot predict that "X" number of youngsters will not die in the Scioto River or in some unguarded quarry because the Sunshine Park facility is now available. But it is a good bet that the guarded pool and the swimming lessons will combine to save lives.

The facility will also offer swimming for Senior Citizens only on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. until noon. And it is also reported that swimming classes for adults will be made available if enough requests are received.

Admission prices are reasonable for the 12 noon until 8 p.m. regular swimming hours. In all, the facility is a welcome addition to the city's total recreation program.

In the Good Old Summertime

Guest Pulpit . . .

"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit ye like men, be strong." I Cor. 16:13.

In effect, Paul is telling the Christians at Corinth to be careful or they will be acting more like the world than the world. The Christians in this great ancient city had misunderstood many of Christ's precepts, and even incorporated heathen practices into their worship. Paul's directive to them was to abandon their former beliefs and adhere entirely to the teachings of Jesus Christ.

Let us not think that Paul's words should die with that ancient city, for they are applicable for us today. There is too much of a tendency in man, and even in Christian men, to lose interest in sacred things. It is for this reason that even I Peter records these words: "Be sober, be vigilant, because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour."

Rev. Godorhazy

The problem is that too many Christians are prone to exhibit a laxity in church work, attendance, offerings, testimony, etc. Christians must watch or their spiritual interests will wane. Throughout his letter Paul encourages the people at Corinth to study, work, pray, help, love, live in the power of Christ. We must also watch because temptation is ever present and no man is stronger than the weakest point in his nature. It is like the chain with the weak link; if it goes, the entire chain is useless. If the Christian is weak in temper, in patience, or ignores the weak, or fails to help the sinner, or a fellow Christian, his testimony is ruined. His efforts for Christ wasted. His work is for naught.

As Paul admonishes, let us "stand fast in the faith," holding to the traditions which we have been taught. To "stand fast" a Christian must always be true to Jesus Christ. That means undivided diligence, no split devotion. One must follow with dedication the teachings, precepts, practices and beliefs of Christ. Christ wants it all yea, yea, with no lukewarm attitudes.

As you daily receive God's challenge to live a Christ-centered life, seek out His Grace to help you live it.

May His Blessing rest upon you.

George Godorhazy, pastor
Hilltonia E.U.B. Church

One Woman's Opinion

Where does "Planning" end and bureaucratic paternalism begin?

And from there, how far away is the path to socialism?

Franklin County's burgeoning growth has indisputably called for blueprinting of the future.

But can American capitalism, American initiative, American "up-from-the bootstraps" philosophy—in short, the American dream—be blueprinted?

Recently a professional planner stated, "Today, in planning, the individual has no rights. Our planning must be done for the people."

He was reviewing a local planning commission's refusal to rezone land for a new business.

The entrepreneur's proposal had Mrs. Robinson met the objection that the individual lacked the know-how and capitalization of a large corporate body, and he might fail.

The objection was valid.

But the United States has been built by men who bit off more than their neighbors believed they could chew.

Our history books are filled with the endeavors of those who succeed.

Failures miss these pages; but in a sprawling new world each man's failures have been "his own funeral."

Planning goes too far when the privilege to fail is denied.

This is not because failure is enviable.

But unless the opportunity to fail is kept inviolate, with it the chance to succeed perishes.

Let's not stop planning.

Little men with big ideas and the guts to carry them out are still the backbone of the nation.

—JANE ROBINSON

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Modern Miss Has Edge On Beauty

I am thumbing through the monthly magazine of my wife's college sorority and all of a sudden the happiest thought of the year has struck me. It seems that American women are getting prettier.

I don't mean better made up, or better dressed, or more adroitly coiffured. I mean prettier.

You see, the editor has dug up these old photos of the Zeta chapter in 1889 and Delta chapter of '92, etc. and most of them look like a blind date's premonition. And then you turn over to the pictures of the Class of 1964 and the percentage of honeys is high.

Now it is true that 75 years ago the majority of girls who went to college were "dedicated." "Dedicated" meant they didn't have bright prospects of early marriage, so they were preparing for careers, mainly teaching. Among any group of dedicated women you are going to find a lot of stringy hair, tractor tire middles and drumstick noses. After all, if you're female neither pretty nor rich the only smart thing to do is get dedicated.

And the photographers of the day didn't give the pioneer coeds any breaks. The old-time flash powder washed out all expression and the time exposure poses were necessarily wooden. Furthermore, you could knock quite a lot of native beauty down for the count if you surmounted it with a ratted top-knot, slapped on some pince-nez glasses and draped the frame in tents of lace and bales of crepe.

As you study the faded photos you can certainly see here and there a gal who, with a modern paint job and proper upholstery, could bowl 'em over at this year's military ball. But she didn't have much company.

Long ago, of course, the prettiest girls were married off at high school age and never saw college. Today the prettiest girls intent on advantageous marriages, head for colleges as lemmings head for the sea. And with sororities bucking each other for beauty queens it's not surprising that sorority publications often look like the albums of a model agency.

But, maybe there's something more.

The late anthropologist, Dr. Ralph Linton of Yale, claimed that there is a mysterious something about America that alters the human physiognomy. Mediterranean peoples for example, are "dolichocephalic" or long-headed, and Scandinavians are usually "brachycephalic" or broad-headed. But, even if the bloodlines remain pure children born in America tend to develop into "mesocephalics" or middle-headed people.

The professor even asserted that careful measurements showed that a child born to Italian parents 10 years after their immigration to America was likely to have a squarer head than the Italian-born brothers and sisters, while the American-born child of Swedish parents was likely to have a longer index than its older brothers and sisters. This is hard to believe, but I'm quoting an eminent authority.

There does seem to be such a thing as an "American look." In any European airport, where travelers are dressed pretty much alike, you can generally spot the Americans 100 feet away.

Then, too, of course, there is our mongreilization. While every nationality has its share of handsome men and ravishing women some unfavorable characteristics tend to show up with greater frequency where there is little mixing with other nationalities. The English, for example, haven't had any major infusion of new blood since the Norman Conquest and the English now have a high incidence of bucktoothery.

By the time the fifth American generation rolls around, however, we are likely to see in our white citizens an amalgam of Scandinavian, Middle European, Celtic, Gallic, Anglo-Saxon and Latin blood which, while it by no means guarantees feminine beauty, at least tends to smooth over the weak points of the old, pure nationalities. Your girl's name may be Smith, but that bit of colleen from Great-Grandmother McGuire and the touch of Magyar from Grandfather Sobieski may be just what a Smith needs to become a prom queen.

Our modern American beauties have, of course, learned all the tricks. The pioneer woman lived out in heat and cold and washed her face in lye soap. No wonder that by 30 she began to develop the complexion of a saddlebag. Today, from sixth grade our daughters goop themselves up with creams, shampoos, tints and scents that are often outrageously overpriced but that are by no means ineffective.

The sense of comeliness is so well ingrained in our girls that even insanely unbecoming fads like sack dresses, cloche hats, beehive hairdos and white lipstick are shortlived. The feverish search for new styles may bring back the Mother Hubbard as it brought back the Empress Eugenie hat, but only for a day. American women may be silly, but they are not blind.

And that is wonderful. They have never been so good to look at. As Keats said, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Friday night, June 19, will be a fond memory for me the remaining of my God given years as a lifelong harness racing buff.

With school out, I figured I had a "night out" coming and I phoned Scioto Downs and started the process to get out there and relax a bit after a long busy winter and spring. Some gal who is "sharp on the phone" answered. I was so impressed with her alertness and warm public relations sense that I just had to ask her name. Cheryl Coffey. She is rapidly becoming a personality out there same as the "one and only Ginny" out at the Jets Stadium.

About an hour later Chuck Stokes called me and instantly I sensed that he was putting performance into his job as director of publicity for Scioto Downs. It is refreshing beyond words to encounter such "outgiving" psychology in any outfit. Chuck's wall is plastered with certificates of appreciation from clubs where he has appeared as guest speaker.

We had a delightful half-hour visit and he gave me a fine peg on which to hang this sentimental testimony in favor of the rapid comeback of harness racing all over the country. For 60 years I have been seeing all of the racing plants all over this country. Scioto Downs is a jewel of beauty and efficiency. Mention should also be made of the marvelous job Stacy Hall's boys do handling a jam-packed capacity audience and overflowing parking lot.

The big thrill of course was watching in awe the performance of the "one and only" Overtrick. I saw this amazing pacer win the Little Brown Jug at Delaware last fall and as a four-year-old he seems sharper than ever and wins so easily. Mrs. Helen Buck, Far Hill, N.J., owner of this almost unbelievable standard bred champion, deserves highest gratitude from Scioto Downs and all of the harness fans in Ohio.

The Scioto Downs plant is at least 10 years ahead of its time. Other great sporting events, especially baseball and football may well strive to create so fine an atmosphere.

SELLING ON SUNDAY

Again the problem of Sunday sales is being argued. It's a question that may be insoluble, and surely will never be solved to the entire satisfaction of everyone.

This desk offers a few ideas for what they may be worth.

First, it is everyone's obligation to recognize, though not necessarily to agree with, the opinions of others about ethics and morality, and to respect the religious beliefs of minority groups about what day they observe as their Sabbath. With this exception, when we speak of Sunday sales we are talking about a place of business that opens seven days a week, including Sundays.

Law officers and prosecutors hesitate to take alleged violators to courts that differ in their interpretations of the laws. There is doubt, too, in many minds about just what the people want—strict enforcement or wide-open violations.

Perhaps the one thing about which most would agree would be a needed clarification of state laws by the General Assembly. That alone should clear up many other dilemmas. And it should not be a too complicated task to simplify the laws or repeal them, either by direct action or by referendum.

The people, enough of them, if they wish, can settle the question by immutable laws of economics.

Sunday sales may be a matter of indifference to those who see no need to reserve one day a week to refresh body, mind, and spirit. We make two suggestions to those (a majority, we believe), who think otherwise. First, speak your piece to store managers. They'll listen. Then, don't buy anything, any time, from any business that stays open seven days a week.

It says here . . .

No business can survive without a profit.

Papers 'Never Better'

To the Publisher:

I would like to congratulate you on the accomplishments of your newspapers in recent weeks. They are performing a real service in the community.

Certainly the Spectator has never been better than in its coverage of de facto segregation in Columbus Public Schools and the proposed Scioto Conservancy District dam.

You have provided the most comprehensive and perhaps the only honest reporting on these issues available to the people of Columbus.

While a successful newspaper requires the efforts of many individuals, I would specifically like to commend the work of Frank Ryan and Betty Daft.

Scouts Thank All

To The Editor:

A great Boy Scout Exposition is now a fond memory.

Words seem inadequate to express our appreciation for your outstanding assistance—but on behalf of the 15,000 Scouts and Leaders who took part and the thousands of people who enjoyed the exposition—may we say, most sincerely, THANKS!

Warns Handicapped

To The Editor:

The exploitation of people by other people is not uncommon. I venture to guess, most everyone has come in contact with it at least once in their life.

Recently, I was a target for exploitation.

Being handicapped is not the greatest asset when you are trying to find a job, but those persons who are hiring the handicapped for purposes of selling magazines on sympathy pleas should be brought to the attention of the public. These agencies are degrading the handicapped men and women who are trying to earn an honest living for themselves and their families!

Playing on the sympathy of others is the worst thing a handicapped person can do.

Like Rights Editorial

To The Editor:

We certainly are most appreciative of the ideas expressed in the editorial (School-Rights Accord Seen, June 24-25, Spectator) and do trust that the school board will take seriously both the recommendations in our position paper as well as the admonitions expressed in your editorial.

Community Resources, Inc., is most happy to be able to serve this role of a focal point of communication and coordination on this and related matters. We only trust that our efforts in this direction will continue to receive the kind of support as indicated in your editorial. There is no substitute for meaningful dialogue and positive community action. To these we are definitely committed.

Russell M. Jones, executive director

To the Publisher:

May I express my personal appreciation for the editorial, "School-Rights Accord Seen," which appeared in the June 25 edition of the Spectator? It is always gratifying to have the interest of citizens in the welfare of the public schools.

Your position gives indication of deep insight into a very real and present issue confronting this community. I believe your position to be a reasonable one, and your judgments entirely sound. How fortunate that the editorial should reach the expanded readership which you have served very ably in recent weeks.

I hope this community will always have the benefit of your clear comments and reasoned judgments.

With children this is great,
For mothers it arouses fear
About their children's fate.

Outside instead of school they are,
Playing at such a pace.
When crossing streets they heed not cars,
Or careless drivers that will race.

If motorists their help would give,
By driving safely, at all times,
Their children will have a chance to live,
And so will yours and mine.

AT LODGE

THE NICHOLS, BeBe and Tim, are now appearing nightly at Lincoln Lodge.

Two years ago it was forecast that in 1964 homes would be characterized by a "touch of autumn" with rich, warm woodland colors combined with wheat field golds and Indian summer skies dominating the decorating scene.

Playwright Will Arrive For Tryout

OSU Stadium Theatre will present the pre-New York tryout engagement of John Murray's new farce-satire on segregation, "The Prince of Mandalore," beginning next Tuesday, July 14.

To help with the final preparations, the author will arrive in Columbus on July 9 to aid the director, Donald Glancy.

"The Prince of Mandalore" is based on a case of mistaken identity. Three Negro actors touring colleges in the Southern United States are mistaken by the white civic leaders of a community for the Prince of Mandalore and his retainers.

The civic leaders hope the Prince will invest in a scheme to boost on the economy of the region based on the vast timber resources.

The complications of the play revolve around the leaders efforts to woo the good opinion of the "prince" and get his money. Of course the imposters take advantage of the situation to manipulate the whote leaders to better the situation of the local Negroes, including voter registration.

"The Prince of Mandalore" was produced last spring at the Karamu Theatre in Cleveland, where it was received with great praise.

BARGAINS FOR SOUL

REHEARSING A SCENE from "Dama Yankees," the Kenley Players production now playing at Veterans Memorial, are Bert Parks (left), Peggy Wathen and Lawrence Vincent. Parks, playing Mr. Applegate (the Devil), attempts to keep Joe Boyd (Vincent) from returning to his wife Meg (Peggy Wathen). In return for his soul, Applegate has made Boyd an outstanding ball player who helps a down and out team beat the New York Yankees.

Williams' 'Night Of Iguana' POG Offering, July 13-18

"The Night of the Iguana," described by New York critics as Tennessee Williams' most compassionate play, will begin a one-week engagement at Playhouse-on-the-Green next Monday, July 13.

The play's action involves four rootless people whose paths cross at a resort hotel in Mexico at a time when matters are desperate for all of them.

Operating the hotel is a predatory, sensual widow who does not seem very concerned over the recent loss of her husband. She is taken with a handsome, charming, weak and utterly lost travel guide who had served previously as a minister until he was defrocked.

To the hotel comes a New England spinster who has been wandering for years with her poet grandfather, earning their living by sketching portraits of tourists and hotel guests.

The encounter of these four sets off explosive interactions between them, as the women are drawn into rivalry for the possession of the profligate ex-minister. This stage drama won the New York Critics' Circle Award as the best play of its season.

NEW ADVENTURES IN CAREFREE LIVING—THE FABULOUS
World's Fair House
BUILT BY Portrait Homes
Come out today and tour this exciting World's Fair House! It's truly a showcase of intriguing new home products built into an imaginative plan.
A three-bedroom "T"-shaped ranch of pale pink brick and natural stained cedar siding, the Formica World's Fair House is located on a beautifully landscaped lot with gas yard light and a wide drive leading from the two-car garage. There's patios, too; a delightfully private little patio just outside the sliding glass doors in the master bedroom, and a rear patio off the family room is equipped with a gas-fired grill.
You'll find indoor living extra comfortable the year around in this completely air conditioned all gas World's Fair House. The inviting foyer has easy access to the master bedroom bath. There's another full bath, too; and both baths have Formica vanities and walls. You'll admire the formal dining room and make mental notes of the many possibilities for furniture placement in the spacious living room. The U-shaped kitchen has built-in gas RCA-Whirlpool range and oven, and easy-to-care-for Formica cabinets in colorful tones of beige and pumpkin. The spacious 17' x 19' family room features Formica panelling, built-in bookshelves, exposed beam ceiling, Acrylite sky lights, corner brick fireplace, and French doors leading to the rear patio. For extra storage space and recreation, there's a full basement, painted and waterproofed.
Visit the World's Fair House today! We're sure this is one home you'll remember and want for your own.

Revolutionary Twist Given Old Theme

An historical bedroom comedy, set in Connecticut during the era of three-cornered hats and knee pants, opened Monday at Playhouse-on-the Green.

The play, "Pursuit of Happiness," primarily concerns the practice of "bundling" and is set during the American Revolution. Although some may be revolted by the mass appeal comedy, others may be informed and even prompted to revive the custom.

At the beginning of the play, the actors stumbled over the dialect. All roles were well-played, although the production lacked pacing on opening night.

Ray Girardin admirably portrays the impish Austrian who deserts to the revolutionists for the "pursuit of happiness." Beth Brickell is daughter of a farmer. Bruce charming as the pursued Blaine, Donald Barton and Peter Harris gave able performances.

AT POG

BETH Brickell and Ray Girardin play leading roles in "Pursuit of Happiness," a comedy now at Playhouse-on-the-Green. The play continues through Saturday, July 11.

Horses On Show In 4-H Event

The 4-H Equestrian Show will be held on Saturday, July 18 at the Franklin County Fairgrounds, Hilliard. This show is open to all 4-H members, and the qualifying classes will be held in the morning.

The show is also open to the general public and anyone under 18 may enter the afternoon open classes with both trophies and money prizes given. Lunch and refreshments will be served on the grounds.

Schedule Movies

The following movies are scheduled to be shown on Wednesday, July 8, at Blacklick Woods, and Thursday, July 9, at Blendon Woods Metropolitan Parks:

"Britain Is a Garden," Britain's famous gardens and flower shows including the tropical gardens of Tresco Abbey, the Chelsea Flower Show and the rose garden of Serriaghy.

"The Whooping Crane" tells the story of whooping cranes and their protection.

All movies begin at dusk.

PICNIC PLANNED

The National Association of the Physically Handicapped will hold its annual installation and picnic July 11, 2:30 pm., at the home of the president, Ted Kanmacher, 992 Chambers-cr. The club is open to handicapped and non-handicapped persons. Non-handicapped members are needed to do committee work.

West High Class of '59 Sets Reunion

The gathering will start at 5:30 p.m. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m., followed by entertainment and dancing.

The cost is $3 per person and reservations must be in by Friday, July 10. All reservations are to be mailed to Janet Dye, 92 N. Roys-av. Further information is available from Janet Dye at BR. 9-3021 or Dan Alder at 279-3606.

Summer Music Programs Set

Summer programs for cool, air-conditioned Mershon Auditorium on the OSU campus have been announced.

The School of Music Summer Quarter Orchestra will present a concert at 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 15. This will be followed by a concert by the Summer Quarter Chorus at 8 p.m. Friday, July 17.

The Summer Quarter Band will present the concluding program of the series Tuesday, July 21, at 8 p.m. Admission is free, and public is invited.

Park Plans Moth Hike

Evening walks on the metropolitan park trails are scheduled for Friday, July 10, at Darby Creek Park.

Trees along the trails will be baited with a solution of syrup, water and mashed fruit about an hour before sunset. At dusk participants with flashlights will accompany a naturalist, observing moths, bugs, camel crickets, and many other creatures which are attracted to the fragrant bait.

Participants meet the naturalist at the Trading Post at dusk. The public is invited to participate.

PLAYGROUND REPORTS

Sectional Track Meets Head Playground Week

Three playground sectional track meets are being conducted this week by the Columbus Recreation Department.

The north meet, for playgrounds in the Linden and North section of the city, will be held at Linden McKinley High School track on Wednesday, July 8; the central meet, for the west and central sections of the city, will be held at Central High stadium on Thursday, July 9; the south meet, for the south and eastern sections, will be held at South High's track on Friday, July 10.

All meets will be held at the same time of day. The events for the nine and under age group will start at 12:45 p.m. as will events for the 10 and 11 age groups. The 14 and 15 age group and the 16 and 17 age group events will start at 5:45 p.m. Contestants must enter only those events which correspond to his or her age as of Aug. 8, 1964, and cannot enter more than three events.

Participants may enter only the sectional meet in their area. These meets are held in order to give boys and girls more experience in competing in track and field events and to help them prepare for the Junior Olympics Track and Field Meet at OSU on Aug. 8. Participants do not have to win in a sectional meet in order to be in the Junior Olympics meet, but they must have an entry blank, which can be secured from any playground leader.

Reports from area playgrounds follow:

At Scottwood . . .

Scottwood Playground's summer program, under the direction of Geoerge Fillinger and Barbara Hall, is once more in full swing.

Winners of Scottwood Pet Show, held June 25, were the pets of Jody Reisdorf and Julie Butsko, prettiest; Lynn Bommer and Kathy Nuzwan, best groomed; Pam Allerding and Karen Nelson, most unusual; Donna Robbins and George Fauris, most obedient; Kevin Post and Roxanne Ault, best costumed.

Todd Hunter and Pam Ault, largest; Julie Butsko and Nancy Mara, best performer; Corinne Shaevitz and Roxanne Ault, cutest; Karen Nelson and Sherrie Ault, smallest, and Tereasa Wray and Brian Murray, most affectionate.

Pam Ault's dog Jule won first prize for the most obedient pet at the sectional show at Schiller Park.

Jo Ellen Traphagan won the sectional horseshoe tournament in the junior girls' division which qualified her to compete in the city-wide tournament at Sunshine Recreation Center.

Boys and girls from Scottwood, looking forward to a week at Indian Village Day Camp, are Albert and Mike Yankulov, Kathie, Connie, and Barbara Nuzum, Bob Traphagan, Karen West, Corinne Shaevitz, and Sherrie and Robin Morgan

Junior Jet baseball season has started with four teams in the eight and nine-year-old league, and four in the 10 to 12 year-old league. Teams Two and Three have won in the younger league, and teams Four and One have won in the older league.

Physical fitness testing is held every Wednesday and Friday at 3 and arts and crafts session at 12:30 — on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday for grades one to four, and on Tuesdays and Thursays for grades five and over.

Place 3-Mill Levy On Bexley Ballot

Bexley Council Tuesday night approved a resolution permitting a renewal of the city's present three-mill levy to be placed on the November ballot.

Although the levy could be made permanent by amendment to the city's charter, it was members' decision not to give "future councils a blank check; people should be allowed to vote on it each time."

The proposed budget of $458,710 for the coming year was also approved by council.

Legislation to rescind the ordinance making Euclaire-av one-way from Main to Mound-st was tabled, with the decision that the measure would not be enforced until further study war made of the city's recommended traffic changes.

The one - way ordinance, passed in May on the basis of recommendations made in Bexley's traffic study, kicked up a storm of protests from residents.

Council bowed to their will, and the law has never been enforced.

Euclaire was one of several streets suggested for one-way traffic between Main and Mound in the traffic engineer's report.

An ordinance was also passed to proceed with planned improvements on Astor-av, from Sheridan-av west.

Recreation Important

The recreation aspect of the currently discussed dam projects is most important as is attested by a news story from a Sandusky paper last week.

It warned people to stay away from the already overjammed state parks on Lake Erie and went on to say that the situation was almost as bad a. all other state parks.

Central Ohioans will do well to insist on getting as much recreation area as possible.

POOL PARTY SET FRIDAY IN BEXLEY

SWIMMING AND DANCING under the stars, with members of Bexley High's Junior Class as hosts, is planned Friday, July 17, 8:45 to 11 p.m., at the city swimming pool on Jeffrey Mansion grounds. Free refreshments are included in the admission price of $1 a person. All Bexley residents are invited and tickets are available at the door. Proceeds will help finance next year's Junior-Senior Prom. Casual or swim wear is suggested. All high school students, alumni and college students home for vacation and members of the 1954 class in town for their reunion are especially invited. Phil Leyoff, Junior Class president, is at lower right, and members of the Four Dimensions, who will play for dancing are, from left, Jeff Bloom, Charles Barkam, Bob Karr, Tom Myers and Fritz Laird. In the event of bad weather the affair will be held the following Friday, July 24.

Springs To Close Academy

Announcement that St. Mary of The Springs Academy will close in June, 1966, was made last week by letter to parents of students enrolled at the high school.

Decision was made to close the 132-year-old institution by the Dominican Sisters, in favor of using all the school facilities to expand the college.

The opening of new diocesan high schools, and the ready availability of a parochial high school education for girls was cited, along with financial difficulties of St. Mary of The Springs, as reasons for the move.

The Springs' elementary school closed several years ago, although a kindergarten is still operated.

All registrations for the academy this year and next are also being accepted.

The college, now 39 years old, has 376 full time students enrolled in a four-year course and there are 235 enrolled in the all-girl high school. The conversion of the entire school for college use will substantially expand the program.

$5.6 Million Freeway Phase To Start Soon

Work on the segment of the East Freeway from Alum Creek to James-rd, including the widening of Rt. 33 north of the freeway and the James-rd extension, is expected to get under way within two weeks.

Cost of the segment, one of five involved in the freeway construction, will be $5.6 million.

The first phase of the East Freeway, from Ohio-av to the Parsons-Fulton interchange, is now about 13 percent completed, according to the monthly expressway report.

A FAMILY goes forth to accept Billy Graham's calling.

Sit-In At Jet Stadium Best Demonstration Yet

By JANET MICHAEL

You have to hear Billy Graham for yourself.

An article can tell you what he says . . . a friend can spark your interest, but it takes Billy Graham in person to convey the message.

Graham has nothing new to say. He is simply a new man with an old message. But, his conviction, his forcefulness and his sincerity have drawn thousands to the platform since the opening night, July 10.

"Hunger" is the word Graham often uses to describe the feelings of people today. He cites the various ways we try to attain happiness. Some look for it in the bottom of a bottle, but when the bottle is empty, it's not happiness staring back at us, it's just an empty bottle.

So, we look somewhere else and when it can't be found in our material world, we become confused and lonely.

"Look to the Cross," pleads Graham. Christ has come and died for your sins From the Cross, the grace, the mercy and the love of God says to you: 'I love you, I want to forgive you'."

And they go forward. Not to Graham, but to what he represents. They go apparently because they are lost and hungry and because they know no man can find happiness without the Lord.

On Monday night, the entire Crusade budget was met and the offerings taken during the remainder of meetings will be used to finance telecasts of the crusade. Three of these meetings will be televised from coast to coast early in September.

Cochran Urges More Local Support Proof

By FRANK RYAN

The controversy remains sharp but the conclusions are out of focus in the argument over who should build the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects.

Two main points — the alleged "iffiness" of the Corps of Engineers' plan and a switch in emphasis from flood control to water supply by SCD backers — highlighted the July 8 public hearing before Columbus City Council.

Col. Harrington W. Cochran, chief engineer of the Huntington District of the Corps of Engineers, began his presentation to council by making clear that his intention was to explain the Army plan, not defend it.

"I am not here to apologize at all for what the Corps of Engineers has done," he told council and about 150 spectators. He said that he was not present to debate, or get into political issues. "We build only in response to public demand," he said

Cochran explained that regulations consistent with submissions of a proposed budget to Congress prohibited any pre-announcement of what items would be included. But he left little doubt in his presentation that the request for appropriations for construction of the two local projects would be in the original budget.

Repeatedly, he stressed that the Alum Creek project carries a number one priority in Scioto River Basin plans. He said he had discussed the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects with the Corps' chief engineer in Washington, and

Civil Rightists Plan Protest

By BETTY DAFT

A demonstration "by people who want to show visibly their concern about de facto segregation" is planned for Saturday, Aug. 1, 2 to 4 p.m. on the site of the new Monroe Junior High School, Monroe-av at Leonard-av, according to Russell Jones, executive director Community Resources, Inc.

The demonstration, to be staged rain or shine, is planned, Jones said, "to protest the further building of segregated schools, and the reassignment of Negroes from integrated schools to those which will be segregated.

"It was started as a community thing, by interracial groups, and groups of clergymen and parents to show their public concern in the matter of de facto segregation," Jones continued, "and Community Resources was asked to coordinate the plan."

Jones, a former city councilman and executive secretary, Civil Rights Council, and Rev. Arthur Zebbs of CORE protested the building of Monroe School at Columbus School Board meeting July 7.

They objected on the grounds that Negro youth now studying at the integrated Linmoor Junior High would be transferred to Monroe, whose student population will be predominantly Negro.

The date of the demonstration, Aug. 1, also marks the beginning of operation for Columbus Schools' new Department of Special Services, with a division designed to concern itself with problems created by racial imbalance in schools.

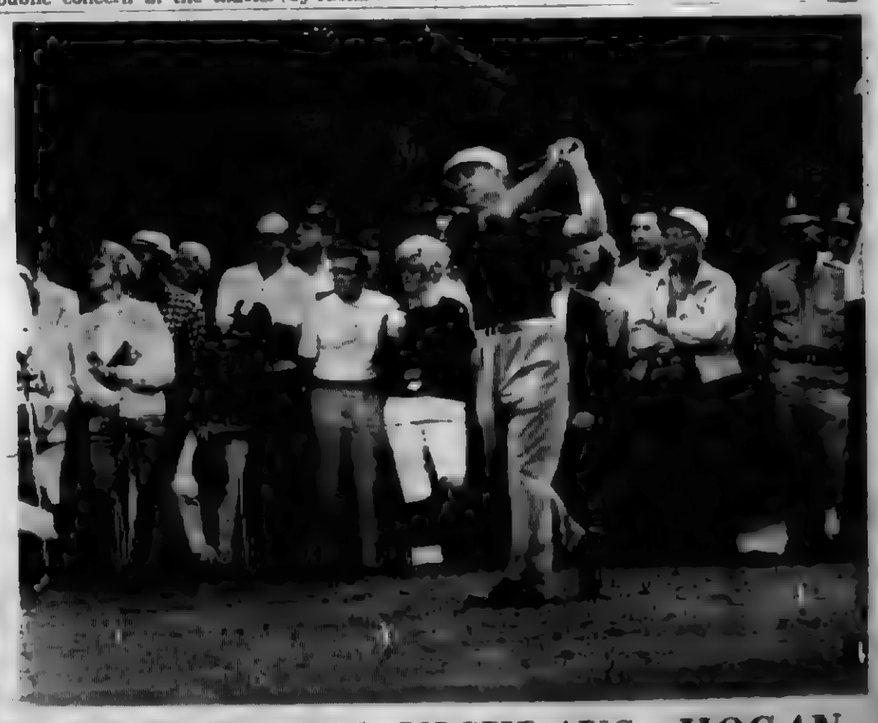
ON SUNDAY CLOSING . . .

Ministers' Group Spokesman: 'Citizens Will Enforce Law'

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's decision to end enforcement of the Sunday closing law last week was followed Tuesday by an announcement by Rev. Larry Lewis, spokesman for a group of 100 ministers that, "there will be enforcement."

"Our group will organize a citizens' resistance movement, instruct members on legal procedures, and they will file citations of violations," he said.

The mayor's reluctant decision to discontinue issuing citations for violations of the Sunday law was made with the observation that experiences of two Sundays of enforcement had forced him to this conclusion:



"Under the ambiguous blue laws and the confusing interpretations we have impossible instruments of justice."

A ruling by Municipal Court Alan Schwarzwalder in his dismissal of two Sunday closing cases last Friday, and the total lack of cooperation from all surrounding communities except Whitehall, were cited by the mayor as "defeating our purpose; leaving us no alternative but to call off the enforcement".

Judge Schwarzwalder's ruling last Friday that any business open to sell legally approved items of necessity could also sell any other item in the store prompted the

PGA CROWD INTEREST CENTERS ON NICKLAUS, HOGAN

Sectional Track Meets Head Playground Week

The north meet, for playgrounds in the Linden and North section of the city, will be held at Linden McKinley High School track on Wednesday, July 8; the central meet, for the west and central sections of the city, will be held at Central High stadium on Thursday, July 9; the south meet, for the south and eastern sections, will be held at South High's track on Friday, July 10.

All meets will be held at the same time of day. The events for the nine and under age group will start at 12:45 p.m. as will events for the 10 and 11 age groups. The 14 and 15 age group and the 16 and 17 age group events will start at 5:45 p.m. Contestants must enter only those events which correspond to his or her age as of Aug. 8, 1964, and cannot enter more than three events.

Participants may enter only the sectional meet in their area. These meets are held in order to give boys and girls more experience in competing in track and field events and to help them prepare for the Junior Olympics Track and Field Meet at OSU on Aug. 8. Participants do not have to win in a sectional meet in order to be in the Junior Olympics meet, but they must have an entry blank, which can be secured from any playground leader.

Reports from area playgrounds follow:

Place 3-Mill Levy On Bexley Ballot

Bexley Council Tuesday night approved a resolution permitting a renewal of the city's present three-mill levy to be placed on the November ballot.

Although the levy could be made permanent by amendment to the city's charter, it was members' decision not to give "future councils a blank check; people should be allowed to vote on it each time."

The proposed budget of $458,710 for the coming year was also approved by council.

Legislation to rescind the ordinance making Euclaire-av one-way from Main to Mound-st was tabled, with the decision that the measure would not be enforced until further study war made of the city's recommended traffic changes.

The one - way ordinance, passed in May on the basis of recommendations made in Bexley's traffic study, kicked up a storm of protests from residents.

Council bowed to their will, and the law has never been enforced.

Euclaire was one of several streets suggested for one-way traffic between Main and Mound in the traffic engineer's report.

An ordinance was also passed to proceed with planned improvements on Astor-av, from Sheridan-av west.

Proceeds will help finance next year's Junior-Senior Prom. Casual or swim wear is suggested. All high school students, alumni and college students home for vacation and members of the 1954 class in town for their reunion are especially invited. Phil Lavoff, Junior Class president, is at lower right, and members of the Four Dimensions, who will play for dancing are, from left, Jeff Bloom, Charles Barkam, Bob Karr, Tom Myers and Fritz Laird. In the event of bad weather the affair will be held the following Friday, July 24.

Springs To Close Academy

Announcement that St. Mary of The Springs Academy will close in June, 1966, was made last week by letter to parents of students enrolled at the high school.

Decision was made to close the 132-year-old institution by the Dominican Sisters, in favor of using all the school facilities to expand the college.

The opening of new diocesan high schools, and the ready availability of a parochial high school education for girls was cited, along with financial difficulties of St. Mary of The Springs, as reasons for the move.

The Springs' elementary school closed several years ago, although a kindergarten is still operated.

All registrations for the academy this year and next are also being accepted.

The college, now 39 years old, has 376 full time students enrolled in a four-year course and there are 235 enrolled in the all-girl high school. The conversion of the entire school for college use will substantially expand the program.

$5.6 Million Freeway Phase To Start Soon

Work on the segment of the East Freeway from Alum Creek to James-rd, including the widening of Rt. 33 north of the freeway and the James-rd extension, is expected to get under way within two weeks.

Cost of the segment, one of five involved in the freeway construction, will be $5.6 million.

The first phase of the East Freeway, from Ohio-av to the Parsons-Fulton interchange, is now about 13 percent completed, according to the monthly expressway report.

A FAMILY goes forth to accept Billy Graham's calling.

Sit-In At Jet Stadium Best Demonstration Yet

By JANET MICHAEL

You have to hear Billy Graham for yourself.

An article can tell you what he says . . . a friend can spark your interest, but it takes Billy Graham in person to convey the message.

Graham has nothing new to say. He is simply a new man with an old message. But, his conviction, his forcefulness and his sincerity have drawn thousands to the platform since the opening night, July 10.

"Hunger" is the word Graham often uses to describe the feelings of people today. He cites the various ways we try to attain happiness. Some look for it in the bottom of a bottle, but when the bottle is empty, it's not happiness staring back at us, it's just an empty bottle.

So, we look somewhere else and when it can't be found in our material world, we become confused and lonely.

"Look to the Cross," pleads Graham. Christ has come and died for your sins From the Cross, the grace, the mercy and the love of God says to you: 'I love you. I want to forgive you'."

And they go forward. Not to Graham, but to what he represents. They go apparently because they are lost and hungry and because they know no man can find happiness without the Lord.

On Monday night, the entire Crusade budget was met and the offerings taken during the remainder of meetings will be used to finance telecasts of the crusade. Three of these meetings will be televised from coast to coast early in September.

Cochran Urges More Local Support Proof

By FRANK RYAN

The controversy remains sharp but the conclusions are out of focus in the argument over who should build the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects.

Two main points — the alleged "iffiness" of the Corps of Engineers' plan and a switch in emphasis from flood control to water supply by SCD backers — highlighted the July 8 public hearing before Columbus City Council.

Col. Harrington W. Cochran, chief engineer of the Huntington District of the Corps of Engineers, began his presentation to council by making clear that his intention was to explain the Army plan, not defend it.

"I am not here to apologize at all for what the Corps of Engineers has done," he told council and about 150 spectators. He said that he was not present to debate, or get into political issues. "We build only in response to public demand," he said

Cochran explained that regulations consistent with submissions of a proposed budget to Congress prohibited any pre-announcement of what items would be included. But he left little doubt in his presentation that the request for appropriations for construction of the two local projects would be in the original budget.

Repeatedly, he stressed that the Alum Creek project carries a number one priority in Scioto River Basin plans. He said he had discussed the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects with the Corps' chief engineer in Washington, and

By BETTY DAFT

A demonstration "by people who want to show visibly their concern about de facto segregation" is planned for Saturday, Aug. 1, 2 to 4 p.m. on the site of the new Monroe Junior High School, Monroe-av at Leonard-av, according to Russell Jones, executive director Community Resources, Inc.

The demonstration, to be staged rain or shine, is planned, Jones said, "to protest the further building of segregated schools, and the reassignment of Negroes from integrated schools to those which will be segregated.

"It was started as a community thing, by interracial groups, and groups of clergymen and parents to show their public concern in the matter of de facto segregation," Jones continued, "and Community Resources was asked to coordinate the plan."

Jones, a former city councilman and executive secretary, Civil Rights Council, and Rev. Arthur Zebbs of CORE protested the building of Monroe School at Columbus School Board meeting July 7.

They objected on the grounds that Negro youth now studying at the integrated Linmoor Junior High would be transferred to Monroe, whose student population will be predominantly Negro.

The date of the demonstration, Aug. 1, also marks the beginning of operation for Columbus Schools' new Department of Special Services, with a division designed to concern itself with problems created by racial imbalance in schools.

Bexley City Engineer Retires After 23 Years

W. A. Montgomery

"Bexley has been in his heart for over 23 years . . ."

And everyone associated with Williard A. "Monty" Montgomery during his 23 years as Bexley City Engineer, echoes his wife's summation of his dedication to the job.

"Monty" completed his last day on the job July 3 with, at his own request, no announcement of his retirement. He is now taking vacation time, and his retirement will be official Aug. 1.

As city engineer, Montgomery also served as street superintendent, building inspector, and was in charge of refuse collection crews as well as all other maintenance

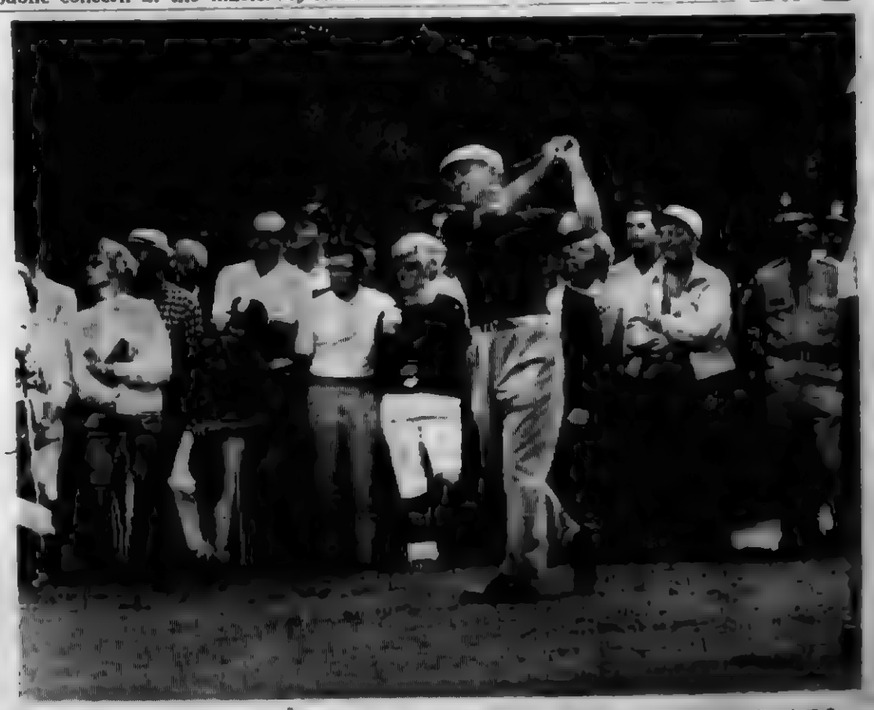
ON SUNDAY CLOSING . . .

Ministers' Group Spokesman: 'Citizens Will Enforce Law'

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner's decision to end enforcement of the Sunday closing law last week was followed Tuesday by an announcement by Rev. Larry Lewis, spokesman for a group of 100 ministers that, "there will be enforcement."

"Our group will organize a citizens' resistance movement, instruct members on legal procedures, and they will file citations of violations," he said.

The mayor's reluctant decision to discontinue issuing citations for violations of the Sunday law was made with the observation that experiences of two Sundays of enforcement had forced him to this conclusion:



"Under the ambiguous blue laws and the confusing interpretations we have impossible instruments of justice."

A ruling by Municipal Court Alan Schwarzwalder in his dismissal of two Sunday closing cases last Friday, and the total lack of cooperation from all surrounding communities except Whitehall, were cited by the mayor as "defeating our purpose; leaving us no alternative but to call off the enforcement".

Judge Schwarzwalder's ruling last Friday that any business open to sell legally approved items of necessity could also sell any other item in the store prompted the

PGA CROWD INTEREST CENTERS ON NICKLAUS, HOGAN

THERE ARE SEVERAL reasons why persons planning to attend the Billy Graham Crusades should go early. One is to hear the 2000-voice choir rehearse. When Choir Director Cliff Barrows lifts his hands for the choir to begin singing, the already hushed crowd listens intently as the familiar old hymns fill the air. The Crusade meetings will continue through July 19, 7:30 p.m. nightly.

Bishop Hartley Slates Second Recollection Day

The Bishop Hartley Alumni Association is planning its second annual Day of Recollection, Sunday, July 26, 12:30 p.m., at the high school.

Rev. Norbert Burns, S. M., a teacher, marriage counselor and popular campus figure from the University of Dayton, will conduct the program entitled, "The Power of Love." Conferences, question and answer discussions, confessions and benediction will follow.

A social will be held after the official closing so that the alumni may have a chance to visit informally with Fr. Burns and old friends.

All alumni and their guests are welcome.

French Run Garden Club's Annual Outing, Lots Of Fun

The members and their families of French Run Garden Club recently held their annual picnic at Blacklick Woods. With such able chefs as Harold Cunningham, Ed Wahlfeldt and Ken Wylie supervising the charcoaled hamburgers and wieners, no one had a chance to lose an ounce!

Many thanks to Don's Drive-In, Dave Carlye at Super Duper, and the Plezol Bread Co. for their many contributions.

The Mavis Quartet put the group in a singing mood with some fine barber shop renditions and Stuart Terry kept everyone entranced with movies ranging from Donald Duck to Frankenstein! Even the mosquitos managed to have a most enjoyable feast.

Good Morning, Chief! Guess Who's Calling?

By ADELINE DALEY

Fortunately, I have not had to call on the services of either the police or fire departments lately.

Our son, Brian, who in his younger days accounted for so many "lost child" reports that I think they assigned him his own number, now is old enough to find his way home.

Nor have any of the kids climbed onto somebody's roof and then been afraid to come down. Nor have I been locked out of the house. And it's been ages since the cat got caught between the sliding closet doors.

There was a time, though, when I was obliged to call the fire department so frequently that members of the department recognized my voice. For instance, when I reported that I thought the community was going up in flames because I saw smoke everywhere, I was told, "We know, Mrs. Daley, we're burning weeds."

Because I dare not hope for my luck to continue (it's been two whole weeks), I am suggesting that a Department of Minor Catastrophes be created to handle all the little mishaps that occur in households such as ours which are too big to handle yourself but too small for the police or fire departments.

Also a police prowl car in front of your home raises the suspicion among your neighbors that you're headed for the Domestic Relations Court.

Minor Catastrophe squad cars would be without sirens, blinking red lights or identification when they arrive to help you find a missing child who is only next door watching television.

We have had "fires," too, that I think could have been handled by one man with a seltzer bottle instead of a two-ladder truck laden with seven firemen.

Once I smelled smoke emerging from the floor furnace vent. The fire engines arrived with sirens screaming.

Reaching into the vent with a pair of king-size tweezers, a fireman removed a smouldering Tinker Toy. It had become ignited after being thrown in the vent by one of the kids. I smiled weakly and thanked them — again.

There remained the obligation of explaining to the neighbors who had gathered outside, prepared to serve hot coffee and doughnuts. I read my announcement: "A Tinker-toy caught on fire, but the blaze has been extinguished. Thank you."

See what I mean?

TALARINE

½ small onion, chopped
1 clove garlic
1 can tomato sauce (small)
1 can mushroom sauce
1 can mushroom juice
1 can corn niblets and juice
1 small bottle stuffed olives, sliced
1 can ripe olives, sliced
½ lb. grated American cheese
1 small can parmesan cheese, sprinkle on top
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 8-oz. package wide egg noodles
2 pound ground beef
salt and pepper to taste

Saute onions and garlic, remove and brown beef. Cook wide noodles at same time. Mix all ingredients, place in casserole dish, sprinkle parmesan cheese on top and bake 1 hour in 350 degree oven. Let stand 15 minutes before serving.

problems of the city.

His store of knowledge on the state of city affairs, and its building code and regulation was inexhaustible, and he answered all complaints and questions on these matters.

"His last day of work was like any other day on the job," Mayor William Schneider said at Tuesday's council meeting. "A complaint came in about 20 minutes before quitting time, and Monty handled it as a matter of course."

Bexley became his hobby as well as his career when he assumed the job of city engineer in November, 1940. The following May he and his family moved into a brand new house at 829 Francis-av.

He became acquainted with the city while doing street work with the engineering firm of Jennings and Lawrence. Before 1936 he lived in Bellefontaine and was employed as Logan County engineer. He was graduated from Ohio Northern University.

Retirement will make more time for Montgomery's interest in gardening and for his church. He was formerly a member of the Session of Brookwood Presbyterian.

And there will be time for he and Mrs. Montgomery to travel about the country, visiting their children and grandchildren.

Dr. Donald Montgomery is a pediatrician in San Diego, Calif. and Mrs. John (Saundra) Betz lives in Milwaukee. The other two children are Miss Lois Montgomery, an employe of the state and John, football coach at Linden-McKinley High.

There are also six grandchildren.

mayor's announcement of an end to his enforcement policy.

"When it is legal," the mayor said, "to sell fans in a drug store but illegal to sell them in an appliance store, or legal to sell cigarettes in a filling station but illegal in a grocery store, this brings the (Sunday closing) law to the ridiculous."

The mayor also said, "We cannot do this job without the cooperation of all surrounding communities and county officials. Some of the suburban stores increased sales by $3 to $4,000 on Sundays as people drove out there from Columbus.

"Police departments in Upper Arlington, Bexley, Grandview, Canal Winchester, Dublin, Gahanna, Grove City, Groveport, Hilliard, Lockbourne, Marble Cliff, New Albany, New Rome, Obetz, Reynoldsburg, Westerville and Worthington made no arrests or citations for violation of the Sunday Blue Laws.

". . . The sheriff's department made no arrests or citations for violation of the blue laws."

Whitehall joined Columbus on the second Sunday of enforcement, issuing 14 citations.

Rev. Lewis, in discussing the plan of Christians United For Action to organize a citizens resistance movement, said, "This was discussed by the steering committee and the action was approved, but the plan was discarded when the mayor announced an official policy of enforcement

"The plan will be taken up by the board again at its next meeting, but most of the steering committee are active in the Graham Crusade, and the meeting probably will be held later this week."

Rev. Lewis issued the reminder that the big food chains had agreed voluntarily to close only after assurance that the city would strongly enforce the law.

He added that the ministers group, organized to pressure enforcement of Sunday closing, would continue to work in that direction.

Those who arrive as late at 7 p.m. find the only places to sit are in "left field." One night Graham remarked, "Why, there are as many people before me as there are behind me."

There is every indication that the large crowds will continue during the duration of the meetings. On the closing day, Sunday, July 19, two meetings will be held, 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Following those meetings, Graham will leave Columbus, but it is hoped that Columbus will not leave Graham.

Unity Church Of 'Daily Word' Schedules Anniversary Week

Unity Church of Christianity, the church of the "Daily Word," 3568 Olentangy River-rd, is observing the 75th anniversary of the founding of Unity July 19 through 24, as are all Unity groups throughout the world.

The Unity movement was founded by Charles and Myrtle Fillmore 75 years ago in Kansas City, Mo. Since then Unity has grown to be an international non-denominational group with churches and centers all over the world. Readers of their literature number in excess of 5,000,000.

The headquarters in Kansas City has grown to an incorporated suburb southeast of Kansas City known as Unity Village. Unity Village houses the ministerial training school, publications department and silent unity prayer department. The village contains an area of approximately 2,800 acres, which is comparable to the City of Bexley.

All buildings and grounds, having a value of more than $15,000,000 have been paid for on a love offering basis. There are no pledges or dues asked for the service anywhere in the Unity movement.

Through the co-operation of the local organization and the Unity headquarters, WLW-C TV is provided with a five-minute "Daily Word" program by Rosemary Grace, granddaughter of the Fillmores. This program is aired at the sign-on and sign-off times each day.

The Columbus Unity Church had its beginning as a small class some 50 years ago. Since then the organization has grown to 900 on the church roll. They have acquired a tract of land on Olentangy River-rd where the congregation is in the process of building the church home.

The religious education building is completed and the sanctuary unit is now in the hands of the engineer for design.

Unity in Columbus also operates the "Daily Word" Center downtown in the Chittenden Hotel for those who wish to have noonday meditation or avail themselves of reading room facilities.

The theme of this anniversary will be, "Spiritual Unity," and will be highlighted by a special service at the regular Sunday worship at 10:55 a.m. July 19. Rev. Curtis F. Wilson's topic will be "The Great Vision." Open house and a special program by the delegates who attended the June Retreat at Unity Village is slated at 2:30 p.m. This program will include slides of Unity Village and refreshments will be served.

On Wednesday, July 22, 8 p.m. Rev. Wilson will conduct a special prayer service. The observance will be concluded with a covered dish dinner Friday, July 24, 6:15 p.m.

Everyone is welcome.

'DOLLY' JOINS FESTIVAL OF FEASTS

"SWEET 16" IS A GOOD name for the little blonde haired doll that will be given away at the annual festival celebrating the feasts of St. Margaret and St. Ann. The little charmer's dress is trimmed with 16 new one dollar bills! The affair will be held Friday and Saturday, July 24 and 25, on the St. Margaret of Cortona Church ground, 3388 Trabue-rd, San Margherita community. Each evening will feature home-made pizza, sandwiches, games, rides and entertainment will be climaxed with fireworks. The traditional sacred street procession honoring the patron saints of the parishioners will take place immediately after the 10:30 a.m. solemn high mass on Sunday, July 26. Public is invited. From left are Fr. James Kulp, Margherita Oddi and Jo Marie Delewese.

SERVICES AT TEMPLE

Sabbath Services will be held at Temple Tifereth Israel Friday, July 17, 8 p.m., with Cantor Stanley Burstein conducting the service and chanting the traditional liturgy. Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15 a.m.

COMMISSIONED

Navy Ensign Jeffrey S. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Davis of 2819 Sherwood, was recently commissioned upon graduation from Naval Officer Candidate School at Newport, R. I.

FINISHES COURSE

Airman 2/C Edward Moriarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Moriarty of 2775 Cassady-av, has graduated from a special course for U.S. Air Force communications technicians at Goodfellow AFB, Tex. The airman, a graduate of Aquinas High School, attended Ohio State University.

TO BUILD STOREROOM

Don M. Casto, 42 S. Fourth-st, has been issued a permit to construct a concrete block and brick front storeroom at 4011 E. Broad-st. Cost is estimated at $50,000.

The southernmost city in the world is Punta Arenas at the southern tip of Chile's mainland, on the Strait of Magellan.

Registration Is Underway At Franklin U

Fall registration is now open at Franklin University for both day and evening programs.

The University, beginning its 62nd academic year, offers courses in law, business administration and engineering technology.

Bachelor degrees and associate degrees are offered as well as individual courses.

The offices are on the second floor of the Central YMCA, 40 W. Long-st. Catalogues and other information can be obtained there, or by writing or calling the University.

Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday; from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday, and until noon on Saturday.

Garrison Graduated

Airman 1C. Gary Garrison has been graduated from the U. S. Air Force Noncommissioned Officer Preparatory School at Lockbourne AFB.

The airman's wife, Lynne, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harper of 4189 E. Mound.

AT QUANTICO

George R. Brands, aviation electronics technician airman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Brands of 1454 Benson-dr, is scheduled to complete a two-week Reserve Junior Officers School July 10 at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

The world's most useful plant probably is the palmyra palm of Ceylon and India, estimated to have 800 different uses.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish sincerely to thank friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and for the beautiful floral offerings in our recent bereavement in losing our dear sister, MRS. EDITH DAY STANLEY, 1761 Franklin Park South. Also many thanks to these organizations: REV. C. F. JENKINS and members of the SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH; MR. LOUIS J. WRESTLING WITH OUR FEARS

Our fears seem as big and as terrible as this alligator sometimes, don't they?

Fear about this thing and that can paralyze us and prevent us from doing our daily work.

Many of our fears are real. A great many of our fears, however, are unfounded—a result of thinking and worrying about ourselves. Sir John Denham phrased it this way:

"My fears are causeless and ungrounded,
Fantastic dreams and melancholy fumes."

There is only one thing that will dispel fear of this type. We must do something to get out of ourselves. That means loving and helping others.

The Bible puts it so well in I John 4:18. "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love."

The Church is God's Agency designed to help you. We invite you to attend this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

An Exclusive Interview With Finley's Idea Man

Somewhere in an exclusive Kansas City suburb, there lives a man who walks a tightrope. He's the Herb Philbrick of the sports world. His job is no less dangerous, his double identity no less important.

He changes cars three times on his way to work, stays away from all PTA meetings and never drinks at all, even socially.

TO HIS neighbors, he's just an average Joe who's maybe just a little bit too quiet. But to the back gate watchman at Municipal Stadium, he's Charlie Finley's "idea man."

We contacted Mr. X (we can't give his real name) last week to ask him about his job as the power behind baseball's number one rabble-rouser:

Q.: Isn't your job rather demanding and time consuming?

A: Oh, my yes. Mr. Finley isn't the type to let sleeping dogs lie. He wants something going all the time. I probably put in 60 hours or better each week.

Q: ARE YOU directly responsible for all of Finley's antics?

A: Heavens, no. The man is very talented himself. Why, he came up with that pennant porch bit one afternoon playing handball at the "Y." Called UPI right from the steam room.

Q: Is Finley a hard man to work for?

A: NOT REALLY, once you get used to telephone call at three in the morning. He doesn't check the purse strings either. He really dropped a bundle stirring up that players' strike in Dallas (KC's Pacific Coast affiliate).

Q: Is there anything exclusive you could give us on Finley?

A: Well, he's color blind, but I'd think most people would guess that after the orange baseballs, misty green and wedding gown white uniforms.

Q: JUST WHAT are some of your better brainstorms?

A: Well, let's see, the World Series at night episode and move to Louisville — those were mine. Oh, and the 60 whirling lights and three foghorns. My masterpiece was hanging the sportswriter in effigy. No offense meant.

Q: Maybe it's none of my business, but doesn't Finley ever worry about his team's standing in the American League?

A: I GUESS you mean their won-loss standing. No, we're much too busy to waste time on that. After all, the show must go on!

Q: How about a preview, What's coming up?

A: Well, a lot of plans are still sketchy, but I can tell you we'll be doing the entire stadium over in green and gold checks next spring.

THEN WE'LL have our old WW II air raid sirens, free to the first 400 fans here for Yankee series in early August.

Charlie's located a firm in Peoria, Ill., which can supply us with guided missiles which will explode simultaneously, dropping Athletic pennants over every park in the league, each time we win a game.

Q: Just one more question. Is there any part of your job that makes you the least bit uneasy?

A: THERE WASN'T — until this morning. See this envelope here? It's got a plane ticket to New York City in it along with a skeleton key to Yankee Stadium.

You know those three monuments in center field? Charlie wants to know who's buried out there.

Is July 22 Kiwanis Night

The Annual Kiwanis Clubs baseball night at Jet Stadium has been set for Wednesday, July 22, when the Columbus Jets meet the Syracuse Chiefs in an 8 p.m. headliner that will be followed by a gigantic fireworks display.

Smith Shines In Feature At CMS

Rains throughout the day prevented the Columbus Motor Speedway from getting in Sunday's program of late-model and sportsman races, but there was beautiful weather Friday evening and the South Side raceway had a turnout of 3700 fans for the running of the Independence Day championship program for super-modifieds which rain had washed out the previous week.

As had been expected, Columbus' Bob Smith romped to victory in Friday's 50-lap super-modified championship feature, against some of the finest cars and drivers in the state.

STARTING 17th in a field of 20 cars, Smith moved out front on the 26th lap and was never headed as he roared to his second championship feature of the season and his third headliner in a row, followed by Don Townsend, Al Smith, Jerry Eschtruth, Chic Hale, Jim Meeker, Larry Pendleton, Sam Erwin, Chuck Fletcher and Curt Kraft in that order.

In Friday's late-model feature, Bob Jones, of Lorain, O., driving his first time on the Williams-rd. third-mile blacktop oval, notched the win after "favorite" Ralph O'Day was eliminated in a three-car crackup.

This week, the super-modifieds will have a seven-event program, with a 25-lap feature on Friday. On Sunday, the popular late-models and sportsman cars and drivers will return for an eight-event program with a feature race in each division.

IN THE free game of "Total," there's $200 in cash waiting for the fan or fans who can correctly pick the first five cars in order in Friday's feature.

Races begin at 8 o'clock, following the 7 p.m. time trials.

Groveport Names McCann To Head Football Post

The Madison Local Board of Education has appointed Bill McCann as head football mentor of Groveport-Madison High School for the next five seasons.

McCann will replace former head coach Glenn Johnston who has accepted an insurance post with Midland Mutual in Columbus.

THE NEW Groveport gridiron boss served as head track coach last spring and had been previously appointed as head football coach at Fairfield Union for the 1964 season.

McCann is currently attending summer school at Ohio State and working toward his Master's Degree. The 1959 Ohio University grad will teach freshman and sophomore biology this fall.

The new Cruiser mentor states that he will continue the belly series along with a combination of the winged-T, man-in-motion, split end and some split T plays when early practice gets under way Aug. 21.

Other Groveport posts went to Ronald Ball who will serve as head reserve football coach; and Richard Weiner who will serve as head junior high football coach; assistant in junior high track and take over the elementary basketball program.

NOTICE TO BRIDGE CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Board of County Commissioners at Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, until 10:00 o'clock A.M. Eastern Standard Time, on Friday, July 24, 1964, and the same will be publicly opened at 10:00 o'clock A.M. of the same day at said office for all labor and material necessary to construct the following work on Henderson Road over Olentangy River to wit:

Engineer's Estimate No. 163. Widening of existing south sidewalk from two (2) feet to six (6) feet wide by removal of existing concrete railing, installing a prestressed concrete beam on new pier and abutment extensions, and placing a four (4) foot wide sidewalk slab with railing, adjacent to the existing sidewalk.

The plans, specifications and estimate of quantities for doing this work, as per County Engineer's plan are on file in the office of the County Commissioners, the office of the County Engineer of Franklin County, for inspection by all persons interested in the same during business hours each day of the week except Sunday.

All proposals shall be made on standard bidding blanks furnished by the County Engineer and shall be addressed to the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, and the envelope containing the proposal shall be endorsed with a pertinent description of the work bid upon. Copies of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the County Engineer at five dollars ($5.00) per set complete, no refund.

Proposals must contain the name of every person interested therein and shall be accompanied by either a proposal bond, with surety satisfactory to the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, or by a certified check on a solvent bank of Franklin County in the amount of one thousand ($1,000) dollars, drawn in favor of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio.

The Proposal bond or certified check submitted with a bid will be held as a guarantee that if the proposal be accepted, a contract will be entered into within five (5) days after the award of same, for the furnishing of all materials and for the doing of all labor. Proposal bonds and certified checks will be returned to all bidders after the contract has been entered into and secured by a Performance Bond of 50% of the amount of the contract, with a satisfactory surety, for the faithful performance of the work.

The address of the bidder shall be given with the signature on the bid.

The work comprised under Engineer's Estimate No. 163 shall begin immediately after the signing of the contract and shall be fully completed on or before October 2, 1964. Upon failure to complete the work within the time specified, the contractor shall forfeit to the County of Franklin, State of Ohio, the sum of Twenty Dollars ($20.00) for each day, for each and every day that may elapse between the time specified for the completion of said work and the final completion thereof, which sum shall be stipulated damages suffered and incurred by said Franklin County by reason of the failure of said contractor to complete said work within the time specified.

No proposal shall be considered unless it complies with all the rules and regulations set forth in the Contract Documents. All bidders are warned to carefully read the same and comply with them. The Board of County Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio.

WILLIAM J. TRAYTE,
Clerk of the Board

Lake Erie Fishing Trip Proves Very Enjoyable

Combining business and pleasure can often be both rewarding and relaxing. And when the pleasure portion consists of some slightly fabulous fishing, it definitely ends up as a trip worth remembering.

A memorable work-and-play expedition took this writer to the colorful Island area of Lake Erie last month. Our business concerned a weekend meeting of the Outdoor Writers of Ohio, plus collecting material for this column, plus shooting several hundred feet of film for a special TV program which will run on channel 6 later this summer.

THE ANGLING aspects of the junket were pointed toward the white bass, the scrappy fish which is rapidly becoming one of the most popular Lake Erie species.

It was shortly after seven on a misty Saturday morning when Glenn Lau, one of the outstanding guides on the lake, pointed his 29-foot charter boat away from the Put-In-Bay dock and headed west for Niagara Reef, some 10 miles off in the haze and rain.

Aboard was a compatible crew of outdoor scribes, including Hank Andrews of the Cleveland Press, OWO prexy Spiv Harris of the Mt. Vernon News and myself.

It wasn't long before the Niagara Reef buoy became a shadow off the starboard bow. Skipper Lau, using a depth indicator found the exact reef area he wanted, then turned on his sonar-type "fish-locator" briefly. Overboard went the anchor as Lau shouted: "Well, this it it!"

AND, HE was so right! . . . from the first cast the action was furious and fast, to put in mildly. It wasn't uncommon for every angler aboard to have a white bass hooked at the same time. If you missed the strike or the scrapper threw the hook there was at least three or four more waiting to grab the lure.

Occasionally the school would move and it became necessary to move the boat a few yards, but the action continued, fish after fish and hour after hour, until our wrists were literally sore.

Lau estimated we landed somewhere over 600 fish in less than 4 hours, but nobody had the time to keep count. We iced only about 75 of the largest to bring home.

BACK AT the dock shortly after noon the tedious job of filleting the catch began. Some valuable help opportunely appeared in the person of Carl Blume, the genial boss of the B and B boat emporium north of Worthington.

Carl had trailered a brand new Henry boat (made in Plain City) to the lake for the journalists to check out. Blume quickly proved to be as adept with a filleting knife as he is with a boat.

The cleaning chore complete, we lost no time in returning to the scene of the morning's action. Carl was eager to show what the plush Henry boat would do; the 140-horsepower Intercepter of the sleek inboard-outboard made quick work of the run back out to Niagara Reef.

WITHOUT BENEFIT of guide or electronic aids it took us a few minutes to locate the school "whities," but when we did . . . is was off and running again. Any cast which didn't put a fish in the boat was considered a bad one. We actually got tired of catching fish, and here in Ohio that's pretty tough to do.

Although they say that white bass will slam about anything when they're hitting, we found two lures were really killers. One is a wobbling metal lure called the "Gay Blade," made by Phleuger; the other is a spinner made by Lau called the "Lau Lure." Both proved to be just what the doc ordered for white bass.

Finally, as the sun began to edge downward we called it a day — in my book one of the most fabulous fishing days I've ever spent. The happy postscript to the memorable trip came later, when the fillets of white bass ended up where they should . . . on a plate.

DEEPFRIED they were great, but cooked to a turn on the outdoor grill, with just enough hickory chips to impart a delicate smoked flavor . . . that's beyond words.

If you get the idea that Lake Erie white bass have become one of my favorite fish, on the hook or on the table — you're right.

RAINED OUT

Heavy rains Sunday afternoon caused the postponement of the Dayton-El Rancho polo match until July 26. The El Rancho entry journeys to Cincinnati on Sunday in their next match.

S-E Archers Plan Shoot For July 26

The Southeast Archery Club will sponsor an Invitational Shoot on July 26 at the club range located on Rt. 104 six miles south of Frank-rd.

Registration will be from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and all shooting will commence promptly at 10. Food will be available on the grounds and the Invitational will be a registered N.F.A.A. and Ohio Archers shoot for 20 pins.

Awards will be presented in all classes and 42 targets will be shot.

A group of the Southeast Archers will give an archery demonstration on "Dialing For Dollars" on Monday morning (9 to 10 a.m.) to help promote the club's July 26 shoot.

NICKLAUS WINS AGAIN

COACHES' CORNER

PAUL PENNELL

Q—WHAT ARE A FEW BALL HANDLING TIPS THAT WILL HELP A TEAM CUT DOWN ON [illegible]

A—First of all, a player's glove is the key to good ball handling. Some players prefer a "flat" glove (less padding) over a "deep" glove (deep pocket and plenty of web) because their hand is always conscious of the ball.

A deep glove will sometimes allow the ball to become buried and cause errors. Always try to field the ball up on the fingers of the glove where you can feel it and control it and always use two hands except when it is absolutely unavoidable.

THE GRIP of the ball is also important. Hold the ball with your fingers well-spaced to avoid throwing sliders.

If you grab the ball with your fingers too close together, the ball tends to slide off one side or the other of your hand and curve a little, making it harder to field and handle.

Throw straight and the same way all the time (to the letters) whether it is a relay on a double play or a routine throw to first.

ON DOUBLE PLAYS, the shortstop should relay the ball (letter high) to the second baseman or pivotman with a simple, stiff-wristed underhand toss. The second baseman should never grab a ball "in the hole" to his left and spin all the way around to throw to second.

By spinning around, the second baseman will find himself throwing the ball into leftfeld more often than not. If he is beyond 12 feet from the bag, he should turn toward the base and throw sidearm to the shortstop coming across the sack.

Infielders should always be alert for the smart baserunner who may slide wide of the bag and grab the base with his hand on throws coming from left field.

WHEN COVERING second base, decoy the baserunner on throws coming from right field by standing casually over the base until a split-second before the throw arrives.

This little maneuver will prevent the baserunner from expecting a throw and he won't attempt to jar the ball loose from your glove if he is unaware of a throw to the base.

On leftfield throws, anchor your left foot next to the base, then pivot on it as you sweep your glove around for the tag.

A TWO-WAY SCOTTIE STRETCH

WALNUT RIDGE first sacker Dave Walter gave it the old high school try on this close play at first in Saturday's twinbill with South. Walter's long stretch failed to nip South leftfielder Mike Fair, who beat out a Baltimore chop down the third baseline to help his Reb mates to a 6-0 second game win over the Scots. The twin win Saturday gave South sole possession of first place in Section Two (7-1) and dropped W-R into third with a 5-8 slate.

Insurance Nine Holds Lead; Elbin 9 Paces Little League

A determined Wohman's Insurance notched their second win of the second round by stopping Martin's Market, 12-10. Wohmans has yet to be beaten in the second round.

Irv Flox paced the Insurancemen with three hits, including a double while Marve Grossman, Mort Rising and Irv Barkan contributed two hits each in the Wohman win.

A MARTIN rally fell short in the bottom of the seventh as they scored two runs. Irv Rubin led all batters with five straight hits, all singles and Jules Garel smacked four safeties including two doubles. Bill Belford had three for five in the 16-hit Martin attack.

B'nai B'rith took a 13 to 11 win from Hackman Realty although Hackman led thru the third inning. A five run uprising in the bottom of the third all but iced the game for B'nai B'rith.

Bert Beck, Abe Brustein and Milt Pinsky sparked the B'nai B'rith batters with three hits each while Berk also lofted a four bagger to right field.

HOWARD BYER led a 17-hit Hackman attack with four hits including back-to-back home runs. Jules Vogel had three hits and played a brilliant left field.

Ontario nipped Reeb's Restaurant 7-6 in the cliffhanger of the night. Ontario scored the winning run in their half of the seventh inning and held off Reebs for the win.

Ontario's Sig Wasserman led his club with three runs and Jim Jacobs and Dave Madison had two hits each while Jacobs total included a double and a triple.

Hal Bolck and Harry Roth hit a home run and Julius Margulis a triple to pace Reeb's 14 hit attack.

Five Archers Are Accurate

Ten Southeast Archers traveled to Pataskala Archery Range Saturday evening for a twilight shoot. The Southeast entries shot 14 animal and 14 spot targets before dark and 28 field targets under the lights. Five Southeast Archers received awards at the shoot.

Southeast firsts went to Rita Pennington in the Intermediate Girls class, Pat Daubitz in the Women's 250 Free Style (270-animals, 319-field, and 589 total); and Mark Daubitz in the Cub class (286-animals, 204-field and 490 total).

RALPH FUCHS garnered a third place in the Men's 350 Free Style class (433- animals, 398-field and 831 total) and Ernest Parks landed a show slot on the strength of a 329-336—665 composite in the Men's 250 Free Style Division.

Dick Simms traveled to Olmstead, Mich., over the weekend to the $3,000 P.A.A. Championship Tournament but failed to gain a place although he reported he had an enjoyable trip.

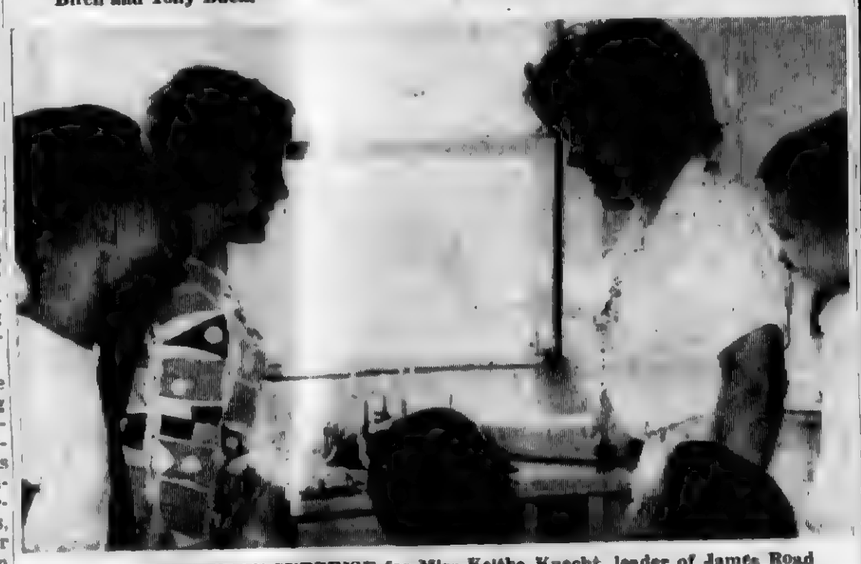
Will Discuss How Thinking Affects Life

William Correll

The ways in which a man's thinking determines his life will be explored at a one-hour public lecture, Tuesday, July 21, by William Milford Correll of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. The lecture, sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, will be presented at 8 p.m. in the Church Edifice, 457 E. Broad-st.



Theme of the lecture is the Christian Science emphasis on yielding to God's power and love through prayer. It is entitled "Your Thinking Determines Your Experience."

Correll devoted full time to Christian Science healing practice shortly after his military service in France during World War II. He has since participated in a number of Christian Science television and radio programs, and is an authorized teacher of the religion. He resides in Cleveland.

Youngsters in all of Columbus Recreation Center's east area playgrounds will participate in the Central Ohio Swimming Meet, to be held at the new Sunshine Swimming Pool July 21 and 22.

The two-day swimming and diving event will offer competition to boys and girls 17 and under in 82 events. Swimmers must submit their entry forms, available from playground leaders, by Friday, July 17, 7 p.m.

Driver Cited In Auto Crash

Ralph Brickey, 23, of 4027 Beechcreek-rd, suffered a skull fracture and two others were injured in a two-car accident Sunday, at E. Broad-st and Noe Bixby-rd.

Police said a car driven on E. Broad-st by Frank Brickey Sr. of 1498 Hammond-st, Reynoldsburg, collided with a car being driven north on Noe Bixby-rd, by Richard Carlin, 37, of North Carolina.

Police cited Carlin for failure to yield at a stop sign.

Frank Brickey Jr., 8, a passenger in the Brickey car, was treated at St. Anthony Hospital and released.

Forest Lawn To Add Memorials

Willard W. Miller, president of Forest Lawn Memorial Gardens, announces that a construction contract has been let and work has started by the E. R. Lintner Co. of Gahanna, Ohio, for the construction of the Devotion Memorial in the Garden of Devotion in Forest Lawn. Thomas J. Tully is the architect.

This large memorial consists of two enormous bronze plaques furnished by the Matthews Company of Pittsburgh, Pa. One contains the Lord's Prayer and the other the Twenty-third Psalm.

This is the tenth memorial in Forest Lawn and will be completed within the next 90 days.

Forget Sheep--Learn How To Sleep!

By LELORD KORDEL

Millions of men and women are tortured by insomnia.

Are you one of those who must resort to various means—from-counting sheep to the taking of sleeping tablets—to secure needed rest?

Years of Wrong Eating

In most cases, sleeplessness can be traced to years of wrong, inadequate diet.

Sleeping is controlled by a complex center in the very depths of the brain, known as the sleep center which is regulated by the bloodstream.

It is the magic plumbing network — our blood system — that takes care of all bodily processes, including those of sleep.

But it cannot "deliver the goods" if there is nothing to deliver, if nutritional deficiencies have depleted the body reserves.

Before the brain's sleep center can produce drowsiness and inactivity of the conscious mind, the bloodstream must contain enough calcium and lactic acid.

Why is it that after a day spent in the outdoors you fall asleep as soon as your head touches the pillow?

True, the sunshine and fresh air and mental relaxation.

But what is even more important, unusual physical activity releases more calcium and lactic acid into the bloodstream.

Natural Sleep Beat

Promoting the blood's sleep chemistry with mineral-rich foods and supplements is the only safe way you can hope to restore the permanent function of natural sleep you were born with.

To improve a run-down condition, I recommend a quart of buttermilk daily.

Because of its high lactic-acid content, buttermilk is an especially good beverage, promoting digestion of proteins and iron-containing foods.

It is the source of calcium and lactic acid that have a direct bearing on sleep.

Cheese, buttermilk, meat, egg yolks are the animal foods which furnish the largest quantities of calcium.

Vegetables rich in calcium include: cabbage (raw), cauliflower, oranges, dried navy beans, celery, carrots, string beans asparagus, almonds, figs, walnuts, coconuts, radishes, berries, wheat germ, broccoli, lettuce and tomatoes.

Salt Can Upset

Too much ordinary table salt can upset the sleep chemistry to such an extent that it causes a high degree of nervous tension.

In a highly revealing experiment conducted by Dr. Michael M. Miller of Washington, D. C., patients were treated merely by reducing the amount of salt in the diet.

Within a week the patients on this low-salt diet were able to fall asleep within fifteen minutes after getting into bed.

Forget About Tomorrow!

One sleep robber is the constant thought of tomorrow. "I must go to sleep . . . I have to get up early" is enough to create a restless, wakeful night.

Mental rest during the hours of nightly relaxation is as important as physical inactivity.

Sleep is a natural period of rest used by the body to rebuild cells and store energy to use in accomplishing next tasks of tomorrow.

Sleep-inducing nutrients are necessary in your body to pull down the curtain on your day, signifying your conscious performance is over.

Next week: Did you know that eye-strain can shorten your life — and rob you of your youthful appearance?

COL. COCHRAN explains the Army Corps of Engineers plan to spectators at a public hearing, July 8.

Cochran—

that he (Cochran) was "prepared" to include the request for federal funds in the fiscal 1966 budget.

In answer to repeated charges and news stories that there had been a delay of about 25 years between Congressional authorization and actual funding of three Scioto River Basin projects, Cochran said that this was not accurate. The three projects in question, Big Darby, Deer Creek and Paint Creek, were found to be "economically infeasible" shortly after the original authorization, Cochran said. He explained that the original authorization envisioned a nationwide program of about $12 billion, and that it was known that not all projects studied would prove to be economically sound.

Actually, he reported, the Big Darby, Deer Creek and Paint Creek projects were re-evaluated; found to be "economically feasible" in the light of present conditions, and included in the district's plan in 1962. This was the same time that Alum Creek and Mill Creek were included in work proposed to be done by the Corps of Engineers.

Another major point stressed by Cochran was the difference in the two plans dealing with acquisition of land. Past experience, Cochran pointed out, indicates that land could be obtained at substantially less cost by taking cases into a federal rather than local court. But even more important, according to his testimony, is the procedure for actual taking of needed properties.

Under the laws governing conservancy districts, land cannot be entered, or work commenced, until final determination of appropriations cases in the courts. The federal court procedure would eliminate any delay of projects due to right-of-way problems by permitting access to properties at the time a court case is filed.

SCD backers have questioned the length of delay due to waiting for Congress to approve federal funding. A similar delay question has been raised in relation to the ability of the local agency to secure rights of entry onto appropriated properties.

Those supporting the SCD as building authority for the local projects have repeatedly stressed the importance of flood control. They have said that time is a most important factor because it is not known when the next devastating flood will strike. But this lack took a reverse twist at the public hearing as Tahlman Krumm, an engineer for SCD consultants Burgess and Niple, presented his testimony. Krumm, stressing the importance of water supply over flood control, said that the SCD plan offered the opportunity to supply up to 25 million gallons per day more for Columbus' needs than the 40 million gallons per day of the Army plan.

Krumm said that such a use of Alum Creek for water supply would necessitate the withdrawal of the flood protection feature. Under questioning, Krumm testified that such a modification would entail refunding to assessed taxpayers the amount charged to them for flood protection. Such costs would fall to Columbus taxpayers.

While Krumm said he was testifying as an individual, Richard E. Midden, executive secretary of the SCD, confirmed that Krumm's statements were an accurate presentation of the flexibility of the SCD plan. Midden, in a statement following the public hearing, said that the question of switching from flood control to water supply dealt with a time "beyond the year 2,000." He also said that either the Mill Creek or proposed stage two Bellpoint project might have been better used as an example.

Cochran told council that the question of placing and maintaining a request for federal funds in the budget to be presented to Congress next year would be determined at the local level. He said that his office, to date, had received only the council resolution requesting federal funds and a petition signed by residents of Sunbury-rd. He stressed the need for support from responsible local groups and Congressional representatives.

The SCD-Army issue is scheduled to face two additional areas of "testing," a ballot contest in November and a hearing or series of hearings before the Scioto Conservancy Court. A $9.5 million bond issue, asking voters to ratify a water agreement between the city and the SCD, is scheduled for inclusion on the Nov. 3 ballot.

The SCD ballot issue differs in application from the other (capital improvement) bond issues on the ballot. If the capital improvement issues fail, council will be denied the right to sell bonds for the needed improvements, supported by both council and the city administration. Should the water agreement bond issue fail, council could still enter into agreement with the SCD for water supply in conjunction with construction of the Alum Creek project.

Without ratification of the water supply agreement with the city, the SCD would face the alternatives of abandoning the project, building it as a flood protection only job, or petitioning the court for permission to re-evaluate the entire scope of the two projects to include a water supply feature at Alum Creek, with the district to sell the water to whatever areas it chooses.

It seems likely that the first decision-making in the matter will take place in the five-judge Conservancy Court. An SCD official said he expects that filing of the appraisal record with the court — once tentatively set for June 8 — will now be accomplished within 30 days. Although a judge of the court has previously said that the court will not initiate action to compare the SCD plan with that proposed by the Corps of Engineers, this question will undoubtedly have effect on any court proceedings.

If, as now seems likely, the Conservancy Court action comes before the November elections, the decisions might be made before the people take part in the Nov. 3 "opinion poll" at the ballot box.

Reading Beats Reruns!

Miss Ellen Metzger, new head librarian of Whitehall Library, has noticed an important trend in local summer library activity.

Over 600 children are enrolled in the summer reading club. Each of these children are reading 10 books of his choice, reporting orally upon them, and will receive a diploma at a party.

Adults are using the travel guides, enjoying the new fiction and non-fiction selections, and guiding their children's selections.

Teenagers come to the library equipped with college preparatory reading lists, put out by teachers of English, and are building their reading backlogs.

Whitehall suggests the following books to keep the bonanza going.

For children: Mother Westwind's Children, Burgess; Lafcadio, the lion who shot back, Silverstein; Flicka, Ricka, and Dicka, Lindman; What Do You Do Dear?, Joslin; and any Dr. Seuss book.

For teenagers: Great Expectations, Dickens; Jane Eyre, Bronte; Young John Kennedy, Schoor; and Rockets and Spacecraft of the World, Chester.

Adult books in demand now are: The Spy Who Came In From The Cold, Le Carre; Black Like Me, Griffin, The Women In The Whitehouse, Means; Door To The Future, Stern; Anybody Who Owns His Own Home, Deserves It, King; and The Naked Society, Packard.

If the family television is boring, end the problem by reading!

Army Offers Better Plan For Building Dams

Two recent public hearings before Columbus City Council have made available the most pertinent facts concerning two separate plans for construction of the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects. Representatives of the Scioto Conservancy District and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers have had their say. Here's how we see it:

We recognize that any issue involving the expenditure of millions of dollars will draw both support and opposition from a variety of sources. Each side will be represented by people of sincerity, integrity and honesty, and by those with narrow, selfish interests. That is why we have urged, editorially, that a choice be based on relative merit of the plans and realization of the projects without undue delay.

We believe that a commitment to a specific course of action is a good commitment only so long as it continues to represent what is best for those directly affected. This is true whether the issue at stake is in the realm of foreign affairs, or deciding upon an agency to assume responsibility for local water management projects.

The opposition to the Army plan for Alum and Mill Creeks has been built mainly on the theme that federal financing means federal control, and thus makes the whole proposition undesirable. Now it is no secret that our usual preference is for local financing and local control as opposed to abdicating our responsibilities to a central government that already has grown too large. But, of course, our preference assumes programs that are both operationally and economically sound.

We also recognize that a newspaper's privilege of editorial endorsement carries with it a moral responsibility to assess all facts and if necessary, to subjugate personal political philosophy to the reality of current conditions. Thus "relative merit" becomes the balance wheel between the idealistic and the realistic.

And on the basis of relative merit, the Corps of Engineers' plan stands out as much the better of the two. It anticipates a greater potential flood condition, affords a far superior recreational adjunct and saves Columbus taxpayers $16 million or more in local taxes.

The argument against federal control in the case of the local dams really doesn't hold much water. Control is exercised only to the extent that the dams be operated in co-ordination with others within the Scioto River Basin. Local protection is given first consideration under the Army plan to the same extent as under the SCD proposal. The main difference is that there might be a time, under the Army plan, when local convenience could be subordinate to protection of downstream areas.

And the question of completing the projects without undue delay must be decided at the local level. We are convinced that a sincere, united local voice of encouragement for the Corps of Engineers' plan will bring to the area the best available program for flood control, water supply and recreation.

Local leadership, particularly city council and the various business and civic organizations have a responsibility to make every effort to gain favorable Congressional action. Much of the burden will fall to our Congressional Representative, Sam Devine. Our two U.S. Senators, Frank J. Lausche and Stephen A. Young and Congressman-At-Large Robert Taft must also be urged to act.

Both the SCD and Army plans have been exposed to public view, and there is a clear indication that the people prefer the Army plan; that it is the better plan, and that it is available if we make a determined effort to secure it.

Home Improvement Clinic Good Idea

Something new has been added to the Systematic Housing Inspection program now under way in the City of Columbus. It is called the "Franklinton Home Improvement Clinic," and will begin operation on Saturday.

The clinic, to be established at Gladden Community House, is the outgrowth of the pilot inspection program in progress on the Near West Side and Near East Side. A similar clinic is also planned for the East Side area.

The Franklinton Home Improvement Clinic takes its name from the original name of the area it will serve. It will offer area residents the advice of experts in home repair and remodeling, and methods of financing needed improvements.

While various commercial enterprises will participate in clinic activities, the approach will be non-commercial. Property owners will be made aware of what can be done, how it may be done and the approximate cost. The decision in all cases will rest with the individual property owner.

The clinic approach is being utilized in answer to numerous requests for assistance from residents who have given willing cooperation to the initial phase of the housing inspection program. In fact, the inspection program has been so well received that many persons have sought advice or have begun repairs even before arrival of the inspection teams.

The purpose of the whole program is to emphasize the "renewal" aspect of Urban Renewal; to replace the wrecking crew with the improvement team, and to avoid the uprooting of whole neighborhoods. The fact that each dollar spent for this type of program saves an alternative $4 spent for slum clearance is important. But even more important is the establishing of pride of property ownership that can greatly minimize slum clearance programs.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Our Canadian Neighbors Are Proud – But Touchy – People

TORONTO, Ont. — Americans like their kissin' cousins, the Canadians, a lot better than the Canadians like them. The reason is simple. We can take the Canadians or leave them alone. They have to take us.

The overwhelming majority of Canadians live tight up against the American border. Of Canada's 10 largest cities only two—Calgary and Edmonton — are more than 100 miles from American territory. The United States, with 10 times Canada's population, exerts a powerful tidal pull.

Jones

When America has an economic squeeze Canada comes down with pneumonia. In order to permit its national magazines to exist Canada has had to force a limitation on Canadian advertising in American magazines circulated in Canada. There is now a quota on the number of American programs that can be shown on Canadian TV.

This fierce effort to maintain a strong national identity against Big Brother has rubbed a number of Canadians pretty raw. The puppy-friendly American who travels into Canada is often dismayed at the cheers John Diefenbaker and Mike Pearson get for cussing Uncle Sam. Canadians glory in their dealings with Red China and Cuba.

I got an angry letter last week from a gentleman in Ottawa claiming that the famous Nova Scotia schooner, Bluenose, would never have been beaten if Americans hadn't disguised a racing yacht as a fishing boat.

"Americans," he added, stiffly, "will do anything to win."

The trouble is that while Canadians think about America much of the time, Americans think about Canada very little. To the average American, Canada is a lovely land full of moose and fish, ruled over by the Queen of England, and policed by romantic Northwest Mounties who always rescue beautiful Eskimo maidens from vicious halfbreeds.

This drives the Canadian nuts. He is always running after you with a fistful of dull statistics pointing out that the gross national product is growing between six and eight percent a year, that a third of the people are now industrial workers, that of 19,000 cops only 811 are Mounties, and that Canada has only 11,500 Eskimos.

As for the Queen, the first act of any Canadian Parliament is the passage of a dummy bill just before the Governor-General gives the "Throne Speech" authorizing the session. This is to prove that the Queen "rules" Canada about as much as she rules California.

Because of his preoccupation with the U.S.A. the average Canadian has a long memory for incidents and atrocities. He remembers and may even be descended from the 40,000 American Tories who were forced to flee to Canada during the Revolutionary War, their homes and lands confiscated by the greedy rebels. He takes pride in General Brock who turned back a foot-in-the-bucket American army at Queenston Heights in 1812. He is still mad about 800 wild-eyed Irish-Americans, called Fenians, who invaded Canada in 1866 with some tipsy idea of embarrassing Britain on the Irish question.

The average American never thinks to ask what became of the Tories, never heard of General Brock or the Fenians. This makes the Canadians sore, too.

For it is almost as bad to be ignored as to be opposed. And Canadians gripe that Americans often treat Canada as though it were an American province. We address letters to Vancouver, B.C. or Winnipeg, Man., without mentioning the country. Americans are impressed by the fact that not a fort or a gunboat exists along the 3,989 miles of our Canadian boundary, and we assume that Canadians will respond to chumminess. But little brothers don't think the way big brothers do, Canada has a fragile pride. It craves, not a youall-come-by, but a 21-gun salute.

Yet in spite of the often-misguided camaraderie of the Americans, it does seem that Canadians sometimes forget how much they owe the Colossus-below-the-Line. Without the gigantic American investment in Canada that gross national product would be a puny thing. Canadian jealousy of successful American ventures in Canada isn't balanced by much compassion for the thousands of Americans who have been swindled by Toronto's outrageous bucket shops and boiler rooms.

Perhaps not adequately stressed in Canadian history books is the greatest benefit Canada ever got from the United States, namely the lesson the Crown learned from the American Revolution. As late as 1838, when Governor-General Lord Durham recommended home rule for Canada, the idea was cold-shouldered in London, Queen Victoria's prime ministers were not the type of men who voluntarily relinquished power.

But by 1867 the handwriting was plain and the British parliament made Canada the first self-governing dominion in the Empire. It would be naive to imagine that the sad parade at Yorktown 86 years before had nothing to do with this happy event.

Canada is a tremendous country and in spite of pre-cambrian granite, muskey, mosquitoes, and permafrost, man is going to learn to live successfully at higher and higher latitudes. The Canadians will do better than the Siberians because they have the drive of individual dignity and pride.

As a matter of fact, they are a great people and we are lucky to have them for neighbors. If only they weren't so darned touchy.

Frosting On The Cake

My fond memories of my marvelous dad are just as vivid and heartwarming as though it were yesterday. He was never too busy to be interested in each one of his children, no matter how trivial their troubles.

Dad was six feet tall, endowed by old Mother Nature with a castiron carcass and whang leather nervous system and believed in every form of recreation and body building instruction. He taught me to swim like a fish by the time I was six and always said it was criminal neglect for any parents to neglect such training.

We read day after day about tragic drownings because neither youngsters nor adults can swim. Professional recreation directors suffer frustration every summer because of this mounting total of needless drownings.

We had a little "swimmin hole" back in the woods of a neighboring farm and a worked-out gravel pit. The water was clear as a crystal and came from overflowing cold springs. That farmer kept the weeds and brush cut away from the shoreline and kept it stocked with fish from the state hatchery. We were never allowed to go swimming unless an adult who could swim also was present. Nor could we go into the water in less than an hour after our latest meal.

There were two hazards, of course—snapping turtles and big crawfish could nip a toe. But every kid who lived in our area and went swimming in that old gravel pit and also fished there and speared frogs by the dozen, then trapped rats and mink and otter during the winter.

Now the tragic drownings are mostly to be blamed on violating forbidden spots or just plain idiocy with some boat or raft that never should be allowed out on any body of water.

Columbus Recreation Department and the YM-YWCA are to be commended for their safe and supervised swimming instruction.

As I look back over 73 years of full and busy living, I can recall four incidents when my ability to swim saved my life and also enabled me to save others who were threatened. Listen, Dad and Mom, see to it that your kids are taught to swim while they're still little [illegible]

RESEARCH TOPIC: SNORING

"To breathe in sleep through the nose and open mouth, with a hoarse rough noise and rattling vibrations of the soft palate." So does our dictionary define snoring. It seems accurate enough.

In this age when the very word "research" has become a status symbol, why hasn't some public (your taxes) or private agency given a grant-in-aid to study snoring? A lot of questions have been asked about it, and few answered adequately. Here are a few of them. Satisfactory answers could well form the basis for a thesis.

Are people the only animals who snore? If so, why? If not, why not? Is snoring an expression of the subconscious? Or is it entirely a physical phenomenon? Does is reflect one's personality or conscious disposition? What is the extent of its relationship with the sale of twin beds or the building of additional bedrooms?

These questions ought to be answered. They may be as important as who will be the next President or how many new nations will emerge in Asia or Africa in the next few years.

But, after all, the situation may not be as bad as it looks. We do know a few facts, fortunately, to begin with. If we are willing to lose a little of our own sleep, we could learn about the habits and preferences of others.

One characteristic likely would be a snorer's tendency to shift from one key to another. The subject might open the night's concert with Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Minor, change to a varied repertoire, maybe including some arias, and at last greet the indifferent dawn with a triumphant rendition of Beethoven's Fifth.

It says here . . .

Edgar Allen Poe's "Raven" could just as well have said, "Snore no more."

Do God's Bidding In Loving Obedience

Ephesians 6:6—Doing the will of God from the heart. What does God want me to do?

When the answer to this question is known, the loyal Christian will be glad to do it in loving obedience. Christ said, "if you love me you will keep my commandments." He asked us to do five simple but profoundly important acts. If we do them from the heart we shall know the joy of our Lord. These are the five main ways we may obey Christ in love.

Ling

(1) Christ asked us to take communion, I Corinthians 11:26 "to do this as oft as you drink it in remembrance of me." The only way the Lord asked to be remembered is by broken bread and crumpled grapes. On the first day of each week every Christian is requested by Christ to be in His house to remember Him.

(2) Christ has asked us to tell everyone on all the earth about Him. In Matthew 28:19-20 Christ says to "go into all the world and preach the Gospel, baptizing in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. How long has it been since you won a soul to Christ? How long has it been since you even tried? Where you live is the place to start.

(3) Christ has asked us to love one another. John 15:17, "This I command you to love one another." How many people do you love enough to sacrifice for or to have deep concern for their well-being?

(4) Christ has asked us to give money for His cause on earth. Matthew 23:23: "you tithe . . . these you ought to have done." Christ approved tithing 10 percent of our income for His work. He watched the widow give all she possessed and approved what some would call foolish giving.

(5) Christ has asked us to engage in active service. "If any man would come after me let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me." Christ accepts no half-hearted service. He who endures to the end will be saved. God help us all in loving obedience to do the will of God from the heart.

Philip H. Ling, minister
Norton Church of Christ

Supports Army Plan

To the Publisher:

I wish to congratulate you, and to offer my personal support in your courageous fight with regard to the Scioto Conservancy District program.

There seems to be an attempt to stampede this project through, as usual, at the expense of the unsuspecting taxpayer. The bugaboo about federal spending seems to be, as usual, a camouflage or subterfuge to cover up some personal interests on the part of a group of people in our community.

Are they working for our benefit? I hope so. However, I can only see a hurried attempt to put through a program which involves additional taxes. I would be much happier to have our tax money in Washington pay for the project, if this is possible. If it takes an additional year to complete the project, with federal funds, I am still for it.

There are some implications with regard to recreation areas which also need clarification. I have much feeling that this area needs exploration.

As a person vitally concerned with the general welfare of this community, I must support your point of view that Franklin County residents must weigh this problem with methodical study before supporting a program which will have a great deal of effect on the lives of Central Ohioans.

Again thank you for your support.

Thanks, Mr. Mayor!

To the Publisher:

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate your newspaper on its splendid news coverage during the recent newspaper strike here in Columbus.

I am most happy that the strike has been resolved and that we now have our newspapers back in circulation.

Best wishes and again, many thanks for your fine cooperation during this emergency.

Project Successful

Your assistance in creating public interest in the 1964 P.L.A.N. Awards has been most valuable. There were many more nominations from areas which your papers serve than in years past. Your fine coverage has been the obvious stimulant. There were even more winners in your areas!

Shun Sunday Buying

We, the Baptist Pastors Conference of Columbus and vicinity, recognize that from our beginning as Christians the first day of the week was set aside to be observed as a day of worship and rest in recognition of the resurrection of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

We feel, therefore, that no unnecessary secular activities should be participated in, utilized, or supported on Sunday.

We therefore call upon the members of our churches and the public in general to abstain from buying and selling or participating in any other secular activities which will be contrary to the teaching of the Holy Scriptures.

Williams' Play Pleasant Changes; 'Mandalore' Offers Comic 'Pill'

By BOB PERKOWSKI

POG's leap into serious drama was gratefully received as "Night of the Iguana" opened Monday. Tennessee Williams' "shocker," amply laced with humor, almost hypnotically entranced theatregoers.

Playhouse - on-the-Green's resident company again demonstrated its versatility with finely wrought performances, and it appeared the cast enjoyed the near mid-season change of pace as much as the audience.

Donald Barton, as a defrocked minister, gave an amazingly even performance of a demanding role. Jean Le Bouvier and Mary Hara, feminine leads, were equally engaging as the women who vied for his attention. Edward Wright was also convincing in the difficult role of the poet-grandfather.

Although Williams may be controversial because of his probings into sexual themes, it is certain his ability as a playwright earns him a deserved place in American theater. His characters live and the play often touches on the poetic.

Although the play is demanding of both cast and audience, the extra effort of both was well repaid — and a pleasant breather from the more "popular" summer theater offerings.

"Prince Of Mandalore"

By SANDY ARTER

To briefly summarize the current Stadium Theatre production, "The Prince of Mandalore," we quote an old Indian proverb, "a prince in time saves nine."

If the reviewer pulled a pun, it's because the show did, too. Three wealthy Dixie gentlemen expect the arrival of the Indian Prince of Mandalore. They unknowingly demand a command performance from three Negro actors from New York.

Chuck White, a Columbus folksinger, plays the imposter prince, who envisions a desegregation pill to be taken by all those who suffer from the ills of prejudice.

The pill isn't hard to take when you see the prince cause the somewhat prejudiced gentlemen to change their public image and actually aid the Negro.

If it's true that all the world is a stage, this production may be called a wonderful kind of comic relief from daily segregation problems.

Arabia is the largest peninsula in the world, including several political divisions which cover an area of about one million square miles.

PLAY SATIRIZES SEGREGATION

THE NEW SATIRIC FABLE about segregation, "The Prince of Mandalore," is the current production of OSU's Stadium Theatre. Appearing in the production, from left to right, are Noble Parrish, Curk Meeks and Chuck White. Performances are nightly through Saturday, July 18, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be reserved by calling CY. 3-2295 from noon to 9:30 p.m.

'Tovarich,' Next Kenley Musical Based On Successful Comedy

By HAROLD LINK

A story of two royal expatriots from Russia after the revolution, "Tovarich," was first done as a very successful comedy around 1935 on Broadway. Now a bright new musical, the Kenley Players production opens Tuesday at Veterans Memorial.

Living in Paris, the Grand Duchess—Tatiana Petrouna—(Jane Morgan) and her husband, Prince Mikhail Alexandrovitch Ouratieff (Arthur Todd) are very poor.

They are, however, custodians of a huge sum of money from the czar for future benefit of Russian under some future czar.

Because they refuse to spend the money, everyone tries to get it away from them. They must go to work in order to eat. They hire out as a butler and maid to an American couple, Charles Davis (Jack De Lon) and his wife Grace (Hazel Steck).

The Davis have two children Helen (Fanny Richards) and George (Tommy Kirk), and from this many amusing situations develop as a result.

Musical numbers arise out of nostalgic memories of Russia and the current life in Paris.

The villain of the play is Commissar Gorotchenko (Charles Caron) who is sent by the present Russian czar to get the money back for them, and does so.

Don't forget that "Take Her, She's Mine" with Durward Kirby is now playing at Veterans Memorial through Saturday. This very funny comedy is well worth seeing and should cause you to shed a couple of tears in laughter.

OSU 'Little Foxes' Will Star Eileen Heckart As Regina

Eileen Heckart will be starred as Regina, the sultry, vicious and ruthless heroine who pits brother against brother and drives her husband into the grave in "The Little Foxes." OSU's Stadium Theatre is producing the harrowing tragedy as the fourth presentation of its 15th anniversary season for six performances beginning next Tuesday, July 21.

Appearing as her brothers, the other two "foxes" who connive to gain wealth at the price of destruction of the Hubbard family are Graydon Goss as Ben and Al Converse as Oscar.

LeRoy Johnson will appear in the role of Horace, Regina's invalid husband who ultimately is killed. Robert Jones and Karen Hoover play, respectively, Leo, Oscar's weak and villainous son, and Alexandra, Birdie's daughter. The pitiful and tortured Birdie, wife of Oscar, will be portrayed by Rose Adams.

Also to be seen is Jack Denyes as Marshall, the Chicago industrialist whose business proposition is the basis for the Hubbard's Borgia-like plottings.

Written by the eminent American dramatist, Lillian Hellman, to show the crimes that both men and women are capable of in their quest for financial gain, "The Little Foxes" ran for 388 performances on Broadway, where drama critics judged it the best play of the season. It was made into a movie starring Bette Davis.

Golden Age Hobby Show Announced

Mrs. A. L. Greenspun will serve as chairman of the 16th annual Golden Age Hobby Show scheduled at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts Sept. 18, 19 and 20.

Co-chairman of the exhibition, open to persons 60 years and older will be Mrs. Robert Ammerman.

Entries will not be sold at show, and should be brought to the gallery between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 14 and 15. Judging will take place Tuesday evening.

Assisting with the Hobby Show are: Mrs. F. R Christy, 494 Kimball-pl, and Mrs. J. A. Davis, 1596 Grandview, entries; Mrs. Ernest Ocher, 777 Siebert, judges; Mrs. Aaron Horowitz, 80 S. Prospects Good For North Side Pool, Mayor Says

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner reports there is a good likelihood that a $275,000 Olympic-size swimming pool will be built by the city on the southeast corner of the State Fairgrounds for opening next Memorial Day.

The pool, which would accommodate 800 persons, would serve 3,000 children from two elementary schools in the area, some 2,000 children from the nearby Windsor Terrace housing development, the 30,000 students of OSU and fair visitors.

The pool, the second to be built by the city, would also be accessible to residents from throughout Central Ohio because of nearness to the Interstate 71 Freeway.

Mayor Sensenbrenner recently proposed that the state donate 1.29 acres for such a pool and the city build it out of funds already earmarked for recreation.

Norman Treadon of Cleveland, chairman of the development of the Ohio Exposition Center, last week told Mel Dodge, city recreation supervisor, that the commission was interested in the pool and considered the southeast corner of the fairgrounds as the best location.

'The Hostage' In Rehearsal At Playhouse

The late Brendan Behan, the fabulous Irish playwright and imbiber of international note, wrote the outrageous comedy, "The Hostage," to be presented at Playhouse-on-the-Green for two weeks beginning Monday, July 20.

"The Hostage" is set in a disreputable Dublin lodging house, and some of its characters are drawn from the world's oldest, though not most respectable profession. Others are zealots of Irish patriotism, religious fanatics or just plain zanies. All of them are expressions of the scalding glee with which the author irreverently attacks every hypocritical department of morality in the Western World.

Louis Beachner, who appeared in the off-Broadway production of "The Hostage," will direct and play in POG's production. Others in the cast will include Donald Barton, Jean Le Bouvier and Ray Girardin.

St. Mary's Class Of '39 Schedules 25th Reunion

The 1939 class of St. Mary's South will hold its 25th reunion on Saturday, Aug. 22. The locations of the following members are unknown: Paul Boehm, Betty Craig, Bob Call and Bill Withrow.

Anyone knowing how to contact them is asked to call Albert Brehl, HI. 4-2048.

Slates Sunday Show

Promoter Buddy Clark will present the premier showing of his exciting new "Pop's Concert," which is being produced and designed to create a new concept in Buddy's style of Manhattan popular musical melodies.

This show will be held Sunday, July 19, at the Scioto Trail from 2 to 5 p.m., one mile north of Fishingers Bridge. Top local artists will perform during this three-hour show with music for dancing. This private affair is for members and guests of Columbus Showbiz Artists. Advance tickets may be secured from any C.S.A. artist, or by gate sale to invited guests only.

Entertain By Pool

Independent Players Club of Columbus is brightening up "poolside" Saturday evenings at the Kings Inn, Arlington Arms Motel, through Sept. 5. A cool, outdoor, musical variety show around the pool is the featured evening entertainment every Saturday, starting at 9 p.m.

There is no charge to the public for these shows, which are being presented by the Kings Inn as a showcase for the Independent Players and other Columbus talent.

Anyone interested in trying out for a guest appearance is asked to attend rehearsal any Wednesday evening, 8 p.m., at the Independent Players Club Room at 261 S. High-st.

THE SAN FRANCISCO GIANTS

The undeniable stature of Chet Huntley and David Brinkley, and their unconventional approach to a Convention, make them the team to watch at San Francisco this week. Backed by all the experience and skills of their NBC News colleagues, Chet and David are among the best reasons we know for following the REPUBLICAN CONVENTION on NBC Television.

Want ads are one of the easiest, most inexpensive means to extra cash in your pocket or purse. Use them often. It's so easy that if you can spell "W-A-N-T A-D" you can use Spectator Want Ads. . . successfully!

When your ad appears in the Spectator Want Ad Section, you're in business. Want Ad readers are buyers . . . they're looking for the things you are advertising . . . and they're willing and even anxious to pay you cash for them.

A phone call to BR. 4-1155 connects you with a friendly ad-taker who will help you word an ad to sell those things around the house you no longer need or use.

WHAT IS SUMMER?

Summer Is A Winning Serve . . .

Summer Is A Test Of Strength . . .

JUST ASK ANY KID!

Summer Is A Lousy Call At Second . . .

Christmas is awful nice and almost nothin' beats kicking dead leaves or rolling around in the snow.

But for three months' worth, a fellow just can't beat summer. Why? Well, first of all, there's no school, books, stiff collars and stuff like that.

Summer is being dirty without cleanin' up all the time. It's more sun in the day and stayin' up later at night. Summer's Saturday morning seven days a week.

There's more to get done when it's summer and lots more time to do it. The grass is greener and longer and nobody can find you when you're real quiet except a bug or two.

Summer's more noises — crickets, thunder and stupid giggles; more tastes — hose water in between innings, icing in a mixing bowl and chocolate ice cream off sticky fingers; more dangers — off the highest board, through the darkest alley, in the biggest hornet's nest.

Summer isn't for grownups. They only sweat more and do less.

But I guess they're OK. There are grownups at the recreation centers and they have things like pet shows, baseball and clown parades for us kids all summer long.

Summer's just the best time of the whole year. Maybe you don't believe me but it's true. Just ask any kid!

Summer Is A Hot Metal Slide . . .

. . . Summer Is A Scared Puppy

Learning something new during the summer is different from what you have to learn in school. A "grownup game" of chess (above) is lots of fun.

Eagles' Annual Picnic Planned

Columbus Aerie 297, Fraternal Order of Eagles, 771 N. High-st, will hold its annual family basket picnic and outing at Murphy's Party Barn and picnic grounds Powell, Sunday, July 19, 11 a.m.

There will be plenty of shelter, picnic tables, free parking, games and activities for young and old; dancing 3 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p.m., and entertainment and awards in the evening.

Food will be served on the grounds by the Ladies Auxiliary. All members, families and friends are invited.

If you crave something sweet, try the fruits of the season — now, it's plums, seedless grapes, peaches, a strip of cantaloupe or watermelon. They're high on taste and nutrition — and low on

Big Brother Camp Opens 31st Season

Camp Oty'Okwa, a 526 acre camp for boys in the Hocking County State Park area, opened its 31st season of camping to all boys of the community on June 29. Two one-week periods, and three two-week periods are scheduled through Aug. 22.

This camp, owned and operated by The Big Brother Association, of Columbus, Inc., is available to all boys in the Central Ohio area between the ages of six and 17. Tuition is $26.50 for one week and $50.00 for two weeks.

This fee includes registration, transportation, camp counselling, food, lodging, and insurance. There is no limit on the number of weeks a boy may attend. Boys are housed in groups of eight in Adirondack Cabins, with a counselor for each group.

Groups are divided by age so each boy will be with those having similar interests.

The camp director is assisted by selected college student counselors. Daily programs include swimming and life saving classes, camp craft, overnight hikes, conservation, nature study and many other activities including the use of donkeys as pack animals on overnight trips.

Physical facilities include a dining hall, medical cabin, recreation building, and a large modern swimming pool.

Visitors are welcome to inspect the camp any Sunday throughout the summer.

Application and complete by contacting the Big Brother Office, 2104 Tuller-st, or by calling 294-4423.

Your reporter and family will pay another visit to the famous Malabar Farm near Lucas, O., on July 18-19 as the 1964 Institute on Soil, Food and Human Health is held at the Louis Bromfield landmark. The program has been arranged by Dr. Jonathan Forman of Columbus with speakers coming from New York, New Jersey, Washington, D.C.; Columbia, South Carolina; Columbus, Mansfield and Galion.

The big event will be on Saturday evening when the Louis Bromfield Memorial Lecture will be given by the recipient of the Bromfield Gold Medal. Some 250 individuals from all over the United States and Canada have indicated their intention to attend.

These institutes were begun back in 1939 in connection with the Ohio Teachers Conservation Laboratory under the direction of O. E. Fink of Zanesville. When Fink joined the national office and friends of the Land he brought these conferences with him. They were held under the McGuffey Elms on the campus of Ohio University; later on the professional campus of the University of Illinois and finally on the campus of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, O. Upon the death of Mr. Bromfield, who had given so much of himself to these programs, the institutes were taken over by Malabar Farm Foundation and have been held regularly at the farm. Mr. Cobey, chairman of the board of trustees has pointed out how fitting it is that they should now have a memorial to Louis Bromfield and the contribution he made to the cause of soil and water conservation.

"Full steam ahead" is the response one receives from the Franklin County Fair Board, State Fair Board and the many other counties in our area, as the fair season is descending upon us. Weather permitting, it looks like a great year for the Ohio fair managers.

When Governor and Mrs. James Rhodes snip the ribbon at 6 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 28, it will signal the opening of the 111th and biggest fair in Ohio's proud history. Admission will be just 75 cents gate charge (children under 12 admitted free), and will open the door to millions of dollars worth of blue-ribbon exhibits, displays, shows and cost. An estimated 750,000 persons will see the fair this year.

The 1964 Sawmill and Logging Equipment Show will be held July 16 and 17, 1964, at the Waldron Lumber Co. mill, two miles south of McArthur on State Route 93. This annual action-packed show is sponsored by the Ohio Forestry Association, Inc., Columbus.

More than 40 leading equipment manufacturers from over 20 states will be demonstrating their machinery and products on the 19-acre exhibit grounds. In addition, the Waldron mill, featuring the latest advances in push-button sawmilling, will be operating and open to the public.

This is an opportunity for all Ohioans to see how lumber is produced in a modern sawmill.

There will be ample free parking and refreshments on the grounds. There is no admission charge.

The overdue precipitation the past ten days, though scattered throughout the Buckeye State, has certainly improved the crop prospects for most.

Senior Citizens Center

Thursday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Senior Citizens' Recreation Center the monthly afternoon euchre party will be held. This will be the last such party at the center until September so a good number will be on hand to play the progressive game and vie for the attractive prizes obtained by Mrs. Harriet Evans, and her committee.

The monthly New Members' Tea will be held Friday, July 17, from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. with Mrs. Ruth Marion in charge. Friday evening, July 17, the Dance Committee will meet with Amos Augenstein, chairman, and Mrs. Polly Ogan, leader, to work on center dance plans for the coming year. Mr. Augenstein also announced that an orchestra will play for the regular Wednesday dance, July 22 on the center's outside patio from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Reservations are being taken for the camping weekend for center members at Big Brother's Camp, Cam Oty'-Okwa near Laurelville. All reservations must be in by July 15. Mrs. Marion and Mrs. Ardath Lynch will be leaders for the session which starts on Saturday morning, July 18, and ends Monday noon, July 20.

Reservations are also being taken at the Senior Center for the Recreation Department trip to Senior Citizens' Day at Coney Island in Cincinnati. Reservation deadline is July 24.

IN MEDITERRANEAN

James M. Brannagan, fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Brannagan of 1087 Roundelay-rd, is a crewmember of the Navy nuclear powered guided missile cruiser USS Long Beach with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. He will have an opportunity to visit ports in France, Italy, Spain and Greece while in the Mediterranean.

Bobcats and bears have become so rare that they will require nearly complete protection if they are to survive.

HAUGHEY REPORTS

Midshipman 3C. David W. Haughey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Haughey of 6659 Rocky Den-rd, has reported aboard the Navy destroyer USS Mullany for a six-week Midshipman training cruise.

4-H Demonstrations Set For OSU Ag Buiding

An estimated 100 demonstrations are expected at the annual 4-H Club Demonstration Day program on Thursday, July 16, at the Agriculture Administration Building at Ohio State University.

The all-day session will feature talks and exhibitions by Franklin County 4-H members. Nearly 500 spectators are expected to attend.

NEW ELEMENTARIES

Maybury Set For Opening; Barnett Late

Columbus School Board Tuesday reviewed construction progress on Maybury and Barnett elementaries scheduled for September opening, and approved an increased $40,148,852 budget and the installation of a language laboratory at Eastmoor Junior High.

Largest single increase in the '65 budget is an approximate $300,000 for instructional expenses, to cover the cost of new textbooks and more teachers for the expected 4,500 additional pupils this fall.

Maybury School, 2633 Maybury-rd, is 90 percent completed and should be ready for occupancy when the fall term starts.

But Barnett, 1160 Barnett-rd, is "barely out of the ground," at only 15 percent of completion, and the outlook for a September opening is dubious.

Dr. Harold Eibling, school superintendent, emphasized however, that it is not impossible for construction to proceed rapidly enough for the building to be finished by fall.

An initial enrollment of 270, including a group of students now being transported by bus to Courtright, is estimated for Barnett. In the event the school is not ready, plans for housing these pupils will be announced.

The 11-classroom, $313,102 school shares a site just north of Livingston-av with the planned Barnett Recreation Center, to be built by the Columbus Recreation Department in time for opening the summer of '65.

In addition to students from the immediate neighborhood, Barnett will house those in an area now being transported to Courtright. Bussing these children to Barnett will relieve overcrowding at Courtright.

Dr. Eibling explained that a new school will be built in this section when further development justifies its need.

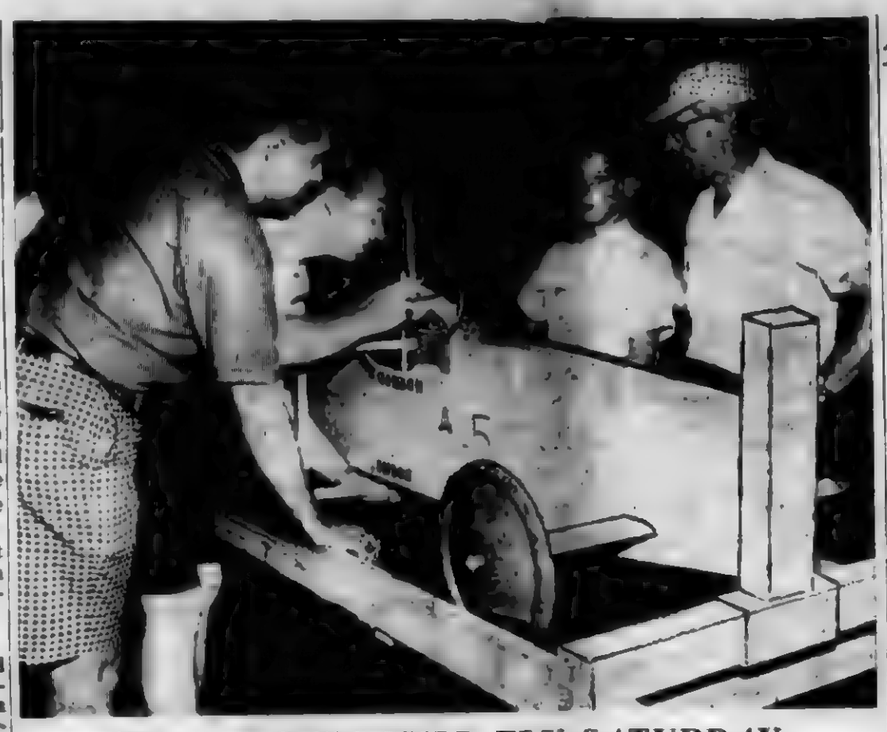
BARNETT DISTRICT

Students who will attend Barnett are those living within the area beginning at a point 200 feet west of Barnett-rd and E. Livingston-av, extending north to the northern property line of WBNS transmission tower, west to 100 feet east of Weyant-av, north to the middle of Main-st, east to the Columbus School District boundary, south and east to the New York Central RR spur, southeast to the middle of Livingston-av, and west to the point of origin.

The second section of Barnett district begins at the intersection of the proposed East Freeway and a point 100 feet east of Courtright-rd, goes south to the Columbus School District boundary line, west to Alum Creek, north to the proposed East Freeway, and east to the point of origin.

The 14-classroom Maybury, being built at a cost of $301,540, will have an initial estimated enrollment of 350.

MAYBURY DISTRICT



Maybury district boundaries begin at the intersection of a line 300 feet south of Meyers-rd and the Columbus School District boundary, extend south and west to Courtright-rd, north along a line 100 feet east of Courtright to the New York Central RR, east to Big Walnut Creek, north to a point 300 feet south of the western extension of Meyers-rd and Big Walnut, and east to the point of origin.

A contract for the installation of language laboratories at Eastmoor and four other junior highs was awarded for $17,013. All the city system's high schools now have the language instruction facilities, and half the junior highs.

Also awarded at Tuesday's meeting was a contract for $2,300 for curtains and draperies at Koebel and Barnett Schools.

FREE CHEST X-RAYS

Area residents may receive free Christmas Seal chest X-rays Monday, July 27, when the Tuberculosis Society's X-ray cruiser will be located at the Town and Country Shopping Center, 2 to 5 and 6 to 8:30 p.m.

SOAP BOXES WILL FLY SATURDAY

Springs' Century-Old Academy Gives Way To Coed College

The first in a series of sweeping changes planned by the Dominican Sisters of St. Mary of The Springs will make the educational institution the only Catholic men's college in the 23-county Columbus Diocese.

Twenty-five or 30 junior and senior men day students will be admitted this fall in all arts and sciences courses, including pre-med, pre-law, secondary and elementary education.

More will be admitted next year, and freshmen in 1966, when the Academy for high school students will close to devote the institution's entire facilities to an expanded college.

Other changes are still in the planning stage, to strengthen the academic program and open the doors to more qualified students, Catholic and non-Catholic.

It is expected that by 1976 the enrollment will approach 1,000, with about one-third of the students male. The college now has 400 fulltime students.

Mother Francis de Sales, mother general of the order, explained the reasons for closing the academy to make room for an expanded, coeducational college, as primarily to be of greater service to the diocese's young people.

It was economically infeasible, she said, to continue the academy and to expand the college. And since a number of new parochial high schools have been built and new ones are planned, it was easily possible for Columbus girls to secure a Catholic high school education.

But young men from the area must go to Dayton, Cleveland or Cincinnati to attend a Catholic college.

A charter was granted the

Apartment Request Filed

A request to rezone the west side of Gould-rd, 1,221 feet north of Maryland-av, for one 30-unit and one 24-unit apartment building was sent to Columbus City Council this week.

Melvin Freedberg, 115 S. Kellner-rd, signed the petition.

The project has been given Planning Commission approval.

Because two councilmen were absent, no action was taken on easements for the East Freeway and Hamilton Road widening project.

Summer Show Set At Center

A water show at the Jewish Center . . . it's as certain as summer in the community. This year's two-night event will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 25 and 26, 7 p.m. at the center's pool, 1125 College-av.

Public is invited and tickets are available at the door.

Theme of the 13th annual show is "Neptune Goes to the World Fair," and the program includes singing, dancing, tumbling speed swimming, synchronized swimming and diving.

Peggy Pierce, director of the center's swimming activities, has coordinated the program with the help of Rick Norris and Stu Greenberg.

Featured attractions will be Rick Norris dancing "Maria" with Judy Newpoff, and "The Circus Ballet" from the Rick Norris dance theater presentation, "An Evening of Dance '64."

Also included in the program will be Stu Greenberg, gymnast, who will dive from a 30-foot tower with Bill Keating.

Carol Bennoy will sing "People" and selections from "Guys and Dolls," accompanied by Steve Stellman.

Sue Mock will be featured in a synchronized swimming solo, and Sue Miller, Jane Shupe, Dixie Zinnecker, Sue Powell, Charles Maierson, Mike Crone and Stu Greenberg will comprise the remaining dance group.

The Nereides, a synchronized group, will perform, led by Toni Stephens.

ALUM, MILL CREEK DAMS

Appraisals Filed By SCD; Council Asks Federal Aid

By FRANK RYAN

Filing of the official appraisal record of the Scioto Conservancy District for possible constuction of the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects has set the stage for a Sept. 1 hearing before the Conservancy Court. But it now appears that the five-judge court must make its decision without benefit of a water supply agreement with the City of Columbus.

Meanwhile, backers of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers as building authority for the projects gained new strength from Columbus City Council when councilmen voted to rescind a resolution that would have placed the water supply agreement on the Nov. 3 ballot. Council this week voted 4-1 to remove the $9.5 million bond issue from the ballot.

Councilmen reasoned that the water supply issue was not necessary, and might jeopardize the city's six capital improvement bond issues to be presented for voter approval. The water agreement bond issue was, in effect, only a public opinion poll. Council would not have been bound by the voting result.

Seeks Supplemental Fund

Council also agreed to join in a request for a $100,000 supplemental appropriation through action of the U. S. Senate, and to be used as initial financing for the Alum Creek project. If successful, the funds would be available during the current fiscal year.

The prospects for actually gaining the supplemental appropriation are not considered bright because hearings have already been conducted in the Senate on budget requests. But any effort put forth at this time, it is said, will strengthen prospects for subsequent approval of appropriations for both Alum Creek and Mill Creek.

Interest in trying to gain a Congressional appropriation for the local projects has gained momentum since councilmen initiated a resolution asking the Corps of Engineers to include the projects in the fiscal 1966 budget to Congress.

It seems clear that the city will not consider a water agreement with the SCD prior to the scheduled Sept. 1 hearing date for exceptions to assessments filed against private property owners, public corporations and school boards.

Before determining ratification of the SCD appraisal record, the court will have to decide whether to continue with the Alum Creek plan without a water supply feature. While council has not closed the door on an eventual water supply agreement with the SCD, there has been

Confusion Hits SCD Appraisals

Whether or not the inspection by interested persons of the Scioto Conservancy appraisal record is off to a rocky start depends upon which office is contacted.

One of the first areas of confusion seems to be the location of the appraisal record. People have visited various offices in the Franklin County Court House, only to find that officials in most offices do not know where the appraisal record is filed. It is at the office of Joseph Clifford, clerk of the Common Pleas Court. The office is located on the second floor of the old court house building, S. High at Mound-sts.

Another point of confusion, according to a spokesman at the clerk of court's office, is that many people seem to blame Clerk Clifford's office for the fact that they will be assessed if the Scioto Conservancy Districts builds the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects.

"These people are coming in," the spokesman said, "and they are mad at us."

He added that most of the estimated 50 persons who have asked to examine the appraisal record are having difficulty arriving at an assessment figure. The appraisal record shows only a benefit figure, and the assessment is determined by taking 52 percent of the benefit figure.

The spokesman said that a major portion of the people

Whitehall Needs Clerk Of Council

Immediate applicants are being sought for a new clerk of council in Whitehall. Any interested Whitehall resident may apply to the clerk, Mrs. Gloria Conn, in the Municipal Buildings, weekdays from 9 to 5.

Mrs. Conn will be leaving for Boston where her husband, Dale, has accepted an assistant professorship at Harvard University. He will teach clinical psychology, starting at the fall term.

Todd Is Whitehall's New Safety Director

Former Whitehall Councilman Darrell M. Todd will become the city's new safety director, effective Aug. 1. He resigned a position on the Planning and Zoning Commission to accept Mayor William Holzhause's appointment.

Todd will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former safety director, Donald Waddell, on July 1.

Defeated in the May primaries, Todd had served as a member of council for the preceding term, and as chairman of the city's finance committee. He is a Republican.

Mayor Holzhause cited Todd's knowledge of Whitehall's government procedure and financial affairs, together with confidence in his ability as reasons for the appointment.

The mayor had announced after Waddell's resignation that he would delay appointing a new safety director until Whitehall's position on Sunday closing was clarified, feeling it would be unfair for a new director to assume leadership until the matter was resolved.

Todd is a resident of 674 Ross-rd.

Whitehall Okays '65 Budget

An $816,000 budget for 1965, $60,000 higher than in '64, but expected to leave a bigger balance in the city treasury at year's end than the current budget, was approved by Whitehall Council Tuesday night.

The city's expected revenue for next year is estimated at $27,000 higher than in 1964.

Increases in the '65 budget are attributed mainly to more firefighters, policemen and street workers, general pay increases for all city employes and a new group insurance plan, and a $12,000 appropriation for small parks throughout the city.

Councilmen also passed an ordinance permitting the city's firefighters and policemen to live outside Whitehall. They must, however, reside in the East Area, bounded on the west by Alum Creek, on the east by Fairfield and Licking Counties, on the north by Delaware County and on the south by Fairfield County.

Unappropriated money was transferred to the salary fund, allowing $1452 for the recreation director and recreation employes to carry out the summer program, and funds for the plumbing inspector.

In other action, the Sunday closing ordinance was tabled indefinitely, in view of non-enforcement of the law by Columbus.

Civil Rightists' Demonstration Slated Aug. 1

Plans for a demonstration by Civil Rights groups, to be held Saturday, Aug. 1, 2 to 4 p.m., at the site of the new Monroe Junior High School, Monroe-av at Leonard-av, are proceeding this week according to Rev. Arthur Zebbs of CORE's Columbus Chapter.

"A number of interested church, community and parents' groups will participate," Zebbs said, "and several leaders of the community will speak."

Announced last week by Russell Jones, executive director Community Resources, Inc., the demonstration is planned, Jones said, "to protest the further building of segregated schools, and the reassignment of Negros from integrated schools to those which will be segregated."

Spectator Golden Wedding Fete Slated Aug. 20 At Fairgrounds

Have you been married 50 years or more?

If so, there is an event coming up in less than a month that is especially for you.

For several years now, Hartley Newspapers has had Golden Wedding parties in the West and South areas of the county.

This year, however, we are expanding our invitation to ALL readers of The Spectator who repeated their marriage vows 50 years ago or longer.

Folks who have attended these parties in years past know what an exciting day it is. They look forward to meeting old friends and making new acquaintances.

The date of the Spectator Golden Wedding Party has been set for Thursday, Aug. 20, at the Hilliard Fairgrounds, as a sidelight to the Franklin County Fair. It will be held in the Youth Tent.

All couples living in the circulation area of this newspaper who have been married 50 years or more are eligible to attend and may place their reservation by filling out the coupon and mailing it to: Society Editor, The Spectator, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus 43204.

Members of The Spectator staff will be on hand to pass out certificates to all those couples attending and to help people get acquainted.

Civic and business groups will also give a hand to serve refreshments and help treat our guests royally.

Entertainment is being planned and all who attend will receive free passes to the fair.

Friends and relatives are asked to assist in filling out the coupons. Couples who attended in past years are asked to fill out a coupon again.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 46TH ANNUAL PGA TOURNAMENT

THE 46TH ANNUAL PGA had many thrills and surprises in store for the estimated 60,000 fans that viewed the tournament and the two golfers pictured above provided the spectators with spectacular performances in starring roles. Jack Nicklaus (left) jubilantly throws his ball to the gallery after nailing a birdie putt on 18 in Sunday's final round. Nicklaus got home on 18 with a screaming 300-yard three-wood second shot and two-putted for a birdie to finish six under for the day (64) and a two-way deadlock for second in the PGA with Arnold Palmer at 274 that was good for $9,000. At the right, newly-crowned PGA champion Bobby Nichols admires his coveted trophy with his lovely wife Nancy after firing a final-round 67 for a tourney-winning 271 total that earned the rangy Kentuckian a cool $18,000 for his efforts. Nichols displaced Columbusite Jack Nicklaus as the PGA crown-wearer and automatically qualifies Nichols for the World Series of Golf in Akron on Sept. 12-13. (PGA Photos by Chuck Hoff.)

Columbus Income Tax Is Target Of Twyford

By FRANK RYAN

Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford is laying battle plans for a campaign to free local residents who work in Columbus from the income tax charged by the city.

Twyford is on the hunt for a "sponsor" to introduce legislation at the 1965 session of the Ohio General Assembly.

He criticized the State Legislature for failure to act to protect suburban communities.

"It is a known fact," Twyford said, "that the state legislators care little about the suburban communities, or they would have tackled this problem long ago. However, they continue to take the same position as the Ohio Municipal League—ignore it and keep out of anything controversial.

"The Municipal League may take this position, but is it not the duty of state legislators to assume their responsibility in this matter?"

Twyford expressed displeasure with the stand of Ohio Municipal League,, of which Reynoldsburg is a member. An OML official had indicated that the group would not support legislation directed at freeing suburban communities from arbitrary income tax payments to large cities.

Twyford said statistics indicate that about 80 percent of the state's work force is paying a municipal income tax. Twenty percent do not pay, he said, because they neither live nor work in communities where the income tax is in effect.

"There are thousands and thousands of citizens paying income tax and receive nothing in return," Twyford said. "Such is the case in Reynoldsburg. Approximately 99 percent of our employed people pay taxes to the City of Columbus."

Twyford also said that Columbus is currently contemplating a hike in its income tax from one to two percent. "The taxpayers of Reynoldsburg will not have a vote in this matter. The trend is to keep down the property tax at all cost. This means Columbus would probably vote in this tax, realizing that the taxes paid to them by our citizens would, in the long run, keep their property taxes down."

Twyford pointed out that an increase of the Columbus income tax to two percent would mean the equivalent of an additional 10-mill tax to the Reynoldsburg work force, which is already paying a 10-mill tax to Columbus.

The mayor said he will seek support of Franklin County's seven-member delegation to the House of Representatives and the incumbent state senator. He will also sound out those candidates who will be running in opposition to the incumbents, he said.

Twyford said he believes that Governor Rhodes is now considering a state income tax. This, he said, would cost cities like Columbus even more in revenues than if they decided to "share the wealth" of income tax collections with other affected communities.

"It would be well," Twyford said, "for all to consider that the Governor, who is responsible for the income tax legislation in Columbus, is aware of this problem but remains silent."

The mayor also took note of activities of a group of citizens in and around Cuyahoga Falls, O., who are pushing a plan for statewide city income tax reform. Known as the Association For Equitable Taxation, the group has begun the task of obtaining 300,000 signatures of registered voters to force a statewide vote on the issue.

If the AET is successful in obtaining the required number of signatures, a constitutional amendment will be placed on the ballot. The amendment would forbid the levying of an income tax on people who do not reside within the taxing municipality.

Twyford, while expressing agreement in principle with the Cuyahoga Falls effort, said he thought "the expenses involved would seem to preclude success with this approach."

The mayor said he would not discuss details of the legislation he has in mind until after he has found a sponsor for the measure. It is believed, however, that he would favor a bill similar to Senate Bill No. 13, which was throttled in committee during the last session of the legislature.

Senate Bill 13 would have made reciprocity between taxing municipalities mandatory. The bill provided a credit to the residence community of the person paying the tax, if he was taxed by a second community where he worked.

Dam—

a definite shift of emphasis to the plan of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

If federal financing can be obtained, the Army can build both projects with total federal funds, except for the water supply feature of the Alum Creek proposal. Under either the Army or SCD plan Columbus would be required to pay the full cost for water supply. The basic cost difference between the two plans is that the SCD financing for the projects entails strictly local financing through assessments.

On the basis of the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects, residents of the city of Columbus would pay about $16 million more under the plan proposed by the SCD. Residents of the five-county conservancy district outside Columbus would be relieved of all costs under the Army plan.

And while various local sources are uniting in quest of federal funds and authority for the Corps of Engineers to build the projects the SCD is proceeding within the framework of its previously approved "official plan" for the projects. The appraisal record filed with the Conservancy Court showed total benefits of $91,635,898 and cost (assesaments) of $47,425,359.

Under the SCD benefit-assessment schedule, an approximate 80 percent of the benefits and assessment would accrue to Franklin County. Ross County would be assessed and benefited for more than 19 percent of the balance, with Pickaway County figuring in less than one-half percent of the benefits and assesaments. The appraisal record indicates that there will be neither benefit nor cost to Pike and Scioto Counties for work proposed under the "official plan" of the SCD.

Confusion—

who have examined the appraisal record are "unhappy" about being assessed. He said neither he nor any other member of the office staff was instructed concerning the assessment procedure.

He said the staff was told to have people read the first two pages of the appraisal record to learn the formula for figuring individual assessments. "We show people the book," he said, "and they seem to be more confused than they were before."

Meanwhile, at the Conservancy District office, the report is that most calls coming to them seek only clarification.

Richard E. Midden, executive secretary of the SCD, said: "I certainly would not say they were angry. There were a couple of calls where people were concerned about it and wanted to know what their rights were.

Midden said there were about 10 telephone calls on Wednesday, but he could offer no estimate of the number of calls since the Friday filing of the appraisal record. He said total calls were "not running excessively higher" than normal.

INVISIBLE — AND INDISPENSIBLE
. . . That's the permanent wave! Of course not all permanents are invisible. Some are frizzable, and that's awfully obvious! The good professional wave, given in a superior salon like our own, doesn't shout about its chemical beginnings. It looks natural, touchable, manageable. (And it is!)

HERE'S HOW IT HAPPENS
The chemical lotion we use on your hair temporarily "softens" the inner structure of each strand. This "softening-up" process makes the hair ready to do the bidding of the rod it's rolled on. See why professional beauty salon "winding" of curls is so important? You might bid the hair to go the wrong way . . . and there it would be "permanented" in! After the lotion has done its work—carefully timed by our permanent experts—you're ready for the neutralizer.

WHAT'S "NEUTRAL" ABOUT IT? —
"Neutralizing" is a chemical term. (Remember it from high school?) This gentle second solution "neutralizes" —or stops—the action of the first solution that saturated the hair strand. The neutralizer leaves the hair transfixed in the rod-position. Now, the new curve of it can't change, it stays this way till it grows to scissor-length.

THEN WHY ISN'T EVERY PERMANENT PERFECT?
. . . Only permanent waving authorities get good results every time! That's why our waves are famous.) If the first solution stays too long, it "overprocesses" the hair, leaves it kinked but not curved. Size of your rollers affect the curves, too—that's why we specialize in several sizes. And the neutralizer must be "timed" as carefully as the original lotion, for proper action. (What's the proper action for you to take? Telephone BE. 1-4100, BE. 1-6828 for your next wave.)

A boy may be tall enough to drive a car, but too short to buy his own gasoline.

TOPLESS SUIT DESIGNER COVERS FACES FOR FALL

By Marianne Tomlinson
WRFD Women's Director

The annual Fall fashion flurry oddly enough comes when our temperatures are soaring. This year that isn't the only oddity!!!

In a recent special report for the Hartley Newspapers from the American Designer Series of fashion showings in New York, I noted that in any fashion season we see the "kooky" looks. This season we have more than our share.

The same designer, Rudi Gernreich, who launched the topless bathing suit has done a complete switch for Fall. He has covered his models from head to toe . . . literally.

I interviewed Mr. Gernreich immediately following his astounding fashion show and questioned his reasoning. He said, "For hot Ohio weather, I think the topless bathing suit would be a good choice but for cold winter weather it's best to cover up. Skeptically I said, "Do you mean to tell me you are a practical designer?" He said, "Yes" . . . but I think I saw his tongue in his cheek. From the photos above, I'll let you draw your own conclusions.

JANET MICHAEL

Billy Graham remarked at one of the Crusade meetings that he had come to Columbus tired, but the friendliness of the people had made him feel rested, "My stay here has been like a vacation."

One of the reasons for his pleasurable stay may have been the reunion of several classmates from his alma mater, Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill.

Between 50 and 60 graduates of Wheaton gathered at the Columbus Plaza following the July 15 Crusade and chatted with Billy "mostly about their children," according to Mrs. Norman Broadway of 3006 Fremont-st.

"It was just a typical reunion," said Mrs. Broadway, "We noticed that most had put on a few pounds over the years and Billy was chided about how he used to get out of exams because he had preached the night before.

"He has a tremendous remembrance of names and a keen sense of humor," she stated. "When you talk to him, you don't feel as though he's made a mark in the world. He's very humble and so poised.

"Talking with him made the Crusade a personal thing."

Prize Pie Recipe Published

Folks from all over Columbus and surrounding areas gathered at Westgate Park on the Hilltop July 14 and 15, for two fun-filled days.

In addition to games, contests, rides, concessions, prize drawings and free bean dinners, was the ever popular Cherry Pie Contest.

The three divisional winners, Mrs. Robert Miller, E. E. McKinley and Vickie Cash submitted their recipes for publication so that you too, can make a prize winning pie for your family.

Mrs. Miller said, "I was really surprised that I won," but her husband testifies, "I knew she would." Vickie who is a student at West High has certainly found the best way to a man's heart. And Mr. McKinley, a 72-year-old retired automobile mechanic "took over the kitchen," following his retirement, according to his wife. "It's wonderful," she laughed. "Now I've retired from cooking."

Following are the winning recipes:

WOMEN'S DIVISION

Mix two cups of all-purpose flour, 1 tsp. salt, ½ tsp. baking powder. Measure out ⅔ cups of shortening. With pastry blender cut in ⅔ cup of shortening until fine. Then cut in remaining shortening to size of large peas.

Sprinkle ¼ cup cold water over mixture. Mix thoroughly with fork or blender. Divide dough into two parts. Roll out on floured board ⅛ inch thick, and line nine inch pie pan.

FILLING

Fill pie with 1½ cups cherry pie filling, mixed with ⅛ cup sugar, 1 tsp. flour and ⅛ tsp. cinnamon. Dot with butter.

Moisten edge of pie with water. Roll remaining dough for top crust. Lay over cherries. Press edges together to seal. With a pastry brush skim top of crust with cream. Cut a few slits for steam to escape. Bake in 375 degree oven till brown.

Ruth Miller
367 Binns-blvd

MEN'S DIVISION

6 cups flour
2⅔ cups shortening
2 teaspoons salt
enough milk to moisten

(This makes enough dough for several pies. Use what is necessary for two crust pie and refrigerate rest of dough.)

FILLING

4 cups cherries
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons flour

Cook together until mixture reaches boiling point. Pour into pie crust and dot with butter. Cover with top crust. Bake at 425 until crust is brown, about 30 minutes.

E. E. McKinley
69 Whitethorne-av

18 AND UNDER

Pastry for a double crust 9-inch pie:
1 qt. cherries, pitted
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Combine sugar, salt and cornstarch. Add to pitted cherries. Place fruit in pastry lined pie plate.

Cover with top crust and make several gashes in the top in a design to allow escape of steam.

If a glaze is wanted, brush top pastry with milk or cream and sprinkle lightly with sugar.

Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees) 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer.

FOOD MARKET THIS WEEK:

Peaches Coming; Potato Prices Explained

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits—cantaloupes, plums, grapes, watermelons, bananas, summer apples, lemons.

Other—cheese, butter, frozen fish fillets, frozen lemonade.

From late July through September is the time to enjoy tree-ripened Ohio peaches. August is volume month.

Estimates coming in for this year's crop vary from 500,000 to 700,000 bushels, but one thing is certain—the yield will be much above last year's freeze-damaged crop of 20,000 bushels.

Approximate ripening dates, set at Wooster, O., give a good guide as to when you can expect favorite varieties to be in good supply. This year, Sunhavens will be ready about July 26. Redhaven, Golden Jubilee, Ranger and Fairhaven will be ripe Aug. 8 to 11, followed by Fairhaven, Richhaven and Halehaven. From Sept. 4 to 6, Bell of Georgia, Kalehaven and Redskin are at their best, with Lizzie coming on about Sept. 27.

Mrs. Franks

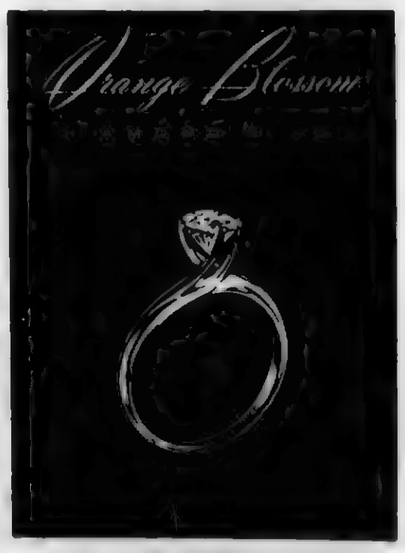
For freezing, some varieties are better than others. Varieties highly recommended are Redhaven, Sunhaven, Richhaven and Kalehaven.

When selecting peaches at the market do not let the pretty blush on the peach fool you. The blush makes peaches look attractive but is no sign of ripeness or sweetness. Instead, notice the background color. It should be a creamy yellowish color. Avoid hard peaches with green background color, they are immature, lack flavor, and will never ripen properly.

Frequently peaches are sold as "tree-ripened." Tree-ripened peaches are those picked for eating within two days of maturity. They will be completely soft in two days at room temperature. Peaches picked at a "firm-ripe" stage will soften more slowly, and will be ripe for eating in three to five days if kept at room temperature. Peaches picked when green will shrivel rather than ripen. They will not attain full flavor for the variety.

WHY THE HIGHER PRICE ON POTATOES?

The higher price tags on potatoes cause food shoppers to wonder why. In some areas prices reached the highest point in eight years.



Actually, this has been a reflection of the small spring crop which is off 19 percent from a year ago, plus smaller leftover supplies of last fall's spuds.

Supplies will increase as the early and late summer potatoes come to market, but, these crops are down too. The fall crop, however, is by far the most important and estimates for this crop are not yet available.

Potato prices will not likely go any higher. As harvest continues and supplies available increase, prices may decrease slightly. When the fall crop comes on the market, prices will drop more but probably not to the low prices of 1963.

'Why Don't We Cheer For The Lord?' Asks Socialite

By Janet Michael

A woman invaded the Hilltop Kiwanis Club meeting last Thursday at the Black Angus and gave businessmen, clergy and guests something to think about.

Eleanor Searle Whitney, a New York socialite who was converted during the New York Billy Graham Crusade seven years ago, began her talk with a story about Queen Elizabeth and her sister when they were little girls.

"The two were bicycling," said Mrs. Whitney, "and stopped at an English farm house to get a drink of water. When they had finished, the woman of the house said, 'Why, you little girls are so mannerly! You thanked me for the water and are so polite, you must be somebody special.' The little princess shook her head and replied, 'Oh, no, we're not special, but our father is the king.'"

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if we all would say of God, 'Our Father is the King!'" smiled Mrs. Whitney.

"I wasn't always this way about religion," she went on. "I used to think that anyone who talked openly about the Lord was a fanatic. But, we don't term golf enthusiasts fanatics. We go to ball games and cheer for our side, yet we're not softball fanatics.

"But, just let someone talk openly of the Lord and right away, he gets tagged a 'religious fanatic.' Why don't we cheer for the Lord?

"The first time I heard a woman talk about religion before a gathering of people, I felt embarrassed. In fact I thought she was pretty square. But, she had something I wanted, something I was missing. Before that I thought I had everything—clothes, cars, a yacht—everything money could buy. I was a do-gooder. I attended church every Sunday. However, there is a difference between a church member and a person who has been reborn. One is a Church-in and the other is a Christian.

"The first night I attended the Billy Graham Crusade in New York, I felt a stirring inside me. I was with some friends and I certainly had no intentions of going forward and embarrassing myself in front of them.

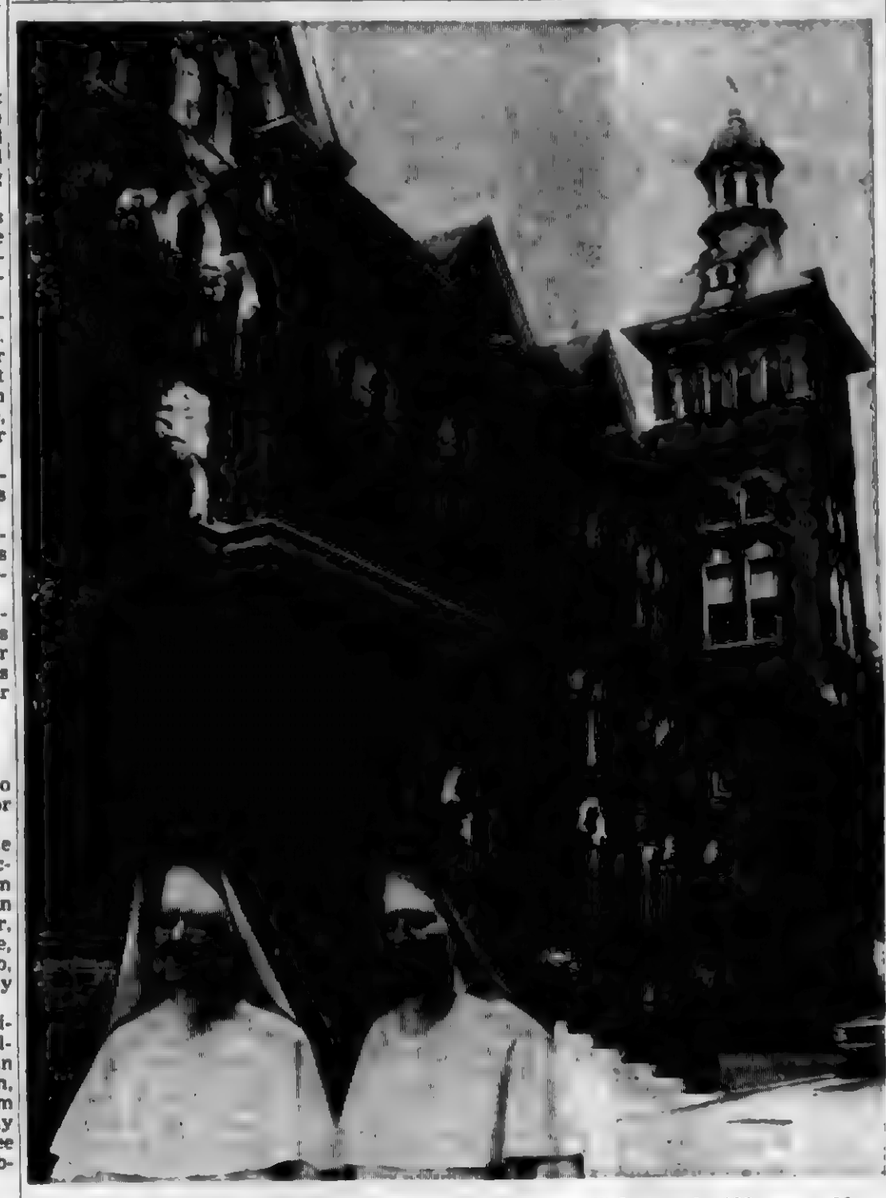
"The next night I drove to the meeting alone. I thought to myself, 'now if I have that funny feeling again, I can go forward and no one will ever know the difference.' When Billy called . . . I went. And as I walked, I wept.

"The next day, people began asking me what was I going to do now . . . how had I changed? I didn't know. You don't ask a newborn baby, 'how was your birth?' When you are converted, you are reborn. You start over. You don't know where you're going. You just put out your hand and God leads you.

"It was an eyeball to eyeball witnessing. It's a gift. You don't work for it, you just accept it.

"This meal we just ate was good, but it won't keep us indefinitely. We'll eat again in just a few hours. Why do some people think they can live without a spiritual meal?

"We are all sinners and we all need spiritual fulfillment. The reason we dislike the word 'Sin' is because of the I in the middle.



"What we need is to talk freely about God. We are willing to accept Christ as our Savior, but we shun Him for a Master. In New York, Bible classes are held at homes, at offices, anywhere there are people. And, they are taught by people whose names you will recognize: the president of Tiffany's, the president of that little New York bank, the Chase Manhattan, Dick Van Dyke of television fame, Bill Wade of the Chicago Bears, the president of RCA, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, and many, many more.

"You men can do the same thing right here in Columbus. You can make it spread." Looking around the room, she said, "Who will be the first to start?"

In closing, Mrs. Whitney, the woman who once thought that only fanatics talked about the Lord in a personal way, gave Kiwanis members her specially lettered slogan, PTL, "Praise The Lord!"

THE ACADEMY of St. Mary of The Springs will be nearly 100 years old in 1966 when it will pass out of existence, to make way for an expanded, co-educational college. The Dominican Sisters arrived in Columbus in 1868 to establish the school, and the liberal arts college was chartered in 1911. The center section of the building above, now the convent, was originally built to house the academy. Wings and a rear section were added later. Mother Francis de Sales, O.P., at right, is mother general of the congregation, and Sr. Margaret Ann, O.P., is dean and executive vice-president of the college.

Playgrounds Prep For Jr. Olympics

Youngsters in all Columbus Recreation Department playgrounds are reminded to register soon for the Junior Olympics Track and Field Meet, to be held at Ohio State University stadium Saturday, Aug. 8.

All boys and girls 17 and under are eligible to enter the event.

Entry forms are available from playground leaders or at Room 124, City Hall, and must be returned before Wednesday, Aug. 5.

A new age division has been added this year for boys and girls nine and under.

Eighty different events in the meet are geared to age groups in the bantam division, nine and under; midgets 10 and 11; juniors, 12 and 13; intermediates, 14 and 15, and seniors, 16 and 17.

East area playground reports for the week are:

At Scottwood . .

At the Sectional Track Meet held at South High School July 10, Scottwood boys and girls scored a total of 56 points and were leading scorers in the area.

Scottwood softball teams were winners this week. The boys' juniors defeated Leawood, 7-5, and the girls' juniors defeated Courtright.

Junior Jet baseball continues nightly except Fridays. In the eight and nine year old league, team 2 is in first place with a 3-0 record and in the 10 and 11 year old league, teams 3 and 4 are tied for first place with 3-2 records.

Physical fitness testing continues at 3 on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Those interested in participating in the Junior Olympics to be held Aug. 8 should secure registration blanks.

Arts and crafts classes continue Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 12:30, for grades 1 to 4, and Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 12:30, for grades 5 and over.

At Courtright .

Courtright played host to the Eastside playgrounds for the Drama Festival, July 17.

Courtright presented "The Discovery of Paris." Characters were played by Tim Moore, Angie Stapleton, Jan Stoneburner, Roni Piephler, Debbie Robbins, Joyce White, Norma White, Chris Grubb, Susie Herrmann and Sandy Allen.

Those who passed the physical fitness test are Rita Gellner, Bruce Herrmann, John Johnson, Susie Herrmann, Dan Moore, Jim Moore, Tim Moore, Roni Piephler, Ray Snyder, Angie Stapleton, Dee Stoneburner and Debbie Robbins.

In softball the Intermediate girls lost to Willis Park and the Junior girls lost to Scottwood.

Junior boys' softball team won over James Road by a score of 19 to 15, and Intermediate boys had a field day at the plate and downed Fairmoor by a score of 17 to 7.

Craft time is from 12:30 to 2.

At Willis Park .

Intermediate Girls' softball team at Willis Park played two games this past week, defeating Courtright and losing to Leawood. The record is now 1 and 2. A new team member is Janice Fisher.

Winners of the Doll Show, held last Thursday, were: prettiest, Edye LeVine, Janet Turcotte, Lisa Amerman; smallest, Cassie and Masha McIntire, Janice Gillespie, Libby Kammer.

Largest, Janice Gillespie, Tona Hopkins, Martha Mastenbrook; cutest, Gloria Turcotte, Janice Olson, Tammy Antrim.

Best dressed, Patricia Smith, Linda Hill, Debbie Wilson; most unusual, Penny Oaks, Mike Grandlund, Cindy Hiles.

Willis Park Reds played Leawood this week and were defeated.

Willis Park's contribution to the Drama Festival was "Recreation to the Rescue." The cast included Cathy Granlund, Betsy Ross, Karen McClatchey, Rusty Steinberg, Valerie Snyder, Betty Ranft, Bruce Jones, Jeff Hill, Cathy Jones, Debbie Sheldone, Lucy Snyder, Roy Gustavson, Carla Chambers and Rodger Jones.

At Fairmoor . .

Fairmoor Junior Girls' softball team won over Leawood and Intermediate Girls also won over Leawood.

Fairmoor's play in the Drama Festival was "The Suitcase." In the cast were Nancy Walsh, Sibyl McCualsky, Linda Slane, Theresa Slane, Karen Slane, Irene Maraffa, Leslie Hunt, Cheryl Jones, Carol Neubauer, Nancy Neubauer, Catherine Nordholm, Alan Nordholm, Barbara Nordholm, David Nordholm, Debbie Hoelzel, Chris Huggins, Tracy Linhart, Kelly Linhart, Sherry Fernett, Melanie McCualsky and Connie Oliver.

In the American League this week, the first place team is Ken Chamberlain's club with a 5 and 0 record, and a strong second is Team Three, with a three and three slate.

In the third slot is Team Two with a two and three effort, and in last place is Denny Nordman's club, with a one and four mark.

Eastern Kwianis Junior Jet baseball players, eight and nine year-old division: are: A. Knight, S. Sirk, M. Belcastro, P. Lloyd, M. Carter, R. Ramsey, D. Schas, J. Voneida, J. Hoffman, B. McMillen, D. The eight and nine-year standings, Junior Jet:

1st—Team No. 1	5	1
2nd—Team No. 3	4	2
3rd—Team No. 2	2	4
4th—Team No. 4	1	5

At Leawood . .

Nine children from Leawood attended Indian Village Day Camp from July 13 to 17. They were: Samuel Cunningham, Diane Myers, Kenneth Sanson, Walter Besst, Janice Blosser, Mary Eckard, Sheridan Sanson, Deborah Rose and Babette Turley.

Junior Girls' softball team was defeated 36-6 by Fairmoor last week. Michele Fox, the pitcher, was the outstanding player.

Intermediate girls' beat Willis Park, 14 to 13, in a hard-fought game last week. Linda Schiff, Michele Samelson, Sandy Storts and Norma Thompson were outstanding players.

Intermediate boys' softball team won over Courtright, 10 to 8, to boost their record to two to 1. The hitting punch was provided by Dale Thompson, who powered a three-run home run, his third home run in three games.

Junior boys' softball team had its three-game winning streak snapped by Scottwood by a score of 7 to 5 in a game that was played three extra innings. The Leawood team, however, won two other games last week, 8 to 4 over Willis Park Reds, and 9 to 1 over Woodcrest, boosting the record to 3 to 1, and giving them undisputed first place in the league.

The victory over Willis Park was sparked by the hitting of Larry McKinney, who hit two home runs, and the win over Woodcrest was backed by the hitting of Aaron Ross, a triple, double, and single, and by the pitching of Larry McKinney.

At Woodcrest . .

Junior Jet standings at Woodcrest are:

Team	W	L
Team 3	3	0
Team 2	2	1
Team 1	1	2
Team 4	0	3

Woodcrest Junior Boys' softball team lost to Leawood, 9 to 1.

Parents and children are invited to participate in volleyball every evening at 6.

At James Road

James Road's intermediate volleyball team will play in the city finals, after winning the sectional tournament.

The team is made up of Ron Engle, Ron Counts, Kenny McDonald, Bill Nimz, George Cooper, Dan Karenberg, Joe Gosnell, John Washinora and Bob Mercer.

James Road junior softball team now has a record of one win and one loss. The Junior team lost the last game to Courtright by a score of 19 to 15.

In the Junior Jet, Team 1 is unbeaten. Teams four and two are close behind having lost only one game each.

Forms for the Junior Olympics are available and should be picked up, filled in with necessary information, and returned.

At Shepard . .

Shepard's Junior Boys will begin a busy week at home when they play the highly-rated Windsor Terrace team Monday.

On Tuesday, the Boys' Senior Softball team will encounter the Windsor Terrace boys on their field. Also on Tuesday, the Senior Girls of Shepard will journey to Weinland for a game.

Wednesday, Shepard Seniors will play the Brentnell team on the Sunbury diamond. Thursday, Shepard girls play Second Avenue, at Shepard, and on Friday the girls play at home against Hamilton.

On the girls' team are Sharon Mixon, Becky Loy, Merlita Burke, Mono Hicks, Merlin Jones, Carole Fisher, Cheryl Fisher, Debbie Brown, Maria Cunningham and Jean Coleman.

The volleyball team fell by the wayside in the tournament held at Windsor Terrace last Thursday.

Those interested in the Day Camp held at Indian Village during the last week in August should sign up before the quota is filled. Already registered are William Fore, Dale Patterson, Donald Johnson, Debbie Brown, Alonda Hughes, Preston Eiland, David Martin, Larry Kobi, Dale Rucker, Robert Pounds, Juan Johnston and Jtonia Bridges.

Robert and Debbie Pounds are performing on a bicycle built for two.

Bobby Eiland and Larry Goosby set the hitting pace for the Senior Softball team, and Alvin Banks and Bill Davis have played errorless ball. Mike Cunningham has broken into the lineup and will be a difficult one to beat out of his position. Ron Brown is expected to break out in another rash of hits this coming week, too.

Track entry forms for the first annual Junior Sports-a-Rama in Ohio are being passed out to the playground group all this week.

Ohio Jaycees Junior Sports-a-Rama is in cooperation with the Ohio Youth Commission, co-sponsored by the All-Star Dairy Association. Oscar Cunningham and Mr. Hendren will hold frequent track and field clinics every week until the Field Day, Aug. 1.

The following age groups will compete: Midgets, 10-11; Juniors, 12-13; Intermediates, 14-15; seniors, 16-18.

Contestant's age is that of Aug. 28. All entries are limited to one track and one field event, plus the relay. Every entry must be signed by a parent or a guardian.

Flag raisers for last week were Mark Ballard and Bobby Carpenter. Bobby has just returned from a church camp, with poison ivy.

ENTERS FAIR

Jodi Ziegler, 1431 Cunard-rd, has entered the Junior Hobby Show Division, of the Ohio State Fair. Tthe 111th Ohio State Fair will run for 11 days from Aug. 28 to Sept. 7 at Ohio Expositions Center.

LOCAL SOAP BOX DERBY RUNS SATURDAY

THIS ROAD LEADS directly to Akron for the winner of the Columbus Soap Box Derby Saturday afternoon. The site is the East Fifth-av hill just east of Nelson-rd where some lucky boy will win a $500 Savings Bond and the right to represent Columbus in the All-American Soap Box Derby Aug. 15 if he can guide his racer across the finish line first. East Fifth-av will be blocked off from Cassidy-av to Nelson-rd the day of the race and plenty of free parking will be available on the surrounding streets. There will be no admission charge to the race and a gala parade will get underway at 1:45. Time trials will start at 9 a.m. Saturday and the race will get going immediately following the parade and "Oil Can Derby."

$500 Bond Top Prize For Victor

The East Fifth-av hill just east of Nelson-rd will be the scene of the Columbus Soap Box Derby Saturday afternoon at 2 when approximately 90-100 youngsters will send their inspected entries postward following the 9 a.m. time trials.

Saturday's festivities begin with the 9 a.m. time trials followed by a gala parade at 1:45.

THE PARADE will feature Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and his wife, Raymond Bickimer (president of the Jaycees), Richard Reid (GM of WLW-C TV3), Joe Schuman (Zone Mgr. of Chevrolet), Jim Stolzenback (Derby Director), Bob Lehner and Jerry Snyder.

Also appearing in the parade will be 1962 Derby winner Bob Held and 1963 champ Patrick Sergio. Entertainer Duke Hazlett will also appear in the parade with June Dairy Princesses Joy Smith, Jo Rita Wightman and Sara Doran.

At 2 o'clock, the "Oil Can Derby" gets under way with 1963 Derby champion Pat Sergio racing entertainer Duke Hazlett in a feature attraction.

RIGHT AFTER the "Oil Can Derby," the Derby will commence and the winner of the race will receive a $500 Savings Bond and the right to represent Columbus in the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron on Aug. 15.

All entries competing in the Columbus race will automatically be the guests of the local Jaycees at the All-American Derby in Akron Aug. 15.

The local Derby is free of charge to the public and E. Fifth-av will be blocked off from Cassidy-av to Nelson-rd for the race. Plenty of on street parking is available surrounding the race course.

Ohio Books Can Lead You To Places To Relax

Even though the song calls these the "hazy, lazy" days of summertime, most of us are so busy relaxing and enjoying the season that we don't have a great deal of time for reading.

I make no claims to being a literary critic, but there are three publications which have crossed my desk in recent days which I think are worthy of at least noting, and perhaps even adding to your personal library for later perusal.

One of these made an appearance and quite an impression at the national governors' confab in Cleveland last month. Many folks there thought that "Ohio's Natural Resources," the large and colorful book put out by the state was brand new; in fact, the 210-page volume came off the presses first in 1955, and was updated into its present form in 1960. This is one reference book which we think every Ohioan who's interested in the out-of-doors should have or at least read.

IT WAS EDITED by Rod Cochran, who formerly penned the outdoor column in this paper; many of the outstanding photos were shot by Erwin A. Bauer, who now ranks as one of the nation's top outdoor writers; there are many fine, full-page wildlife paintings by artist Al Staffan. In addition, the book contains many well-written articles, check-lists of all types of wildlife, and numerous other noteworthy features. "Ohio Wildlife Resources" is available for $1.65 a copy by sending a check or money order made out to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources to: Publications, 1500 Dublin-rd, Columbus 43212, O.

Another mighty handy and readable publication which just came into print is the fifth edition of "The Outdoor Guide" by Hank Andrews of Cleveland, one of the really veteran outdoor scribes. This fact-packed 192-page outdoor manual covers every aspect of outdoor recreation in Ohio, with plenty of good tips on where to head for fishing, boating, hunting, and camping. The guide is available by sending 60 cents to: Hank Andrews, 901 Lakeside-av, Cleveland 44114, O.

THE THIRD publication which we think is worth the effort won't officially roll off the presses until the first of August. It goes by the impressive title of "1965 Ohio Engagement Calendar Yearbook," edited and published by the Ohioana Library Association. This year's theme "Ohio's Waters and Waterways" is carried out with a wealth of pictures, articles and information on fishing, boating, lakes, historic canals and even our fast-disappearing covered bridges.

The 128 pages of the yearbook also contain plenty of space for daily notes and appointments. The gift-boxed copy of "The Ohio Engagement Calendar Yearbook" for 1965 will dent your pocketbook to the tune of $1.50 plus five cents for sales tax. Send your orler to: Ohioana Library, 1109 Ohio Department Building, Columbus 43215, O. Net proceeds will go into a fund for the research and publication of books dealing with Ohio topics.

Personally I think most of us would rather participate in our favorite forms of outdoor recreation than to read about them; however, I believe this trio of books will not only lend much to your actual enjoyment, but will also give you a hand in finding some of the best places to relax under Buckeye skies.

Eastside 9 Reels Off Triple Play

Dick Keene's Eastside Merchant Intermediate Knothole nine playing against Harley Davidson at Bexley last week, executed an unusual triple play in the 7-3 victory.

With two enemy runners on, a fly ball was snared by shortstop John Sullivan who quickly relayed to second sacker Pete Bush for the second out. Bush fired to first baseman Tom Gornall for the third out completing the rare three-out play.

JIM BISHOP walloped a two-run homer for the Merchants while battery mate Danny Keene went the route for the winners on the mound in Eastside's 26th contest of the season.

COMRADE POST'S GOLD LEAGUE CHAMPS

Speedway's Total Game Worth $400

Al Smith, Ralph O'Day and Don Gregory each notched a feature win over the past weekend at the Columbus Motor Speedway.

Friday night, Chick Hale, Bob Smith and Neal Sceva, were running one-two-three in the super-modified 25-lap feature as they want into the 24th-lap,

A SLIGHT slip by Hale allowed Smith to try to get into the inside and move out front, but their wheels touched and both went into a spin.

Sceva, running almost on top of them, was also forced to spin-out and since a pack of cars were headed for the mishap, flagman Zeke Ingland waved the red-flag stopping the race.

Since 24 of 25 laps, constitutes a full race, and the three cars involved in the stopping of the race would have had to start on the tail, Al Smith of Dayton, who was running fourth at the time, was declared the winner, followed by Bob Davis, Don Townsend, Harold Smith and ern Schrock.

SUNDAY EVENING Ralph O'Day had to go all-out to notch his third late-model feature of the season since Keith Weaver held the lead from the fourth to the 22nd-lap.

Weaver moved just high enough for O'Day to slip inside and O'Day moved out front to stay. Weaver was second, followed by Don Trees, Curt Kraft and Tony Tantarelli

Don Gregory took his third headliner of the year, in the sportsman division as he beat out Joe King, Ron Bolen, Jr. Tinney and Chuck Denney, in that order.

THIS WEEK, the supermodfieds will return for a seven-event program, topped with a 25-lap feature. They will be running for a guaranteed purse of $1500 for their Friday night races.

Another $1500 is guaranteed for the late-model and sportsman program, Sunday night, when they run a combined show of eight-events, with a main-event in each division.

In the speedway's free game of "Total," the jackpot will have $400 in cash, for the fan or fans able to pick the first five finishers, in order, in Friday's modified headliner.

Racing, both Friday and Sunday, starts at 8 o'clock, immediately after the 7 p.m. time trials.

4-Way Tie For First In A-K Set

Last Thursday's league play ended with Wolman Insurance, Reeb's Restaurant, Hackman Realty and B'nai B'rith tied for the A. K. lead with identical 2-1 records.

B'nai B'rith nipped Ontario 11-10 in the last of the seventh after a Dave Madison homerun knotted the count in the top of the seventh.

In addition to Berk, Smith hit a B'nai B'rith four bagger to pace a 13-hit attack.

Ontario outhit B'nai B'rith with 17 hits as Dave Madison and Hal Canin had three each and Jim Jacobs two, including a double. Canin took the loss.

Hackman Realty blasted Wolman Insurance, 20 to 10, as they amassed 14 runs on 14 hits in the bottom of the sixth inning after being down, 10-6.

MILT GLAS, Lenny Siegel, Marty Adler and Harold Fenner all collected three hits while Jules Vogel led all hitters with four straight doubles. Siegel and winning pitcher Howard Byer had home runs in the 23 hit assault.

Wolman's Irv Goodman, Aaron Dachner and Laddie Finke had three hits each in another 20-hit attack as Dachner had a single, double and triple. Finke, Mort Rising and Gerald Blank also blasted two-baggers while Sandy Goldston took the loss, his first of the second round.

Reeb's Restaurant outlasted Martin's Market 10 to 7 as Dutch Geichman blasted two home runs to pace a 16-hit attack. Jack Gaiser led the Reeb's batters with three hits.

HARVEY ROTH and Benton Block cracked a triple and double respectively in the extra blast department.

Earl Hazan and Stu Newpoff hit circuit clouts to lead the 10-hit Martin attack while Sam Schwartz blasted a triple in the loss.

THEATRE REVIEWS

'Foxes' Professional; POG 'Hostage' Bawdy

BY SANDY ARTER

Those who appreciate theatrical professionalism will thoroughly enjoy "The Little Foxes" at Stadium Theatre this week.

Columbus - reared Eileen Heckart has returned to play Regina. As the name would imply, the lead is a beautiful, bad-tempered woman, and Miss Heckart portrays the role beautifully. At first entrance you may wonder if all your attention might be focused upon Miss Heckart, as she is entertaining and commanding in her role.

However, with each suceeding flowering of parts, the actors do a tremendous job. Graydon Goff is excellent. Rose Adams as Birdie, the flighty alcoholic, is underdone superbly.

It's the kind of play in which you will believe in the characters. It's shocking to see Horace played by Leroy Johnson at curtain call. It seems that during the play he was really dead.

The drama centers around a Tennessee Williams-like decadent Southern family in the early 1900's. Already wealthy, they lust for more money. When they plan to invest the money, a strangled family relationship unfolds.

"Take us the foxes, the little foxes that spoil the vine; for our vines of tender grapes." This quote, used by playwright Lillian Hellman, clarifies somewhat the family bonds.

We can't help but think the audience will be excited by an excellent Columbus performance.

'The Hostage'

By BOB PERKOWSKI

Brendan Behan's boisterous and bawdy comedy set in a Dublin lodging house opened Monday at Playhouse-on-the-Green. Although the wit of the Irish playwright's work did not blossom until the third act, "The Hostage" is an extremely funny play from beginning to end.

Beginning with as many "short" words as possible, Behan appears to have carefully lifted every swear word for use in the script.

After thus opening everyone's mind and anesthetizing it, he proceeds to cast rocks at social institutions—religions, movements, governments — and anything else which has social acceptance.

"The Hostage" has a moral, if one cares for them. There is little plot, and the characters have the depth of cardboard — very shallow. But it has much to offer those sickened by trite comedies. The noted imbiber lets one see the world through his eyes, which is more than most "playwright's" accomplish.

POG's troupe gives its all to the offbeat characters, although their many references to previous productions distracted from the show.

Producer Sally Sexton advises seeing the play several times, to let all the humor come through, for much is lost through unfamiliarity. The writer concurs. He also warns that this uncensored production, well-received off-Broadway, is not everyone's cup of tea.

O'Neill Comedy Depicts Reflection Of His Youth

"Ah, Wilderness!" — the one sunny comedy among the dark dramas by Eugene O'Neill that made him America's greatest playwright—will be the Stadium Theatre's attraction for the week beginning July 28.

Highly esteemed ever since its first triumphant presentation in New York in 1933, the comedy has acquired an even greater interest for theatregoers because it is the basis of the successful musical comedy, "Take Me Along," produced in New York in 1959 and 1960.

The most important role in the original play is that of a kindly small town newspaper editor and wise father of a family of the 1906 era. This role provided the late George M. Cohan with one of his most memorable acting opportunities and it will be played at Stadium by Robert Rathbun (Nat Miller).

John McIlhargey (Richard) will have the role of his son, the amusing, adolescent teenager who is Eugene O'Neill's reflection of himself as a youth. Linda Riebel (Muriel McComber) will portray the sweetheart to whom he addresses heated poems by Swinburne, Oscar Wilde and Omar Khayyam, and Elliott Lansman (David McComber) her father who is outraged by having his daughter's innocence corrupted with such impassioned poems.

Judy Edmondson (Belle) will have the role of a village tart he attempts a fling with when his pure love is misinterpreted.

Everett Schreck is directing this fond recollection of a great playwright's youth, and Charles Bousliman has designed the scenery evoking the bright, tranquil life of a small town when ladies wore bustles and leg-o-mutton sleeves.

Hospital Drama On Emergencies To Be Broadcast

"Emergency Room," a half-hour WLW Television documentary on the life and death drama of a hospital emergency room is set for 7:30 pm Monday, July 27, on TV-4.

The documentary unit filmed enacted emergency situations at Christ Hospital in Cincinnati. There, while a burn patient fights for life in one of the treatment rooms, a child with a bad head cold waits with her mother who is unable to understand the delay.

Meanwhile, a doctor whose patient has ingested bug spray makes repeated phone calls to track down the ingredients and a defibrillator is used to restore a normal pulse to a coronary. Then, the quiet is broken by the screams of a struggling alcoholic with the DT's and an injured woman must be told of her husband's death in the same auto accident which sent her to emergency treatment.

All these incidents combine to show a half-hour of drama in a modern emergency room.

Army service in Pakistan is voluntary.

Paintings, Sculpture Displayed At Battelle

Paintings and sculpture by 27 staff members of the Columbus Laboratories of Battelle Memorial Institute and their families are featured in a six-week exhibit which opened July 15 in the Battelle Auditorium. A total of 92 oil and watercolor paintings and sculptured works are on display.

The exhibit is scheduled to continue through August 30, and the public is invited to view the paintings and sculpture on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The exhibit may also be seen at other times when the auditorium is open for public functions.

MOTH HIKE DATED

An evening "moth hike" is scheduled Friday, July 24, at Blendon Woods Metropolitan Park. Trees along the trails will be baited with a solution of syrup, water and mashed fruit about an hour before sunset. At dusk participants with flashlights will accompany a naturalist, observing insects which are attracted by the fragrant bait. The public is invited to meet the naturalist at the Trading Post at dusk.

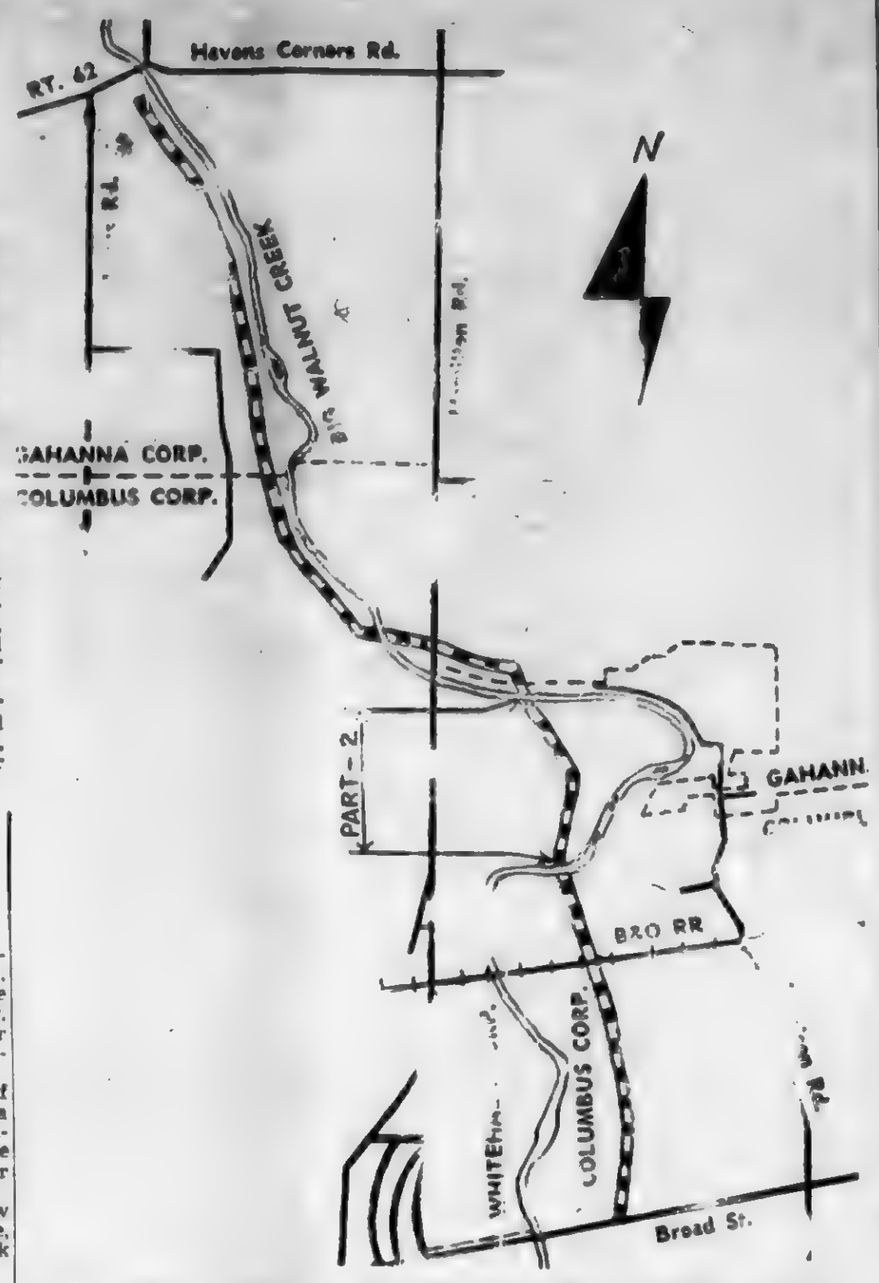
Way Opens For Golf Course



Contracts awarded Tuesday for construction of a 2,177-foot section of the Big Walnut sanitary sewer line will permit an early start on the new East Side municipal golf course, scheduled to open next year.

Work on Part 2 of the trunk line, crossing the planned golf course near Hamilton-rd, was expedited to speed a start on the 18-hole course.

Part 2, first segment to be constructed north of Broad-st, is part of the line that will run from U.S. Rt. 62 in Gahanna, southeast bordering the Big Walnut Creek, to E. Broad-st.

The new 18-hole golf course, the city's second, is planned for partial opening next year and formal opening in 1966.

Low bidder for the sewer line was Complete General Construction Co., with $220,570. The city's estimate for the job was $196,000.

Ohio's 37th Division Will Head North

The nearly 9,000 men of Ohio's 37th Infantry Division roll out this weekend for the long trek to Camp Grayling, Mich., and two weeks of intensive summer training at the sprawling base.

The Buckeye Division with 97 units in 53 Ohio cities will move through the state and into Michigan entirely in military vehicles. No Division member s permitted to drive his civilian automobile to camp.

Most of the units will be moving directly into the field upon arrival at Camp Grayling and within hours will be ready to launch an intensive week of training. That first week will include the firing with live ammunition of every weapon at the Division's disposal with the exception of the Honest John Rocket.

The first week of training will come to a close with the annual Governor's Review Saturday, Aug. 1, at which time Gov. James A. Rhodes plans to review his troops for the second straight year. The governor is commander in chief of the Buckeye Division.

Conventions 'Videotic'

When the national political conventions were first introduced to nation-wide television coverage, there was great hope that "the boys" would begin to behave like men. It was reasoned that, with the eyes of the nation upon them, the politicians would gain some degree of statesmanship.

The results to date have alternated between discouraging and disgusting. In place of statesmanship we have been dealt a type of showmanship that would merit a panning from the kindest of theater critics. The pious incantations of too many of the speechmakers continue to insult the intelligence of the listeners.

The high point of incongruity comes with the speech of eulogy by one who the week before (or maybe the day before) was working diligently to cut the throat (politically speaking) of the man he now praises.

That these thoughts are written between conventions does not indicate that they apply only to those who attended the Republican conclave. The Democrats are next to be forced into our living rooms through all available channels. We have no cause to hope that the format will be much different.

The old "idiot box" has never more aptly deserved its name than at national political convention time.

Demonstration Not Needed

We do not agree with the necessity of this type of demonstration. Local directors of the organization sponsoring it have said that it will be a peaceful one. We sincerely hope so.

Our feeling about demonstrations in general in the Civil Rights area is that they should abate—particularly since we now have Civil Rights legislation that is the law of the land. We would like to see the issues taken out of the streets and put back into the courts.

Millions of people in this country have had the opportunity to witness demonstrations for the Civil Rights cause in recent months and more and more of these viewers are openly expressing the feeling that much is being done to hurt the cause rather than help it.

We do believe that many of the forward steps taken in integration can lose their impetus and importance. This is certainly going to be true if such demonstrations reach the proportions of mob frenzy.

We hope that Columbus will discover a responsible solution to this matter.

Seek Answers To Teenage Drinking

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control is developing a program aimed at determining why teenagers indulge in illegal drinking. But the program was begun too late for a 19-year-old youth who might have been its first beneficiary.

Ron Coffman, administrative assistant to Liquor Director Donald D. Cook, suggested the program. He learned that there was no available research information based on testimony of teenagers on why they choose to drink. Coffman himself just a few years past the perilous high school and college experiences, believes that "quick liquid maturity" and "sophistication" are important factors in teenage drinking.

He will interview teenage offenders to determine, firsthand, more of the "whys" of teenage drinking. But there will be no answers to Coffman's questions from the 19-year-old mentioned above.

The youth was scheduled to appear before the Liquor Control Commission at the time the case of the tavern owner who served him drinks was to be heard. The arresting officer explained to the commission why the youth was absent.

The boy had visited another tavern the night after he was cited for the original violation. He consumed several drinks before leaving the scene in his car. Police officers reported that the youth's car was traveling at an estimated 110 miles an hour when it struck a tree. He was killed instantly.

And those of us who have seen the advanced alcoholic know that teenage drinking can lead to slower, more painful types of death. Perhaps the drinking teenager can, under direct questioning, help to solve his problem and a serious problem of the adult world. We hope so.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE BOB" ROSS — U.S.A.

Wonders never cease! Now that another Republican National Convention is history, we may well be ice-cold minded from this moment onward until the votes are counted next November.

Three amazing factors cropped up in this latest political circus go-round. First, who in the world suckered Gov. Scranton into the stupidest mistake of his life? He started far too late and went from bad to worse by the day. He was "used" without any sane reason by the same "one-worlders" who foisted Willkie upon the 1940 Convention. I reported that "mess" for Toledo Blade and will remember for the rest of my lifetime the statement of the late and great Grove Paterson immediately after the final vote, to wit: "There is no logic, no moral conviction, no nothing to such a spectacle."

Secondly, the same gang who destroyed Sen. Taft in the Chicago Convention in 1952 thought they were "first cousins to God Almighty" then and seemed to have the same obsession last week. But, the nationwide groundswell to the right that started when Lausche was re-elected to the Senate, grew into a revolt against 32 years of "pie in the sky" and everything for free. Millions have known for three years exactly what this madness was doing to them and to the country, instead of what the moneyed elite told them it was doing for them.

Thirdly, history of the last half century bears out the belief of millions that when the "chips are really down" Joe Doakes wakes up and the people, not the politicians, decide the trend of events.

Our majority millions now know that if this Populist insanity is not stopped this coming November, it won't matter a dime after that anyway. Senator Goldwater has a great opportunity now to become the Fourth Great Oak in the forest of American statesmanship.

Daily Deeds Can Reflect God's Power

In the Gospel of John, Chapter 2, Verse 11, we read, "This, the first sign of His Mission, Jesus did at Cana, and He revealed His glory."

We would ask, "What are the signs which make us aware of Divine glory? of the presence of the Divine Spirit?

Rev. Jackson

John's story of Jesus' action at Cana would seem to indicate the need for some miraculous display. But Jesus said to His followers, "Greater things than I have done shall you do." By this He seems to say that His miracles (spoken of as 'signs') were not the real test of His divinity.

When Jesus talked about 'signs' He said, "No sign shall be given but the sign of the prophet Jonah." And the 'sign' Jonah got was that when he preached the good news of God, Nineveh repented. And Jesus' own message was a message of repentance, a clear call to a new birth.

So we would suggest that the more convincing signs of Jesus' true glory were His clear and sane mind; His Divine pity and great passion to heal and to save; and the joyous confidence with which He met human need. The greatest miracle of earth is to live a perfectly pure life, as Jesus did. And signs like these His followers can try to reproduce.

God is Spirit, and so we would conclude that the most convincing signs of His presence and power are signs of the Spirit. Jesus said, "In the teaching which I have been giving you there is spirit and there is life." At Cana, Jesus showed His sociable spirit — His joy in being with people. What He provided there they called a "better wine."

This was a sign of His perpetual ministry as, out of lame men He makes better walkers; out of sinful men He makes better believers; and out of a man like Paul He makes a better missionary. This act was a foreshadowing of the surpassing excellence which we see in all His work.

The love and the joy which He brings; the hope and peace which He provides; the character and faith which He inspires are still unmatched in human experience. And yet, his true human followers can still try to exhibit the same kind of signs of Divine glory.

Jesus did an act of kindly sympathy. He used His chance to do a service for others. He gave a symbol of the abundance of Divine love as he ordered six pots filled. One would have been enough. He made whatever He touched a better instrument for God. For Him even the lilies of the field and a tiny mustard seed could tell of God.

Peter, the very image of instability could be a firm Rock for God. Mary of Magdala, with a reputation for wrong doing, could go her way as a sinless messenger for God. So, today, folks touched by Christ can continue to show the more convincing signs of Divine glory — spiritual beauty, courageous faith, sympathetic service and purity of heart and life.

May God give to all of us the spiritual power we need to show such signs constantly!

Most students of early Ohio history know the chief facts about Johnny Appleseed. But there are some stories about him less well known. One such tale has nothing to do with apples, but has much meaning about John Chapman, Johnny's real name.

In 1812, after the British had aroused the Indians around Mansfield to attack American frontier settlements, Johnny walked by night as a volunteer to Mt. Vernon to appeal for help from Captain Douglas. He warned settlers along the way. That was how Johnny Appleseed became known as a second "Paul Revere." This much is known fact.

Not authenticated is a wider legend that Johnny walked over much of northern Ohio spreading news of American General Hull's surrender to the British at Detroit and of the imminence of Indian massacres. Probably much of this is true.

Little is known of Chapman's parentage and place and date of birth. But he was born in New England, perhaps Boston, about 1775.

His first appearance in the Ohio valley was when he landed at Steubenville from a raft made of two canoes lashed together. He had drifted down the Ohio river with a cargo of apple seeds from a Pennsylvania cider press. This was about 1800.

For nearly half a century Johnny tramped the wilderness, read his Bible, and denounced sin, giving and planting apple seeds and coming back years later to prune the trees.

Johnny died in Allen County, Ind., in 1847, and is buried near Ft. Wayne. But there's a monument in Mansfield, O.

Johnny was known to the Indians as a good medicine man, to the whites as a sort of Border saint.

There are probably more traditions than facts about Johnny Appleseed, but the legends are properly a part of a people's history.

It says here . . . .

A people's literature would not be complete without tales of its heroes.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Some 'Nations' Doomed From The Start

It's easy to create a nation.

All you have to do is draw a boundary around some real estate containing people, name a capital, design a flag and set up some authority.

If the real estate had been ruled by a colonial power you can describe the creation as an "emerging nation." This is a euphemism implying a coming-up, an arising.

Jones

But we have lived enough post-war history now to realize that there is no guarantee that a new nation will be buoyant.

Some, like the Congo, have slid down the ways and promptly sunk, stern-first. Some, like Cyprus, were born with high resolutions about minority rights, and then relapsed almost immediately into old vendettas. Some, like Indonesia, have wallowed in financial chaos while outdoing the old colonial powers in their greed for conquest.

There is, therefore, a lot more to the making of a country than the drawing of a boundary and the shipment to New York of a UN delegation.

First, of course, you have to have some resources. Until we learn more about modifying nature, Antarctica or Greenland or Southwest Africa aren't going to serve as home bases for powerful people.

Secondly, you need people capable of organization. An amorphous mass of human beings organized only as to family, clan or tribe is incapable of the high degree of interrelationship necessary to make a workable society.

Efforts by a few far-seeing American Indians like Chief Pontiac or Sitting Bull to unite warring tribes against a common enemy failed because such a degree of cooperation was beyond the Indian philosophy of the time. The Scots broke the heart of William Wallace, not because they weren't good fighters, but because some clan was always going home in a huff when it was needed against the English.

Thirdly, a nation needs an ideology — a common enthusiasm that gives it cohesiveness and unity of purpose. Strangely enough, the ideology that holds the USSR together is not communism, but the "Mother Russia" concept. For "Mother Russia" is the common pride of White Russians, Ukranians and Georgians, all of whom have ample historical reason for mutual hate. The Soviet leaders have been tireless in identifying communism as the agency which has glorified Russia.

So an ideology may be an affection for a piece of geography — "this blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England;" "allons, enfants de la Patrie;" "Deutschland uber alles." Or it can be a religious tradition, such as the one that produced early Massachusetts or modern Israel. Or it can be a political ideal. Enthusiasm for popular government, as opposed to the older hereditary authorities of Europe, enabled newly-arrived immigrants to America, speaking dozens of languages, to weld themselves in an incredibly short time into an effective society.

Finally, it's hard to make a country without some standards of behavior in which the common good weighs heavily. Lawless people are incapable of organizing popular governments. In parts of Latin America and Asia, where graft, cumshaw, and exploitation are deeply rooted in tradition, governments can hardly fail to be oppressive because the force of equity is weak.

The most delicate art is the achievement of effectiveness without the sacrifice of essential freedoms. The early Egyptians were effective in building pyramids that remain marvels today. But they did it with slavery. Hitler made Germany a military power far out of proportion to its population. But the cost of freedom was high.

It is, therefore, not surprising that among many of the new nations the effort by weak governments to achieve some degree of order and organization have trended toward dictatorship. The man with the spear who lives in fear of the witch doctor is hardly qualified to make a political decision. He is born to be led or driven, depending on the ruthlessness of his leaders.

We who believe in popular government hope to advance the day of his emancipation by handing out foreign aid. Although too much will be stolen or misspent, it is possible that new industries, better farm practices, improved health services and, above all, schools may some day produce a real society.

Our fault, however, has lain in confusing flags with countries. There are plenty of new flags. But that combination of morale, national identity, and self-discipline that makes a great people is rare.

We're going to see much chaos and disappointment. In unskilled hands the fireworks bought for Independence Day can jolly well blow up the nation.

You're A Tough Act To Follow!

Conventions 'Videotic'

When the national political conventions were first introduced to nation-wide television coverage, there was great hope that "the boys" would begin to behave like men. It was reasoned that, with the eyes of the nation upon them, the politicians would gain some degree of statesmanship.

The results to date have alternated between discouraging and disgusting. In place of statesmanship we have been dealt a type of showmanship that would merit a panning from the kindest of theater critics. The pious incantations of too many of the speechmakers continue to insult the intelligence of the listeners.

The high point of incongruity comes with the speech of eulogy by one who the week before (or maybe the day before) was working diligently to cut the throat (politically speaking) of the man he now praises.

That these thoughts are written between conventions does not indicate that they apply only to those who attended the Republican conclave. The Democrats are next to be forced into our living rooms through all available channels. We have no cause to hope that the format will be much different.

The old "idiot box" has never more aptly deserved its name than at national political convention time.

Demonstration Not Needed

We do not agree with the necessity of this type of demonstration. Local directors of the organization sponsoring it have said that it will be a peaceful one. We sincerely hope so.

Our feeling about demonstrations in general in the Civil Rights area is that they should abate—particularly since we now have Civil Rights legislation that is the law of the land. We would like to see the issues taken out of the streets and put back into the courts.

Millions of people in this country have had the opportunity to witness demonstrations for the Civil Rights cause in recent months and more and more of these viewers are openly expressing the feeling that much is being done to hurt the cause rather than help it.

We do believe that many of the forward steps taken in integration can lose their impetus and importance. This is certainly going to be true if such demonstrations reach the proportions of mob frenzy.

We hope that Columbus will discover a responsible solution to this matter.

Seek Answers To Teenage Drinking

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control is developing a program aimed at determining why teenagers indulge in illegal drinking. But the program was begun too late for a 19-year-old youth who might have been its first beneficiary.

Ron Coffman, administrative assistant to Liquor Director Donald D. Cook, suggested the program. He learned that there was no available research information based on testimony of teenagers on why they choose to drink. Coffman himself just a few years past the perilous high school and college experiences, believes that "quick liquid maturity" and "sophistication" are important factors in teenage drinking.

He will interview teenage offenders to determine, firsthand, more of the "whys" of teenage drinking. But there will be no answers to Coffman's questions from the 19-year-old mentioned above.

The youth was scheduled to appear before the Liquor Control Commission at the time the case of the tavern owner who served him drinks was to be heard. The arresting officer explained to the commission why the youth was absent.

The boy had visited another tavern the night after he was cited for the original violation. He consumed several drinks before leaving the scene in his car. Police officers reported that the youth's car was traveling at an estimated 110 miles an hour when it struck a tree. He was killed instantly.

And those of us who have seen the advanced alcoholic know that teenage drinking can lead to slower, more painful types of death. Perhaps the drinking teenager can, under direct questioning, help to solve his problem and a serious problem of the adult world. We hope so.

Frosting On The Cake

by UNCLE BOO BOO — U.S.A.

Wonders never cease! Now that another Republican National Convention is history, we may well be ice-cold minded from this moment onward until the votes are counted next November.

Three amazing factors cropped up in this latest political circus go-round. First, who in the world suckered Gov. Scranton into the stupidest mistake of his life? He started far too late and went from bad to worse by the day. He was "used" without any sane reason by the same "one-worlders" who foisted Willkie upon the 1940 Convention. I reported that "mess" for Toledo Blade and will remember for the rest of my lifetime the statement of the late and great Grove Paterson immediately after the final vote, to wit: "There is no logic, no moral conviction, no nothing to such a spectacle."

Secondly, the same gang who destroyed Sen. Taft in the Chicago Convention in 1952 thought they were "first cousins to God Almighty" then and seemed to have the same obsession last week. But, the nationwide groundswell to the right that started when Lausche was re-elected to the Senate, grew into a revolt against 32 years of "pie in the sky" and everything for free. Millions have known for three years exactly what this madness was doing to them and to the country, instead of what the moneyed elite told them it was doing for them.

Thirdly, history of the last half century bears out the belief of millions that when the "chips are really down" Joe Doakes wakes up and the people, not the politicians, decide the trend of events.

Our majority millions now know that if this Populist insanity is not stopped this coming November, it won't matter a dime after that anyway. Senator Goldwater has a great opportunity now to become the Fourth Great Oak in the forest of American statesmanship.

Guest Pulpit . . .
Daily Deeds Can Reflect God's Power

In the Gospel of John, Chapter 2, Verse 11, we read, "This, the first sign of His Mission, Jesus did at Cana, and He revealed His glory."

We would ask, "What are the signs which make us aware of Divine glory? of the presence of the Divine Spirit?

Rev. Jackson

John's story of Jesus' action at Cana would seem to indicate the need for some miraculous display. But Jesus said to His followers, "Greater things than I have done shall you do." By this He seems to say that His miracles (spoken of as 'signs') were not the real test of His divinity.

When Jesus talked about 'signs' He said, "No sign shall be given but the sign of the prophet Jonah." And the 'sign' Jonah got was that when he preached the good news of God, Nineveh repented. And Jesus' own message was a message of repentance, a clear call to a new birth.

So we would suggest that the more convincing signs of Jesus' true glory were His clear and sane mind; His Divine pity and great passion to heal and to save; and the joyous confidence with which He met human need. The greatest miracle of earth is to live a perfectly pure life, as Jesus did. And signs like these His followers can try to reproduce.

God is Spirit, and so we would conclude that the most convincing signs of His presence and power are signs of the Spirit. Jesus said, "In the teaching which I have been giving you there is spirit and there is life." At Cana, Jesus showed His sociable spirit — His joy in being with people. What He provided there they called a "better wine."

This was a sign of His perpetual ministry as, out of lame men He makes better walkers; out of sinful men He makes better believers; and out of a man like Paul He makes a better missionary. This act was a foreshadowing of the surpassing excellence which we see in all His work.

The love and the joy which He brings; the hope and peace which He provides; the character and faith which He inspires are still unmatched in human experience. And yet, his true human followers can still try to exhibit the same kind of signs of Divine glory.

Jesus did an act of kindly sympathy. He used His chance to do a service for others. He gave a symbol of the abundance of Divine love as he ordered six pots filled. One would have been enough. He made whatever He touched a better instrument for God. For Him even the lilies of the field and a tiny mustard seed could tell of God.

Peter, the very image of instability could be a firm Rock for God. Mary of Magdala, with a reputation for wrong doing, could go her way as a sinless messenger for God. So, today, folks touched by Christ can continue to show the more convincing signs of Divine glory — spiritual beauty, courageous faith, sympathetic service and purity of heart and life.

May God give to all of us the spiritual power we need to show such signs constantly!

Rev. Warren E. Jackson, minister
East Livingston Baptist Church

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

Most students of early Ohio history know the chief facts about Johnny Appleseed. But there are some stories about him less well known. One such tale has nothing to do with apples, but has much meaning about John Chapman, Johnny's real name.

In 1812, after the British had aroused the Indians around Mansfield to attack American frontier settlements, Johnny walked by night as a volunteer to Mt. Vernon to appeal for help from Captain Douglas. He warned settlers along the way. That was how Johnny Appleseed became known as a second "Paul Revere." This much is known fact.

Not authenticated is a wider legend that Johnny walked over much of northern Ohio spreading news of American General Hull's surrender to the British at Detroit and of the imminence of Indian massacres. Probably much of this is true.

Little is known of Chapman's parentage and place and date of birth. But he was born in New England, perhaps Boston, about 1775.

His first appearance in the Ohio valley was when he landed at Steubenville from a raft made of two canoes lashed together. He had drifted down the Ohio river with a cargo of apple seeds from a Pennsylvania cider press. This was about 1800.

For nearly half a century Johnny tramped the wilderness, read his Bible, and denounced sin, giving and planting apple seeds and coming back years later to prune the trees.

Johnny died in Allen County, Ind., in 1847, and is buried near Ft. Wayne. But there's a monument in Mansfield, O.

Johnny was known to the Indians as a good medicine man, to the whites as a sort of Border saint.

There are probably more traditions than facts about Johnny Appleseed, but the legends are properly a part of a people's history.

It says here . . . .

A people's literature would not be complete without tales of its heroes.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Some 'Nations' Doomed From The Start

It's easy to create a nation.

All you have to do is draw a boundary around some real estate containing people, name a capital, design a flag and set up some authority.

If the real estate had been ruled by a colonial power you can describe the creation as an "emerging nation." This is a euphemism implying a coming-up, an arising.

Jones

But we have lived enough post-war history now to realize that there is no guarantee that a new nation will be buoyant.

Some, like the Congo, have slid down the ways and promptly sunk, stern-first. Some, like Cyprus, were born with high resolutions about minority rights, and then relapsed almost immediately into old vendettas. Some, like Indonesia, have wallowed in financial chaos while outdoing the old colonial powers in their greed for conquest.

There is, therefore, a lot more to the making of a country than the drawing of a boundary and the shipment to New York of a UN delegation.

First, of course, you have to have some resources. Until we learn more about modifying nature, Antarctica or Greenland or Southwest Africa aren't going to serve as home bases for powerful people.

Secondly, you need people capable of organization. An amorphous mass of human beings organized only as to family, clan or tribe is incapable of the high degree of interrelationship necessary to make a workable society.

Efforts by a few far-seeing American Indians like Chief Pontiac or Sitting Bull to unite warring tribes against a common enemy failed because such a degree of cooperation was beyond the Indian philosophy of the time. The Scots broke the heart of William Wallace, not because they weren't good fighters, but because some clan was always going home in a huff when it was needed against the English.

Thirdly, a nation needs an ideology — a common enthusiasm that gives it cohesiveness and unity of purpose. Strangely enough, the ideology that holds the USSR together is not communism, but the "Mother Russia" concept. For "Mother Russia" is the common pride of White Russians, Ukranians and Georgians, all of whom have ample historical reason for mutual hate. The Soviet leaders have been tireless in identifying communism as the agency which has glorified Russia.

So an ideology may be an affection for a piece of geography — "this blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England;" "allons, enfants de la Patrie;" "Deutschland uber alles." Or it can be a religious tradition, such as the one that produced early Massachusetts or modern Israel. Or it can be a political ideal. Enthusiasm for popular government, as opposed to the older hereditary authorities of Europe, enabled newly-arrived immigrants to America, speaking dozens of languages, to weld themselves in an incredibly short time into an effective society.

Finally, it's hard to make a country without some standards of behavior in which the common good weighs heavily. Lawless people are incapable of organizing popular governments. In parts of Latin America and Asia, where graft, cumshaw, and exploitation are deeply rooted in tradition, governments can hardly fail to be oppressive because the force of equity is weak.

The most delicate art is the achievement of effectiveness without the sacrifice of essential freedoms. The early Egyptians were effective in building pyramids that remain marvels today. But they did it with slavery. Hitler made Germany a military power far out of proportion to its population. But the cost of freedom was high.

It is, therefore, not surprising that among many of the new nations the effort by weak governments to achieve some degree of order and organization have trended toward dictatorship. The man with the spear who lives in fear of the witch doctor is hardly qualified to make a political decision. He is born to be led or driven, depending on the ruthlessness of his leaders.

We who believe in popular government hope to advance the day of his emancipation by handing out foreign aid. Although too much will be stolen or misspent, it is possible that new industries, better farm practices, improved health services and, above all, schools may some day produce a real society.

Our fault, however, has lain in confusing flags with countries. There are plenty of new flags. But that combination of morale, national identity, and self-discipline that makes a great people is rare.

We're going to see much chaos and disappointment.

In unskilled hands the fireworks bought for Independence Day can jolly well blow up the nation.

NOTICE TO BRIDGE CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Board of County Commissioners at Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, until 10:00 o'clock A.M. Eastern Standard Time, on Friday, July 24, 1964, and the same will be publicly opened at 10:00 o'clock A.M. of the same day at said office for all labor and material necessary to construct the following work on Henderson Road over Olentangy River to wit:

Engineer's Estimate No. 169. Widening of existing south sidewalk from two (2) feet to six (6) feet wide by removal of existing concrete railing, installing a prestressed concrete beam on new pier and abutment extensions, and placing a four (4) foot wide sidewalk slab with railing, adjacent to the existing sidewalk.

The plans, specifications and estimate of quantities for doing this work, as per County Engineer's plan are on file in the office of the County Commissioners, the office of the County Engineer of Franklin County, for inspection by all persons interested in the same during business hours each day of the week except Sunday.

All proposals shall be made on standard bidding blanks furnished by the County Engineer and shall be addressed to the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, and the envelope containing the proposal shall be endorsed with a pertinent description of the work bid upon. Copies of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the County Engineer at five dollars ($5.00) per set complete, no refund.

Proposals must contain the name of every person interested therein and shall be accompanied by either a proposal bond, with surety satisfactory to the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, or by a certified check on a solvent bank of Franklin County in the amount of one thousand ($1,000) dollars, drawn in favor of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio.

The Proposal bond or certified check submitted with a bid will be held as a guarantee that if the proposal be accepted, a contract will be entered into within five (5) days after the award of same, for the furnishing of all materials and for the doing of all labor. Proposal bonds and certified checks will be returned to all bidders after the contract has been entered into and secured by a Performance Bond of 50% of the amount of the contract, with a satisfactory surety, for the faithful performance of the work.

The address of the bidder shall be given with the signature on the bid.

The work comprised under Engineer's Estimate No. 169 shall begin immediately after the signing of the contract and shall be fully completed on or before October 2, 1964. Upon failure to complete the work within the time specified, the contractor shall forfeit to the County of Franklin, State of Ohio, the sum of Twenty Dollars ($20.00) for each day, for each and every day that may elapse between the time specified for the completion of said work and the final completion thereof, which sum shall be stipulated damages suffered and incurred by said Franklin County by reason of the failure of said contractor to complete said work within the time specified

No proposal shall be considered unless it complies with all the rules and regulations set forth in the Contract Documents. All bidders are warned to carefully read the same and comply with them. The Board of County Commissioners reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Ohio.

Jehovah's Witnesses Planning Four-Day Assembly At Stadium

Approximately 18,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Ohio, western Pennsylvania West Virginia and eastern Kentucky will gather here for a four-day "Fruitage of the Spirit" assembly starting July 30.

The seminar is one of 63 scheduled in the United States and Canada this summer. The conventions are sponsored by the Watchtower Society of Brooklyn, N.Y. This assembly will be one of the largest held by Jehovah's Witnesses in recent years. All of the sessions are free and open to the public.

On Sunday, Aug. 2, 3 p.m., the principal speaker, F. W. Franz, vice-president of the Watchtower Society, will speak on "Peace Among Men of Good Will or Armageddon . . . Which?"

Need More Rooms

Andrew Laguna, rooming director for the convention has stated that rooming accommodations are urgently needed for the thousands of delegates. He states, "We are appealing to the hospitality and good will of the people of Columbus and vicinity so that the thousands coming may find suitable sleeping accommodations during their four-day stay in Columbus." Delegates are not expecting meals in the homes where they stay, as other provisions are made for them.

Laguna cites a clipping from the New York Times of Aug. 1, 1958:

"Witnesses styled city's best guests . . . 180,000 at world assembly win praise for courtesy, quietude and meekness . . . New Yorkers are unanimous in agreeing that the Witnesses' conduct has been exemplary." He also added that these are the same kind of people that will be coming to Columbus for this four-day Christian assembly. Anyone wishing to help may either write the Watchtower Convention, 1190 S. Hudson-st, or call 263-4730.

Ray E. Wheeler, a minister with the Columbus South Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, has been named as music director for the convention. He will be in charge of an orchestra and choir composed of delegates. Wheeler states, "Proper arrangement and conducting creates music that reflects praise to our Creator. Our music can rightly be termed music of distinction because it is separate from that of the world."

An example of the attitude of the participants is shown in Mrs. Daisy Haughn, 261 Columbus-st, Grove City. "I don't have time to sit around waiting and wasting life. I have five Bible study meetings to attend each week besides fulfilling the ministry. I enjoy fellowship with friends I've met over the years. The theme of this convention, "Fruitage of the Spirit," really sums up its benefits to me. Love, joy and peace are some of these spiritual fruits we'll receive by assembling."

'Tour Holyland' Via Free Film

The Christian Free Drive-In theatre located just south of 1900 W. Mound-st, Saturday and Sunday night, July 25-26, 8:15 p.m., is featuring "Billy Graham Takes You on a Trip to the 'Holyland'" in full color.

In this film travel the Jericho Road — see Calvary the Garden Tomb, the Pool of Salome within the city walls.

Each child 15 years old or under will receive free pop and the church group having the largest number present on Saturday night will receive a large painting of Christ by Sallman.

SMITH AT MEMPHIS

Senior Citizens Center

On Friday, July 24, from 6 to 7 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st, a group from Coney Island will put on a vaudeville show for the members. This will be a variety show under the direction of Charles Stanley.

The show is planned in connection with the trip planned from the Columbus Recreation Department to Senior Citizen's Day at Coney Island, Thursday, July 30. Chartered buses are taking well over 200 from Columbus for the day's activities. Friday, July 24, is the deadline for reservations for the trip, and reservations may be made at the department's Golden Age clubs or at the Senior Center, 221-[illegible].

On Friday afternoon, July 24 from 2:30 to 3:30 at the center, George Schmidt will show pictures of his recent trip to Russia, emphasizing the agricultural activity in the Soviet Union.

Catholic Welfare Bureau Greets 30th Cuban Family

The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Orestes Secada on June 18, marks the 30th Cuban family to be sponsored by the Catholic Welfare Bureau's Cuban Placement Office. It also marks the beginning of the end to the program, which began in August 1962.

Since that time, 61 Cuban families with 94 children have received various kinds of help in making their life in exile more pleasant. Jobs, houses, furniture and school placement, are among many of the services provided. In addition the diocese continues to provide a special monthly Mass at Holy Cross Church.

In the beginning of the program the Catholic Welfare Bureau sponsored the first social events which made it possible for all the Cubans to get together to celebrate religious and patriotic days. These latter functions are now being handled by the Cubans themselves through their own organization.

While escapes from Cuba continue to average about 100 per week, and the Cuban population in Miami is still overwhelming, most of these families are destined either to join relatives already resettled, or to remain in Miami. A recent plea from N.C.W.C. in Miami for each city to sponsor one more family resulted in the arrival of the Secada family.

Mrs. Secada is an experienced pediatrician presently working at the Columbus State School. She has worked for several years in Clinics and hospitals in Cuba. Mr. Secada has experience in newspaper work but is now working at the Kahiki Restaurant.

Orestes, age 16, has already made application at Ohio State University and Jorge, age 15, will begin his senior year in high school in the fall. Both boys were formerly in the Cuban Children's Program and placed in foster homes in Portland, Ore., until their parents arrived from Cuba.

The Welfare Bureau has secured an apartment for them in Holy Rosary Parish.

IN PRACTICE

DR. LARRY L. Zipser is now associated with his father, Dr. Aladar Zipser, in the practice of chiropody-podiatry in Suite 500 of the Beggs Building, 21 E. State-st. Dr. Larry Zipser completed under-graduate work at OSU and graduated from the Ohio College of Podiatry, Cleveland. He interned at the Cleveland Foot Clinic. He is the only podiatrist in the Columbus area to receive a certificate of internship from the Ohio College of Podiatry. Dr. Zipser, his wife Jeanne and son Marc reside at 3535 Rand-ct.

Bar Mitzvah Of Ira J. Klein Set

Sabbath Services will be held at Temple Tifereth Israel Friday, July 24, 8 p.m. with Rabbi Nathan Zelizer conducting the services and Cantor Stanley Burstein chanting the traditional liturgy.

Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "The Source of Comfort." The Bar Mitzvah of Ira Joseph Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Klein, 1607 Rose View-dr, will be celebrated.

LANCASTER PROGRAM

The program planned for Sunday, July 26, at Lancaster Camp Ground will be a tribute to the late Homer Rodeheaver. Speaker for the 10:30 a.m. worship service will be Dr. Claire Warden, senior minister at the King Avenue Methodist Church. Sunday evening will feature the Billy Graham film, "Lucia."

PROGRESS

Progress is on the march. There is a great boom in building. Cures are being found for maladies that have killed mankind for centuries. Industry is doing magnificent things. But what sort of progress is being made in human relations—this term that includes respect for the person and property of others and good will among men.

There is one agency striving for progress in this field. This agency is the church. At the birth of Jesus Christ, the following prophesy and promise was given to mankind by a host of angels: "Glory to God in the Highest Heaven! Peace upon earth among men of goodwill!" Luke 2:14, (Phillips translation). Only when the majority of men on earth are men of goodwill, will we have peace.

Attend church this week and align yourself with the forces of God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ..... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

NOTICE TO BRIDGE CONTRACTORS

[illegible] proposals will be received at the office of the Board of County Commissioners at Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, until 10:00 o'clock A.M. Eastern Standard Time, on Friday, July 24, 1964, and then same will be publicly opened at 10:00 o'clock A.M. of the same day at said office for all labor and material necessary to construct the following work on Henderson Road over Olentangy River to wit:

Engineer's Estimate No. 163. Widening of existing south sidewalk from two (2) feet to six (6) feet wide by removal of existing concrete railing, installing a prestressed concrete beam on new pier and abutment extensions, and placing a four (4) foot wide sidewalk slab with railing, adjacent to the existing sidewalk.

The plans, specifications and estimate of quantities for doing this work, as per County Engineer's plan are on file in the office of the County Commissioners, the office of the County Engineer of Franklin County, for inspection by all persons interested in the same during business hours each day of the week except Sunday.

All proposals shall be made on standard bidding blanks furnished by the County Engineer and shall be addressed to the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, and the envelope containing the proposal shall be endorsed with a pertinent description of the work bid upon. Copies of the plans and specifications may be obtained from the County Engineer at five dollars ($5.00) per set complete, no refund.

Proposals must contain the name of every person interested therein and shall be accompanied by either a proposal bond, with surety satisfactory to the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio, or by a certified check on a solvent bank of Franklin County in the amount of one thousand ($1,000) dollars, drawn in favor of the Board of County Commissioners of Franklin County, Columbus, Ohio.

The Proposal bond or certified check submitted with a bid will be held as a guarantee that if the proposal be accepted, a contract will be entered into within five (5) days after the award of same, for the furnishing of all materials and for the doing of all labor. Proposal bonds and certified checks will be returned to all bidders after the contract has been entered into and secured. Performance Bond of 50% of the amount of the contract, with a satisfactory surety, for the faithful performance of the work.

The address of the bidder shall be given with the signature

Approximately 18,000 Jehovah's Witnesses from Ohio, western Pennsylvania West Virginia and eastern Kentucky will gather here for a four-day "Fruitage of the Spirit" assembly starting July 30.

The seminar is one of 63 scheduled in the United States and Canada this summer. The conventions are sponsored by the Watchtower Society of Brooklyn, N.Y. This assembly will be one of the largest held by Jehovah's Witnesses in recent years. All of the sessions are free and open to the public.

On Sunday, Aug. 2, 3 p.m., the principal speaker, F. W. Franz, vice-president of the Watchtower Society, will speak on "Peace Among Men of Good Will or Armageddon . . . Which?"

Need More Rooms

Andrew Laguna, rooming director for the convention has stated that rooming accommodations are urgently needed for the thousands of delegates. He states, "We are appealing to the hospitality and good will of the people of Columbus and vicinity so that the thousands coming may find suitable sleeping accommodations during their four-day stay in Columbus." Delegates are not expecting meals in the homes where they stay, as other provisions are made for them.

Laguna cites a clipping from the New York Times of Aug. 1, 1958:

"Witnesses styled city's best guests . . . 180,000 at world assembly win praise for courtesy, quietude and meekness . . . New Yorkers are unanimous in agreeing that the Witnesses' conduct has been exemplary." He also added that these are the same kind of people that will be coming to Columbus for this four-day Christian assembly. Anyone wishing to help may either write the Watchtower Convention, 1190 S. Hudson-st, or call 263-4730.

Ray E. Wheeler, a minister with the Columbus South Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, has been named as music director for the convention. He will be in charge of an orchestra and choir composed of delegates. Wheeler states, "Proper arrangement and conducting creates music that reflects praise to our Creator. Our music can rightly be termed music of distinction because it is separate from that of the world."

An example of the attitude of the participants is shown in Mrs. Daisy Haughn, 261 Columbus-st, Grove City. "I don't have time to sit around waiting and wasting life. I have five Bible study meetings to attend each week besides fulfilling the ministry. I enjoy fellowship with friends I've met over the years. The theme of this convention, "Fruitage of the Spirit," really sums up its benefits to me. Love, joy and peace are some of these spiritual fruits we'll receive by assembling."

'Tour Holyland' Via Free Film

The Christian Free Drive-In theatre located just south of 1900 W. Mound-st, Saturday and Sunday night, July 25-26, 8:15 p.m., is featuring "Billy Graham Takes You on a Trip to the 'Holyland' " in full color.

In this film travel the Jericho Road — see Calvary the Garden Tomb, the Pool of Salome within the city walls.

Each child 15 years old or under will receive free pop and the church group having the largest number present on Saturday night will receive a large painting of Christ by Sallman.

Senior Citizens Center

On Friday, July 24, from 6 to 7 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st, a group from Coney Island will put on a vaudeville show for the members. This will be a variety show under the direction of Charles Stanley.

The show is planned in connection with the trip planned from the Columbus Recreation Department to Senior Citizen's Day at Coney Island, Thursday, July 30. Chartered buses are taking well over 200 from Columbus for the day's activities. Friday, July 24, is the deadline for reservations for the trip, and reservations may be made at the department's Golden Age clubs or at the Senior Center, 221-6090.

On Friday afternoon, July 24 from 2:30 to 3:30 at the center, George Schmidt will show pictures of his recent trip to Russia, emphasizing the agricultural activity in the Soviet Union.

Catholic Welfare Bureau Greets 30th Cuban Family

The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Orestes Secada on June 18, marks the 30th Cuban family to be sponsored by the Catholic Welfare Bureau's Cuban Placement Office. It also marks the beginning of the end to the program, which began in August 1962.

Since that time, 61 Cuban families with 94 children have received various kinds of help in making their life in exile more pleasant. Jobs, houses, furniture and school placement, are among many of the services provided. In addition the diocese continues to provide a special monthly Mass at Holy Cross Church.

In the beginning of the program the Catholic Welfare Bureau sponsored the first social events which made it possible for all the Cubans to get together to celebrate religious and patriotic days. These latter functions are now being handled by the Cubans themselves through their own organization.

While escapes from Cuba continue to average about 100 per week, and the Cuban population in Miami is still overwhelming, most of these families are destined either to join relatives already resettled, or to remain in Miami. A recent plea from N.C.W.C. in Miami for each city to sponsor one more family resulted in the arrival of the Secada family.

Mrs. Secada is an experienced pediatrician presently working at the Columbus State School. She has worked for several years in Clinics and hospitals in Cuba. Mr. Secada has experience in newspaper work but is now working at the Kahiki Restaurant.

Orestes, age 16, has already made application at Ohio State University and Jorge, age 15, will begin his senior year in high school in the fall. Both boys were formerly in the Cuban Children's Program and placed in foster homes in Portland, Ore., until their parents arrived from Cuba.

The Welfare Bureau has secured an apartment for them in Holy Rosary Parish.

PROGRESS

Progress is on the march. There is a great boom in building. Cures are being found for maladies that have killed mankind for centuries. Industry is doing magnificent things. But what sort of progress is being made in human relations—this term that includes respect for the person and property of others and good will among men.

There is one agency striving for progress in this field. This agency is the church. At the birth of Jesus Christ, the following prophesy and promise was given to mankind by a host of angels: "Glory to God in the Highest Heaven! Peace upon earth among men of goodwill!" Luke 2:14, (Phillips translation). Only when the majority of men on earth are men of goodwill, will we have peace.

Attend church this week and align yourself with the forces of God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

DAV State Meeting To Be 'Largest' Ever

The largest state convention registration in the history of the state organization of the Disabled American Veterans is expected to be recorded in Columbus, July 31, Aug. 1 and 2, for the organization's 43rd Ohio convention. This was recently announced by Wayne McClung, 3516 Wicklow-rd, commander of the local chapter.

He said the local chapter will be represented at the convention sessions. With the Ohio DAV leading all states in membership for the 27th consecutive year, "a record registration will be easily reached," he stated.

The sessions of the convention will be addressed by state and national officials and by representatives of other veterans organizations.

One of the features of the convention will be a Chapter Service Officers' School, handled by DAV National Service Officers and by officials of the Veterans Administration.

The annual convention banquet will be held at the Deshler-Hilton Hotel, Saturday, Aug. 1, at 6:30 p.m. Glen Massamn, a noted humorist, will be the speaker.

The annual election of officers will be held Sunday, Aug. 2. The members of the Women's Auxiliary will meet concurrently in state convention. The national convention of the DAV and of the Women's Auxiliary will be held at Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 16 thru 21.

New Manager, Free Gifts At Shell Station

Shell Oil Co. is announcing new management for its service station at 4345 E. Broadst at Pinewood-rd.

Gene Trogus who recently completed three weeks of study at Shell's Retail Training Center, has taken charge of the station. The new manager also recently completed a course in automotive electrical servicing.

A Get-Acquainted Spcial will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 23 through 25. The public is invited to "stop by and meet Gene."

There will be gifts for the kiddies and four Swedish tumbiers for mom's table will be given with each sale of eight gallons of gas or more.

Broad and Pinewood Shell Service offers complete facilities for minor mechanical repairs, as well as lubrication and gasoline sales. The Goodyear line of auto tires, batteries and accessories is stocked. S&H Green Stamps are offered with each purchase.

Col. Levy Trains

On July 12, Lt. Col. Irwin Levy of 1020 S. Kellner-rd; Maj. Andrew P. Harbelis of 370 Beaver-av; and M/Sgt. Donald H. Metcalf, 2728 Wellesley-rd, reported for two weeks active duty at Port Columbus with the personnel assigned to the 8378th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group.

Lt.-Col. Levy serves as education and training staff officer for the group. He is regularly employed as a management analyst for the U.S. Army Maj. Harbelis is the group staff civil engineering officer but he usually works at North American Aviation. M/Sgt. Metcalf is the Sergeant Major for the group and regularly works as office manager for the City of Columbus Division of Sewage and Drainage.

Recovery units train one weekend each month, plus a two-week active duty tour in order to maintain a ready posture to serve the nation in the event of any future emergency.

FARM FORECAST

With the 1964 Republican Convention closed, the scene will change soon to Atlantic City for the Democratic Convention. The Republican party's 1964 platform for agriculture points toward less government in agriculture. However, it doesn't include any proposals for eliminating all farm supports.

The 1964 draft calls for the development of new voluntary farm commodity programs. It calls for the diversion of surplus-producing land to conservation uses, and it recommends the use of price supports "free of political manipulation in order to stimulate and attain fair market prices." The platform also calls for repeal of the Kennedy-Johnson administrations' new wheat program . . . a program called the "Bread Tax On Consumers," by the Republican legislators.

The farm proposals in the 1964 platform are built, for the most part, around the 1960 platform and around the stands taken since 1960 by most Farm Belt Republicans in Congress. It will be interesting to follow the platform proposed in the up-coming Democratic Convention, and more interesting to hear discussion of many agriculture groups . . . as they pro and con the big promises of both parties.

Some farm leaders are predicting there will be need for action by the federal government to ease potential shortage of farm labor. Farm labor employers recently formed a new national council to represent their interests. The group is expected to open an office in Washington by at least Aug. 1.

The National Grange has announced a move to rally farm support for three pesticide bills, while leaders of more than 20 farm groups and organizations including wildlife and forestry groups, were invited to a special meeting in Washington.

The 1964 corn crop made rapid progress last week over most of the area with scattered showers adding to soil-moisture content. Most of the crop was reported in good to excellent condition.

The big Summer Roundup for cattle feeders will be held at the Hardin County Fairgrounds, Kenton, O., on Aug. 1. More information is available by contacting James H. Warner at OSU.

Another date for your farm calendar is the Ohio Potato Field Day at Fall's Potato Farm, Beach City, Aug. 11.

A mid-year report from the state 4-H club office indicates a gain in 4-H enrollment this year of about 1,000 members. It appears that by the time Jan. 1 rolls around Ohio will have about 93,500 boys and girls in 4-H club work.

A tour of modern poultry rearing and laying facilities will highlight the summer meeting of the Ohio Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers.

The tour, to be conducted by Neuhauser Hatcheries of Napoleon, will begin at 3 p.m. on July 29 when the group assembles at the Gilboa feed mill on Route 224 between Ottawa and Findlay.

Other events: visit to the Ginter and the Maag poultry farms, both of near Gilboa . . . An evening banquet at Holiday Inn in Lima featuring a talk by Austin J. Hayden, director of production, Green Giant Co. . . . a report on the cage layer business and panel discussion of farm management trends . . . Robert Bachrach will discuss the beef situation and V. Joseph Sorg, Jr., will report on a water pipe line study of the Maumee river basin.

See Clay Eager's Farm Forecast week-day mornings 6:30-7 on TV 4.

MARA Sets 42-Night Program

MARA, the Mid-America Racing Association, took over for 42 nights of racing at Scioto Downs Monday evening. The final half of the 1964 season extend through Saturday, Sept. 5, with the post time set for the usual 8:20 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Many existing stake races have been carded for the MARA meeting, and the big headlines is the $10,000 HTA Trot on Friday, Aug. 7. Every top four-year-old trotter in the sport of harness racing is eligible to the touring stake, and the 1963 Harness Horse of the Year, Speedy Scot, leads the impressive field.

OWNED BY Castleton Farm of Lexington, Ky., Speedy Scot won the 1963 Hambletonian in 1:57 3/5, and at Lexington's famed Red Mile he trotted in 1:56 4/5.

A new stake event presented for the first time this year is the Scarlet and Gray Cup for three - year - olds carrying a purse of $4,000 each, the three-year-old pacing division is set for Friday, Aug. 28, and the three-year-old trot for Saturday, Aug. 29. This race will be the final testing grounds for many of the top eligible in the rich Ohio State Fair colt stakes the following week.

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Up Canada Way

On my way up to the French River this past week I picked up a copy of The Toronto Star and learned at least two things: The three Toronto daily papers are on strike . . . and The Star is running its own campaign to defeat Goldwater.

The papers are continuing to publish daily, and very good sized papers, even though the typographical and mailers unions are on strike. The engravers settled their contract for a clause that gives them lifetime protection against loss of jobs through automation.

Automation is at the base of the entire strike. The dailies have adopted the new computer typesetting plan which punches tape at a minimum of 50 characters a second. Office workers and those not under the union have been handling composition of the papers.

If you read the letters, columns and editorial pages of Canadian newspapers you could well imagine you are back home on the eve of the national election. From all appearances Canadians are really taking our election seriously.

A Toronto newspaper editorial points to the Harlem riots as the American tragedy and an "explosive development . . . coinciding with the bankruptcy of Republican leadership."

It continues to point out that "Negro leaders are also becoming impotent . . . Their problem is that the racial revolt no longer listens to the voices of moderation. Violence begets violence, and men of reason on both sides are being displaced by advocates of force."

Tough Decision

When our summer trip to the French River was delayed a couple weeks this year, it automatically delayed one of the great joys of summer . . . those bright red and meaty tomatoes and new corn from my garden.

And so as I search for the good life I cannot swing too far to the side of nature in its most natural state because I am so reminded of the goodness that comes from the stalk of a well-cultivated hill of corn.

What finer combination of delicacies than new corn and home grown red tomatoes!

It seems almost sacrilegious but this combination is one of the few things that make the trip home a pleasant one.

Northerly Notes: I classify Harry Miller, president of Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., as a man who enjoys the better things of life as attested by the fact that he too likes the French River . . . Harry has a gift from the men at the Gas Co., a gas refrigerator, and a mighty fine piece of equipment it is, when electric lines don't reach this area . . . Life goes on as usual in this country. Outside the door of our cottage a mother wren is teaching her youngsters to fly. We've watched this same show some 12 consecutive summers now . . . The Paul Luggers and Mrs. Leila Davis have shoved off for Columbus after a couple weeks at Keystone Lodge, and they are probably a few pounds heavier after eating those goodies Bill Kennedy serves daily.

We are sorry to learn this week of the death of J. C. Williamson, former Hilltopper and long-time owner of Williamson Furniture Co.

1000 EXPECTED TO ATTEND

Aug. 1 Demonstration Protesting 'De Facto'

By BETTY DAFT

Civil Rightists will attempt to convey Saturday their concern about "de facto segregation in Columbus Public Schools" in a public demonstration from 2 to 4 p.m. at the new Monroe Junior High School, under construction on Monroe-av at Leonard-av.

About 1,000 are expected to attend, with part of their number carrying signs protesting racial imbalance in schools, and a number of speeches scheduled by local leaders in Civil Rights organizations.

Also emphasized at the meeting will be "the urgent necessity of voter registration by eligible Negroes, and the militant use of the ballot as one of the best ways to bring about social change."

Fred Simon, safety director, said the Police Department is studying plans for the demonstration, but had not yet determined what steps would be taken to handle the expected crowd.

Russell Jones, executive director of Community Resources, Inc., coordinating group of the demonstration, and executive secretary of the Civil Rights Council, and Collin Bryce of the Columbus Call and Post newspaper, said of Saturday's demonstration:

"We have no thought of wanting to stop the construction of Monroe, now almost finished." (The school is 85 percent completed and 26 of its 33-member faculty have been assigned.)

"But we do protest," they said, "the continuing policy of the school board and administration in strengthening the de facto system by building more and more schools in segregated neighborhoods."

A third specific in the demonstration, in addition to protesting de facto segregation and urging voter registration is, according to Jones, "the hope that at Monroe pupils will be assigned in such a way that there will be an inclusive student body rather than one that is predominantly Negro."

Students assigned to Monroe, starting in September, formerly studied at Linmoor Junior High, where the student population is racially mixed.

(Dr. Harold Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Schools, explained that Monroe is being built to accommodate expected students who will be living in the more than 900 units of Bolivar Arms, and since this is a Federal housing project is is assumed that it will be inhabited by both white and Negroes.)

Rev. Phale D. Hale, president of the local NAACP Chapter and pastor of Union Grove Baptist Church, will explain the purpose of the demonstration.

Other scheduled speakers are Rev. Shellie Doughty, pastor of Mt. Herman Baptist Church; Rev. M. J. Mitchell, pastor of Pilgrim Baptist.

Russell Jones and Phale Hale, Jr., student at Howard University in Washington, D.C., are chairmen of the newly organized Teenage Action Group, composed of high school and college-age youth.

Rev. Arthur Zebbs of Columbus CORE Chapter will preside.

A booth will be set up at the demonstration site to provide information on voter registration and an opportunity for those needing to register to sign up for transportation to the Board of Elections.

Of an estimated 49,000 eligible Negro voters in Columbus, approximately 20 to 22,000 will need to register before the Sept. 23 deadline in order to vote at the next election.

VOTER REGISTRATION...

Williams To Press Branch Office Plan

Hopes for registration of voters at the Whitehall and Reynoldsburg Municipal Buildings for the 1964 elections are diminishing, according to a report from Thomas H. Williams, a member of the Franklin County Board of Elections. Councils of both cities have passed legislation offering use of their buildings for registration of voters.

Williams has been fighting a losing battle with other members of the board in attempts to gain approval for branch offices of the Board of Elections throughout the county.

"The Board of Elections," Williams said, "is providing the same type of facilities in 1964 as they did 20 years ago. The only difference is that there is an addition of one or two nights that the board is open for registration. However, it is noteworthy that there are no operating hours on Saturday evening when many people could register."

Williams said that there are about 150,000 potential voters in Franklin County who are not registered. He said that in many cases working hours conflict with the hours that the Board of Elections is open for registration.

Williams said that branch offices for registration are used effectively in two other areas of the state, and that local conditions warrant such a practice in Franklin County.

"It is the opinion of many," Williams said, "that the present registration facilities are entirely inadequate to meet the needs of an area that has expanded as greatly as Franklin County."

Williams said he will continue to push for the branch office proposal, and will place special emphasis on Whitehall and Reynoldsburg where local action has affirmed the desirability of such a plan.

Vien Named Senator Of Jaycees

J. Rogers Vien, charter president of Eastern Columbus Jaycees, was named a senator in Junior Chamber International at the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting held in Euclid last week, and was recognized as a life member.

Vien

At the same session, Eastern Jaycees was one of 22 honored as a "Blue Chip" local chamber, for having fulfilled all requirements for development as set by the national organization.

Thomas B. Studebaker, president, received a the award on behalf of the Eastern Chamber.

A Junior Chamber of Commerce senatorship is the highest award granted to a member for outstanding service to the organization. Vien will join other senators in 114 countries in the government of Junior Chamber International.

During Vien's administrative year as charter president, Eastern Jaycees received one of two awards as the outstanding first-year local in Ohio.

Public Meeting Set Thursday On Dams; SCD To Send Cards

Latest developments in the Alum Creek-Mill Creek dam and reservoir controversy include a Thursday evening public meeting called by Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner and a reversal of plans by the Scioto Conservancy District relative to notification of affected property owners.

Mayor Sensenbrenner has sent out about 700 invitations for the 7:30 p.m. Thursday meeting in council chambers at City Hall to discuss the capabilities of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to build the projects. The invitations went throughout the five-county area comprising the Scioto Conservancy District, and were directed primarily to neighborhood councils, women's organizations, school boards and service clubs.

The mayor has also invited Col. Harrington W. Cochran, chief of the Huntington District of the Corps of Engineers, to be on hand to answer questions. Sensenbrenner has expressed preference for the Army plan as a means of saving Columbus taxpayers more than $16 million that would be levied in assessments under the proposed SCD plan for the projects.

The City of Columbus would be required to pay for the proposed water supply feature of the Alum Creek project under either plan. Under the Army plan, however, all other costs would be paid with federal funds.

The Scioto Conservancy District is proceeding with plans for construction of the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects, as well as other projects listed in its "official plan" for the district. The SCD filed its appraisal record with the common pleas courts of Franklin, Pickaway and Ross counties on July 17.

SCD officials had indicated that notification of affected property owners would be accomplished only through required legal advertising, but have now announced a reversal of form. Property owners who would be affected by the SCD plan will receive a postcard notification of their appeal rights. The cards will call attention to the Aug. 17 deadline for filing exceptions to the SCD proposal covering property easements and damage payments and assessments for benefits.

The appraisal record covers six specific project objectives to be accomplished in two

Cruisers Behind City Garage Not Property Of Whitehall Police

Contrary to reports, the two brand new cruisers parked behind the municipal garage in Whitehall have not been purchased by the city, Mayor William Holzhause asserted Tuesday.

They may or may not be; no one will know for sure until bids are opened on Aug. 13. But at the moment they belong to Wirthman Motors.

A rumor that they were purchased by Whitehall five weeks ago and have been stored behind the garage since, although council only July 21 passed legislation approving the purchase of cruisers and the advertisement of bids, was emphatically denied by the mayor.

The cruisers parked behind the city garage, the mayor explained, are two of 17 slightly damaged police cars purchased by Wirthman Motors.

The cars, specially equipped for police use with large motors and generators, special gears and outsized tires, and powered with heavy duty batteries and wired for radios, were on their way from Detroit to Florida on order by Florida State Police when an accident occurred.

The car was derailed, causing the cars to be tipped, and battery acid ran out damaging the fenders.

Many municipalities around Columbus immediately purchased the bargain-priced, already equipped cruisers, but according to Whitehall procedure council must appropriate the money and bids must be advertised.

Wirthman Motors agreed, according to Mayor Holzhause, to hold two cars for Whitehall with the understanding that the city was in no way obligated to purchase them, and would take the cruisers only if there were no

CITY POOL JAMMED; SWIM HOURS LIMITED

Who said Columbus' new swimming pool was built too large?

For the duration of the heat wave, the city must admit swimmers to the Sunshine Park pool in two "shifts."

The Olympic-size pool has had to close daily about 3:30 p.m. after a capacity of 1200 swimmers is reached.

City Recreation Superintendent N. J. Barack said the following policy will be followed until demands for the pool decrease.

Persons who buy tickets for the first period will swim from noon until 4 p.m. A half hour will be allotted to clear the pool before the second group is admitted at 4:30. They can swim until 8 p.m.

Learn-to-swim classes will continue weekday mornings except Wednesday from 10 o'clock until noon. There is no charge for pool admittance or the lessons.

Under new regulations, Senior Citizen club members may swim free Wednesdays from 10 a.m. until noon. They must show their membership cards. They may swim any other time upon payment of the regular adult admission of 50 cents.

Kiwanis Clubs Receive Signs

EASTERN KIWANIS CLUB, meeting weekly at the Desert Inn, has been presented with a sign to be affixed to the restaurant sign. Julio Alexander of Desert Inn made the presentation to James Legg, the club's public and business affairs chairman, at left, and Ernie Emswiler, first vice-president, right.

WHITEHALL KIWANIS CLUB, founded by Eastern Kiwanians last November, also received a sign from Howard Johnson Restaurant and Motel, designating that restaurant as the club's weekly meeting place. Bill R. Smith of Howard Johnson's presents the sign to Joe Boyle of the Whitehall Club. Ernie Emswiler, in back, was new club building chairman of Eastern Kiwanis when the Whitehall Club was started.

Blood Donors Are Sought In Bexley

Visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to St. Alban's Church, 333 S. Drexel-av, Monday, Aug. 3, noon until 6 p.m., will mark the first community blood drive held in Bexley.

One hundred and eighty-five donors are needed. Anyone wishing to make an appointment may call CL. 3-5541, and donors may also stop in without an appointment.

Donating blood takes about 45 minutes, including time for taking a brief medical history, temperature and pulse, and a visit to the canteen afterwards for refreshments.

Last year Franklin County residents used 24,567 pints of blood and, according to the Red Cross, donated 22,900. The shortage means borrowing from other sources, and sometimes postpones elective surgery.

Each month nearly 250 pints of blood are used by University and Children's hospitals for open heart surgery cases alone.

Traffic Changes Are Approved

Columbus Traffic Commission Tuesday approved actions on two stop and yield situations in the east area.

Traffic on Livmoor-dr will yield to Barnett-rd, and cars traveling on Kellner-rd will stop for Elbern-av.

Church Services Interpreted In Sign Language

Sermons at Whitehall Church of Christ, 4185 E. Main-st, will be interpreted for the deaf in sign language beginning Sunday, Aug. 2.

Sunday services are at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and Bible classes, Sunday morning at 9:45 and Wednesday evening at 7:30, will also be interpreted.

Carl E. Finley is the minister, and Richard Carlson will interpret the services, assisted by Luther Spoonl and Tom Litton.

Area Man May Head Ohio Legion

C. William Heacock, 1652 Bostwick-rd, new first vice-commander of Ohio American Legion, may become commander of the state organization next year.

The first vice-commander normally becomes commander after one year in the post.

WILL GIVE X-RAYS

Area residents will have an opportunity to receive free Christmas Seal chest X-rays on Tuesday, Aug. 4, when the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County's Christmas Seal X-ray cruiser will be located at Conrad's Market, 1193 N. Hamilton-rd. The cruiser will be in operation from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m.

Wanted: Fun-Loving Couples For Golden Wedding Festival

We're getting excited!

The staff of Hartley Newspapers is looking forward to the Spectator Golden Wedding Party as much as our honored guests . . . the folks who have been married 50 years or longer.

One of the reasons for our excitement is the little notes that accompany so many of the coupons. The first coupon received this year was from Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hicks of 204 S. Murray Hill-rd. Following is the note they sent:

"We will be looking forward to attending the party the fourth year.

"Always enjoy them so much. As the years go by, and we lose our friends so rapidly, it's nice we can get together.

"If time doesn't change things, there will soon be no one married and living together for 50 years . . . it is going out of style.

"Thanks for your thoughtfulness.

"Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hicks.

"Married almost 57 years and happy years they have been.

"Thanks again."

Another wonderful response came from a woman who called in to say she would be happy to donate a cake for the affair. She recently baked a cake that fed 750 people. It was 48 inches tall and 29 inches across. She stated, "Any couple who has been married for 50 years deserves to be complimented. I would be more than happy to make this donation."

Every couple living within the circulation area of this newspaper and married 50 years or longer is invited to The Spectator Golden Wedding Party, slated Thursday, Aug. 20, at the Hilliard Fairgrounds, in conjunction with the Franklin County Fair. It will be held in the Youth Tent.

In addition to members of the Hartley Newspapers' staff stages of construction. Listed as stage one projects are the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam reservoir projects and Chillicothe local protection projects. Stage two work includes the Bellepoint dam and reservoir and modification of Hoover Dam to include flood [illegible].

$72 Million Total Cost

The proposed projects would cost about $72 million, including interest payments over a 30-year period, all of which would be financed through assessments against benefitting property owners, political entities and public and private corporations. An approximate 80 percent of the cost would be borne by Franklin County residents, with about 19 and one-half percent accruing to residents of Ross County.

Pickaway County residents would be assessed for the remainder of costs — amounting to less than one-half percent of the total. The remaining two counties in the five-county Conservancy District —Pike and Scioto — will not be assessed under the SCD plan. According to the appraisal record, these counties receive no benefit from the work proposed.

Franklin County accounts for 7,318 of the properties affected, with 5,522 in the City of Columbus. There are 3,392 affected properties in Ross County and 231 properties in Pickaway County to account for the total of 10,941 affected properties.

A $25,000 GIFT check to Capital University from General Motors Corp. is presented by Calvin Stacey, center, plant manager of the Ternstedt Division, to Robert B. Gronlund, left, vice-president for development at Capital. At right is T. Kline Hamilton, a member of the Columbus Advisory Council. The money will be used for an expansion program at the university.

$25,000 Gift Brings Capital Closer To $1 Million Goal

General Motors Corp. has put Capital University within striking distance of its $1 million Columbus community campaign goal by contributing a $25,000 gift, university officials announced.

Columbus campaign donors have now contributed a total of $951,135.

Robert B. Gronlund, vice-president for development and public relations, accepted the Motors in behalf of Capital and vacationing President H. L. Yochum, from Calvin Stacey, plant manager of the GM Ternstedt Division. Representing the advisory council which has piloted the Columbus campaign was T. Kline Hamilton, president of Diamond Milk Products, Inc., instrumental in negotiating the gift.

Of the $10 million, scheduled to be raised over a 10-year period, 20 percent is expected to come from donors in Columbus and Franklin County, and it is the hope of Capital University officials and the advisory council to reach the first $1 million by the end of the current calendar year.

In keeping pace with its planned expansion program, Capital will dedicate two new buildings this fall and complete $186,000 worth of interior renovation this summer.

$25,000 check from General

Near the completion stages are Yochum Hall, the modern administration building and a women's resident hall. Cost of these two projects is $1,080,000.

Being renovated are Lehmann, Leonard and Trautman halls. In addition, a new boiler plant is being installed at a cost of $350,000.

Capital University will open its doors to the largest enrollment in history this fall. Over 1,500 students will be attending classes in the Liberal Arts College and Conservatory of Music. Future predictions call for Capital to have an enrollment of over 2,000 by 1970.

FARM FORECAST

Egg prices have been under 1963 levels most of this year. Coupled with higher feed prices during the first half of this year, egg revenue has registered a decline for the January-June period compared to last year.

The picture is somewhat brighter for the second half but not enough to offset the income's drastic decline this past winter and spring. Feed prices are lower now and should remain so, but the winter hatch of chicks indicates that laying flock size will continue high. Thus, supplies should remain heavy through the late fall. Second half income will probably be about the same as during the last half of 1963.

Producers should keep flocks culled for the most economical production possible in the coming months. The seasonal price trend in this period will be up — but not as pronounced as last year, especially in early fall.

Corn prices peaked in late May, early June, a little earlier than usual. Prices will work down generally as we approach harvest. It appears corn will sell a little cheaper this fall than it did last year, but most experts advise against contracting ahead unless you get bids as good as last year's harvest prices. Contract quotes we've seen recently aren't this high.

Fluid milk prices are likely to average a bit above a year earlier during the last half of 1964. Increased use of milk and milk products is offsetting the slight gain in production. A general decline is evident in milk cows during the past 12 months.

While the cull cow market will remain on the dull side, demand for good milking stock will continue strong.

Prices in the hog markets have shown rather steady and solid improvement for the past several months, with prices moving up better than $2 at most markets since mid-April. The forecast for the balance of the year looks favorable, if not certain.

Fruit crop prospects in Ohio are above average for apples, grapes and sour cherries, while peach production is expected to be about 20 per cent below average. With relative minor winter-damage, favorable weather in most areas and generally good insect and disease control, fruit harvest at this point looks excellent.

A new plant analysis laboratory has been established for Ohio commercial farmers, fruit growers and greenhouse and outdoor vegetable and potato growers. It will be operated jointly at Wooster by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service, OSU, and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

County Extension agents will assist growers by providing mailing containers and complete instructions for use of the plant sampling kits required by the laboratory. Charges will be $3.75 per sample for agronomic crops and $5 per sample for horticultural crops.

Agronomic crops for which analyses will be available include corn, soybeans, alfalfa, clover and other legumes, wheat, oats, barley, forage grasses, sugar beets and tobacco.

Samples of these corps will be analyzed for a dozen mineral elements. For more information, call your county agent.

White burley tobacco has been grown in Southern Ohio 100 years. An open house commemorating this will be held Aug. 7 at the state's Southern Substation, four miles north of Ripley in Brown County.

Free-choice field day type tours will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Included in the program will be research results on lawn grasses, beef breeding and feeder calf projects, pasture improvement, irrigation, water runoff studies, new developments in corn tillage, grape and apple culture, and treatment of pond water for household use.

Following lunch, which will be served on the grounds, Dr. Roy M. Kottman, director of the station, will conduct a short noon program at which a plaque will be unveiled commemorating the discovery of burley tobacco.

The substation is located six miles south of Russellville on US Route 62.

Important dates:

Aug. 1 — Summer Roundup for cattle feeders, Hardin County fairgrounds, Kenton.

Aug. 6 — Ohio Graded Feeder Pig Sale, Hartville, Hartville Livestock, 7 p.m.

Aug. 6-8 — Eastern Apicultural Society, annual meeting, OSU.

Aug. 7 — Open House, Southern Substation, Ripley.

Aug. 10 — Ohio Graded Feeder Pig Sale, Kidron, Kidron Auction, Inc.

HUGE NORTHLAND CENTER PREPARES FOR OPENING

CENTRAL OHIO'S LARGEST mall-type shopping center, Northland at Morse and Karl-rds, will open Aug. 13, it has been announced. Features of the center include a national catalog company's first local entry in the retail department store line, the first 1,000 seat theater built in Columbus in many years, and the first "clock tower" with carillon sound effects marking the time of day. In between the F. & R. Lazarus building at the right and the Sears, Roebuck and Co. building on the left, the center's four buildings fronting on the mall will house 40 fashion and service firms and stores at Northland. F. & R. Lazarus and Sears, Roebuck and Co. each owns its own building. The four buildings fronting on the mall are owned by Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co., and co-developed by the Visconsi-Mead-Jacobs Co.

Musical On Gold Rush Next Production At OSU Stadium

"Paint Your Wagon," the musical hit about the California gold-rush that scored a hit in New York in 1951 and in Columbus in 1958, will return to Ohio State's Stadium Theatre as the final production of the theater's 15th anniversary season. David Ayers again will be featured as a gold-seeker who purchases a bride from a Mormon who has a "spare," at performances Aug. 5 through 16.

The talented team of Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, who in 1956 presented the American theater with "My Fair Lady," authored "Paint Your Wagon." Lerner also wrote the book and lyrics and Loewe composed the music for "Brigadoon" which won the New York Drama Critics' Award in 1951 for the best music of the season.

The plot of the play is based on the historical fact that the first pioneers in California in '49 were deprived of the comforts of feminine companionship. The story poses the supposition that a number of single women, appreciating the scarcity of their sex in California, enterprisingly set off to find husbands by making the arduous stage-coach journey westward.

The joy of the frustrated gold-seekers upon the arrival of the ladies, as celebrated by their songs and dances, is one of the highlights of the play. A sub-plot concerns the interrupted romance between a dashing young Mexican and the daughter of the leading citizen — roles to be portrayed here by Paul Roberts and Margaret Ellis.

The show is being directed by Roy Bowen, the dances staged by Margaret Ellis, and the music is under the direction of James Lindholm.

Park Federal To Open New North Branch

Park Federal Savings and Loan Association will open its fifth office in Northland Shopping Center on Aug. 13, according to Carl F. Fergus, president of the company.

The 75-year-old firm's new office will be located at 1682 Northland Mallway, the president revealed.

The Investors Check plan initiated two months ago, will be available at the new location, officials stated.

The Investors Check plan provides savers with a monthly check for one-twelfth of the current annual four percent divident. The service is available to everyone with a minimum initial savings account of $5,000, Fergus stated the new plan has already attracted one million dollars in savings.

To Head Eagles Convention Team

James B. Clarke, official delegate to the Eagles International Convention at Denver, Colo., Aug. 5 through 8, will head Columbus Aerie 297 Ritual Team of Edward Sluder. Ralph E. Swearengin, Wallace Hickman, Clarence Lindholm and Marion Klott in international competition.

There will be no regular Aerie 297 meeting on Aug. 5.

IN O'NEILL COMEDY

"AH, WILDERNESS!" is the famous comedy by Eugene O'Neill currently being presented at OSU's Stadium Theatre. Playing members of the Miller family are (back, standing) Raymond McIver, Sandy Bassett, John McIlhargey, (seated) Robert Rathbun, Virginia Donavan and Richard Searles. The production will continue through Saturday, Aug. 1, at 8:30.

"Sound of Music," the next Kenley Players production, Aug. 4 through 9, is the story of how the von Trapp family began a world-famous singing ensemble.

The story begins in 1938 at the Nonnberg Abbey, where the mother abbess and her assistants have concluded that a young postulant, Maria, is not yet ready for the religious life. Her love of life and uninhibited bursts of song are understood by the mother abbess, who decides to send her as a governess to the children of Capt. von Trapp.

A retired Austrian Navy officer, his children are being raised in the military tradition. Marie brings warmth and song into their life, and when the captain returns with his fiance, Elsa Schraeder, and friend, Max Detweiler, he is amazed to find his children singing.

Discovering she is in love with the captain, Maria flees back to the abbey, but the mother abbess convinces her such a love is holy and Maria returns to her charge. Disagreement over treatment and acceptance of the Nazis leads to a quarrel between Elsa, Max and the captain, who dissolves their friendships.

The captain and Maria are free to recognize their love and are married in the abbey. Returning from their honeymoon, they find that the Nazis have overrun Austria and that Max, now an avowed Nazis, has arranged for the children to sing at a festival when the Nazis threaten to force the captain into their service.

Maria seizes upon the festival as a way to help the family escape, which with the help of Max they accomplish.

Stage-Struck Youth Subject Of Comedy

"Enter Laughing," the New York comedy hit about the adventures of a clumsy delivery boy when he becomes stage struck, will be presented at Playhouse-on-the-Green for one week beginning Monday, Aug. 3. Its stars will include Ray Girardin, Marilyn Samelson and Bruce Blaine.

Based on an autobiographical novel by Carl Reiner, who after a ludicrous start did become a successful actor, producer and writer for television, "Enter Laughing" was written by Joseph Stein, co-author of "Take Me Along," "Plain and Fancy" and other musical comedy hits.

Its tale of a teenager trying to cope with the problems of love and a career was described by New York critics when it began its year's run on Broadway in 1963 as the saga of a Penrod with a Bronx accent.

Currently appearing nightly at 8:30 through Saturday, Aug. 1, at POG is Brendan Behan's "The Hostage."

'As Unusual As The Name Implies'

Take 5 with JANET MICHAEL

I was stumped this week trying to figure out the symbol for a 60th wedding anniversary.

A call to the library satisfied my curiosity . . . diamond.

The librarian also gave me a rundown of anniversary symbols as follows:

1. paper
2. cotton
3. leather
4. linen or silk
5. wood
6. iron
7. wool or copper
8. bronze
9. pottery or china
10. tin or aluminum
11. steel
12. silk
13. lace
14. ivory
15. crystal
20. china
25. silver
30. pearl
35. coral
40. ruby
45. sapphire
50. gold
55. emerald
60. diamond

And so it would seem that when a girl receives a diamond announcing to the world that she is engaged, it takes 60 years of married life before she can truly say she has earned it.

As the years mount, the gifts become more valuable. With the same token, the years become more valuable to the couple who has shared them.

Congratulations and best wishes go out to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Saile of 165 E. Gates-st. They will be celebrating their "Diamond Day" Sunday, Aug. 9!

Organize Radio Operators For Emergency Work

Richard A. Egbert, W8ETU, of 6479 Red Fox-rd, Reynoldsburg, has been named to organize Franklin County amateur radio operators to furnish communications in time of disaster. The announcement was made this week by Communications Manager F. E. Handy of the American Radio Relay League.

Egbert's assignment, which carries the title of Emergency Coordinator of the Amateur Radio Emergency Corps, is to form the organization, call meetings of members, establish common operating procedures and arrange regular drill sessions.

Additional duties include liaison planning with relief and public welfare agencies as well as with the Red Cross and Civil Defense agencies. He will also set up a liaison with local protective agencies, such as fire and police departments.

WRFD To Begin 'Dial Your Voice' Contest, Monday

Starting Monday, Aug. 3, WRFD listeners will have a chance to win thousands of trading stamps in the station's new "Dial Your Voice" contest. Listeners are invited to call CA. 8-4536 and record "Listening is Great at 88." starting Wednesday, July 29.

Then, starting Monday, Aug. 3 WRFD will air 10 of the recorded voices each day. Persons who recognize their voices are invited to call CA. 8-5853 to identify their voices. Each time a voice goes unidentified the jackpot grows with 1,500 trading stamps. All contestants whose voices are broadcast win five gallons of gasoline.

The contest will run for a six-week period.

IPC Names New Officers

Independent Players Club of Columbus, at their 43rd annual banquet, announced the re-election of Jerry Gruber as president for the 1964-1965 season. Richard Herzog was elected vice-president; Barbara Whetnall secretary; and Pat Hardy, treasurer.

The four officers plus the following make up the current board of directors: Hal Lust, Mary Jo Fallon, Dorothy Watson, Cliff Freeman, Bill May, Jeannie Boggs, Curt Taylor and Jerry Lee. Paul Morris continues as musical director, and Stuart Tallman once again is choreographer, while Frank Cory is accompanist.

Jeannie Boggs is social chairman this year and Bill May is in charge of membership, while Curt Taylor is house manager and librarian, and W. C. Heldt is in charge of publicity.

The Independent Players are remaining busy this summer staging a musical variety show every Saturday night 9 o'clock at Kings Inn, Arlington Arms Motel.

Anyone interested in appearing in these musical variety shows is invited to attend rehearsals any Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the IPC rooms, 261 S. High-st.

Columbus Actress To Star In POG Comedy

Chapter 518 of the City of Hope is sponsoring the Wednesday, Aug. 5, performance of Joseph Stein's tender comedy "Enter Laughing" which opens a week's run at Playhouse-on-the-Green on Monday, Aug. 3. Columbus actress Marilyn Samelson will star along with Ray Girardin as the boy.

Before turning to professional theatre, Miss Samelson was a favorite with audience of Gallery Players and local television.

Last season Miss Samelson captivated the critics with her role as the mother in "Come Blow Your Horn" at Playhouse-on-the-Green. Sam Wilson of the Columbus Dispatch said her performance was "entirely comparable to any one may associate with the name of Gertrude Berg."

After a winter spent in New York where she made several commercials for television in addition to a pilot film to be aired in the coming months, Miss Samelson has returned to Columbus for the summer and her appearance at Playhouse-on-the-Green. She will return to New York in September to begin work on a new film. In addition she is currently being considered for a new Broadway play now being written by Leonard Spiegelgass.

Tickets for this special benefit performance are $2.50 with all seats reserved. Call BE. 1-5083, BE. 7-6668 or BE. 1-8056 for reservations and the tickets will be delivered.

'Americana' Is Lea-Wood Theme

"DO I HAVE TO?" queries Mrs. Don Dickson (right) as she inspects the bloomers she is to wear for the upcoming Lea-Wood Garden Club Flower Show. Also looking a little dubious is Mrs. Robert Dunn, (left), but Mrs. Christian Kohnle (center) simply will not take "no" for an answer. All three will be on hand (in full costume) for the seventh annual flower show to be staged Saturday, Aug. 8, 4 to 8 p.m., at Grace United Church of Christ, Shady Lane-rd. Mrs. Dunn is chairman, Mrs. Kohnle, publicity and Mrs. Dickson, scheduling. The show is open to the public. There will be no admission fee.

WHITEHALL GARDENERS SET SHOW

The Whitehall Garden Club will present its ninth annual flower show, Saturday, Aug. 8, at the Whitehall-Yearling High School, 675 Yearling-rd. This show will be held in the cafeteria and will be open to the public from 2 to 7 p.m.

Any amateur gardener is invited to enter this show. Entries may be made between 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. Judging will begin at 11 a.m.

Contact Mrs. Francis Sutphen, 231-2452 or Mrs. George Dreisbach, 231-5583 for schedules or information. Chairmen are: Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Hoye and Mrs. Julian Moreland.

Mt. Carmel To Graduate

The 58th annual commencement of Mount Carmel School of Nursing will be held Monday, Aug. 3, at 8 p.m. in Saint Joseph Cathedral.

Rev. Arthur Dimond, chaplain of Mount Carmel Hospital, will present the 75 graduates of the Class of 1964 to the Rev. Clarence G. Issenmann, bishop of the diocese of Columbus who will present the diplomas.

The Mount Carmel School of Nursing Glee Club, directed by Miss Mary Ellen Straub, will sing for the occasion.

Ohio State University horticulturists say a vegetable garden requires one inch of water a week. On a 30 by 30 foot plot, this is about 560 gallons.

Intrepid Wins NAA Award

The USS Intrepid (CVS-11), commanded by Capt. J. G. Smith, has — for the second time — won the highly competitive Admiral Fletley Memorial Award for having the best CVS operating safety record in fiscal year 1964.

The award, sponsored by North American Aviation, Inc., of Columbus, was won last year by the USS Randolph.

Initiated to further naval aviation safety, it is awarded each year to the CVA and CVS with the most outstanding safety record. Intrepid last won the honor in 1961.

Jehovah's Witnesses Complete Plans For District Assembly

How would you like the task of preparing meals for 18,000 hungry, enthusiastic people? Frightening? This is the job facing Jehovah's Witnesses during their district assembly at Jet Stadium July 30 through Aug. 2.

Undaunted by a grocery list which would send the average housewife scurrying for advice from the Army and one which dwarfs dad's weekly paycheck, the Witnesses are completely confident.

The big thing is finding the necessary items for 36,000 regular meals to be served during the four-day convention. Officials say 10,000 pounds of beef, 10,000 pieces of chicken, 5000 loaves of bread, 3000 dozen hot dog and hamburger buns, 3000 dozen ice cream bars and mountains of other edibles are needed and must be purchased locally.

Preparing the food for the attending families is another feat confronting a staff manned by volunteer workers, some of whom never donned an apron before this assembly. The kitchen is one of 20 such service departments set up and operated by 3,000 volunteer workers, many of them coming early to lend a helping hand.

That the assembly purpose is not merely to fill the stomach but the mind was pointed out by Walter Wissman, chairman of the assembly, who says: "This convention is not a revival, it is not a crusade, but rather it is educational in nature. It is planned primarily to assist Jehovah's Witnesses in their ministerial activity. At the same time this assembly provides a means whereby not only Jehovah's Witnesses, but all persons who love Jehovah God and His word can assemble to receive wholesome and timely counsel in applying the Bible's ageless principles to the problems of our day. For this reason, all truth seekers are welcome at every sessions of this assembly."

Thursday—1:40 and 6:30 p.m.

Friday—8:45 a.m., 1:40 and 6:30 p.m.

Saturday—9:10 a.m., 1:40 and 6:30 p.m.

Sunday—9 a.m. and 2:15 p.m.

A striking feature of the assembly to most observers will be the large number of children attending and actually sharing in it. Officials at Convention Headquarters report that about 5000 of those in attendance will be youngsters accompanying their parents. For most families attending, this has meant much planning of vacation schedules and budgets to meet the Bible's command for such meetings.

Guests will not only be well fed but well bedded during their stay since thousands of accommodations in private homes have been obtained to augment those found in motels and hotels. For many weeks a house-to-house canvass of homes in Columbus has been in progress in order to find rooms for delegates.

"Area residents have been very kind in opening their homes, and I'm certain they will benefit by having delegates as guests," Wissman stated. "It will provide them an opportunity to learn first-hand how the Bible is used to prevent juvenile delinquency and other problems.

"By attending the sessions along with their guests they will see not a solemn conclave of elder citizens pondering 'How To Combat Delinquency' or 'Ways to Interest Youths in Religion.' They will see youngsters, brimming with energy, sincerity in their faces. They are not delinquents," he pointed out.

Over the years Jehovah's Witnesses have acquired a reputation of leaving an assembly site cleaner than they found it. Assuring that Jet Stadium will be no different, John Sepos of Canton, who for years directed such work at mammoth assemblies of Jehovah's Witnesses at Yankee Stadium, will be in charge of cleaning here.

The assembly is one of 63 held this summer in the United States and Canada.

"All persons of good will toward Jehovah God are welcome to attend this assembly," Wissman said. No collections will be taken. All meetings of the Columbus Congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses will be canceled this week to allow families and friends to attend the district assembly.

TWO OF HER children, five of her grandchildren and many of her 16 great-grandchildren are Witnesses today, and it all began when Mrs. Pauline May, 493 Stanley-av made her dedication and was baptized as a Witness of Jehovah back in 1911 here in Columbus. Recalling milestones of the religious group, the 88-year-old German immigrant remembers the first district convention at Cedar Point in 1919, when a mere 2200 attended, as well as the international meeting three years later with 18,000 attending. She was also present at the Ohio State Fair Grounds when the members met in 1931 and chose the name they bear today, "Jehovah's Witnesses."

'Finger Of God' Is Rabbi's Topic

Sabbath services will be held at Temple Tifereth Israel Friday, July 31, 8 p.m., with Rabbi Nathan Zelizer conducting the services.

Services on Saturday morning begin at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Zelizer will speak on "The Finger of God."

Pastor Accepts New Position

Lawrence F. Kagels, district pastor for the Seventh Day Adventist Church for the past six years, has accepted a call to Toledo.

He and his family were honored at a dinner at the new junior academy July 26, by the members of the Eastwood Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Kagels and family left Monday for a vacation on the east coast prior to beginning his pastoral duties in Toledo.

During Kagels' stay here, a church has been organized in Reynoldsburg, a new church built in Grove City and a new junior academy and parsonage built on Napoleon-av.

Some 240 additions to the membership of the four churches have been made in the Columbus district.

Columbus Residents To Direct Hawiian Tour

Harold E. Westerhoff, 1221 E. Broad-st, and Phyllis I. Rike, 2949 Sullivant-av, will participate in the 4th Pacific Area Conference of the World's Christian Endeavor Union in Honolulu, Hawaii, Aug. 6 through 9, as part of Christian Endeavor's Hawaiian Fellowship Tour.

Mr. Westerhoff, general secretary of both the World's Union and the International Society, is directing the tour. Miss Rike, assistant tour director, is administrative secretary of the International Society and editor of "The Christian Endeavor World." The tour group includes members from all sections of the United States.

Day Camp Available For Boys

East Side boys may attend the Boys Branch "Y" Day Camp the week of Aug. 3 to 7, YMCA officials have announced.

The day camp is operated in Blendon Woods for all boys of the community from the ages of seven to 10. The camp facilities also are open to non-members, a spokesman stated.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Boys Branch "Y" at CA. 4-1131.

Camp activities include nature study, crafts, hikes, compass and map training, games, physical fitness program, swimming and a cookout on Fridays.

A bus route criss crosses the community to pick up the boys in the morning and return them at night.

Rev. Buehrer Called From Grace United

Rev. and Mrs. Marcus S. Buehrer were the guests of honor at an open house reception held July 26 at Grace United Church of Christ, 1226 Shady Lane-rd.

Rev. Buehrer, who has served Grace United for the past six years, has accepted a calling to Central Fair Lea United Church of Christ in Dayton.

During his local pastorate, the relocation of the former Wilson Avenue United Church of Christ took place.

Rev. Buehrer is a member of Downtown Optimists Club, Whitehall Lodge of Masons and is past president of the Whitehall and East Columbus Ministerial Association.

In Dayton he will be pastor of a $600,000 church now being built.

SIGNS CONTRACT

Mrs. Fran Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fife, 1317 Barnett-rd, has signed a teaching contract with the Springfield, Mo. public school system for the 1964-65 school year. An elementary education major, Mrs. Fish was graduated from Evangel College, Springfield, Mo. on July 3.

SAFE AND SECURE

How confidently he sleeps. Mother and Daddy are in the next room. Teddy Bear is right beside him.

We, also, desire a feeling of confident security. We want to do good and live with honor in this life, free of the fear of falling into sin. God wants this for us, too. And He sees and knows how hard we try.

In the New Testament, Jude writes, "God is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy."

Pledge yourself to Him and attend church this week.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Varmint-Shootin' Time In Heartland Of Ohio

Even though the good ol' summertime doesn't give buckeye marksmen much chance to keep their eye sharp, the next few weeks will present golden opportunity for those sportsmen known as varmint hunters. As farmers mow their grass and grain crops, the varmints will be readily available to rifle sights.

McCreary

Here in Ohio "varmint" means that rotund rodent known as the groundhog or woodchuck . . . and the furry critter comes by the brand quite honestly. This talented digger burrows numerous dens in meadows, along fence rows and in crop fields with reckless abandon. He does have steadfast purpose, to be near his food supply of grains, grass, forage crops and fruit.

THESE CHOW habits don't rate him high on the farmer's list of desired wildlife. In addition, the many holes dotting pastures can send livestock to the slaughterhouse with a broken leg and can effectively put farm machinery out of commission. The pile of rock and dirt at the burrow entrance can wreak havoc with mowing machine cutter bars.

As a result most landowners are happy to welcome the varmint shooter. And, generally speaking, those hunters are a highly responsible lot. Most groundhog hunters are also "gun-nuts" . . . reliable sportsmen who take pride in their fine firearms and their performance.

IT'S THIS PRIDE which makes wood-chuck hunting an ideal sport in central Ohio. Here they get a chance to test their ability, the shooting traits of their rifles, and their prowess at hand-loading their own precision ammunition.

Depending on the man behind it, the gun used to hunt woodchucks may vary from an heirloom .22 to a high-powered, scope-sighted .30.06 custom weapon which will carry a three-figure price tag. And you should see the pride of a 'chuck hunter who's just nailed one of the varmints at about 500 yards, using a gun he built, firing a hand-load he worked out himself.

ALTHOUGH groundhogs are extensively hunted, very seldom do they end up on the table—a big mistake, and the waste of some mighty tasty meat. A young, properly prepared woodchuck makes for delicious eating.

Recently I received a letter from a Canal Winchester area farmer with a 'chuck problem; he was "desperate" because about a dozen of the varmints had built burrows under his unused barn and were undermining it—how could he get rid of them. My advise is to either hunt them or call on some sportsmen friends to do the job. If this isn't feasible because of location, then the critters must be exterminated.

THE EASIEST way is to block off all but one hole, then run an exhaust hose from a tractor into the burrow. As a last resort, fumigant "bombs" such as calcium cyanide or carbon bisulphide will get rid of the woodchucks. We stress that such poisons should be used only with extreme care and as a last resort—many other animals such as rabbits, racoons, foxes and even quail and pheasants use the burrows for hiding and shelter.

In addition to removing a serious pest from farmlands, groundhog hunting also provides the marksman with some outstanding sport and the chance to relax in some quiet, scenic countryside. Some of my most pleasant days afield have been spent wood-chucking in the hills of east-central Ohio in the company of one of the best hunters. This crack shot was my teacher and a mighty good one—my dad.

TOGETHER we spent countless hours scanning the fields and fence rows for that brown-gray spot which the field-glasses confirmed as a wary woodchuck. He was almost as proud as I was when I could steady the cross-hairs and lower the boom on a grizzled old whistler at somewhere around 500 paces. The fine 30.06 Enfield which he built from a stock military rifle into the most accurate gun I've ever seen is the most prized of all the weapons in my collection.

Until his death last year my dad never missed a chance to go groundhog hunting; now Mack's final resting place is as he wanted it—on a picturesque Licking County hillside, overlooking the fields and farms where he had made so many fine shots.

CMS Plans Mid-Season Title Races

Sunday night's race program for late-models and sportsmen at the Columbus Motor Speedway, started at 8 p.m. and by 10:10 everyone had seen eight events and were on their way home, primarily due to the fact that the two features ran without an incident even though both divisions had plenty of excitement right down to the finish-line.

Late-model speedster Ralph O'Day notched his third straight main event and Don Gregory made it four straight in the sportsman category.

LAST FRIDAY night, Richwood's Todd Gibson outlasted a field of speedy super-modifieds to get his second feature of the year on the South Side oval.

This week, the super-modifieds will team up with the sportsman for a full program with two features Friday evening.

Sunday night, the sportsman and late models will take over the Williams-rd raceway for their Mid-Season championship races. There will be eight events, with two championship features and there'll be $1500 in guaranteed prize money against 40 percent of the gate whichever is greater.

LAST SUNDAY, three fans picked the first five in the late model feature and each took home $166.67 from the free game of "Total" jackpot. There'll be $100 in the jackpot this Friday.

Racing on Friday and Sunday starts at 8 p.m. following the 7 o'clock time trials.

WRFD Will Air Browns' Grid Games

For the ninth consecutive year WRFD - AM and WRFD - FM will carry the complete schedule of the Cleveland Browns football games, starting with the Browns' exhibition game with San Francisco, Aug. 9 at 3:20 p.m., EST. Gib Shanley will be the play-by-play announcer for all the Browns games.

Each game will be preceded by the "Blanton Collier Show" and "Sideline Interviews." At the conclusion of all the Browns NFL games, "Scoreboard Roundup," a 10-minute program which switches to various games still in progress for scores, will be featured.

IN ADDITION to the "Blanton Collier Show" preceding the games, the coach of the Cleveland Browns will also be heard on WRFD Monday through Friday at 5:45 p.m., beginning Monday, Aug. 3.

The August exhibition games include: Cleveland vs. San Francisco, Sunday, Aug. 9 at 3:20 p.m. on WRFD-AM and WRFD-FM, Cleveland vs. Los Angeles, Saturday, Aug. 15 at 9:50 on WRFD-FM, Pittsburgh vs. Akron, Saturday, Aug. 22 at 7:20 p.m. on WRFD-FM and Cleveland vs. Detroit Friday, Aug. 28 at 7:50 p.m. on WRFD-FM.

Center Lanes Remodeling

Pardon our dust while work continues on our remodeling at the Jewish Center Lanes. Every effort is being made to complete the work as soon as possible to insure the bowlers complete pleasure and comfort.

To help add to your bowling pleasure, new ball exits will be installed to reduce ball calls and in addition your ball will be returned faster to speed up your games. New masking units, new sweep bars and all new moveable parts in the machines will be installed. Also new bowlers seteee, scoring stands, ball returns, spectator seats and tile will also be installed.

ALTHOUGH THE summer is just about one half over, plans are just about complete for the 1964-65 season. A few choice openings remain and the Center Lanes extend an invitation to the general public and especially to all clubs, social groups and leagues to inquire about available times.

Teams and individuals who wish placement for the 1964-65 season should contact the Center Lanes.

The Center Lanes offer 12 completely automatic pin-spotters. The lanes are air conditioned and ample free parking is provided. In most cases it is your league alone that is bowling at a certain time.

Free instructions are offered, with a well planned bowling school with film, followed by personal instructions with Ethel Weise, as your instructor. She is a certified instructor.

ALL BOWLERS are urged to take advantage of our reduced rates in bowling on Sunday only and get warmed up for the 1964-65 season. You may bowl three games and pay for two. The new rates will prevail all day Sunday for the balance of the summer.

Swimming parties will be arranged for all leagues signing up for the 1964-65 season.

COLUMBUS SOAP BOX DERBY CHAMP

JIM ZIENTEK, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zientek, 892 Caniff-pl, was all smiles in the winner's circle last Saturday at the Columbus Soap Box Derby after he eliminated Mike Walkup for the Class "A" Derby crown that automatically qualifies him for the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron on Aug. 15. Zientek, a 13-year-old Crestview student, proudly displays his trophy to his mother after topping a field of 81 boys on the E. Fifth-av course. Jim also won a $500 Savings Bond for his efforts and will compete against 240 racers from all over the world Aug. 15 at Akron where a $7,500 scholarship awaits the first-place winner. Zientek placed third in the local Class "B" race two years ago and wants to be a mechanical engineer when he completes his education. (Derby Photo by Chuck Hoff.)

THE BIGGEST field in the history of the United Golfer's Association Midwest District Junior Championship Tournament will be competing for more than $1,000 worth of trophies Saturday at Raymond Memorial golf course. Joe Berger of Cincinnati (right) will be too old to defend his 15-17 title but will return to compete in the over-age boys' division. Renee Powell, (center) last year's girls' titlist and winner of the Clearview Northeastern Ohio junior gold championship, has filed for play and hopes to retain her crown. Lonnie Jones, (left) is the Youth Division Director.

District Jr. Tourney Ready At Raymond

The largest field ever will be competing for $1,000 worth of trophies Saturday at 10 a.m. at Raymond Memorial when the Midwest District Junior Golf Tournament gets under way.

Play will be held in boys' and girls' divisions in the 18-20, 15-17, 11-14, and 10 and under age brackets Saturday and Sunday.

JOE BERGER, last summer's winner in the boys' 15-17 bracket, will be too old to defend his title, but will return to compete in the over-age boys' division.

Renee Powell, last year's girls' titlist and winner of the Clearview Northeastern Ohio Junior Gold Championship, has registered for this summer's tourney and will be back to defend her laurels.

Among the top contenders for honors in the boys' 15 to 15 division will be Jim Doyle, an eighth place finisher in the Cincinnati Jaycee tournament; Tad Coleman, third man on the team that won the Columbus City League championship this year; Brian Kotzin, Columbus, quarter finalist in the recent Mid-American tournament; Joe Meglen, Columbus, Central Catholic League champion for 1964 and a qualifier two years running in the Ohio Jaycee tournament; Bob Peterson, Columbus, third place winner in the State Jaycee tournament for 1964; Bob Rudolph, Columbus, second man on Arlington's 1964 Central District high school championship team; Richard Shannon, Columbus, Ohio Junior champion, 15 and under, in 1963; Jim Keefer, Delaware, 1963 Delaware County junior champion; Jim Gregg, Hamilton, 1964 Hamilton junior champion; and Stan Hultz of Crawfordsville, Ind., 1964 Indiana State High School champion.

FIVE STATES, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio, were represented among the contestants who paraded to the winner's stand when the tournament was staged on the Douglas Golf Club course in Indianapolis last August.

Lonnie Jones, director of youth activities and development for the United Golfers Association, who is directing the tourney, said tee entries will be accepted.

Fees for the tourney are scaled at $5 for 15 and older, $4 for 11 to 14, and $2 for 10 and under. Entry blanks can be obtained from pros at all Columbus area golf courses, at the offices of the Coca Cola Co., 786 Twin Rivers Drive and at Roy and Co., Broad and High-sts, where the tournament trophies are being exhibited now through July 30.

Camp Chase Nabs Third Legion Title

Ed Lewis' Camp Chase nine wrapped up its third American Legion Central District baseball title in the last four summers last week as the Hilltop club trounced Comrade Post, 16-1, to take the best of a three-game playoff series and a berth on the State Legion Tourney in Athens on Aug. 3.

Camp Chase chased Comrade hurlers John McQuaid and Mike Hensley with a 15-hit offensive that was supported by 13 glaring Comrade miscues.

WEST HIGH starboarder George Shaffer scattered nine Comrade safeties and fanned the same number as he boosted his own mound mark to 7-2 and the winner's all games log to 35-7.

Backstop Steve Prater and Arlington centerfielder Ted Rose continued their torrid hitting by smashing two doubles and a single each while mate Steve Emrich kicked in three singles to pace the Chasemen.

Heartbeat 3 Sets Second Tenpin Event

The Central Ohio Heart Association will hold its second annual Heartbeat No. 3 Headpin Tournament at the Lincoln Village Lanes, 4170 W. Broad-st on Aug. 22-23 and 29-30 from 12 noon until 12 midnight.

Anyone can bowl in the tourney ($1 per game) as often as they wish and all tournament proceeds go to the Heart Fund for research.

IN THE MEN'S division, bowlers will be classed in 174 and under and 175 and over classes while in the women's section, the ladies will be classified in 149 and under and 150 and over average groups.

The Junior Division will have 8-15 age groups competing while the Senior section will have entrants 16-18 years old.

A "Queen of Hearts" will be chosen from girls represented by the various Columbus Bowling establishments. Guaranteed cash prizes will be determined by the number of entries and door prizes will be presented nightly.

The tourney will also sponsor a "Celebrity Bowl" with prominent celebrities from the Columbus area competing for trophies.

EL RANCHO WINS

El Rancho Polo Club will be at home again Sunday when the Mahoning Valley team arrives for a 3 p.m. game on the field located on State Route 161 just west of I-71.

El Rancho's 6-5 victory over Dayton Sunday brought its record up to four wins and two defeats for the season. Gate receipts of all home games benefit the American Cancer Society.

UA Tankers Jr. Olympic Champions

Upper Arlington Swim Team captured the Central Ohio AAU Junior Olympics Swim Meet by scoring 351½ points in this annual two-day meet sponsored by the WBNS-TV station and conducted by the Columbus Recreation Department.

Worthington Swim Team won second place team honors with 247 points followed by Newark YMCA, 136; Swimland, 132; Hilltop, 102½; Linco, 96; Twin Towers, 45; Eastmoor-South, 44; Columbus Olympic, 43; Mt. Vernon, 40; Marion Olympic, 35½; Westerville, 33; Mt. Air, 30; Livmoor, 25; Jewish Center, 23; Brookside, 14; Circleville, 13; Alum Creek, 10; Aquamarine, 10; Lancaster, 10; Glengarry, 9½; Groveport, 6; Sequoia, 4; Linden Beach, 3; Berwick Beach, 2.

A total of 1973 event participants set a new record in the number of swimmers 17 years of age and under in the Junior Olympics Swim Meet.

Individual times will be compared with times of similar meets held throughout the country to determine national award winners.

COACHES' CORNER

Ted Georgeff

Q — WHAT ARE A FEW TIPS THAT WILL HELP PITCHERS IMPROVE THEIR CONTROL?

A — One of the first steps in improving control is complete concentration by the pitcher. A pitcher should be conscious of control and good ball placement at all times, even when he is warming up on the sidelines.

A pitcher should find the most comfortable spot on the pitching rubber where he can achieve the most effective kick from the leg opposite his pitching arm and the best 'push' from the same leg as his pitching arm.

A lot of control problems can be eliminated during the regular season if the pitcher prepares his arm for heavy work early in spring training with isometric exercises and proper shoulder loosening.

A WELL-CONDITIONED shoulder girdle will prevent sore arms and shoulders later in the season that will kill a pitcher's control.

A pitcher should throw to a certain spot on various pitches and he should maintain this pattern throughout the season so his control will develop with each pitch.

A control pitcher will release the ball from the same angle on each pitch so his delivery won't be jerky. The ball release on a fastball and a curve will vary, but the ball release on each pitch should aways be the same.

IF A PITCHER is consistently pitching inside or outside with his delivery, I have my catcher move his target over to the opposite side of the plate.

The old adage of moving over an inch or two on the pitching rubber to compensate for inside or outside pitching has been proven negative by major leaguers, so I have my catcher do the adjusting.

If a pitcher is consistently high with his pitches, he could be tired and want to let the ball loose too soon or he is standing straight up in his delivery and isn't bending over at the waist.

A-K League In 3-Way Knot; Rosati Sole Leader In YYA

The ranks are thinning as the Jewish Center A.K. League goes into the last game of round two in a three-way tie. Reeb's Restaurant, Hackman Realty and B'nai B'rith are knotted in the top spot with 3 and 1 records.

Last week's games saw Hackman Insurance blast a hard-fighting Ontario nine, 18 to 8, as Howard Byer went all the way for his third win.

JULIE VOGEL and Howard Banchefsky led the 19 hit attack. Herb Urell, Don Erkis and Marty Alder collected three hits each in the win as Urell stroked two home runs and Byer hit one circuit clout.

Jim Jacobs and Norman Krause had two hits each including a triple each for Ontario while Bernie Shapiro smacked two hits including a double in the loss.

Reeb's Restaurant defeated Wolman Insurance, 6 to 1, as Julius Margulis pitched a masterful seven-hit game. Margulis also paced his team in the hitting department with three hits while Hal Block blasted a four-bagger for Reeb's.

Hal Block picked up two of Wolman's seven hits and Sandy Goldston took the loss.

B'NAI B'RITH took a 7 to 0 forfeit win over Martin's Market. The league standings are Hackman's, 3-1; Reeb's 3-1; B'nai B'rith 3-1; Wolman's 2-2; Ontario 1-3, and Martin's Market 0-4.

Rosati's Super Market took over undisputed position of first place in the Y.Y.A. loop by defeating United Roofing 14 to 12. It was Roofing's first defeat.

Rosati's scored fast and blew but had to hold their breath in the bottom of the seventh as United Roofing scored seven runs to cut the 14 to 5 lead to 14 to 12.

MAR PEPPERCORN and Gary Beim had three hits and Ken Haas, and Ron Golden hit homers for the victors.

Irv Galan and Don Berman had three hits for the losers while West Rosenthal and Corky Friedenberg had home runs.

J.W.V. won its first game over Columbus Steel Supply, 7 to 5 as Steve Lipson and Steve Rosenthal led the winners with a triple and a single and Herb Grodner had three hits for Columbus Steel Supply.

THERE'S A GREAT DAY COMING . . .

HOURS AND HOURS of extra effort are going into planning Annual Kids' Day, set for Sunday, Sept. 20 at Lockbourne Air Force Base. About 100,000 Central Ohio youngsters and parents are expected to be guests of the Air Force and local Kiwanis Clubs. Highlights will include jumps by a U.S. Army Parachute team from Ft. Bragg, Thor-Able missile displays, a SAC precision drill team, greetings from Jerrie Mock, several "flyovers," dancing, clowns, dragsters, and animals. Representing the military, Kiwanians, and men of private industry who are working hard to make the day a success are (from left) Lt. Paul K. Tucker, Maj. John Thompson, Lt.-Col. John Buckwalter; (standing) Gordon Keith of Gordon Keith Originals, Assistant Project Officer Maj. W. A. Brazill, Co-chairman C. Carl Stephan and Chairman Howard E. Warwick; Capt. Bill Baxter, Lt. Jon Adams, Capt. Max White and Lt. B. B. Moorhatch.

FOOD MARKET THIS WEEK:

Local Produce Reaches Peak In August

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruit — plums, grapes, summer apples, lemons, melons.

Vegetables — sweet corn, green beans, cabbage, salad vegetables, summer squash.

Other Foods — dairy products, frozen fish fillets, canned food specials.

"The horn of plenty is tooting now" say the dealers at Columbus' new wholesale Produce Terminal Market.

And there's every reason, for supplies are abundant and quality at the peak. So much of all this is local produce.

Sweet corn harvest gets into full swing during the next two weeks, and plenty of corn into early September. Varieties are now summer favorites such as Northern Belle, Gold Cup and Golden Cross Bantam. Hydrocooling and other modern handling methods now lock the flavor in the sweet corn as soon as it leaves the field, so it stays sweet during the trip to market.

Vine-ripened tomatoes come from nearby fields from now until early frost; prices are lowest in August and early September. There's no reason for getting tired of beans, so great is the variety—snap, pole, cranberry, yellow wax and lima. Prices reach the low point this month. Look also for attractive prices on beets, cucumbers, peppers, celery and eggplant.

Plums take the lead in fresh fruits plentiful for August. The California plum crop is forecast at 112,000 tons, an increase of 38 percent over the average yield. New crop apples, including Transparent, Lodi, Wealthy, Williams Red and Duchess, are available now. These are the apples that make delicious sauce and pie — do get them before they are overly ripe!

Harvest of Redhaven peaches starts in Ohio orchards the second week of August. These are a favorite for freezing and canning. We will keep you informed through this column as to ripening dates for other varieties. Other fruit in good supply for the month are cantaloupes, watermelons, grapes and Bartlett pears.

MEAT AND POULTRY

Fed beef production continues to be large, although it is not expected to continue as high as in recent months. Substantial efforts are being made to improve sagging farm prices for live cattle and there are good signs that this may happen this fall. However, there will be heavy supplies of high quality beef throughout the summer and prices won't change much from present levels.

This is the low season for pork production but there is a sufficient supply to warrant an honored spot on your shopping list for a pork roast. Supplies of turkeys on the market are increasing seasonally with favorable prices to consumers. And there will be plenty of chicken. Small size eggs are in best supply this month.

WW1 Vets Set Meet And Picnic

Veterans of World War 1, USA, Inc., Barracks 461, will meet at the Veteran's Memorial Building, 250 W. Broadst Sunday, Aug. 2 at 2 p.m. in Room 201. At the same time the auxiliary will hold its meeting in Room 203.

A yearly picnic will be held at Westgate Park, in the closed shelter house, Aug. 16. Flag raising will be at 1:30 p.m. followed by a basket lunch.

Chet Long will be the afternoon speaker. The firing squad of the Naval reserve units will fire three shots in honor of the departed friends, followed by the bugler and the flag lowering.

All WW1 veterans and wives are invited to attend whether they belong to the Barracks or not.

Further information is available from Willard F. Merry, vice-commander, BR. 4-6122.

Albee Organization Arranges Old-Fashioned Home Show

Albee Homes, Inc., will open its "Summer Festival" of new home designs at 1 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 2. It will continue through 9 p.m.

This gala affair will offer something for every member of a home buying family, according to a local spokesman. While mom and dad tour the modern display home, children will be entertained with refreshments and gifts.

Mom and dad will receive Albee's new 40-page full-color home design catalog, featuring over 200 basic designs in modern home construction. In addition, there will be a free Albee Design-A-Room Kit, complete with furniture templates that will allow mom to plan furniture arrangements for every room in the house, before she moves a piece of furniture.

Albee's "Old - Fashioned Summer Festival" will highlight the craftsmanship quality of all materials in an Albee home; a price schedule that can save an Albee home buyer up to 40 percent in the cost of a new home, and a service policy that includes financing, design, and construction supervision to assist an Albee buyer from start to finish of his new home.

Albee model homes are open 1 to 9 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. Local Albee offices are located at 5585 Cleveland-av, Rt. 161, Columbus, and 6901 Harrisburg-pk, U.S. 62 S, Orient.

Camp Fire News

Did you ever see wolves put on a show? It happened the night of July 23 at Camp Wyandot — a show named "Alice in Wyne-dotland". Twenty five wolves (otherwise known as "counselors in training") sang, danced and acted in a parody they wrote and for which they designed costumes and scenery.

Jean Hoeflinger as Alice quickly put the group in the mood as she stepped thru the looking glass and then the key hole. She was met by seven singing flowers — Linda Paulus, Cecelia Puskas, Janet Bishop, Jessica Jacober, Donna Jenks, Pat Cody and Paula Masys. The vivacous rabbit was Martha McCormick, complete with cartwheel size watch and bent ears. To add to Alice's woes were three fish- Nancy Fisher, Suzanne Johnson and Diane Pappas.

No Cheshire Cat (but a real cool cat) was Barb Schriner who gave every direction as the way to see the New Queen. The caterpillar with striped head (Nancy Barber) and five weaving humps (Linda Atwell, Carol Gameinhardt, Debbie Near, Diane Ogle and Ruth Hussey) broke apart and rehealed itself to the delight of the audience. Portraying the Madhatter was Barb Bleakley and the Doormouse, Dee Bennington. To entertain her were Tweedledee and Tweedledum, Edna Thompson and Janine Teach, with song and tumbling. A dance of the "cards painting the flowers red" was done by the Wyandot Hepkettes.

The King was Alice Miller and the Queen, Barbara Caldwell.

Sharon Knoll led the campers in songs.

The lights went out and the audience hushed as the 25 Camp Fire Girls now in costume of blue skirt, white blouse and plaid ties, entered the hall each carrying a lighted candle. Their hilarity gone, they walked solemnly and impressively in for their ritual "sing."

Counselors, Mary Lynn Fouse of Lancaster, who directed thet group and Pam Waller, assistant, were presented red roses by the girls. The camp director, Judy Johnson, also was recognized with flowers and then the girls served refreshments to all.

Army's Valuable Kentucky Dam Can Be Duplicated Here

I have become a convert—and having "switched" I've found something worth fighting for. The object of my "conversion" is the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' plan for construction of the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects.

I have written many stories on the need for flood control and the work of the Scioto Conservancy District. More recently, I have written of the controversy over which agency offers the better plan to meet our flood control, water supply and recreation needs.

Ryan

In consideration of all available facts, it is difficult for me to understand why our local leadership was not making a concerted effort two years ago to urge the Corps of Engineers to build the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects. The fact that Columbus taxpayers would save more than $16 million under the Army plan is only one consideration, although an important one.

Of almost equal importance is the fact that the Army can match or exceed the SCD in every phase of flood control and water supply, and offers a far superior recreational adjunct.

A short time back I joined Columbus Service Director Warren J. Cremean, Councilman Robert Southwick and Dr. Robert W. Teater, assistant director, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, on a trip to Rough River, Ky. We were accompanied by Col. Harrington W. Cochran, chief of the Huntington District of the Corps of Engineers.

Cochran showed us the Rough River dam and reservoir — a facility constructed by the Corps of Engineers. We were told that the Alum Creek project, if constructed by the Army, would be similar in design. More important we were told that the recreational features built by the Army at Rough River also would be incorporated in the Alum Creek project—and to a similar degree in the Mill Creek project.

Ideal Recreation Setup

What has been done at Rough River by the Corps of Engineers and the State of Kentucky must be seen to be appreciated. There are facilities for swimming, camping, boating and picnicking. There are nicely furnished, air-conditioned cabins that rent for $8 per night ($12 per couple), and a main lodge with excellent dining facilities.

We were told by a Kentucky representative that the state now has an approximate $10 million facility for a state expenditure of about $2 million. He also told of a healthy development of surrounding area since the dam came. Property values have risen substantially, home sites have been developed and projected development of 4,000 lots surrounding the reservoir indicated a total investment of $20 million.

And while the State of Kentucky did $300 million worth of tourism business during 1963, the state park facilities were at no time able to accommodate all who wished to use the areas.

We in Ohio are not much unlike Kentucky, in that we are behind the needs in supplying our own people and visitors with adequate recreation facilities. Tourism is a lucrative business. We have, in the Department of Natural Resources, a branch of state government well qualified to meet the problem. But the Ohio state park system is now carrying a load far exceeding capacity.

It just doesn't make good sense to pass up the opportunity to alleviate the problem through cooperation with the Corps of Engineers. They offer us a flood protection and water supply plan that is at least equal to what is proposed by the SCD. And they offer a recreational adjunct that is far superior. How, in the name of common sense, can we turn it down!

What About Delays?

The main argument put forth by SCD backers is that there would be a delay to the projects if we attempt to secure federal funding through Congress. They have said the delay would range from four to 12 years. Council President Fornof has even suggested that the delay would be more like 15 to 20 years.

The delay argument seems ridiculous from at least two angles. First, there had been no honest attempt to secure federal funds until the very recently passed Columbus council request to the Corps of Engineers for budgeting of the projects. In other words, the SCD backers have taken the defeatist attitude that we shouldn't even ask because Congress will say "no." And this in the face of a No. 1 priority for Alum Creek in the Corps of Engineers' planning for the Scioto River Basin.

Secondly, there is no assurance that the SCD can meet its announced intention of building the projects within the next two years. Quite to the contrary, there is strong indication that the SCD could be delayed longer through local court actions than what it would take to gain federal funding.

Five Counties Vote — Three Pay

The SCD has filed its appraisal record with the courts of common pleas in three of the five counties comprising the district. The other two counties have no assessments to worry about because the SCD has found that they will not benefit.

In fact, a third county, Pickaway, will pay less than one-half percent of the total of about $72 million (including interest) for the projects. We find that Franklin County will pay about 80 percent of the total, and Ross County, about 19½ percent. Yet, when the Conservancy Court meets to vote approval or rejection of the SCD plan each of the five counties in the district will have one full vote.

A short time back, Columbus City Council refused to kick in an extra $4,800 as its share of costs for the Franklin County Civil Defense unit. Councilmen said they objected to carrying the lion's share of the cost for the countywide organization when they were represented by only four of the 13-member board of directors.

Cannot this same argument be applied to Franklin County's position within the Scioto Conservancy District? Sure, our county may derive 80 percent of the benefits. But why should the common pleas court judges of three unaffected counties decide how much Franklin County residents should pay?

Land Acquisition Key Issue

And the residents of Delaware County have made it plain that they are not about to cooperate with either the SCD or the Army in the matter of land acquisition. This adds importance to the question of how long the SCD might be tied up in the local courts on appropriations cases.

And land acquisition problems add substantially to the argument in favor of the Corps of Engineers. By taking cases into a federal court, the Army can take immediate possession of needed land for construction. The SCD would be forced to await the outcome of time-consuming court cases. And it is almost a certainty that the Army would come out with more reasonable settlements, with the result that a substantial savings would be effected in the cost of needed land.

There is no reason to doubt that the Corps of Engineers could complete the construction of both projects in five or six years if there is a united, local effort in behalf of their services. This could well prove to be considerably less time than the more expensive, less effective program offered at the local level.

The choice really should not be difficult. Let's give the federal government the opportunity to tell us "flat out" that they will not help, before we consider a less effective, more expensive alternative.

—FRANK RYAN

Stiffen License Laws

Death is one guarantee in life. Taxes is another. But Ohio seemingly has added a third — the right to drive.

Renewing one's driving license is a paper procedure, bearing little relationship to changing conditions of the applicants, the laws, and the number of vehicles.

Little keeps the infirm, the sick, the inadequate, the ignorant, the drugged and the dangerous off Ohio's roads. Little except an accident.

The public has no assurance that licensing weeds out risky drivers. The old folks who have lost the ability, the heart attack victim under strong medication, the too-tranquil tranquilizer taker — these and other hazard-prone drivers freely roam our roads.

Senior citizens faithfully renew licenses without any guideposts except their own judgment as to qualifications. Under present law, they are virtually assured of a license forever. The condition of the applicant is given small consideration in licensing.

And the present day driver is uninformed. A policyholder magazine of an insurance company revealed many motorists have not bothered to glance at highway rules in the last 20 years.

The article disclosed a typical state makes from 25 to 100 changes in its vehicle code nearly every legislative session. Yet, these changes in driving laws do not seem to be a consideration in issuing a license renewal.

Highway, city, county and regional planners were give fair warning today on a monumental job they are facing.

"Get ready to accommodate more than six million motor vehicles on our streets and highways by 1971 and no later than 1972," Ohio Department of Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson advised. Yet the number of motor vehicles is not a consideration in licensing.

What can be done?

One point of progress is noted in Ohio's handling of the out-of-state drunken driver. By cooperating with the National Drivers Registration Service, an intelligence center in Washington which gathers data on bad drivers, Ohio can spot an undesirable. But even this help is almost nullified by Ohio law which states Ohio cannot reject a license applicant from another state.

We recommend that all undesirable drivers be kept off our streets and highways. Amend the loophole that permits undesirables from other states to drive here.

Why shouldn't a doctor's certification of ability to drive be filed with each license renewal in addition to a written test covering the changing laws?

Perhaps then a carnage by careless permission will be avoided.

Give God A Chance To Show His Way Is Best

Years ago Solomon wrote: "Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth."

Rev. Essig

Life is full of new and recurring problems and perplexities. In business, in the home, in the Church, among friends and neighbors and relatives, in our own individual life, there is so much that distresses and distracts and upsets a person.

Here is some very sound advice given by the Almighty God through Peter to the Christians of his day and recorded in God's Word for the Christians of all times: "Casting all your care upon Him; for He careth for you." 1 Peter 5:7. In other words, LEAVE IT TO GOD.

We have here a divine prescription for a very prevalent human ailment, care or worry. You may say: "You mean we should not worry about tomorrow, not worry about the sickness that may overtake us, not worry about the cross we are bearing, not worry about our loved ones away from home?" Yes, God means just that, dear reader. For God is caring for you.

But you say: "I can't cast off my worries. Those things that trouble me are real and serious." God isn't asking you to shake them off, like a dog shakes water off his back. God is asking you, His child by faith in Christ Jesus the Son of God, to take to Him the things that cause you sleepless nights and worrisome days.

Were you ever so perplexed when you went to God in the day of trouble that you just didn't know what to say? You didn't know what might be best? Then leave it to God He will work out the best way for you. He did that for you when He sent His Son into the world to suffer and die for your sins. It was for your good, your eternal good. God's way is always the best way.

Oh, the comfort that comes, oh, the rest that comes, when we frail and weak children of His leave the things to God that cause worry and care and about which we cannot do anything.

Leave it to God and trust in Him.

DARK VISION

Darkness and angry guns;
Brief, sudden, crimson light;
A wave of bitter fear and hatred runs
Across the face of night.
All this decades ago when empires met;
Altars of sacrifice
Were built on earth's fair fields without regret
For dying paradise.
And now man's missiles stand
On launching pads deployed;
A fearful vision spreads through every land
Of man and earth destroyed.

On the night of Aug. 4, 1914, Sir Edward Gray, the king's prime minister, stood at a window of 10 Downing-st, London, and watched the city's lights being extinguished one by one. Turning to an assistant, he said, "The lights are going out all over Europe. Not again in our time shall we see them rekindled."

That was the day when the great powers came to grips with their guns and men. Lord Kitchener took the first hundred thousand, "The Old Contemptibles," across the English Channel. There they met the French and deployed them across the land to meet the oncoming Germans. Soon the peaceful plains and valleys of France became a hell on earth.

All that was half a century ago. In 1918 there was talk of "peace in our time" and a "world made safe for democracy." Now, millions of lives and billions of treasure later, where do we stand?

It says here . . .

Swords and peace don't mix.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones
Has The CIA Actually Gone Wild?

Are all Americans living under the shadow of a secret government centered in the Central Intelligence Agency?

Have the President and Congress lost control?

Is our nation being dragged unknowingly into dangerous and even immoral adventures by a handful of professional spies made reckless by the possession of billions of unaudited public funds?

If this is true our whole system of popular government is in danger and we should crank up the sirens and blow the whistles.

Jones

But is it true?

Two Washington correspondents, Thomas B. Ross of The Chicago Sun-Times and David Wise of The New York Herald-Tribune, have just published a book, "The Invisible Government," designed to show American democracy in grave jeopardy from its own intelligence operations.

On Page 5 they say:

"The Invisible Government is also generally thought to be under the direct control of the National Security Council. But, in fact, many of its major decisions are never discussed by the Council. These decisions are handled by a small directorate, the name of which is only whispered. How many Americans have ever heard of the 'Special Group'? The name of this group, even its existence, is unknown outside the innermost circle of the Invisible Government."

Here is a sure-fire way to sell a book — the startling revelation hinting at an evil conspiracy. The reader is left to stew about this peril for exactly 255 pages until the authors name the current "Special Group" as consisting of the President's representative, McGeorge Bundy, Defense Secretary McNamara, CIA Director John McCone, Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatric, and Deputy Under Secretary of State U. Alexis Johnson. Eisenhower's "Special Group" was composed of men holding the same offices.

With the President able to fire the CIA director any time and with his personal emissary, the State Department and the Defense Department sitting in high judgment over the CIA the picture of a runaway power begins to grow fuzzy.

Does Congress have any control? There are CIA subcommittees of the Armed Services Committees of each house of Congress. There are also CIA sub-committees of the appropriations committees of both houses. These subcommittees are privy to the CIA's innermost secrets. But the book's authors gripe that their members represent "the most conservative elements in Congress" and they insist that there should be a joint House-and-Senate committee on the CIA. They even suggest a member—Senator Fulbright.

Now a joint committee, if it were composed of congressmen who could keep their mouths shut, might be a fair substitute. But by their nomination of Senator Fulbright the authors reveal the type of pressure they would hope such a committee would exert on the CIA. On page 43 they quote Senator Fulbright as expressing distaste for America's direct action in helping unseat the Communist-dominated Arbenz regime in Guatemala in 1954, and his opinion that this country should aid no revolt against Castro that couldn't guarantee "a strong, vigorous liberal government."

As a matter of fact, Messrs. Wise and Ross seem to think that unless an American style of representative government can be set up this country should take no action against Communist efforts to seize control of a foreign land. On page 113 they criticize the CIA's part in thwarting Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's attempt to turn Iran into a Russian puppet because widespread reforms didn't follow his ouster. And on page 183, concerning Guatemala, they mourn:

"The Invisible Government had moved in, accomplished its task, and moved on. The yoke of Communism had been thrown off but in its place there remained the yoke of poverty and an indifferent oligarchy. The abysmal conditions that led to Arbenz in the first place were as apparent as ever."

Now, it would be lovely if all the backward and undeveloped nations of the world could confound the Communists by adopting genuine representative democracies. Efforts by the Alliance for Progress to nudge Latin America in this direction are laudable.

But a Communist take-over doesn't simply mean a trial period in which the people will see whether it works better than the old system, and, if not, throw it out. As soon as the Reds seize power every ruthless device—executions, torture and terror — is employed to insure the irreversibility of the revolution.

Our State Department "liberals" who did everything to aid Castro in the overthrow of the admittedly corrupt Batista should have learned something. It is often better to support a 40 percent democracy than to permit Mr. Khrushchev to set up a 100-percent police state.

It is sad that we live in a world where national survival requires the maintenance of a large intelligence agency. It is unfortunate that we must occasionally depart from our traditions and try, by covert means, to influence the political fortunes of another nation.

But the discrediting and dissolution of the CIA are high on the Communist agenda. Radio Havana on June 2 cheered the writings of Mr. Wise and Mr. Ross and demanded: "It it not time that the U.S. people took hold of the Central Intelligence Agency and brought it to heel?"

Let's remember who's talking.

'Sitter' May Be Crook

To the Editor:

A warning to all Columbus citizens who hire baby-sitters — please get recent references from their last employers as to their character and honesty, before you employ them.

I am partially paralyzed and know these seekers for baby-sitting and aged bed patient care do exist, with their sole aim to rob. I took blind ads or phone calls, and the last one I had ransacked my home and left it in shambles. So to the public I say, "Beware before the help cleans you bare."

If the people can't stand rigid inspection, don't hire them over the phone. Your babies and aged people are in danger if you do. If there is no other way, ask the police to investigate them.

I have been robbed and left alone for the last time. I'll go into a nursing home because of it.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

This country was not founded as a democracy. It was founded as a constitutional republic, and the moment it ceases to be exactly that we are doomed to another dark age of slavery of people to their own government; and all that has been gained in nearly 200 years of soul-sweat and drudgery and devotion to man's most compelling passion to be a free man will have been sacrificed to the follies of this "fool's paradise."

Show me a man having the time of his life doing the best he knows how—something he would rather do than anything else on earth—and I will show you a man with personality. Then it remains for the genius of enthusiasm to generate the amperage necessary for a veritable incandescency of the soul.

Every so often we see and hear some startling new truth expressed by some inspired and unafraid mind. The impact upon our own consciousess is sometimes so vigorous and dramatic that it really "rattles our mental grate," and shakes some of the accumulated "clinkers" out of our very soul.

Dedication to some labor of love is the secret of happiness, no matter how humble or obscure.

Parent-Pals Hike Delinquency Rate

GENEVA, Switzerland — "Parents-copains," or parents who behave like pals to their children, have been breeding fast in most European countries during the past ten years.

So has juvenile delinquency.

Now European educators who have been meeting here to discuss child behavior are warning dad and mom that pal-parents are a major cause of juvenile delinquency.

"In France, for instance, 70 percent of young delinquents come from broken homes, but another 25 percent are children of parents who treat them as pals and equals," reported Dr. Marianne Chauvin of Marseilles.

Most parents-copains say they adopted this philosophy of child-rearing from America.

"However, we cannot blame this problem on the United States," declared Professor Wolfgang Schwabe of Hamburg. "Americans are dropping the pal relationship now that they see its harmful effect on children."

He insisted that the pal-parent has come into popularity because of the desire of modern adults to appear young.

"To be a chum with her daughter gives a mother the illusion that she is growing younger instead of older," said the bald, bearded German. "She refuses to act her age, and the child is left without a mother."

Children are frequently puzzled and embarrassed by pal parents. They also resent them, refuse to take them into their confidence, and learn to take advantage of them.

"The resulting fear, unhappiness, ignorance and confusion," said Professor Schwabe, "explodes into delinquent acts of revenge against adults."

Dr. Rena Detti of Florence stressed the proposition that delinquent parents obviously lead to delinquent children.

"However, it is generally only the children who get into trouble with the law because of their delinquency," she observed. "The child has not yet grown into manhood, but his pal-parents make him feel that he is equal with adults, and he handles the job badly.

"Worst of all, the child who is given adult status at such an early age is deprived of the joys of living a full childhood."

"Look at your own lives," the Italian expert told a parents' meeting. "To be a child and to be treated like a child is wonderful. To have parents who prove themselves true parents by offering the security, learning and love that a child needs is far more important than their selfish offer of mere camaraderie and equality."

The parents responded with enthusiastic applause.

CIA: Who Me?

By ROYCE BRIER

Some tribesmen in eastern Congo are in rebellion against the central government, and they may be receiving aid from the Red Chinese. As in Vietnam and elsewhere these guerrillas are doing very well, and the central government is doing badly.

Recently a shipment of American T-28 combat planes has reached the Congo, and they are being used against the rebels. About a month ago it was announced a few American civilians were being employed by the Congo government on training missions. It was soon charged they were also flying combat missions, but the State Department steadfastly denied it.

Then the State Department reversed itself, said Americans were flying combat, and that the practice would stop. State said it had been deceived about it, and seemed quite annoyed.

But not sufficiently annoyed to be convincing.

Spokesman for State was R. J. McCloskey. He said the contractual relations between American "technicians" and the Congo government did not violate American law. So far as dispatches reveal, he was referring to training operations, and they do not reveal if he was asked if combat missions violate American law.

(In many cases enlistment of an American citizen for combat in the armed forces of a foreign power is ground for forfeiture of citizenship).

Mr. McCloskey was also asked if American pilots in the Congo were recruited and supervised by the Central Intelligence Agency, and he said "no comment." Dispatches disclose some Cuban exiles are being trained by American pilots, and CIA connection with Cuban exiles is notorious.

"No comment" will hardly satisfy the American people they are not again being taken for a blind ride by CIA's reckless adventures.

CIA has driven three Presidents into embarrassing corners with its bumbling machinations. The U-2 flights forced President Eisenhower into a false denial. The Bay of Pigs conspiracy backed President Kennedy into equivocation and stultification, and again CIA's clumsy role with the sinking Diem regime in Saigon distressed Mr. Kennedy, and President Johnson inherited the distress.

When CIA will neither affirm nor deny, giving no proof of its position in any given rumble, it cannot complain if it is the object of suspicion.

It is high time the President and State Department had it out with this arrogant and irresponsible bureau, to learn who is fixing American foreign policy.

Around the World With STAN DELAPLANE

"We have air tickets that take us to London, Paris and Rome with return the same way. Could we change these in Europe if we decide to come home by way of Lisbon?"

You can.

Delaplane

With a round trip to Rome as the farthest point, these are very flexible tickets. You could go home by way of Scandinavia with stops in Switzerland and Germany at no extra cost.

You can always re-write tickets at any point — no matter whether the original carrier makes these stops or not. They have to put you on another line that does make the stop you want.

But — don't try to make these changes at the last minute at the airport. Make them at the main office of the airline that originally wrote your ticket — a day in advance.

"You mentioned a charter boat in Europe for $40 per day per person. Are there any cheaper than this?"

Maybe. Best source on small boat charters is Alitalia — the Italian airline. They also have good listings on villas for rent in the Mediterranean area.

"We would like any ideas on how to dress . . ."

Japan should be about 70 degrees during Olympics time. Tokyo is a city dress place. But you won't need evening clothes. In the country, sports clothes are OK.

"Will we need to rent a car?"

I wouldn't. Japanese traffic goes on the left. The city driving is wild. And country roads are frightful. Taxis are cheap, and trains are excellent.

"Can you tell us something about tipping in New York? This is our first trip — to the World's Fair.

Everybody has a different answer. But here's mine: 35 cents a bag to train or airport porters; 50 cents a bag at hotels; minimum 50 cents for room service. A quarter to hotel doormen, hat check girls and attendants in restaurant powder rooms. Fifteen percent on restaurant checks — minimum quarter at counter breakfasts or bar service.

Taxi drivers get a minimum quarter on a dollar or less meter charge. If you don't, they chew you out loudly and publicly. New York is rudest, roughest, worst tipping town in the world.

"Where do we find out about tickets and prices to Broadway shows in New York?"

Any airline flying into New York has this information. And they'll buy the tickets for you.

I Won't Sell: Don't Ask Me

By ADELINE DALEY

I have been trying to convince numerous real estate agents who have been approaching us of late that we are not interested in selling our home, even though they have a "cash buyer for our property."

It seems we heard that song before when we decided to sell our first home. As it turned out, there wasn't an actual buyer. Right then. But, we were not to worry because we lived in a "desirable area." I later discovered that in "Real Estate-ese" this description is a catch-all for anything this side of Death Valley.

Once we put our house and our very lives into the hands of that man, however, the "Dream House" became the "Black Hole of Calcutta" in his cold analytical eyes.

I won't list all of the things he found wrong with it; our ad that ran in the classifieds tells the story better: "Handyman's Delight—A little bit of love and a lot of elbow grease will turn this into a little charmer."

Only when he was talking to a prospective buyer would he wax ecstatic about our "Honeymoon Hideaway" or "ideal-for-retired couple cottage." Though the house was small it was not exactly a "Honeymoon Hideaway" anymore because we already had five children.

One of whom always seemed to be taking a bath when someone arrived to be shown the house. I became quite deft at plucking kids out of the tub while simultaneously pointing out the merits of our home.

Which brings up the main reason why we probably will never put this home up for sale. I don't think my husband could again suffer the ordeal of having strangers parading through our home while he is there; having to ignore their critical comments outrages him.

He is especially reluctant to have it "open for inspection" because he often must sleep during the day due to his varied working hours.

He will never, never forget the time that I showed a prospective buyer our bedroom while he was still in bed. I had tiptoed in ahead to warn him, explaining that the woman was wondering whether her curtains would match the walls.

"Pretend you're asleep," I ordered. I did my best to hurry the woman through but she stopped to gaze fondly at my "sleeping" husband as if he were lying in a coffin and commented, "Say, your little one sure looks a lot like his daddy. Same color, same chin . . ."

Needless to say, she didn't buy. I guess the curtains didn't match my husband's pajamas.

TODAY'S REPORT

By ABE MELLINKOFF

Our Post Office Department has come up with a new mail box that glows in the dark — in patriotic red, white, and blue stripes. Makes it quicker to find at night.

But pickups from the box have been cut down in the interests of economy. So any time you saved finding the box is lost while your letter lies there waiting to be delivered.

Airplanes have been speeded up but it takes longer to drive to airports — heavy traffic trying to take advantage of the speedier planes. We have stuff to hide a lady's wrinkles as the faster life cuts them deeper daily.

What I mean is that progress is not a double-edged sword but rather double-pointed — with no handle.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"Boy! Was that a wild pitch!"

Eat Your Troubles Away!

Will Your Heart 'Execute' You?

Today people die on the street.

Justice Robert H. Jackson was stricken in a cab on his way to the Supreme Court. Even Andrei Vishinsky was not immune to angina pectoris.

Kordel

What their dreams were, no one will ever know. There is no future for them now.

They have joined the ranks of cold statistics. Their hearts were their executioners!

These are the people you read about in the headlines. But remember this, there are hundreds of thousands more you don't read about who are stricken each year.

Heart disease is civilization's most dangerous enemy, a ruthless killer that attacks without warning.

Its dreaded, complicating conditions—high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, and strokes—bring premature death every day.

With the aid of proper diet, and a new slant on this business of living, you can stop these killing diseases.

None of us want to go to the gallows for murdering someone. Yet an average of 2,000 persons daily go to the execution block of their own creation!

Arteries are the blood vessels that receive the oxygen-rich red blood directly from the heart. They are elastic tubes which distend with each heartbeat.

As long as these arteries remain elastic, with silken smooth linings, you need have no fear for your heart.

Improper eating, however degenerates the arteries in many ways. This degeneration progresses until the blood supply fails to reach the heart in its proper form.

Hardening Of Arteries

Hardening of the arteries is a villain which lurks in improper eating, ready to strike you down. This condition can come at any age.

You can blame the high-fat high-starch diet of Americans for this hardening.

When too much fat has been eaten, the improperly digested cholesterol combines with certain undigested proteins and other fatty substances to form giant molecules too large to be absorbed; hence these molecules are trapped within the arteries.

Lack of protein in the diet robs the bloodstream of cholesterol-dissolving materials.

A high-protein diet will also give the heart sufferer enough vitamins of the B family.

These vitamins cut down irritability and nervousness which may cause the walls of the blood vessels to contract.

It is both interesting and hopeful to note that your chances of living beyond the hundred mark are extremely good if—and it's a rather big "if"—you first hurdle a curious barrier at ages sixty to seventy-five.

"Reverse Ageing"

This "curious barrier" referred to is a period in which certain chemical and physical processes of the body begin to reverse themselves, in what might be called a kind of "reverse ageing."

You begin growing younger in certain ways.

This new finding on growing old is based on a survey of more than 1,000 persons aged 80 to 100 and more.

Eating Too Much

The most clearly established factor contributing to heart diseases is simply eating too much, a persistent habit of consuming more calories than one needs.

Medical observations and research also reveal that the heart-and-blood victim has put his body to additional dietary stresses.

They eat proteins of poor nutritive quality, create vitamin and mineral deficiencies and imbalances, eat unfavorable proportions of fat and carbohydrates.

The real danger of a weak heart is when it is lodged in a weak, undernourished body and aggravated by unstable mental and emotional attitudes.

You are the master of your heart. Through proper nourishment and care it can be your faithful ever-beating friend.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My daughter rushed out crying this morning when she found the water in her guppy bowl was all red. I checked and found the fish looked healthy enough and sent her off to play.

When my husband came home he said he had seen one of our house guests pouring some burgundy into the bowl during last night's party. Would that wine have hurt the fish? (I have since changed the water.)

They look normal to me but my husband thinks they are wobbling a little. —D. S.

DEAR D. S.: Wine in minute quantities might act as a tonic for guppies. Larger amounts might mellow them, and huge quantities would pickle them. Their present hang-over is to be expected, though no serious damage has been done. If the parties are frequent, the guppies should either be rationed or not allowed to join in at all.

DEAR DR. MILLER: This is the first summer we have ever had trouble with Paddy, our Persian cat. He has suddenly turned tiger, or so he thinks. He has taken to roaming in the lot next door and you should see his coat! He has sticks, stickers, grass seeds and what-have-you all wound up in his beautiful fur.

Right now, Paddy is composed of nine huge wads of fur with some cat underneath! Is he hopeless? He sure looks it. If not, what is the answer? —O. A.

DEAR O. A.: Unless he is an exceptionally tolerant tom, Paddy won't appreciate your efforts to groom him at this point. There isn't any easy way to de-mat him now. Perhaps the least disagreeable to Paddy would be a trip to the veterinarian. The doctor would probably have to put him to sleep and trim the mats off completely.

. . Of course, he would save the cost if he could, but it isn't likely. Because there is a strong possibility that Paddy will be somewhat bald after this session, it should be done as soon as possible.

Then Paddy will at least have time to grow a new garment before the really cool weather sets in. (His first few nights home, after his close shave, should be spent inside.)

DEAR DR. MILLER: When a cat kills the male of a pair of Mourning Doves does the female ever select a new mate? The female in question has been returning to the scene of the crime every morning and we are wondering how long this will continue? —L. A.

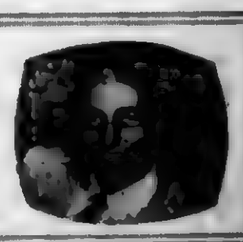
DEAR L. A.: Mourning Doves could be expected to mourn, though this hen is too smart to keep this up indefinitely. Any reasonably persuasive male could, at this point, probably convince her that life should go on and its opportunities should be utilized.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Recently you mentioned how to cut a dog's nails back and went into some detail. Our Doberman keeps her nails down to a nub all the time. I just wondered, though, why it's so important to keep the nails short. Is this just to beautify a dog? —O. E.

DEAR O. E.: No. Short nails aren't vital from an esthetic standpoint. Some misguided dog owners even encourage their dogs' nails to grow long and take great pride in pointing out these long claws to visitors.

However, short nails are extremely practical for a number of reasons: (1) Long nails may become snagged and pulled loose or broken off, exposing the sensitive quick. (2) Nails naturally curl as they grow and may actually reverse directions and grow into the foot pad, causing a painful wound.

(3) Long nails may be wobbly as they strike the ground causing irritation at the root of the nail. This inflamed area may then be invaded by a difficult-to-cure fungus. (4) The most important reason for keeping nails short is that long ones may not permit the foot bones to retain their normal position. Twisting of the toes caused by odd-angled long nails may cause permanent foot injury.



DEAR DR. MILLER: Henry, our budgie, is a very unhappy-looking bird. He shed both his tail feathers at the same time and he looks a little ridiculous. My son brought the feathers in to show us yesterday and they had some blood on the roots. Does this indicate a disease or something? —B. Y.

DEAR B. Y.: The roots could be the result of a disease called "yankoutis." This condition is most apt to occur when cats or, occasionally, children hold onto a bird's tailfeathers while the bird goes elsewhere. The mystery could be cleared up if only Henry could go into "detail," himself.

Does your favorite animal have problems, physical or emotional? Dr. Miller will answer all letters sent to him, care of this paper, provided a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Assignment Television

By TERRENCE O'FLAHERTY

Do you have an idea for a television series? If not, you undoubtedly will after reading this column. Here are thumbnail descriptions of the new ABC shows to appear next fall:

"Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," an hour-long science fiction series aboard an atomic-powered submarine. Jules Verne and Count Von Luckner plus the atom.

"Johnny Quest - File 037," in which the central character is the 11-year-old son of a top scientist. "Bachelor Father," plus government secrets?

"Bewitched," wherein an earth-bound witch with magical powers is married to a browbeaten husband. "Bothered" and "Bewildered" will be sequels.

"The Addams Family," based on the macabre Charles Addams cartoon characters who are continually up to the funniest pranks — like pouring a cauldron of hot oil on a group of Christmas carolers — starring Carolyn Jones and Jackie Coogan.

"Broadside," a series about the Navy's WAVES in the South Pacific. Bears a striking similarity to "McHale's Navy." Only the sex has been changed to protect the innocent.

"Wendy and Me," an unpredictable young bride lives in an apartment house owned by George Burns. The bride is Connie Stevens, whose career opened and partially closed with "Hawaiian Eye."

"The Walter Brennan Show," with the star playing a business tycoon who refuses to quit even though his colleagues want him to. An appeal to the Retirement Age group. "Real McCoys," with a new tailor.

"Mickey," with Mickey Rooney playing a guy who inherits a hotel. There's lots of fun around hotels as we all know — some of which might be suitable for TV.

See how easy it is? That's what one network's writers have come up with for $5000 a week plus residuals. Anyone can do the same. Try it — but don't suggest they do anything as obvious as TV adaptations of "No Time for Sergeants," "Peyton Place" or "12 O'Clock High." ABC is already doing them!

The ABC vital statistics for the fall will show these programs as "deceased": "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" (a good show, handsomely produced which was mercilessly placed opposite Walt Disney, a program long loved by the same sort of audience.)

"Arrest and Trial" (the only unique development in television dramatic programming in a decade but it was scheduled opposite "Bonanza," TV's top rated show); "The Price Is Right" (good riddance.)

"Channing" (an uneven series but at its best it was excellent and it will be missed); "Fight of the Week" (an activity that is no longer deserving of the word "sport").

"Destry" (the West has been won); Sid Caesar and Edie Adams, and "Breaking Point" (the only television series that really made good the claim of "hard-hitting, provocative scripts").

Water Claims Youngster's Life

Craig Steven Bondurant, 5, of 1239 E. Mound-st, drowned in Madison Lake Sunday. The boy was on a picnic with his mother, four sisters and a brother, Madison County sheriff's deputies stated.

Although about 300 persons were either swimming or near the lake's beach close to Rt. 665, it was presumed no one saw the youth go under. Robert Carter, sheriff's deputy, said.

Relatives reported the youngster was to begin swimming lessons the day after the mishap.

Survivors include parents, Isaiah and Gertrude Bondurant; sisters, Marcy Leslie, Jeanie and Bridgett, and brother, Isaiah, Jr.

Funeral arrangements are being completed by the Williams and McNabb Funeral Home.

Playground Reports:

At Leawood

Boys' softball teams at Leawood fared very well last week. The intermediate team won over Willis Park 7-6 in a tight game highlighted by Dale Thompson's home run, his fourth in as many games. The win put Leawood in a first place tie with Willis Park for the top spot in the league.

The junior boys' team beat Willis Park by a score of 23-0 to retain undisputed control of first place in the league. Aaron Ross had the game's only home run, and Larry McKinney threw a one-hitter while walking only two batters, for his second shutout of the season.

No. 4	7	0
No. 3	5	4
No. 2	3	5
No. 1	2	7

Leawood Playground will be closed at 5:30 p.m. Friday for the Lantern Parade at Schiller.

Leawood's Junior Girls lost a close game this week, 7-6, to Courtright. Outstanding players include Donnice Spencer, Michele Fox and Mickey Collins.

The annual clown contest will be held Aug. 13, 6:30 p.m., at Leawood, with several categories to be judged. Anyone from six to 17 years old may enter. The city-wide Clown Contest will be held later that same week.

At Fairmoor . .

Fairmoor's Intermediate Girls' Softball team won again this week against Pinecrest. Co-captains for the team are Jeiri Smith and Joyce Feathers.

Fairmoor Senior boys and Intermediate girls won the Southeast Sectional Volleyball Tournament.

The girls' team included Carol Barish, Joyce and Janis Feathers, Debbie Smith, Asuman Curtis and Barbs Whetstone.

The boys came in second in the city tournament. They were Steve and Bob Casto, Wayne Ellis, Jim Smith, Clark Snodgrass and Dennis Nordman.

At Woodcrest . .

Junior Jet standings at Woodcrest are:

Team	W	L
No. 3	4	0
No. 1	3	2
No. 2	2	2
No. 4	0	5

Woodcrest Junior Softball Team defeated Willis Park Reds 18-1. Woodcrest's softball record is now two wins and two losses.

All boys and girls interested in participating in the Junior Olympic Track and Field Meet at Ohio State University Stadium Aug. 8 should sign up now.

The playground theme for the lantern parade Friday at Schiller is "Indians."

At Willis Park .

Softball games at Willis Park this week found the Junior Girls defeated by Scottwood 16 to 0.

Members of the team are Debbie Steinbrook, (captain), Rusty Steinbrook, Patty Steinbrook, Ilene Fox, Selma Mastenbrook, Kathy Storza, Carla Chambers, Patty McCann, Marsha McIntire, Cassie McIntire, Cindy Hiles, Lisa Fannin, Lucy Synder, Valerie Snyder, Cathy Granlund and Billy Vallette.

Leawood defeated the Intermediate team 7 to 6 in a hotly contested game, tieing Willis Park and Leawood for first place in the league.

In Junior Boys, the Reds were defeated by Woodcrest 1 to 0, and the Blues were defeated by Leawood, 23 to 1.

After this week's Junior Jet games, team One is in the top spot with teams Two and Three tied for second, while team Four is in fourth place.

Thursday night there will be a tetherball tournament at the playground, beginning at 6:30.

Friday night the playground will be closed so everyone may go to the Lantern Parade at Schiller Park.

At Courtright . .

Courtright youngsters have been working on their flower baskets and small box lanterns for the annual Lantern Parade at Schiller Park this Friday.

Participating in the parade will be Sandy Allen, Vicky Allen, Roni Piephler, Christy Piephler, Danny Moore, and Angie Stapleton.

Junior Girls won their first victory over Leawood, Star pitcher, Sandy Allen, was backed by Roni Piephler as first baseman and Susan Cowgill, catcher. Angie Stapleton was excellent as short stop.

Junior Boys and Intermediate Boys are leading in their league. Junior Jet was highlighted by Bruce Kollinki's one-hit shutout in the 10 to 12 league.

Dennis Leach represented Courtright in the city-wide tennis tournament.

At Shepard . . .

Completed entry forms for the Junior Olympics Track and Field Meet must be in the Columbus Recreation office no later than Aug. 5. Shepard playground youngsters already signed up for the meet are, Priscilla Rene Horton, Deborah Brown, Dwight Cartier, Stephen Randolph, Mary Aileen Holley, Jolie Patrice Brooks, James Barfield, Walter R. Hicks, III, Jerome Talley and John Neil Talley.

Those interested in getting tuned up for the track and field events are reminded to get the clinic schedule put out by Larry Snyder of Ohio State University.

Jolie Brooks and James Barfield have added their names to the Sports-a-Rama entries, to be held at Central High School Aug. 1. Oscar Cunningham has further details.

Shepard boys and girls will participate in the Lantern Parade at Franklin Park Friday evening at 7.

Intermediate girls lost to the Hamilton team, and the senior boys won over Brentnell, but lost to Weinland.

On Tuesday, the senior boys will play Windsor Terrace, there. The girls will play at home on Wednesday, and the junior boys play Brentnell on Thursday, at home.

The playground will close at 5:30 Friday, to facilitate participation in the Lantern Parade.

At Scottwood . .

Scottwood playgrounders presented an adaptation of a South American folk tale, "The Shepherd and the Daughter of the Sun," at the Drama Festival.

Cast members were Tony Shellacci, Connie Wymer, Judy Fox, Tom Fox, Jim Murray, Mike Peirano, Susan Rosoc, Maureen Jennings, Barbara Kosciuk, Teri Murray, Janice Georgeff, Sue Radcliffe, Nancy Trimmer, Joan Johnson, and Roxanne Ault.

The 10 boys and girls from Scottwood who attended Indian Village Day Camp were, Barbara, Connie and Kathy Nunzum, Corinne Shaevitz, Bob Traphagan, Albert and Mike Yankulov, Karen West, and Sherrie and Robin Morgan.

Scottwood's junior girls' softball team, the Scotties, defeated Willis Park, bringing them to a 3 to 0 record.

Team members are Jo Traphagan (captain), Betty Benedict, Corinne Shaevitz, Donna Robbins Karen Trimmer, Janice Georgeff, Pam Squires, Cheryl Ghearing, Cheryl Gillen, Roxanne Ault, Joan Johnson, Bev. Courtney, Gale Gebner, Velva Maupin, Kathy Nuzum and Barbara Kosciuk.

Junior Jet baseball continues nightly except Friday in the 8 and 9-year-old league. Team 3 is winning with a 6 to 1 record; in the 10 and 11-year old league, teams 3 and 4 are tied for first place with 4 to 2 records.

On July 31, Scottwood boys and girls will participate in the Lantern Parade at Schiller Park. Twenty lanterns, designed on the theme, "What is so rare as a day in June?" will be carried as well as the coperative large lantern.

Physical fitness testing continues on Wednesdays and Fridays at 3, along with practice for the Junior Olympic Track Meet to be held Aug. 8. Entry blanks should be secured at the playground as soon as possible.

The first Pan American Day was Apr. 14, 1890.

IN BEXLEY

Left-Turn Signal Set At Parkview

Bexley Council, Tuesday night, in its last session until September, approved the installation of a left-turn arrow on the traffic light on E. Main-st at Parkview.

The intersection has long been troublesome for motorists, who complain that traffic is so heavy at times that they must wait out several light changes before turning left onto Parkview.

Council also, on the eve of its annual August vacation, heard a proposal to erect a two-story office building on E. Livingston-av.

Members questioned whether the off-street parking area would be adequate and referred the matter to Engineering and Planning Committee for study, along with a request by an amateur radio fan to install a tower for an antenna on his property.

Council also heard a report that a fence had been constructed around the caretaker's house on Jeffrey Mansion grounds, to provide privacy for his family from swimmers at the nearby pool.

News of the season's success of the Bexley Pool was heard. A record of 2000 admissions were reported on one Sunday.

Wish Of A Lifetime Comes True At Last

By JANE ROBINSON

"Here I go, boys!"

Over 60 years ago Cromwell Dixon, the Columbus boy who first flew over the Rocky Mountains, cried those words as the tradewinds of the West Coast sucked his flying machine down into a railroad cut.

Within 90 minutes the 19-year-old hero was dead.

And today, the story of Cromwell Dixon has faded from most memories.

But to his sister, Lulu Dixon Rogers, 272 Gift-st, Cromwell's story has never grown old.

Dream Realized

Two weeks ago Mrs. Rogers learned that the dream of a lifetime was to come true.

At the airport in Helena, Mont., stands a monument commemorating the skill and daring with which young Dixon conquered the Continental Divide. He was the first, and he was flying a box car kite in which today one would fear Grandview Hill.

Monday Lulu Rogers was flown there to take part in ceremonies honoring her brother.

When she placed a wreath on the monument it was part of the centennial celebration of the State of Montana, and the reception at the airport was in her honor.

Many Events Planned

During the following days she was to be interviewed on television, picnic at the Cromwell Dixon picnic grounds and visit Blossberg where the "two-winged kite" landed.

She is to tour by train the route Cromwell followed by air, have tea with the first lady of Montana at the governor's mansion, and receive a plaque from Gov. Tim Babcock at the Last Chance Stampede, the Centennial rodeo.

Accepting Honors

And everywhere she goes, she is accepting the honors, the tributes and the eulogies in the name of her brother, Cromwell Dixon.

Yes these "are such stuff" as Mrs. Rogers' dreams "are made on" and they are all coming true.

She was still on a cloud the day after the good news was relayed to her from Helena by Mrs. Tom Mattox, formerly of Columbus.

But she looked back to the efforts of her mother, Mrs. Nellie Dixon, to sell the old Princess Theatre which the family owned.

That move would have provided the funds with which to make the pilgrimage to her son's memorial.

But she died before the plans materialized, and Lulu is making the trip alone.

Dixon Early Genius

A widow less than a year after Cromwell's birth, Mrs. Dixon had recognized her son's genius before it became evident — first to Columbus, and then to the world.

Before he could walk he successfully dismantled an alarm clock and semi-successfully rebuilt it.

At an age when most lads are learning their ABC's, he mounted an old motor on various craft, including a canoe. And each worked.

But headlines first came when as a boy of 15 he flew over Columbus in a homemade balloon, filled with homemade gas and powered as the boy peddled on the frame of a bicycle suspended from the balloon.

This was no toy.

It took 500 yards of Japanese silk alone to build the dirigible.

Five-hundred yards of silk is difficult to come by for a struggling widow, but she believed in her boy-genius.

Pawns Family Jewels

Off to the pawn shop she went with the family jewels and the silk was purchased. (Both a frugal and sentimental woman, she used the remnants to make clothing for the entire family.)

And then the valiant Nellie and her children began to sew. Each stitch in the huge bag was theirs.

When finally finished, the trio worked days on end to inflate the balloon of the "sky-cycle" with a bicycle pump.

And then the fame they had forseen to be Cromwell's arrived.

A 1907 clipping tells of his taking the American flag higher than it had ever been before, 8,000 feet into the air.

Another story stated, "He

Lulu Dixon Rogers

darts up in the sky as the eagle flies."

Success At Age 15

Poems were printed praising his feats, the Wright brothers, Eddie Rickenbacker and Count Zepplin counted him their equal, and a hero was shaped, only 15 years after Cromwell's chronological birth.

On Sept. 11, 1911 when he made history with his flight over the Continental Divide, he was flying for Glenn Curtis of New York.

He accepted $10,000 and a gold barometer from citizens of Montana and entrained for Spokane, Wash. His plane was shipped ahead.

According to his sister, he had seen the countless bodies of the dead geese sucked down by the unpredictable downdrafts and hesitated to take the light craft up.

Yields To Crowd

But the tumultuous welcome at Spokane persuaded him to fulfill the demands of the crowds for a few turns around the field.

And so, only two days after he had won world-wide acclaim, he was dead.

The world had lost its youngest aeronautical genius and a mother's heart was broken. Only a monument in Montana and the memories of a sister were left.

Lulu, well into her seventies, has been living for the past year at Sunshine Terrace at the foot of Sullivant-av.

Surrounded by Cromwell's pictures and those of her own life as a vaudeville star, Mrs. Rogers was quoted in The Spectator a few months ago that she had come to the high-rise apartments "to live, not to die."

And to her, the adventure coming up is "really living."

Breathlessly excited and alternately laughing and crying, she's wondered about air sickness, and fussing about what to wear.

Desire Undimmed

But she considers herself an extremely fortunate woman.

As she waited over half a century to pay tribute to her beloved brother, her hopes had been dimmed but not her desire.

Sacred as the occasion is to Lulu (one of vaudeville's greats, according to yellowed clippings), she took her wonderful sense of humor along.

When warned by friends that there are bears wandering around the Rockies where she will visit she exclaimed, "Wonderful! I've always wanted to dance with a bear on a mountain!"

Delaware County's Oil Boom Can Hike Assessments Here

The Spectator Says:

By C. C. Hartley

Tranquility

To me the French River is many things.

One of these is tranquility.

For hours at a time it is possible to hear no man-made sounds.

Right at this moment is one of those times.

A heavy wind is whipping up white caps out toward Twilight Bay.

Every leaf of white birch, red maple, ash, oak and cottonwood is engaged in a ballet to the string-like tunes of the pine needles in the breeze.

One has a soul washing just for the watching of the drinking-pure water as it continually washes every rock along the shore line.

Nearby mother wren goes busily about her way of gathering insects and racing across a pine needle carpet to a blueberry bush where one of her fledglings is being trained in getting along in its newly discovered big world outside the nest.

A couple of yellow canaries twitter and hop scotch from bough to bough as though lending encouragment to their neighbor's brood.

Out across the bay comes a call from a mama loon as though to warn her little one or her mate not to stray far.

Here one listens with ears and eyes.

Here we can pause and reflect that these same sounds and sights have provided such tranquility for ages gone and will continue for ages to come.

Fortunate is the person who has the perspective to start his search for the good life looking for tranquility.

Everything's O.K., Doc!

Dear Doc Miller:

As per your request, I visited your island and checked your cottage over.

As I approached your dock I noticed that the ice has knocked the crib loose and the beavers have eaten holes in your skid. An old mother mink is raising a family in your outdoor furnace.

The beavers have cut down the young white birch in your front yard, a large jack pine has fallen over on the roof of the cottage and ducks are flying out of your chimney.

The termites are at work on your concrete steps and a porcupine has carved his initials on the side of your boat. I couldn't get inside but I looked through the window and saw bats flying and mice at work. The place is a beehive of activity with hornets at work in the front room.

I checked the outhouse and find that a porcupine has now made it a three holer. Someone has hauled your wood pile away.

Everything looks in good condition and I'm sure you will enjoy it when you come up!

Sincerely,
CCH

LOCAL SUPPORT FOR the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as building authority for the proposed dam and reservoir projects at Alum Creek and Mill Creek was the subject of a visit last Friday to the office of Congressman Samuel L. Devine. Mrs. Robert Coutant, 4925 Sunbury-rd, and Mrs. Harry Detwiler, 3875 Sunbury-rd, presented Devine with petitions signed by 1,000 residents of the northeast area. The petition circulators reported only five refusals in gaining the 1,000 signatures. Pictured from left to right are Devine, Mrs. Coutant and Mrs. Detwiler.

Land Appraisal Figures Subject To Challenge

By FRANK RYAN

Property owners who will help pay for the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam projects proposed by the Scioto Conservancy District may pay much more than the assessment listed in the appraisal record.

The potential cost of securing mineral rights looms as one of the most glaring weaknesses in the appraisals filed by the Scioto Conservancy District in its plan to build flood protection facilities from local money.

Officials of the district have steadfastly refused to present details concerning what value was given to the potential for oil on the lands which must be acquired. This much is known about the SCD land appraisal method:

1. Land to be taken was appraised in "fee simple," which means that there would be a complete take of property — including mineral rights.

2. The standard method for determining price to be paid hinges on fair market value and highest land use potential. The prime means of arriving at fair market value is to study the selling prices obtained for surrounding, similar land.

3. The SCD has asked the Conservancy Court to grant the district some latitude in adjusting payments for property taken, on the basis of mineral rights or other such contingencies dealing with land values or use.

The third point listed ties in with a startling fact revealed by sources outside the SCD and its appraisers. The major weakness in property appraisal, they say, is that it does not reflect the additional cost involved in Delaware County oil speculation.

When original appraisals were made, they say, there was not enough "current" history to evaluate the potential loss to a property owner for giving up possible oil rights. If a new appraisal were to be ordered, it is felt that the cost factor for property acquisition in Delaware County would be substantially increased.

The lack of information on possible costs for mineral rights is expected to be a part of any injunctive measures taken to prevent the SCD from implementing its plan. The City of Columbus, through the city attorney's office, is now studying what court measures can be undertaken to challenge the entire SCD appraisal.

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner

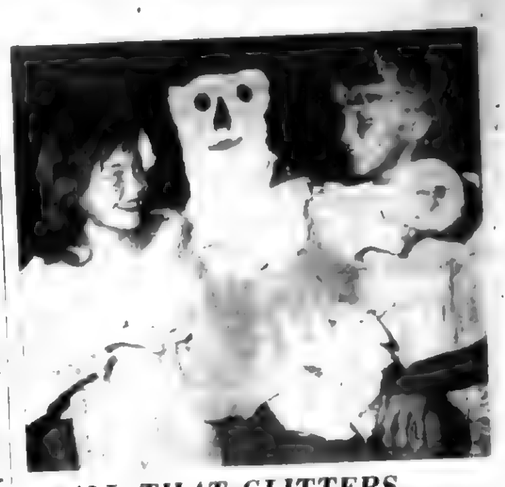
SCD Plan Opposition Increasing

Protest action against the assessment plan of the Scioto Conservancy District for local flood control projects continues to increase as the Aug. 17 deadline for filing exceptions draws near.



Latest developments include:

- A refusal by the Scioto Conservancy District to explain its official plan at an Aug. 10 meeting of the West Side Neighborhood Council.
- Presentation to Congressman Samuel L. Devine of petitions signed by 1,000 persons and calling for the U.S. Corps of Engineers to construct the dams at Alum Creek and Mill Creek.
- Announcement by Dr. Harold Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Public Schools, that he will ask the Columbus Board of Education to file an exception to the SCD's appraisal record.
- A similar notice of intent to protest the assessment against Mt. Carmel Hospital, and
- A petition drive on Columbus' Near West Side aimed at securing the Corps of Engineers as building authority for the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects.

The West Side Neighborhood Council meeting will go on as scheduled at 7:30 p.m. next Monday at Gladden Community House, Hawkes-av at Town-st. But the intended purpose of acquainting area residents with facts on both the SCD and Army plans for flood protection programs will not get any help from SCD.

Richard E. Midden, district executive secretary, declined an invitation to appear at the meeting. He said SCD legal counsel had advised him that "this matter is now before the court and therefore it is not proper for the personnel of the district to participate in a public hearing or debate on.

Sunday Buying Ban, 'Fairway Oaks' Bid Get Council Notice

By BETTY DAFT

It may have been the weather, the cumulative results of days of heat and humidity, that triggered tempers of Whitehall councilmen Tuesday.

Whatever the cause, remarks between Councilmen Shipley and Levine were caustic on the Republican-sponsored resolution urging citizens to refrain from unnecessary shopping on Sundays, and from patronizing stores that stay open.

To this Shipley forcibly took exception several times.

The lively session also saw a renewal of Todd Tibbals' request for the Fairway Oaks subdivision, withdrawn last month, and the passage of legislation empowering City Solicitor Paul Haytcher to investigate assessments filed by the Scioto Conservancy District against Whitehall.

Levine charged sponsors of the resolution urging no Sunday shopping with "Trying to please all the people . . . they refused to support a constitutional Sunday closing law, pleasing those against Sunday closing . . . now they piously sponsor a resolution urging people to stay away from stores they refused to close on Sundays."

His referral was to a copy of the state Sunday Closing Law introduced to council last month. A motion to suspend the rules and pass it as an emergency measure was defeated and, at the next meeting, the ordinance was tabled indefinitely in view of Columbus' reversal of enforcement policy.

Levine's "no" was the only dissenting vote to Tuesday's resolution. After President Walter Siemer had restored order and called a recess, Shipley apologized to council and to the public for having lost his temper.

Developer Todd Tibbals had withdrawn his request for the 50-acre Fairway Oaks subdivision last month after council had refused permission to rezone a portion of the land for apartments. His alternate proposal of twin singles was also turned down since it included reduced lot sizes.

Tuesday night's plan, submitted by James Maxwell, attorney, calls for six four-family units in place of the twin singles, and for a change in lots for single homes.

The proposal was referred to Planning and Zoning for study.

City Solicitor Haytcher was authorized in the resolution passed Tuesday, to investigate the assessments filed by the Scioto Conservancy District affecting Whitehall and, if he deems it necessary, to file protests.

Council Authorizes Sewer, Park Work

Additional engineering services for the Big Walnut Creek Area Sanitary Trunk Sewer and improvement projects at Franklin Park were among the 130 pieces of legislation considered by Columbus City Council in a lengthy Monday session.

Councilmen dealt with the large volume of ordinances before adjourning for a month-long vacation from regular sessions.

An additional $100,000 was appropriated to cover added engineering services by H. G. Dill Co. consulting engineers, on the Big Walnut trunk sewer project. Council also approved $500 for apprsisal work in the proposed acquisition of land for Big Walnut Park, and accepted an $8,342.50 payment by Walnut Hill, Inc., toward cost of constructing the Big Walnut Area Sanitary Sanitary Subtrunk Sewer between Livingston-av and Myers-rd extended east.

An ordinance was approved to issue bonds in anticipation of assessments for construction of sanitary sewers and improvement of Livingston-av from James-rd to Hamilton-rd.

The Franklin Park improvements authorized included expenditures of $7,000 for construction and plumbing of a restroom and $7,553 for replacing a greenhouse floor.

In other action council:

Authorized conveying of necessary easements to the State of Ohio in connection with the Hamilton-av widening project; approved securing of easements for a 12-inch water line in McNaughten-rd and expenditure of $1,000 for necessary appraisal work and easement purchase, and approved several utility agreements with the State of Ohio in connection with various East Freeway highway projects.

Approved was a deed of easement from the city to the Marathon Oil Co., Findlay, for installing and maintaining an underground septic tank and leaching field and installing underground fuel tanks for a service station at Steltzer-rd and Rt. 62.

Two space rental agreements were also authorized by council. The city will rent 5,618 square feet from the Abel Corp., 500 N. Hamilton-rd. The storage space will be in a building at 679 N. Hamilton-rd. Aircraft Acceptance Corp., 4920 E. Fifth-av, will rent 1,048 square feet of second floor office space in the Old Terminal Building at Port Columbus.

New Pupils At Eastmoor Can Register

Eastmoor Senior High School pupils attending for the first time are urged to register now.

Registration is required if the pupil did not attend Johnson Park or Eastmoor Junior in grade nine, or if the pupil has moved into the Eastmoor Senior District, regardless of grade level.

The school office is open for registration Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. during August.

Some elective classes have already been closed because of increased enrollment. In order to assure a wider range of electives, all new pupils should register immediately, school officials warned.

Consultation and guidance for pupils and parents are also available at the school office during August.

Apartments OK'd

Columbus City Council has approved the rezoning of a property on the west side of Gould-rd, 1222 feet north of Maryland-av for two apartments totaling 54 units.

The application was filed by Melvin Freedberb, 115 S. Kellner-rd.

Board Of Elections Nixes Branch Plan

Reynoldsburg and Whitehall city officials were given a firm and final "no" by the Franklin County Board of Elections to pleas for the establishment of branch offices in those cities.

The Monday morning discussion during a regular meeting of the board broke up when Reynoldsburg Mayor George W. Twyford told board member William A. Schneider, "I think we are wasting our time here."

Schneider, who did all the talking for the three members of the board who opposed the plan, told the visitors that he considered the branch office plan as Democrat inspired. "We'd all be very stupid if we didn't see that this is from Democrats," he said.

Board member Thomas H. Williams, who was outvoted 3-1 when he introduced the branch office plan at an earlier meeting, said that his only motive was to make registration available to a maximum number of voters.

Schneider said the decision of the board was based on a total of more than 60 years' experience by three of its members. He has been a board member for 26 years.

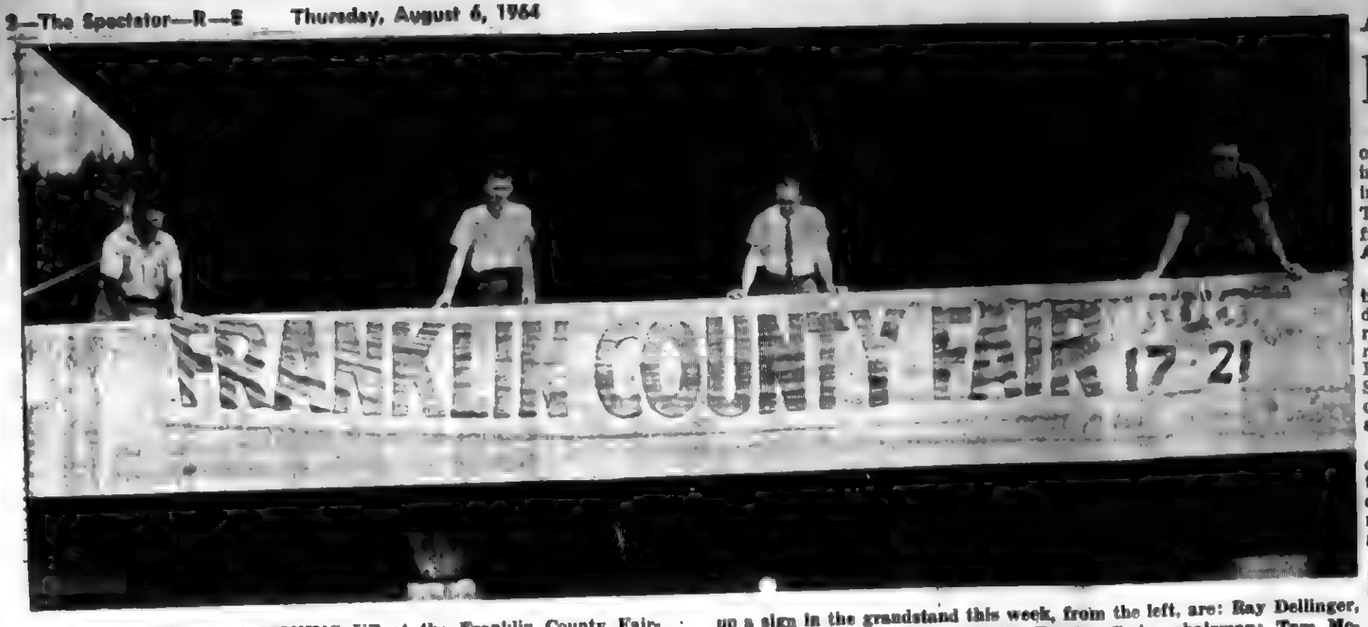
Representing Reynoldsburg with Twyford was Councilman Donald Sears. Whitehall was represented by Mayor William H. Holzhouse, Solicitor Paul J. Haytcher and Service Director James C. Polzer. Also attending the meeting was Loyd A. Courtney, a member of the Mayor's Advisory Council, Gahanna.

Society Reveals X-Ray Results

Some 172 free Christmas Seal chest X-rays were taken on July 16 when the Tuberculosis Society's X-ray cruiser was located at Beverly Manor Apartments.

Findings included: one case of emphysema and three other chest abnormalities.

A total of 379 X-rays were taken on July 17 when the TB society's cruiser was located at the James Road Shopping Plaza.



Findings included: one case of suspected TB, one cardiac condition, five cases of emphysema and four other chest abnormalities.

BETTER (DRIVING) DAYS AHEAD!

IT MAY BE A HOT, DUSTY PROBLEM NOW, but few motorists regularly traveling Hamilton-rd mind too much, for the extensive sewer work along the main artery is a prelude to the long-delayed improvement project on the road. This scene, taken at the intersection of Etna-rd, is repeated all the way south from Etna, past Livingston-av to Ellery. The sewer work is expected to be finished this fall and the road will be made into a four-lane highway starting next spring. Meanwhile, traffic now moving in the two lanes left open on Hamilton is slowed sometimes to a crawl by heavy equipment. Complete General Construction Co. is the contractor for the sewer work and for the road construction. The project is financed by Whitehall, Columbus and Federal funds.

AUG 1964

ACTIVITIES ARE PICKING UP at the Franklin County Fairgrounds in Hilliard this week as everything is made ready for the big County Fair, Monday, Aug. 17 through Friday, Aug. 21. Busiest men at the grounds are those in charge of activities and programming for the 51st annual event. Important preparation duties include clearing of buildings, cleaning of barns, trimming grass and hanging signs. Putting up a sign in the grandstand this week, from the left, are: Ray Dellinger, Fair Board secretary; John Wilt, Tractor Rodeo chairman; Tom McNutt, County Extension agent in charge of the Junior Fair, and Glenn Anderson, president of the Fair Board. Anderson says the finest program in the history of the fair will be offered to patrons this year.

Annual Franklin County Fair Features Five Exciting Days

With less than two weeks to go, there is a great deal of activity going on at the Franklin County Fairgrounds in Hilliard as exhibitors and officials prepare for the opening of the 51st annual County Fair on Monday, Aug. 17. This year's fair, jam-packed with activities, will run for five full days, ending Friday, Aug. 21.

Always a big attraction for both rural and urban residents of Central Ohio, the annual fair is divided into three main sections — the Senior Fair, the Junior Fair and the Speed Program. Each section offers fun and excitement for all ages.

A main attraction of the opening night program will be the appearance of Stony Roberts and his automobile and motorcycle daredevils for a grandstand show. One of the most spectacular events of the show is the "Motorcycle Board Crash," when a motorcycle rider plunges through a flaming board wall at full speed.

Another of the 20 events features a driver in an automobile, driving up a ramp, hurtling the length of a huge bus to smash into a pile of automobiles at the other end.

JUNIOR FAIR

The Junior Fair will officialy get under way at 10 a.m. Monday, Aug. 17, with the judging of 4-H Club miscellaneous projects and the presentation of awards. At 5 p.m. market hogs will be weighed and all exhibits will be in place for display by 6 p.m.

Tuesday, Aug. 18, will see the weighing of steers at 8 a.m., followed by judging of 4-H and FFA exhibits at 8:30 a.m. Judging of 4-H and FFA Beef Breeding and Steer Classes begins at 1 p.m., and the weighing of market lambs will be held at 5 p.m.

Selection of a Junior Fair Court and interviews of king and queen candidates will begin at 7 p.m. in the activities tent.

Judging of 4-H and FFA Sheep Breeding and Market Classes will get under way at 8:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 19. This will be followed by 4-H Home Economics Demonstrations at 9 a.m.

Four-H Agriculture Demonstrations and 4-H Safety Speaking Demonstrations will get started at 1 p.m., along with the judging of 4-H and FFA Dairy Classes. The 4-H Dress Review will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the activities tent.

Junior Fair activities on Thursday, Aug. 20, include 4-H Horse and Pony Grading at 9 a.m., followed by 4-H Showmanship and Horsemanship Classes. At 9:30 a.m. the 4-H Health Contest will be conducted. The auction of Junior Fair market livestock will begin at 6:30 p.m., and the 4-H Horse Show will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The final day of the Junior Fair, Friday, Aug. 21, will see the 4-H Tractor Rodeo, appearance of 4-H Horse Drill Teams, the presentation of the Junior Fair Frolics, and a final parade, featuring floats, bands and horses.

SENIOR FAIR

Senior Fair activities get under way Tuesday morning, Aug. 18, with judging of the following classes: Angus Beef Cattle, 8:30 a.m.; Hereford Beef Cattle at 10:30 a.m.; Open Class Poultry, 9 a.m.; Open Class Farm Products, 9 a.m.; Domestic and Fine Arts; Patrons of Husbandry Exhibit, 9 a.m. Flower Show Oral Judging will begin at noon, followed by judging of the District 10 Jersey Cattle Show at 7 p.m.

A live grandstand show featuring Flippo the Clown will begin at 7 p.m., followed by a Teenage Hop with Gene Fullen at 8 p.m.

Wednesday, Aug. 19, will see the following judging activities: Open Class Swine, 8 a.m.; Shorthorn Cattle, 9 a.m.; Charolais and Charolais Cross, 9 a.m.; Rabbit Show, 12:30 p.m.

Evening activities include the Central Ohio Guernsey Show at 7 p.m.; an appearance of television personality "Luci" at 7:30 p.m.; and a night show featuring TV personality Jerry Rasor.

Thursday, Aug. 20, activities will include judging of the following classes: Holstein and Ayrshire at 8:30 a.m.; Open Class Sheep and Ponies, 8 a.m.; Flower Show, noon, and Brown Swiss Cattle Show, 7 p.m.

A teenage dance has been scheduled for the evening.

Friday, Aug. 21, has been designated as Youth Day and will feature a program by local youth groups in front of the grandstand at 12:30 p.m. An Air Force Band Concert will be conducted at the grandstand at 3 p.m., followed by the Float Parade at 4:30 p.m.

Beginning at 5 p.m., the combined high school bands of Franklin County will offer a concert at the grandstand. The annual Amateur Show will begin at 8 p.m. in the grandstand.

Election of directors of the Agriculture Society will be conducted in the secretary's office from 4 to 8 p.m.

SPEED PROGRAM

The Speed Program will be conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 18 and 19, beginning at 8 p.m.

Tuesday night racing will begin with the Two-Year-Old Trot and include a Three-Year-Old Pace, a Non-Winners Pace, and Trot.

Wednesday night racing will open with a Three-Year-Old Trot, followed by a Two Year-Old Pace and a Non-Winners Pace and Trot.

A trophy and cash award will be presented to winners of each race. Pari-mutuel wagering will be permitted at the track.

Jaycees Join Fight Against VD Increase

Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce, 300 members strong, last week joined forces with the Columbus Health Department in launching a year-long awareness project designed to solve the community's steadily growing venereal disease problem.

Paul Shaffer was named chairman of a newly created venereal disease control committee.

"One of our very first steps will be formation of a speaker's bureau," Shaffer said.

"We believe every Parent-Teacher Association, every Child Conservation League, every civic club, every church and youth group should hear and understand the menace of venereal disease confronting us and how this spread of infection can be stopped.

"We're going to organize and indoctrinate enough speakers to accommodate them all. This is something that needs to be done right now, not next December or January. The number of VD cases is climbing every month, as health department records show."

Shaffer said the Columbus Health Department has agreed to act as booking agent for speakers. Dates may be arranged by calling the Division of Health Education at CA 8-3501, Ext. 48.

A four-part series of stories published by The Spectator in May revealed that syphilis cases in Columbus jumped from 12 in 1962 to 115 in 1963, an increase of more than 900 percent. Gonorrhea cases reported in 1962 were 1,255, highest since 1950, increasing to 1,939 in 1963, an all-time peak.

During the first six months of 1964, syphilis cases reported show an increase of 67 percent with gonorrhea increasing at a 76 percent rate over 1963 figures, Columbus Health Commissioner Dr. Ollie Goodloe revealed.

A census of agriculture for for 1964 is slated to begin in the U.S. and Ohio in November. It will report detailed information on principal farm inputs including feed, seed, fertilizer, petroleum, and farm machinery.

A HELPFUL LEGACY was given to James 'Tom' Duckworth last week by a man he had never met. The legacy came in the form of a $2,500 check, part of a trust fund set up by the late Ira M. Claggett, Hilltop realtor who was himself handicapped. Presenting the check as administrators of the trust fund are (from left): Phillip V. Stout, Dr. E. E. McNamee and Charles H. Campbell. Duckworth lost the use of his limbs in a swimming pool accident three years ago this week.

FOR TOM – A BRIGHTER JULY

Benefactor's Legacy Gives Lift To Handicapped Ex-Fireman

J. Thomas Duckworth can't cherish too many pleasant memories for the month of July.

Three years ago this week a swimming pool accident which nearly took his life completely disabled the city fireman.

But the legacy of another disabled man helped make the outlook a little bit brighter recently as Tom became the recipient of a $2,500 trust fund grant, provided in the will of Ira M. Claggett, a former Hilltop businessman.

The grant wiped out $2,000 of the mortgage on Duckworth's Holly Hill home with the remainder helping to handle medical expenses.

The Claggett trust fund, set up at the death of the visually - handicapped realtor in 1950, is entrusted to the Hilltop Business Association to be administered by three trustees under the guidance of the Probate Court.

The purpose of the fund is to aid physically handicapped young men under the age of 30.

The fund, prior to the Duckworth grant, contained $12,414.63. It stipulates that no person may receive more than $2,500.

Tom, 27, confined to a wheelchair since the accident, resides at 3925 Lynward-dr with his wife and a three-year-old son, Mike.

A good athlete prior to his injury, Tom does a lot of reading to pass the time, besides following a couple of city softball teams at Southview.

Trustees administering the Claggett fund are Phillip V. Stout, Dr. E. E. McNamee and Charles H. Campbell.

Anyone knowing of any disabled person who might qualify for assistance under this trust fund is asked to contact one of the three trustees for further information.

Annual Retreats Scheduled For Catholic Scouts

Annual retreats for Scouts, Explorers and Scouters will be held for three days beginning Monday, Aug. 10 and Thursday, Aug. 13, at Camp St. Rita, near Canal Winchester.

The program is sponsored by the Catholic Committee on Scouting for all Scouts between the ages of 11 and 16 who live in the 23-county Catholic Diocese of Columbus.

For reservation blanks, call or write the Catholic Center Scouting Department, 80 S. Sixth-st.

Registration deadline for both retreats is Thursday, Aug. 6.

THEATER REVIEWS:

Exit Laughing At POG; L&L Musical Colorful

By BOB PERKOWSKI

"Enter Laughing," this week's Playhouse-on-the-Green production, has an unwritten stage direction which says the audience exits laughing. And laugh you do, until the endurance of your smiling muscles and your breath are taxed to their limits.

Based on Carl Reiner's novel, the romp was written for the stage by Joseph Stein, successful Broadway librettist and TV sketch writer.

It concerns a boy who wants to be "something," which in this case is an actor. He gets a "scholarship" and is to take part in a dramatics school's production. The complications are played out to their fullest with his employer, his family and his girl friend.

Ray Girardin exuberantly plays the stage-struck youth. Larry Kent as his employer, Marilyn Samelson as his mother, Donald Barton as Marlowe (director of the drama school), and Jean Martinez as Angela (Marlowe's daughter) all turn in exceptional performances. Most of the minor roles are well played.

"Enter Laughing" is one play that goes a long way toward proving a play can be funny without being "risky" —risque. You can pick up your tickets at the box office without blushing.

OSU Stadium

By SANDY ARTER

"Paint Your Wagon," but with quick, dry paint so as to see the grand finale of Stadium Theatre for this summer.

Wall to wall people in colorful, churlish costumes portray our very colorful ancestors who participated in the 1849 gold rush.

The charm of this musical production lies in its largeness and its color. "Paint Your Wagon" can be chalked up as a shower humming tune for anyone who sees the play.

Lusting for gold, besides being born under "Wanderin' Stars," these hardy adventurers head for California. A rather unlikely hindrance is the daughter of one of the miners. The western mining town named for and run by her father, is no place for a girl, so she is sent to an eastern school to become a lady and secondly, possibly first, to stay away from the miners who were "Looking for a Little Unclean Fun."

Margaret Ellis is absolutely charming as the daughter. She has the most pleasant voice in the show and is most easily heard.

There may be more single pleasant voices but no one is able to project. Such solo songs as "Maria" lose their wild, romantic intensity. However, when the chorus sings it gives a fervent, pleasurable effect.

MUSICAL SUGGESTED BY AUTOBIOGRAPHY

PAUL RICHARDS AND ANITA BRYANT star in "The Sound of Music," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical currently being presented by John Kenley at Veterans Memorial. Suggested by "The Trapp Family Singers," by Maria Augusta Trapp, the show's book was written by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, best known for the comedy "Life with Father." The musical tells how the von Trapp family was driven from its home in Germany by the Nazis. They were then forced to turn what had only been a joyous hobby, singing, into a professional skill.

Lerner-Loewe Gold Rush Musical At Stadium Theatre

David Ayers is starred as the battered, brawling mining-town boss in "Paint Your Wagon," the Broadway musical comedy hit being presented at OSU Stadium Theatre now through Sunday, Aug. 16, at 8:30 p.m.

Written by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, the famous team responsible for "My Fair Lady," "Brigadoon" and other hits, "Paint Your Wagon" is a romantic and tuneful recapturing of a vivid period in American history — the gold rush of the forty-niners to California.

Its basic situation is that as these fortune-seekers plunged westward, they found on arrival that they had neglected to bring with them some items as important as picks and shovels, namely women.

In their loneliness, they yearn for wives. The musical's plot shows that where a need exists, there is usually someone ready to fill it. Some eastern girls, hearing of the great lack of their kind on the frontier, adventurously charter a stage to California.

The score includes a whole albumful of roaring ballads and romantic melodies about this situation, such as "I'm on My Way" and "There's a Coach Comin' In." Some of the other songs of the show that have now become long-time favorites are "Another Autumn," "I Talk to the Trees," "I Still See Elisa" and "All for Him."

PAUL ROBERTS appears as Julio in Stadium Theatre's current production, "Paint Your Wagon," in which he sings "I Talk to the Trees." The musical continues through Sunday, Aug. 16.

ON FOR FIVE WEEKS

NEW CHRISTY MINSTRELS will be featured on a half-hour series of lively music and comedy, with guest comedians, in colorcasts starting at 9:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 6, on WLW-C, TV-4. The first two programs will originate from the New York World's Fair, and the last three from West Coast locales. The singers are Barry Kane and Art Podell (rear, left to right), Larry Ramos, Paul Potash, Barry McGuire, Nick Wood and Clarence Treat (center, left to right), and Ann White and Karen Gunderson (front, left to right).

MadComedy Next POG Attraction

"You Can't Take It With You," a merry, mad comedy about a wacky Manhattan family whose members do exactly as they please, begins a one week engagement Monday, Aug. 10, at Playhouse-on-the-Green. The all-time hilarity hit presents the world's most rugged individualists — the daffy Sycamore family.

Heading the tribe of genial madcaps is Grandpa Vanderhof, who for 35 years has confined his activities to hunting snakes, practicing dart throwing, attending commencement exercises, and ignoring his income tax payments.

Equally uninhibited are Penelope, a playwright because a typewriter was delivered by mistake; Paul, who passes his time manufacturing fireworks in the cellar with Mr. de Pinna, a congenial iceman who has been a house guest for eight years; Essie, who studies ballet in the living room, and Ed, who gets in trouble inserting radical maxims in the candy boxes he peddles.

Out of this manic clan somehow has come a normal daughter whose hopes of marrying the son of her wealthy boss are almost lost when his dignified parents drop in on the Sycamores on a night when they are not expected.

A double prize winner, "You Can't Take It With You" captured the Pulitzer Prize as the best play of its season, and won the Academy Award when it was converted into a movie.

WLW-C Construction Past Half-Way Mark

The million dollar construction program at WLW-C TV, 3165 Olentangy River-rd, has reached the half-way mark, according to the architect, Louis Carlsburger and Associates. Target date for completion is December, 1964.

The outside wall is complete to the second floor and last week workmen poured the concrete for this floor.

The construction involves more than doubling the physical plant and adding a full line of color equipment. The building is being enlarged from 14,500 square feet to 35,000 feet. It will contain two large 40x60 foot studios completely equipped for live colorcasts.

Swan Cleaners Set Nickel Day

The seventh annual Swan Cleaners Nickel Day is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 7.

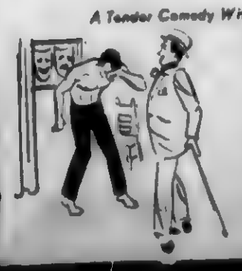
The park will be open from noon until 9 p.m. Identification tickets, which entitle the holder to take advantage of the park's many fun rides for only a nickel, can be obtained free at any Swan Cleaners. No purchase is necessary.

In case of rain the event will be celebrated Friday, Aug. 14, said Andre Gelpi, Swan president.

Color Show, Documentary To Be Aired

Scenes from the Circleville Pumpkin Show and a documentary, "A Tale of Three Cities," will be televised by WLW-C, TV-4, this Sunday afternoon, Aug. 9.

Starting at 5:30 p.m., color film of last year's pumpkin show will be featured on "This Is America." The largest and oldest festival in Ohio, and the sixth largest festival in the United States, the Circleville show includes everything from the largest pumpkin pie in the world to colorful parades.



At 6:30 p.m., the vital roles played by Columbus, Dayton, and Cincinnati in Ohio's development will be documented in "A Tale of Three Cities." Produced by WLW-C, the program was done at the request of Governor James A. Rhodes to portray in depth the problems facing Ohio.

Still-motion photography and animation are employed in the half-hour production to both entertain and inform.

THREE CHEERS — This is the trend of French outfits — the three-piece suit. This particular creation is a jersey outfit made of cashmere and sells for $32.75. It's called "Diana."

Of interest to Women?

By JANET MICHAEL

NEW TWIST — The French fashion designers have even come up with creations to wear while twisting. Pretty models trip the light fantastic here in twist outfits which are selling on the French market at $25 apiece. They can, the designers say, also be used for watching television.

BARE FACTS — This is the most popular beach apparel all over France — from the beaches in Cannes to the French Riviera. In case you can't tell, it's a bikini and this is how they'll look this year, according to French designers. It's terry cloth and the price isn't quite as brief — it retails for $28, including a robe that ties on the sides.

The Navy Just Ain't What It Used To Be!

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Staffer
Serving with the U.S. Navy

CANNES, France — There are strong indications in this French city that the American-conscious women may have to rapidly shift their clothing styles — perhaps even start all over on a new wardrobe.

A package of the latest Paris styles — entitled "Collection '64" — was unwrapped this month aboard, of all things, U.S. Navy vessels anchored near this French city during a summer cruise in the Mediterranean with the Sixth Fleet.

The show was staged aboard the anti-submarine warfare aircraft carrier USS Intrepid and other destroyer escorts of this task group, by Charlotte Gerard who has been connected with the French fashion industry for the past 11 years and is considered one of the foremost authorities in this style-setting country.

The collection ranged from a "priceless" evening gown creation inspired by Princess Grace of Monaco (and bearing her name) to brief bikinis. The hundreds of American sailors viewing the shows were somewhat disappointed, however, to learn that modeling the controversial "topless" bathing suit was against Sixth Fleet regulations.

But they did get an eyeful of four of France's top fashion models who displayed the trend-setting styles that will, in all probability, be worn this coming year by American women.

One of the major departures from current American dress is down-again, up-again, down-again hemline. While American lasses are still wearing their skirts nearly above the knee cap, the French designers are shifting again, bringing the hem to below-the-knee length.

Another change is the plunging neckline which no longer plunges, according to the French fashion authorities. Instead, the backs of the new creations are sinking lower and lower but the front neckline is definitely on the rise.

Miss Gerard also introduced a new fabric innovation to her American Naval audiences. It's a synthetic material on the order of sponge rubber. It's being used—and quite prettily, too — in the design of evening and cocktail dresses. The real beauty of this material is its wrinkle-resistant qualities and they say it never needs ironing.

The entire show wasn't dedicated to ladies' fashions, however. Miss Gerard brought with her some of the new styles for the males and it looks as if sweaters — the heavy, bulky-knit, ski-slope type — will be on the fashion scene for at least another year or two. The men's styles were created by Nice-Tricots, located in Nice, France.

Want some excitement? A change from the old routine?

Then ladies, grab your pocketbook and a wastebasket and we'll play a little game called "I might need this someday." You start by dumping the contents of your purse on the floor. Then pick up each article, study it, say "I might need this someday" and put it back in the pocketbook.

What could be more interesting than finding a used band-aid or an old chewing gum wrapper with a telephone number written on it? No name . . . just the number.

In my little catch-all I found lots of essentials . . . like three drivers licenses, an ID card (with an address so old that I had forgotten I had ever lived there), five tubes of lipstick (four empty and one melted), oodles of green stamps (stuck together), a man's tie (hmmm), two empty match books and one lighter (out of fluid). (It doesn't really matter though, the cigarette case is empty too.)

Here's a couple of overdue bills, a ticket stub that says "Hold This Stub," and a year's supply of lipstick-stained tissues.

And in the very bottom, nestled in an inch of tobacco is a dime and two pennies. This is my lucky day!

After repeating my little ritual "I might need this someday," everything is neatly back in place.

Now . . . what did I do with those car keys?

Aladdin Plans Picnic

The Aladdin Temple Shrine announced this week that plans are completed for the annual Stag Picnic on Saturday, Aug. 8, at Beulah Park, Grove City. The free program gets under way at 11:30 a.m. Chet Sherman is general chairman.

Senior Girls Anticipate 'Panhellenic Panorama'

Columbus City Panhellenic is planning a tea for the 1964 graduating high school senior girls in the Columbus area who will be attending any college or university. The tea, planned with its program theme of "Panhellenic Panorama" will be held Saturday, Aug. 22, at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts.

Invitations have been mailed to all senior girls who returned college reference cards. These cards were distributed in the high schools by City Panhellenic and were made available to all graduating seniors.

The purpose of the program is to acquaint the senior girls with the different sororities comprising the National Panhellenic Conference, and to emphasize the high standards that NPC places upon scholarship, philanthropic projects, community services and the total development of each individual member, which is intrinsic to sorority.

During the program, the 1964 City Panhellenic Scholarship will be presented to Miss Carol Jones, 660 Euclaire-av, Bexley, of Bishop Hartley High School. Mrs. Andrew Alexander, scholarship chairman, will make the award presentation.

Assisting Mrs. Victor Ireland and Mrs. James H. Scott, general co-chairmen are: Mrs. Charles Wahoff, Mrs. Robert Hudson, Miss Linda Ritter, Miss Patricia Gaugh, Mrs. Allen Beard, Mrs. William J. Kelsik, Mrs. James Reiter, Mrs. Andrew Alexander and Mrs. Ernest W. Retzlaff.

TWINS' MOTHERS PLAN POTLUCK

Mothers of Twins Club will hold its annual potluck supper and election of officers at Southview Shelter House Wednesday, Aug. 12, 6:30 p.m.

Applications for new members are being accepted by the secretary, Mrs. Norine Clark, AM. 2-3178.

ALL ABOUT BRUSHES

A brush with hard bristles is most effective for stimulating the scalp in brushing. A brush with finer, lighter bristles may be used to give the last touch of polish to hair already deeply, thoroughly brushed. We suggest:

1. For fine or dry hair — a natural bristle brush is a "must".
2. For medium or oily hair — a nylon brush will do.
3. For very full-bodied or coarse hair — a very hard or even a wire brush is sometimes best.

CLEANING YOUR HAIRBRUSH

Since the main purpose of your hairbrush is to bring a gloss to your hair and to get rid of dust you should always use a clean brush. Always comb out the hair from it after each brushing and whenever possible wash it immediately in lukewarm water with a detergent that doesn't make suds if you can't take time for this at least wipe it thoroughly after each brushing and wash it at least twice a week.

THE PENCILED EYEBROW

The penciled eyebrow skillfully drawn with a number of faint short lines has become standard equipment for the modern woman. However, Fernand Aubry of Paris, director of the only successful makeup school in the world deplores the fact that too little seems to be understood about the influence on our expression of the arch, contrast, and placement of the eyebrow. If you need professional assistance in finding the best eyebrow lines for you we'd be very glad to be helpful. Most of us need to mix two colors and almost no-one can make up their eyebrows successfully using black only. There is a paste on — one hair at a time method which is absolutely undetectable, but it's much too complicated for the average woman to do for herself.

HEARD UNDER THE DRYER

The easiest way to teach children the value of money, is to borrow it from them.

...for making their Classics the easiest "must" course on campus. A bit of knowledge senior passes on to frosh. Now class traditions, the Original Saddle and the handsewn moccasin, always identified by the signature inside

Miriam Spence And Kobi Sethna Repeat Double-Ring Vows

Pink gladiolas and white pom pons decorated the altar of Indianola Presbyterian Church for the July 25 ceremony that united Miss Miriam Deanne Spence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harvey Spence, Hendron-rd, Groveport, and Mr. Kobi M. Sethna of 3060 Livingston-av. Mr. Sethna is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Sethna of Bombay, India

Rev. Harold Meyers read the double-ring vows.

The bride chose a sheath gown of bouquet taffeta, designed with a batteau neckline and brief sleeves. The gown was embroidered with sprays of seed pearls, bugle beads and sequins and featured a beaded cummerbund and detachable train.

An open crown of seed pearls and beads held her three-tiered veil of imported silk illusion and she carried pink sweetheart roses with split carnations mounted on a white Bible. She wore a diamond necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Dwayne Spence, served as matron of honor, wearing a gown of pink velvet and chiffon over taffeta. She carried white carnations tipped with pink. Bridesmaid Miss Deanna Kruck wore a gown of blue velvet and chiffon over taffeta and carried white carnations tipped in blue. Missy Bright was flower girl. Her long white chiffon dress was accented by pink velvet ribbons and she carried a colonial bouquet. All attendants wore pearls, a gift from the bride.

Mr. John Morris of Martins Ferry was best man, and ushers were Mr. Dwayne Spence, brother of the bride; Mr. Raymond White, cousin of the bride; Mr. Robert Queen and Mr. Ray Stevenson.

Hostesses for the reception were Miss Candie Spence, Mrs. Daniel Knode and Miss Terry Winters, all of Groveport and cousins of the bride. Also at the table was Mrs. Boyd Dennis of Lancaster.

The new Mrs. Sethna is a graduate of Groveport-Madison High School and was employed at Children's Hospital in the department of medical records.

Mr. Sethna received his B. S. in Pharmacy (cum laude) at the University of India and his M. S. in drug marketing from OSU. He is a memberof Rho Chi National Pharmacy Honorary Society, American Marketing Association and American Pharmaceutical Association. He is employed by Parke, Davis and Co. of Detroit as a junior marketing executive.

The couple is residing at St. Clair Shores, Detroit, Mich.

A HAT WOULD BE SO MUCH COOLER!

She must go to the native market for her physical needs. The straw hat would be so much better than the old scarf tied and knotted about her head. Sweet, cool air could come through that straw and that would feel so wonderful in this heat!

Where does she go for her spiritual needs? Is there a church on the island? Does she know that she will be told about a great God there who will help her, guide her, and refresh her?

How fortunate we are in this country that there is a church in every community. Spiritual help, refreshment of soul, fellowship and love awaits all who enter her doors. We invite you to attend Church this week.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

H. Ranney New CBA President

Homer B. Ranney, 92 N. Brinker-av, formally accepted the presidency of the Columbus Bowling Association Saturday evening at the association's annual installation banquet at the Everglades Restaurant.

The well-known West Side man was presented a watch by Vic Thayer and the Columbus Bowling Association following a full-course steak dinner that was served to approximately 75 people.

BILL CORLEY, WBNS radio announcer, served as a capable master of ceremonies while Vic Thayer kept the audience "loose" with his repertoire of humorous stories.

Arnold Noe presented a gavel and a lifetime membership in the CBA to outgoing president Richard White.

Noe was only one of six past presidents of the CBA who were honored at the banquet. "Old timers" Clarence West, Frank Hamilton, Ed Bogen, Al Rosen and Eldon Brown have held the prexy's office of the CBA before Ranney's installation.

Horseshoes Will Fly At Sunshine

The Central Amateur Athletic Union Horseshoe Tournament will be held at Sunshine Recreation Center Friday, Aug. 14.

Qualifying rounds for the tourney will be held Aug. 13, starting at 5:30 p.m. at the Sunshine horseshoe courts. Entry blanks are available in room 124 at City Hall.

LINDA BLAIR, a 19-year-old beauty, who resides at 36 Pinewood-av, will reign over the tournament since being elected the 1964 Central Ohio Horseshoe Queen recently.

The Centaurs were the wild descendants of Ixion, according to Greek mythology, who were half-horse and half-man and lived in the mountains of Thessaly.

Rich HTA Trot Friday At Scioto

The stylish grace and beauty of the trotter in harness racing has been out-shone by the power and speed of the pacer in recent years, but the 1964 HTA Trot has become the show-case of the return to prominence of the diagonal gaiters.

When the mobile starting gate swings open in the $10,340 HTA Trot at Scioto Downs on Friday Aug. 7 a field of eight trotters is expected to vie for the gold in the purse and the silver in the handsome trophy.

THE FORTY SEVEN eligibles to the 1964 HTA Trot that will race for a total purse of $127,380 in the seven-leg touring series, include every outstanding 4 year-old trotter in the sport this year.

The expected eight starters at Scioto Downs next Friday night include the Season Champion Express Rodney, owned and driven by Jimmy Cruise from New York.

Express Rodney is a fine looking stallion, sired by the great Rodney. Last year he trotted in 2:01 1/5, and this year started off the season with a record of 2:00 1/5 at Santa Anita in California.

LEADING AN Ohio-owned contingent of 4 year-old trotters is the fabulous Sis Bomb, owned by John Frantz of Sidney. Trained and driven by the talented Gene Riegle, Sis Bomb posted a half mile track victory last year in 2:03.

A pair of crack trotters from Washington C. H., are expected to be entered Friday. They are Van's First, owned by A. G. Gordon, and Interloper, owned by Ray Garrity.

Samuel Huttenbaurer, the Cincinnati meat packer, has a pair of trotters eligible in Lucy's Victory, who won the 4 year-old division of the Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes in 2:04, and Tarport Mart with a record of 2:02 3/5.

OTHER EXPECTED starters include Frosty Hanover from the Stanley Dancer stable with a record of 1:59 4/5; Filter from the Herman Graham stable of Salem, Ill.; Cheer Honey, the fantastic daughter of Florican from the Frank Ervin stable with a record of 1:59 2/5; Choir Boy, the crack Canadian trotter who won the rich American National Stake at Sportsman's Park in Chicago last year, and Donner Hanover, the 4 year-old stallion owned by the Zeinfield Brothers from Chicago.

Junior Thins Run Saturday

The Annual Central Ohio Junior Olympic Track and Field Meet will be held at Ohio State University Stadium on Saturday, Aug. 8. It is sponsored by WBNS-TV and is conducted by the Columbus Recreation Department.

Field events (standing broad jump, softball throw, running broad jump, shot put, high jump, hop, step and jump, pole vault and discus) will start at 11:30 a.m. for all contestants who have entered any of the field events.

Running events are scheduled to start at 12:30 p.m.

SPIKED SHOES may be used for running events only and SHOES ARE NOT TO EXCEED ¼ INCH. The Ohio State track is now an all weather track and only ¼ inch spikes or shorter may be used.

Throughout the meet five Junior Olympic Queens will present first, second and third place medals and certificates to the first three place winners in each event and ribbons to fourth and fifth place winners. All contestants will receive certificates of participation.

At 11:30 a.m. the Junior Olympic Queens and a relay team of boys carrying the Junior Olympic Torch will proceed up N. High-st to the stadium. The lighting of the Olympic Torch will signify the beginning of the "Junior Olympic Games."

N. J. BARACK, recreation superintendent, will give the Olympic Oath to all contestants at the stadium. Boys and girls 17 years of age and under living in the Central Ohio area may enter this meet if they submitted an official entry blank by Aug. 5.

Title Races Are Reset For Sunday

The late-models and sportsman got in three events of the Mid-Season Championship program Sunday night at the Columbus Motor Speedway before the rains washed-out the balance of the races.

The entire program has been rescheduled for Sunday night, Aug. 9, including the 35-lap late-model and the 25-lap sportsman championship features, with $1500 in guaranteed prize money.

LAST FRIDAY night, many of the super-modified drivers refused to run in the split-program along with the sportsman drivers so speedway officials ran a few events for the fans "free" and have discontinued Friday night racing until further notice. The late-model and sportsman programs on Sunday, will continue.

This Sunday, there will be $100 in cash in the speedway's free game of "Total" jackpot for the fan or fans able to correctly pick the first five finishers, in order, in the sportsman championship feature.

Sunday's time trials start at 7 o'clock and the first race will get moving at 8:00.

Jets Closing Seventh Stand

The Columbus Jets head into the final four days of their seventh 1964 homestand Thursday evening at the W. Mound-st ballyard as Buffalo winds up a four-game stand with an 8 p.m. Ladies' Night contest.

Ladies will be admitted to the upper grandstand for 50c Thursday night and 50,000 Buckeye Premium stamps will be given away at the game.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S series-opener with Toronto will be highlighted by the Guy Elbin Engineers Night with all employees and their families in attendance.

The Jets will host the Maple Leafs in a single game (8 p.m.) on Saturday and wind up their seventh stand with a Capitol Mfg. Co. Day Sunday afternoon when Toronto and the Jets battle in a 1:30 twinbill.

Wednesday, Aug. 19, will be set aside as "Johnny Powers Night" when the Central Ohio Home Platers Club will fete the popular Jet before the Syracuse-Columbus contest at 8 p.m.

Swim Club Will Choose New Queen

Final judging for the Miss Gahanna Swim Club queen title, will be held Saturday, Aug. 1. She will be selected from a field of 10 girls chosen the night before at the Queen's Banquet at the Jai Lai Restaurant.

Judges for the contest will be Miss Noni, Noni Modeling School; Mrs. Mary Seleck, Hartley Newspapers, and Paul DiSabato, Revlon representative at Lazarus.

The beauty event starts at 8:30 p.m. at the Gahanna Swim Club. Admission will be $1.25 a couple, 50 cents for children 12 or under, and 75 cents for persons 13 and above who come stag.

'Aqualodges' Latest Recreation Concept

Ever hear of an "aqualodge"? Very few Ohioans have — it's the just coined catch-phrase for a new floating housing unit which the Ohio Department of Natural Resources calls "a new concept in outdoor recreation."

One of the sleek "aqualodges" is currently undergoing tests at Rocky Fork Lake down in Highland County. From where we sit it looks like this floating motel unit could be a real answer to the growing lack of suitable facilities at many of the lakes across the Buckeye State.

McCreary

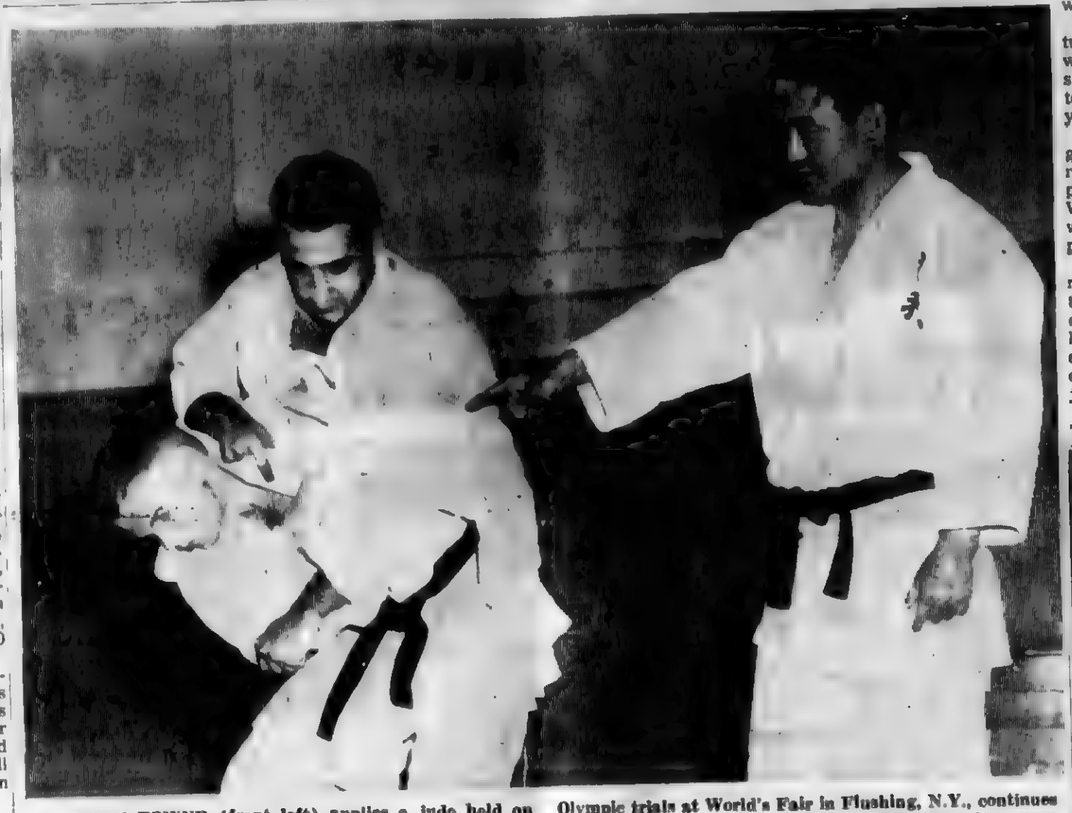
AND LET'S FACE it, with Ohio's booming population now pegged at over 10.4 million, the pressing need for living quarters in our outdoor recreation areas is nearing the critical stage.

These "boat-els," built by the Williamsburg Manufacturing Company in the Ohio city of the same name, are described by one natural resources official as comparable to a better class motel unit.

Among the notable features of this 10 foot by 30 foot floating accommodation: Formica walls, complete kitchen, full electric power, including TV set connections, bathroom and shower facilities and much more.

OFFICIALS SAY that such units, if they live up to expectations, might be placed on several state lakes in the future. It's believed that the initial cost of $7,500 could be recovered over a relatively short period of time.

It's not yet definite whether the state would operate the facilities or place them on a concession basis. Right now it's estimated that the units would rent for about $15 a day, in the same price range as a first class family motel room.



Obvious advantages of the floating motel room include its availability to the lake and water sports (your boat can be tied up at your doorstep); it could be moved to various choice locations on the lake; and, hunters as well as anglers and boaters could find the aqualodge very convenient. Plans call for use nine months of the year.

THERE ARE MANY problems yet to be solved before these boat-els become a full-scale reality on Ohio's lakes, but the outlook is promising. One of the toughest problems, sewage disposal, is being tested today, with the installation of a floating treatment plant, which can service up to 20 families, on the test unit.

Perhaps we can look forward to seeing whole colonies of aqualodges scattered across the state for the use of our millions of outdoor-minded citizens! and perhaps it will indeed be a new concept in outdoor recreation.

CONTINUE TRAINING

Airmen Soga, Tower Add To Judo Success

One would imagine that an All-Air Force judo championship and participation in the pre-Olympic trials would be enough to satisfy any judo competitor.

Then too, a coach who piloted judo squads to Eighth Air Force, Strategic Air Command and All-Air Force judo championships should be satisfied, or so it would seem.

BUT THIS is not the case with Lockbourne's judoist Dean Tower and veteran coach Wally Soga, both members of Hq., 801 Combat Support Group.

The pair are working out daily — for the Lockbourne third annual invitational judo tournament slated for mid-September and the Florida Invitational, the date for which is yet to be determined.

Tower has hopes of capturing another 135-open title while the versatile Soga visions a few more team crowns to cap a highly successful year.

THE 135-POUND first degree black belt holder Tower returned last month from the pre-Olympic trials held at the World's Fair, Flushing, N. Y., where he turned in a standout performance.

He won two and lost two matches during the competition. This was a notable record considering that Tower has only three years experience in the judo sport and competed against the best judoist in the country.

In the first Olympic match, Tower beat Warren Minami of the Washington D. C., Judo Club on a shoulder throw. He decisioned Lee Parr, San Jose College, Calif., in his second match.

TOWER DROPPED a decision to Gene Fields and was later eliminated by Paul Murayama, who won the 150-pound championship, on a throw.

With numerous past judo awards and honors decorating their "mantel" Tower and Soga have no intention of resting on their laurels.

"Sure like to win a few more championships this year," the pair chimed in unison.

No doubt they will!

Bearcat Football Loop Forming

The schedule for the Ohio Bearcat Football Association is now being formed. Any teams interested in joining the circuit should contact Ed Walker at 451-0891 or Harry Maple at 491-7193.

The Ohio Bearcat League consists of boys between the ages of 11 and 14 who weigh 125 pounds and under.

WINS PROMOTION

IN SPITE of the sulky weather, some Spectatorland fishermen are making commendable catches. This satisfied Hoover angler is Harold C. Rowe of 7661 Daigler-dr, Reynoldsburg. The three walleyes, the largest 3 pounds, were taken in a 90-minute period trolling a night-crawler. On the same day, former OSU cage star Larry Siegfried landed a lunker 6¼ pound walleye from Hoover Reservoir. (Staff Photo by Ken Mack McCreery.)

Area Archers District Aces

Nine southeast archers traveled to the Buckeye Archery Range at Zanesville Sunday afternoon to compete in the District 5 Championship Shoot.

Twenty-eight field, 14 spot and 14 animal targets were shot at Sunday's meet. Four southeast archers placed at the meet.

MARK DAUBITZ placed first in the Cub Boys' Class with a 252 field, 349 spot and animal mark-up for a winning 601 composite. Mark's mother, Pat Daubitz, won the Women's 250 Free Style Class with a 354-345—699 total.

Rita Pennington copped the Intermediate Girls' crown by rolling up a 139-75—214 ledger and Ralph Fuchs notched a third in the Men's 350 Free Style Division with an 878 total 42-456) to round out the southeast scoring.

IN TRAINING

William D. Sowers, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sowers of 92 Beechford-rd, has reported to recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

HARTLEY SPORTS EDITOR

Will '64 See Spahn's, Milwaukee's Finales?

MILWAUKEE—Ten years of major league baseball have made a big dent in this Wisconsin metropolis but the dent may soon be fatal.

When the Braves made the switch from beantown to suds city, they were greeted as conquering heroes and given an open-convertible welcome that came close to equaling a Wall-st ticker tape job.

ATTENDANCE swelled over the million mark right from the outset and when the Braves rewarded their fandom with back-to-back NL flags in '57 and '58, Milwaukee began to herald itself as the new baseball capital of the world.

But the Braves missed out on a third pennant in '59, dropping a playoff series to the Dodgers when Felix Mantilla threw a strike to a fan seated behind first base with the winning run on third.

Since that time, the Braves have been dealt a losing hand. The turnstile has grown rusty and now reports that the club might seek employment elsewhere seem far beyond the rumor stage.

ONE OF THE few bright spots along Milwaukee's path to mediocrity since 1959 has been a phenominal lefthander named Warren Spahn.

Even while his teammates were up-again, down-again, Spahnie was amassing a splendid 83-44 mark, something quite creditable for a pitcher who will celebrate his 43rd birthday this month.

But in keeping with the time-tried feeling that things always get worse before better, Brave skipper Bobby Bragan announced last week that Spahn's days as a starter are all over (at least for the present.)

SPAHN WILL specialize in bullpen duty, making way for Milwaukee's corps of promising but often erratic young hurlers.

The reason for Spahn's demotion is simple enough — 156 hits in 138 innings, a 6-13 record and a 5.02 ERA.

Cold mathematics, true but Bragan's job is to see ball games won and Spahnie is losing twice as many as he's winning.

SPAHN HOLDS six major league records, (six more NL marks) including the coveted "most games won, lifetime by a left hander (356)."

Of course, it wouldn't be accurate to write Spahn off as finished as a big winner. Warren dipped to 14-19 in 1952 but has won 20 or more games since with the exception of '55 (17-14) and '62 (18-14).

What tones down the optimism, however, is Spahn's age and his remark before the season that he felt better than ever before, pitching arm-wise.

YOU JUST never figure guys like Spahn moving to the bullpen. You just figure, like Musial and Williams, that he'll just keep going on forever.

But 42 is still 42 and baseball's still and always will be a young man's game.

What is sad is the decline and fall. We would always like to think of Spahnie closing with another 20-game season or at least with a winning mark.

MUSIAL HUNG on one season too long and we suffered right along with Early Wynn each time he went out after number 300.

But each of the greats always thinks positively, knowing that no matter the odds, he's still got one more shutout or game-winning hit left in the arm or bat.

And that, in the final reckoning, is what makes them and the game they play truly great.

FARM FORECAST

With CLAY EAGER

With 90 percent of the wheat crop harvested and the corn, soy beans, and other crops nearing harvest, I would like to devote the column this week to some important dates and events coming up in Ohio agriculture.

The Ohio Potato Field Day will be observed at Fall's Potato Farm, Beach City, on Aug. 11. For complete information contact E. C. Wittmeyer at OSU. Statistics on potato production in Ohio are amazing and will be included in a feature column on "Mr. Truck Farmer," soon.

Graded feeder pig sales are cropping up throughout Ohio. Producers Livestock at Lancaster announces a sale Aug 14, 8 p.m. Contact Leland Dupler, Rt. 4, Lancaster.

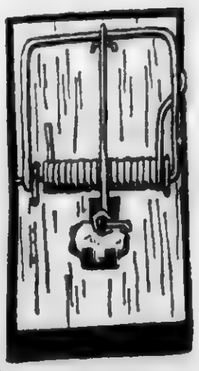
The total head of livestock, harness racing nominations, auto race entries, antique quilts, fashion items, preserves, arts and crafts and many other areas of classified interests are expected to contribute considerably in making the 1964 Ohio State Fair . . . "bigger, better, and brighter than ever." The fair has already set many participation records a month prior to official opening.

The Ohio 4-H Club Congress is set for Sept. 12-16 at OSU. For information contact Albert F. Gehres, OSU.

Cattle ranches in South Dakota will be the goal of two busloads of Ohio cattlemen as they leave Ohio Aug. 8. The tour is sponsored by the Ohio Cattle Feeders Association, with the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service cooperating. The tour will include both cow and calf and yearling steer operations.

As a staunch supporter of tree conservation, and a fanatic for preserving what remains of our great American heritage in natural landmarks, I caught a UPI wire release that saddened this farm reporter.

The famed Endicott Pear Tree, believed to be the oldest planted fruit tree in America, and a very choice object of affection for Danvers, Mass., residents, was practically destroyed recently by careless persons!



Vandals swooped down on the tree a few days ago, hacking off its branches, and cut the trunk six feet from the ground. Tree surgeons now must try to re-graft several portions of the tree, but fear the fragile old tree is too far beyond repair.

The tree was brought from England aboard the ship Arbella. It was planted in 1631 by Gov. William Endicott of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. Slips from the tree have been shipped throughout the world, on request.

The Department of Agriculture, in its 1925 yearbook documented the history of the tree.

See Clay Eager's FARM FORECAST on TV 4, weekday mornings, 6:30 to 7 a.m.

In 1963 the average U.S cow produced 7,545 pounds of milk. In 1900 the typical production was only 3,600 pounds

Three Movies Set For Area City Parks

The following movies are scheduled to be shown Wednesday, Aug. 5, at Blacklick Woods and Thursday, Aug. 6, at Blendon Woods Metropolitan Parks.

"Underwater Reflections" brings to the screen the typical habits and activities of such widely diverse water creatures as turtles, northern pike, crayfish, clams, paddle fish, sturgeon, long nosed gar fish, large mouth bass, fairy shrimp and the stickleback.

"Rogue River Country" shows recreational facilities and natural resources of the Rogue River Valley in southwestern Oregon. Plant and animal life, historic mining areas, white-water rapids, salmon and steelhead runs are included.

"Gooney Birds" features the incredible Gooney and was filmed on Midway Island.

The movies begin at dusk. In event of unfavorable weather conditions the Blendon Woods showings are canceled and the Blacklick Woods program is presented indoors at Beech-Maple Lodge.

Death Reported

Word has been received here that Charles C. Cressinger has died at the home of Herbert Orsborn of Mt. Gilead.

A native of Columbus, he was born in Hagerstown, Md.

Interment was at Mt. Gilead.

MD Victims Need Helpers For Camping

Victims of muscular dystrophy, a disease which gradually weakens the muscles until the patient becomes confined to a wheelchair and eventually bedfast, will experience a week of summer camping from Aug. 23 to 28, it was announced by Tom Moody, president of the Franklin County Chapter, Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc.

High school or college students wishing to volunteer for a week of service as a companion are asked to contact the chapter office at 4290 Indianola-av., 267-6391.

The camp selected is Camp Tippecanoe on Lake Clendening in Harrison County. The camp is operated by the Canton District YMCA and has adaptable facilities and an experienced staff.

Each camper will have a volunteer companion. The companion program will be arranged so the companion will be able to participate in camp activities.

Officers Named

They are: Lionel Nowell, Jr., president; Joseph Sabados, vice-president; Walter Lepear, secretary; Ellison Ford, treasurer, and Ralph W. Sanborn, general counsel.

Senior Citizens Center

Two hundred thirty seven members of Columbus Recreation Department Golden Age Club and Senior Citizen's Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st, joined in activities planned for the first annual Senior Citizen's Day at Coney Island Amusement Park, Cincinnati, Thursday, July 30.

The group, including six recreation leaders, left the center at 9 a.m. in chartered buses and arrived at Coney Island in time for a picnic lunch at noon.

After lunch, singing was accompanied by Ronnie Dale at the organ. "Bingo," an old-time vaudeville show and dance, completed the formal program.

The 3,000 or more senior citizens present received a discount on all rides. Supper was enjoyed by the participants before boarding buses at 7:30 p.m. for the return trip.

The color green signifies hope of eternal life in religious symbolism, because it is the color of plants and trees.

AT CONVENTION

Mrs. Mildred Smith, owner and manager of Christian Book and Gift Store, 179 S. High-st, is attending the board of directors meeting and convention of the National Christian Book Sellers Association in Chicago, July 30 through Aug. 9.

The first intercollegiate rowing race was held between Harvard and Yale in 1853 on a two-mile course at Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H.

There's Room For Both . . .

We have endorsed the plan of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for construction of the proposed Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects. But this should in no way be construed as a vote of no confidence in the Scioto Conservancy District.

There is much more to the total plan of the SCD than the Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects. For one thing, the SCD proposes a third dam site — Bellepoint — which has been ruled out as a near-future project by the Corps of Engineers. The conservancy official plan also calls for flood gates at Hoover Dam. This is another project in which the Army has no interest.

Relatively little has been said about the proposed $18 million Bellepoint project. Although it is listed as a "stage two" job — to be started several years from now — the SCD appraisal record seeks approval of the project now. We think more should be known in the way of justification of this particular project before it is approved as part of the appraisal record.

There are other intended and possible projects tailored more to solution by a local agency than by Washington-based action. The fact remains that there is room in area needs and planning for both agencies. As we have said repeatedly, the best interest of the most people must be the determining factor in deciding which agency should do what.

The SCD proposal suffers from its tie-in with additional local taxation in the form of assessments against property owners, political sub-divisions and public and private corporations. Taxation is unpopular — whatever the level of government doing the assessing. But when the need for taxation is apparent, when all important factors are equal, we prefer taxation at the local level.

All things are not "equal," as we see it, with the SCD and the Army plans for Alum Creek and Mill Creek projects. We chose the Army plan — contingent on its availability — because it offers a more practical and less costly solution to serious, immediate problems.

But in all fairness to the SCD, we must keep in sight these two facts: (1.) The SCD, in a short span of three years, has shown more progress in formulating an "official plan" than had been accomplished in the preceeding 48 years since the 1913 flood, and (2.) More than half of the "official plan" deals in areas in which the Army Corps of Engineers has no apparent interest.

And it is this second point that is important to our total welfare. Let's not forget that there is depth to the total picture. In our attempt to give sharper focus to a couple of "foreground" subjects, let's not obscure the "background."

We think there is sufficient need to keep both the Army Corps of Engineers and the Scioto Conservancy District active in this area.

Vacation Precautions Pay Dividends

This summer's vacation will be taken with more peace of mind and less chance of trouble back home by following several suggestions from the Columbus Automobile Club. We repeat them again this year:

Discourage prowlers by giving the home a "lived-in" appearance. Lock all windows and doors. Arrange to have the lawn mowed, if necessary. Keep drapes and blinds at normal levels. Consider a timer to control lights at night.

Notify police and neighbors. Give a neighbor a key for use in emergencies. Tell only those you trust of your plans. Homes often are burglarized after the thief learns the occupants are certain to be away.

Notify the newsboy, milkman and others who deliver regularly.

Arrange to have the mail taken out of the mailbox or held at the post office. On extra-long vacations, you may want mail forwarded.

Turn off or lower appliances and utilities. If in doubt, check with the utility company on what to do.

Provide for the care of pets, house and garden plants.

Leaving home for a long period and not feeling secure that everything has been properly cared for can spoil an entire trip.

4-H Work--Blueprint For Useful Lives

Cynics most always scoff as what they don't understand.

And a cynic of 4-H clubs said he resented "paying taxes for baby sitting."

Maybe the concrete lends itself to a consideration of conservation, but the outdoors does it better.

Maybe the corner drugstore produces its share of useful and productive citizens, but the care of livestock does it better.

Maybe the poolroom and bar teach self-reliance, but an every day wrestling with nature does it better.

Maybe the hot rod teaches control, but the keeping of project records does it better.

Maybe a confrontation of oneself is accomplished in the back seat of a car, but the selecting of a vocation does it better.

In an era when governments are trying desperately to repair broken lives of shattered youths — when "keep 'em off the streets" is almost a national motto — such "baby sitting" should be encouraged, not scorned.

To see the results of 4-H, one has only to go to a fair. The thought that these kids are being coddled melts with the evidence of their sweat.

And the summer camps are not models of play time — they're schools with the outdoors as a classroom.

Major projects of these energetic young people include clothing and nutrition for girls, engineering, livestock, conservation and gardening for the boys. Projects of growing interest include personal accounts, auto care and safety, wood working, first aid, market pigs, entomology, flower gardening, steer feeding and saddle horses, as well as photography, home furnishings, child care and poultry.

Four-H boys and girls are required to keep accurate records. Their projects books, which carefully outline the work to be done, are prepared by specialists of the Cooperative Extension Service at The Ohio State University.

In 1963, 4-H club enrollment zoomed to a record 92,400 Ohio boys and girls.

The ratio of girls to boys in 4-H was about two-to-one.

But the most significant statistic concerned the breakdown of the total membership: farm youths made up 44.1 percent; rural non-farm youths including those in villages and towns, 38.2 percent; and urban youths, 17.7 percent. Over HALF the youth in 4-H are within towns and cities. More than likely, these are the inhabitants of towns and cities of the future . . . our future. Four-H is updating its program to meet the needs of this make-up.

In a society dedicated to combat delinquency and to remold the wayward youth, we feel there is still justification for modest expenditure for help.

Guest Pulpit . .

"Do Whatever He Tells You" — John 2:5.

Can you perform a miracle?

Turn the switch in your car, tune in on TV or radio, partake of food, take a breath of air, walk, read, and you help to perform countless daily miracles. Miracles happen in test tubes, in research laboratories, also in the minds and hearts of people. By cooperating with the laws of nature and of God, new powers are released, and ends attained that no person could claim were within his own power to accomplish alone.

Rev. Tuttle

When our Lord performed miracles, His power and the obedience of the individual accomplished the otherwise impossible.

For example, when 10 lepers cried, "Lord, have mercy upon us," Jesus said, "Go and show yourselves to the priests." As they went, they were cleansed. Their obedience accomplished the miracle, opened the door to health.

A blind man came to Jesus pleading for sight. Jesus put clay on his sightless eyes, saying "Go, wash in the pool of Siloam." Obedience opened his eyes. An adultress was brought to the Savior. He said, "Sin no more." If she obeyed, we know that her obedience completed the miracle of forgiveness and a new life of purity and purpose.

Jesus was never discomfited when faced with any problem or need. He arrived at a wedding, where guests were waiting, and the host was embarrassed because the supply of wine was depleted. But the elements of a miracle were present: the empty, earthen pots to hold the wine, God in the presence of His Son, and the obedience in the hearts of the servants. Jesus spoke the word, it was obeyed, a miracle followed.

Can you perform a miracle then? Faced with the emptiness of human life, with the frustrations and purposelessness of the frantic pursuits of life, with the emptiness of the heart without the Presence of God?

Listen for the bidding of the Man of Galilee, the makings of a miracle are within your grasp. "Do whatever He tells you!"—Lloyd W. Tuttle, pastor, St. Mark's E.U.B. Church.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

One Man's Marvelous Twist Of Wire Changed America

Around De Kalb, Ill., this month the famous hybrid corn is growing straight and tall behind the barbed wire fences, and preparations are going forward for the annual county fair. Maybe no one will remember that this is the 90th anniversary of an idea set in motion by the DeKalb County Fair that changed the face of America and, indeed, shook much of the world as well.

Jones

It seems there was this farmer, Henry Rose, who got the idea of pounding some sharp spikes into his rail fence. The obstreperous prairie cattle, which had been wont to knock down rail fences for the exercise, made a couple of experimental lunges at the spiked rails and retired punctured and disconsolate. The more Henry Rose thought about his invention the prouder he got.

So when the DeKalb County Fair came along in August of 1874 Rose brought in some samples and set them up for other farmers to admire.

Now, there was this other farmer, Joseph Glidden, who came to the fair, looked at Rose's fence rails, followed his wife over to the crazy quilt exhibit, came back and looked at the fence rails, went over to see the new McCormick reapers, and came back and stared at the fence rails some more. And Glidden couldn't get it out of his head that here was a good idea, badly executed.

So after he went home he got some fence wire and cut it up in three-inch lengths on the bias so the ends were sharp. Then he borrowed his wife's coffee mill and twisted the bits of wire around a long strand. Then he rigged another long wire to his grindstone and wove the two strands together. And, brother, barbed wire hasn't changed by more than an eyelash in 90 years!

Now it would be romantic to tell how Joe Glidden vainly sought recognition, like poor old John Fitch who died in drunken desperation because everyone laughed at his steamboat, or Sam Colt who went broke making revolvers because only a handful of Texas Rangers appreciated them.

But it wasn't like that, at all. On Nov. 24, 1874, Glidden obtained Patent No. 157,124, set up a factory, and found a 25-year-old salesman, John W. Gates, later called "Bet-a-Million" Gates.

Gates headed for Texas, put up a barbed wire corral in the square at San Antonio, and challenged any buckaroo to drive a herd of wild longhorns through it. The whole town turned out and by nightfall there were some mighty sore longhorns, some mighty respectful cowboys, and Gates' satchel was packed with orders.

The first year Glidden sold 10,000 pounds of wire. The next year he sold 100,000 pounds, the fourth year 13 million, and the seventh year 120 million.

Now you might say that Joseph Glidden cut short the romance of the West. For about the time he invented barbed wire the great cattle treks from Texas to the Kansas railheads were reaching their peak. The huge, stupid herds bawled their way up the Chisholm Trail across the dangerous Kiowa and Comanche country, and $15-a-month cowboys suffered the dust and risked the stampedes in happy anticipation of the fleshpots of Wichita, Abilene and Dodge City. But Glidden changed all that.

Before barbed wire the homesteader had no way of turning the cattle drives. There weren't any stones for walls on the bare prairie nor enough trees even along the bottoms for fence rails. The herds thundered across his new wheat and the cowboys jeered and shot their guns in derision.

But barbed wire could stop a herd. Here, at a price even a poor man could pay, a homesteader could claim his own with a barrier "horse-high and hog-tight." The range wars flickered like summer lightning. The cattle barons sent the boys ahead with wire cutters until the state legislatures made wire cutting a crime equivalent to brand raising or horse theft. Fifteen years after Glidden's invention the cattle drives were memories and the farmer ruled the West.

But then the cowman made a discovery. The wire he had assumed was an enemy could make his fortune. It could separate his herds. Now it became feasible to import the Angus and the [illegible]ford stock, animals built like a box, full of meat that ate no more than the gristle-and-bone long[illegible]. For the fences kept out the wild blood that would have spoiled the pedigrees.

So the farms prospered and the ranches prospered and barbed wire moved across the world, even to the estancias of Argentina and the sheep ranches of New Zealand.

Karl Marx missed the lesson of barbed wire. Karl Marx thought that, if you abolished private property, greed would vanish and all would work harder for the common profit. And today Russia, once one of the world's great wheat exporters, is buying wheat.

But Glidden's wire enabled the humble man with the sickle to say: "This is mine. Regardless of your power you must go around. You shall not seize or trample down the fruit of my labor. This is mine and I will do with it the best I can."

And Americans eat wonderfully.

There are so many bureaucrats any more, in every unit of government that if this madness keeps up the time will come when any mere private citizen will have to get permission from some tin badge parasite on the public payroll just to sneeze.

These very unimportant "important" people are so swelled up with a little teensy-weensy authority that God help any free-minded citizen.

It may be possible for bureaucrats to browbeat some adult-infants into submission, but thank God it is impossible to "automate" the genuine human spirit of liberated souls — those who know the right answers that common decency calls for. They're not going to hold still forever under the blight of a constantly increasing central government.

Here's the Answer

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

THE FOURTH YEAR

Well, here we go, off to the political wars. Once again the leaders are being chosen and the troops organized for our national quadrennial battle of the ballot box.

At the end of every four years, by peaceful instead of bloody means, we choose the chiefs to lead the Indians for the next four. Nationally the ones chosen are the President, his first lieutenant and possible successor, all of the House of Representatives, and one-third of the Senate. The process is repeated for the members of the Congress each biennium.

Also, within the states every two years, we choose some of our governors and lesser officials for terms of various lengths.

This is being written between the two great party conventions. The Republicans have chosen B and B, Barry and Bill to bear their banner. The Democrats, of course, will have to nominate LBJ or in effect repudiate their own K-J administration, in power since 1961. The only uncertainty seems to be the identity of the President's running mate.

Optimistic Republicans will woo disenchanted Democrats. Hopeful Democrats will court disillusioned Republicans.

There will be much "pointing with pride" and "viewing with alarm". As always before, the incumbents will bid for a continuance of their trusteeships on the basis of jobs well done. And wonderers in the cruel political wilderness will ask for a chance to do the same job better.

It says here . . . .

Have you registered to vote? It's important.

See Churches Failing Duty

To The Editor:

An interfaith television panel agreed that modern, elaborate church edifices are necessary to glorify God and attract people.

Scripturally, we glorify our Maker not in cold, inanimate and ornate structures of marble and stone but in warm animated service to all mankind created in His image. We worship Him by faith and consequent Christian action, not just lip service.

Would it not be more in our great Exemplar's image to dedicate our material resources to helping the needy and downtrodden for whom Christ devoted His earthly ministry instead of competing for the most expensive churches with their ministers vieing for the highest salaries?

Some churches deny the equality of men in defiance of the Bible, our Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Do we need further explanation for the crime, disrespect for law, mob violence and immorality now rampant?

Until churches reflect Christianity in action instead of the status symbols of materialism and social prestige they will continue to repulse rather than attract a world hungry for recognition, love and acceptance for all people in the brotherhood of man and the Fatherhood of God. Some churches worship their denominations more than their God.

The universally praised and heaven-blessed Salvation Army fulfills the Lord's will. Without ostentation it lifts the fallen and forgotten souls for whom many church congregations will not tarnish their manicured hands.

Teens Can Enjoy Politics

To the Editor:

The most exciting and important time is on us. TV, radio and newspapers are pouring out information to the people on the status of American politics. Yes, this is the year we choose the United States' President for the next four years.

But what does this mean to the teenager? What can he do to help make this awesome decision? As a teenager, not yet entitled to vote, he is still able to come to the aid of his chosen side.

Instead of eating tons of hamburgers and drinking gallons of milkshakes, he can be actively working for his candidate. The passing of handbills, the ringing of doorbells, and, of course, the licking of envelopes are most important to the election of a public official.

This the teenager can do, giving himself an active voice in the future of this great country.

Jack Smith

STRICTLY FRESH

The question is are we contributing to the solution or only to the problem?

A close look at the backward nations of the world reveals that the children still obey their parents.

A man who gives honest compliments is a man who can get along anywhere.

If some persons get so tired at work, why is it they still have energy to run for the elevator?

A good night's sleep has a way of bringing unsolved problems back into correct proportions.

Eat Your Troubles Away!

Put The Brakes On Premature Old Age!

By LELORD KORDEL

Perfect health depends upon a balance of the trinity making one's body — physical, mental, emotional.

You cannot run a healthy mind when you have a physical deficit. The mind governs the body, it is true. But the condition of the body also affects the mind. You have to balance and coordinate the books, so to speak.

Kordel

You must recognize that harmful thought patterns — fear, hatred, anxiety, oversensitivity — originate in brain-cell starvation and bodily fatigue.

If you wives think that food doesn't influence your husband's frame of mind, try showing him that new dress before dinner.

Often, by relieving some of the physical tensions caused by hidden hunger, you can soften the inner climate in which you must do your thinking.

Touchy Stomachs

Stomachs constantly harassed with inferior, inadequate, and indigestible meals become touchy. So does a brain that is constantly undernourished.

The brain in a tired, undernourished, and ill-cared-for body is most assuredly going to be the brain with the greatest amount of irritability.

To test their mental reactions, a group of women were put on thiamine-deficient diets. Within a few weeks, two of the women became so depressed that they had to be restrained from committing suicide.

However, shortly after adequate amounts of thiamine were restored to their diet, their mental condition returned to normal.

Top Physical Condition

An abused, undernourished, harassed body generally houses a mind incapable of optimum thinking and reasonable power.

Dr. George Morris Piersol believes that nutrition plays a more important part than heredity, in the development of more vigorous body resistance and an extension of the span of years.

This physician says that if Americans would only apply the nutritional knowledge that is available to them, they could increase their average life span by at least 10 percent.

He believes it is equally important to add life to the years as it is to add years to life.

Dr. Henry C. Sherman of Columbia University believes that certain food elements are so important to the aging body that they can add six or more years of active life to the prime years of human existence.

Many people start to break down chemically in middle life — later becoming nutritional cripples.

These cases have been undernourished for years because their diet lacked the proper chemical nutrients of proteins, vitamins and minerals.

Dr. W. Coda Martin of New York City says the incidence of degenerative diseases is increasing by leaps and bounds.

He believes that the findings of biochemists show that a large share of cases of cancer, arteriosclerosis, liver disease, arthritis and heart disease are the end result of prolonged malnutrition and can be averted by early adoption of an adequate diet.

Dr. E. J. Steiglitz says, "The elderly are prone to suffer from protein deficiency more than from any other form of deficiency."

Mild protein deficiency manifests itself chiefly as a "sense of habitual fatigue."

Enviable Health Position

If you are the average person, the chances are that you eat about 75 percent more devitalized starch and sugar foods than are compatible with your good health.

Your body cells need protein, vitamins and minerals to prevent "internal chemical starvation," which has been identified by scientists as the early stage in the complicated process of aging.

Premature old age is not a natural process, but the result of years and years of cumulative nutritional deficiencies.

Aging is a general trend of the changes of the body in both structure and function.

Balance this wear and tear with foods rich in proteins, vitamins and minerals. Cut down on those fats, sugars and starches.

And you can slow down the premature aging of your body and live a lot longer than you think!

Next week: Conclusion of Lelord Kordel's "Eat Your Troubles Away" series which has been condensed from his book by the same name.

Letters I Never Seem To Receive

BY ADELINE DALEY

Dear Sir:

Just heard that you plan to spend your vacation with us. Terrific! Looking forward to a wonderful three weeks with all those fun-loving kids of yours.

— Your brother, David

Dear Alumnus:

Your alma mater has never been more solvent. Thanks to generous donations from our alumni we have more than enough money to build the new English department wing, gymnasium and library.

— The Fund Raising Committee

Dear Customer:

Enclosed please find our bill for $1.65 for five gallons of gasoline added to your tank after we repaired your engine Feb. 2, 1964. Since your guarantee was good until Feb. 3, 1964, you will not be billed for the labor and parts which would have totaled $87.32.

— Mafia Motors

Dear 1211 0 1455:

In re-examining our records we discovered that we did not credit you with a deposit of $200 you made in October, 1952. Thus, we erred in returning six of your checks this month, for which we would like to apologize. We will add the $200, plus accrued interest for 12 years, to your balance, deduct the over-draft charges and send six letters of apology to your creditors.

— First National Bank

Dear Parent:

I'm writing you this note in the hopes that you will be able to persuade your child to do less homework and spend more time on outside activities. She is already too far ahead of the rest of the class. I would appreciate it, too, if you could encourage her to make more friends among her classmates. Maybe she could pass a few notes to get acquainted.

— Miss Maxwell
Homeroom Teacher

Dear Patient:

Just looked at the X-rays of your children's teeth and may I congratulate you by saying, "Look Mom, no cavities."

— Dr. Sharp, D.D.S.

"We would like any shopping advice for good buys in Europe. . ."

These are getting harder to find. On a lot of imports, the prices are just about as good here at home. And since Europe exports the best, we often get better quality. For example, cashmere sweaters now are only a dollar or so less in England than here.

Still good buys are: Swiss watches in Switzerland; French perfume in France; Italian shoes and gloves in Italy. Generally, Japanese cameras, binoculars and radios are better buys in the U.S. than the German makes bought in Germany.

You can sometimes reduce prices further in France and Italy by using traveler's checks and even asking for a discount.

Can't you put it off until winter vacation? Take one of those 17-day excursion trips to the ski resorts. For $1,000 you live like a queen. And that's where the boys are.

* * *

"We intend to drive through the Far West in August. (Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada.) We wonder if we will have trouble getting motel rooms."

This is a big year for travel in the West. I'd insure myself for motel rooms by stopping and finding one by 4 in the afternoon. Most travelers can't resist driving the extra few hours of daylight and you get the jump on them.

Bearded Kissers

BUENOS AIRES — The aristocrats of this largest Latin city in the world have come around to agreeing that the gentlemen of their class have lost two great traditions. They're blaming Fidel Castro for the loss of one — aristocratic beards — but the loss of the other — hand-kissing — has them puzzled.

The Latin man in years gone was proud of the hair on his chin. The care and trimming it received he regarded as one of his most important daily rituals.

With the advent of Castro, this mark of aristocracy fell into disrepute. Not only in Buenos Aires, but throughout Latin America the beard has grown into a symbol for Fidelismo. This is so much the case that even the South American beatniks hesitate to grow shrubbery because anyone with a beard is subject to suspicious glances.

* * *

A second tradition that has all but disappeared not only from Buenos Aires but the rest of Latin America is the gentlemanly gesture toward a lady — kissing her hand.

After centuries of practice, hand kissing has died on the vine and the real burial took place some time in the past decade. Theories explaining the death are many, but all are pure conjecture.

* * *

There's one school of thought that believes handkissing has gone by the boards because of the desire of new generations to Americanize themselves.

A second line of thought on the disappearance is that it was a perfectly natural evolution in a society that is becoming less traditional and formal with each passing generation.

Those who come from the old-line aristocratic families are more indignant in their attitude. They hold that the ever-growing wave of the middle class is the source of the murder of hand-kissing. They charge murder because they say the new wave did it so crudely.

The kissing of a lady's hand by a gentleman is regarded by this group as a true work of art that is achieved only after years and years of experience. And now that it is practiced by almost no one, the people who know how to do it are losing their knack through lack of practice and the new whipper-snappers, even if they wanted to become accomplished, have no one to show them the way.

Did Oswald Alone Murder Kennedy?

BY ROYCE BRIER

In the case of Lincoln, there was not the slightest doubt the man shot and killed by soldiers as he ran from a burning barn was John Wilkes Booth, the assassin.

But War Secretary Stanton, a violent and suspicious man, thought there was a huge conspiracy involving Confederate leaders, and so cloaked identification of Booth's body in mystery. There was in fact a conspiracy, but it involved nobodies and was bungled.

Stanton's cryptic behavior and the dementia of the time, resulted in widespread stories Booth had escaped, and for decades he was "seen" in the Western wilderness or abroad.

Brier

On a recent trip to Europe, this writer was often asked if there was not a cover-up in the assassination of President Kennedy, if Lee Harvey Oswald was not innocent or, at least, the hatchetman for a large conspiracy. Ruby's intervention of course, enhanced this legend.

Moreover, Oswald often grimaced on the cover of many sensational European magazines, which were full of the legend, weaved and twisted in a hundred "unexplained" circumstances.

But the recent statement in Poland by Attorney General Kennedy that Oswald, a "misfit," was the lone assassin, may go far to deflate the legend, especially as all Europeans will read it.

Robert Kennedy is an objective witness, in that if there was anything to the Big Conspiracy theory, he would be pitching for more investigation. Further, he has access to much of the testimony given to the Warren Commission.

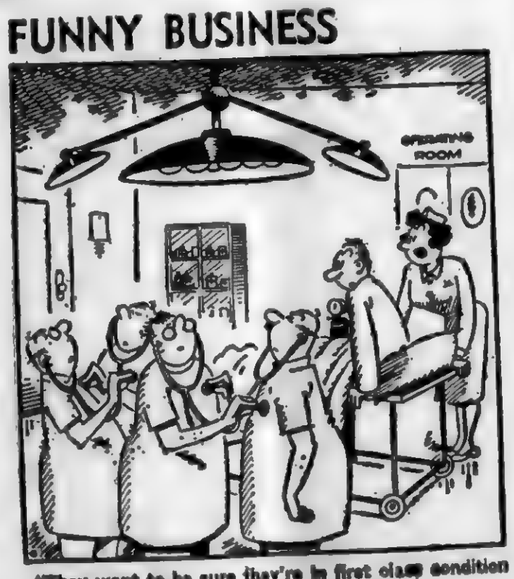
The dead President's brother was unequivocal. He said it was not a racist or ideological plot. "It was the single act of one person protesting against society."

The Warren Commission report is expected shortly, and it will be long and detailed. Those acquainted with its preparation say it will contain some new evidence not revealed last year, but the main story will not basically change.

The report may cite some official bungling before the assassination, but this is hardly new. It will say the lethal three shots were fired from the book building, and that Oswald fired them. It is expected to demolish a yarn (current in Europe) that other shots were fired from an overpass on the freeway.

The Commission report will not do away with the Big Conspiracy legend among those who prefer legend to reality, but it will cut the legend down to size. It would be pleasant to suggest the report may make Presidents more prudent in public appearances, but this is perhaps too much to ask.

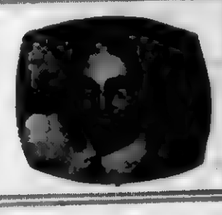
TODAY'S REPORT



By ABE MELLINKOFF

No doubt about it. If you want your son to make good in a bad way, teach him bookkeeping. But keep him away from guns of all kinds.

I'm thinking about Earle Belle, a 32-year-old financial wizard from Pittsburgh. The law finally caught up with him after he made off with $875,000 by juggling the records. So he is sentenced to 30 months, which figures out to be about $7,000 a week. Some people make more but it's still pretty good pay.



But if young Earle had lifted a tenth of that at gun point, he'd be middle-aged before he had a second chance. I suppose it's our frontier heritage when gunmen were dangerous and all the bookkeepers were safe in New England.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"They want to be sure they're in first class condition before they start on you!"

Assignment Television

By TERRENCE O'FLAHERTY

It had been a long, cold winter and suddenly, directly ahead, was the prospect of a short, hot summer. I had unplugged the television set, stuffed my overweight shoes into my overcoat pocket, tossed TV Guide into the ash can and thrown myself upon the mercy of American Airlines with the dream of a quiet ride to New York.

But someone up there in The Great Television Station in the Sky had other plans.

As I stumbled toward the tourist section trying to appear as if the overcoat on my arm didn't weigh a thing, I was stopped by a grim-faced lady with lacquered hair and a lot of wires over her arm. I thought I was being arrested for smuggling aboard a 44-pound flight bag, but it was worse than that.

The lady was giving out little green cards. Inasmuch as both of my hands were occupied I opened my mouth and without a moment's hesitation she jammed the paper between my teeth.

As I hurtled across the two people in my row to get to the window seat I looked back at the rest of the cabin. Everyone else on the plane was seated — three chummy rows on each side — and they were silently staring straight ahead.

I adjusted the seat belt and looked up. To my total horror I was facing 42 tiny television sets—one over each row! Every one of the postcard-sized screens was flickering with snow obviously ready to tell us something and pulsing to get started.

I removed the green card from my mouth with some difficulty because my jaw had locked shut at the sight of all those television sets. Through the teethmarks I read:

"This Astrojet has been equipped to provide you with moving pictures projected on television screens above your seat.

"This is the first such use and frankly it is an experiment. Your reaction to this service will go far in helping us to determine if we should similarly equip all of our Astrojets. Questionnaires will be distributed later in the flight. Your reaction is most important."

Without even seeing the show my reaction was immediate. Nothing that small is worth looking at with the possible exception of a French postcard.

"Some time after your Astrojet has reached cruising altitude your stewardess will hand out to all passengers a set of earphones. Plug them into the jack located at knee level beside your seat. When the stewardess announces over the public address system that the film is to be shown, the person nearest each receiver will turn the switch to the 'ON' position.

"This receiver is a small edition of your home TV set. Adjust the brightness to achieve the best image. The volume control knob is located next to the earphone jack. Then sit back and enjoy yourself."

Things went bad right from the start when I tried to find my knee-level plug. As any fool traveler knows, it is physically impossible to locate anything at knee level in the tourist section when your kneecaps are rubbing up against those of the stranger next to you.

When Big Sister gave the signal all of us switched the receiver to the 'ON' position and suddenly there loomed a face the size of a cumquat. Someone identified it as belonging to Kirk Douglas, an actor I had been avoiding in movie theaters for 28 years. But there he was — repeated 42 times within sight—and just 42 times as bad.

Fortunately for all, the earphones didn't work, but the little screens kept flickering bravely until they went out somewhere over Des Moines, Iowa. Shortly afterward the stewardess picked up the headsets.

She didn't seem too happy but it was clear that another step had been taken in The Great American Crusade Against Boredom in Public.

The Wonderful World of ANIMALS

By Frank Miller, D.V.M.

DEAR DR. MILLER: This summer we decided to save motel bills and travel expenses by going straight to this cottage for the duration. The problem is our dog, Spud. He has fallen in love, apparently, with the neighborhood skunks.

The first time he came back reeking, we desperately called some local expert who recommended tomato juice as the best deodorizer. We used our supply on his first bath. It did help quite a bit, but he keeps going back to the skunks.

We have since bought all the canned tomatoes and tomato juice at the local store. Where do we go from here? Our vacation budget is shattered and now we have run out of tomatoes. — K.A.

DEAR K.A.: It should be cheaper to provide Spud with a draft-free doghouse (he must be in the doghouse anyway) on the right side of the cottage—windwise. That way, there might be a little less urgency connected with the defuming process.

Sunshine will do a fair deodorizing job, if blended with tincture of time. And the price is right—especially when compared to vat-sized dips in tomato juice.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Me Tu has been a charming Siamese kitten — until recently. Now she is coming into heat. Continually. She is driving us all to distraction with this constant yeowling. Added to her "music" is that of the neighborhood toms who gather hopefully outside at night and serenade her. It is all too much.

We are determined to raise a litter of kittens from her someday but how can we all survive in the meantime? Could human contraceptive pills be used on her? If not, please give us some answer. This cannot go on.

—C. C.

DEAR C. C.: Hormones have led the family into this situation, and fortunately other hormones can lead it out. Contraceptive hormone tablets could be used, though an injection of a similar hormone is preferable.

One injection every six months should restore the family to a reasonable degree of serenity, at least as far as Me Tu is concerned. As long as she receives this semiannual injection, her conversation should be limited to other matters, and her callers, if any, will be . . . just friends.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our family is pretty ignorant where snakes are concerned. Our projected campsite may involve us in some snake acquaintances. We would like to know how to tell friendly snakes from the poisonous varieties.

My son has come up with the grand pronouncement: "Poisonous snakes have a single row of scales under their tail and non-poisonous snakes have two rows of scales under their tails." Frankly, I'm hoping you can suggest a method of detecting deadly snakes that doesn't involve, an under-the-tail examination. Can you? —A.S.

DEAR A. S.: Unfortunately, most detection methods require inspections at comparatively close range. All poisonous snakes do have a single row of scale along the underside behind the vent. All snakes with a rattle at the end of their tail are venomous (though some harmless varieties may rattle their tail in dry leaves and sound like a rattler.)

The pit-vipers — rattlesnakes, cottonmouth and copperhead — all have a depression or pit low on the side of the head between nostril and eye. These vipers have large curved fangs at the front of the roof of the mouth. They are heavy-bodied snakes with a broad, roughly triangular head.

The coral snake is the only poisonous snake in this country that is not a pit viper. It has a comparatively slender body and can, fortunately, be differentiated by color. The coral snake has complete rings of red, yellowish-white, and black. The red rings are always next to yellow. (Non-venomous species have red ring against black). The best way to handle the snake problem is simply not to. Unless it feels trapped, a snake, venomous or harmless, will almost always go its own way if given a choice. Your son should resist the temptation to collect a snake for a pet unless he can readily recognize from a safe distance—and will leave alone—any dangerous specimen.

He obviously should not use the under-the-tail inspection technique to differentiate between them! The safest course for all members of the family is to simply leave ANY snake alone.

LOCAL INVESTORS WANTED
OIL & GAS

Residents of Madison and Franklin County preferred, we offer you the opportunity to participate in our plans for the exploration for OIL and GAS in Madison and Franklin Counties. We are now offering 1/64th fractional interests in a well we expect to drill in the very near future on the Nora Shipley Farm, now under lease to Madison County Enterprises, Inc., West Jefferson, Ohio, a locally owned and operated corporation. A Geophysical Survey has been completed, and drilling operations will be in charge of a Petroleum Geologist, and the drilling site will be known as Shipley Well No. 1. This is a speculative offer and is limited to bona-fide residents of the State of Ohio. For further information see Mr. Sidner, or Mr. Merriman.

gained a 6-0 approval from council Monday night when he presented a resolution bringing the city into the fight against adoption of the SCD appraisal record.

The first action by the city will be the filing of an exception to assessments against city-owned property. Next, an injunction is expected to be filed in Common Pleas Court.

Sensenbrenner supports the no-assessment U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' plan for building Alum Creek and Mill Creek dams, citing a minimum $16 million savings for Columbus residents. This stand also has been taken by the Columbus Board of Realtors and the Franklin County Farm Bureau Board. Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce is concerned that the general public might not have enough time to become aware of the full impact, tax-wise, of the SCD plan. Chamber officials requested a postponement of the Aug. 17 deadline, but were informed this week by the SCD that the date was established by law and could not be changed.

Gundy Lane, attorney for the SCD, refused to answer any questions concerning details of the district's attitude about mineral rights as considered in the appraisal record. "The appraisal record speaks for itself," he said, and added that he did not consider it his job to "present a reporter with a legal opinion."

He said a set of the appraisal record books is at the SCD office, 155 N. High-st, and that they are available for public inspection. Sets of the appraisal record also are in the office of Joseph Clifford, clerk of courts for the Franklin County Common Pleas Court (second floor of the old Court House, S. High at Mound-st.)

Deadline Remains Aug. 17

Those wishing to file exception to either the assessments or the amount awarded for property to be taken or damaged must file their objections prior to Aug. 17. Those who do not file exceptions by then waive all rights to any future objection.

A Conservancy Court hearing on the SCD appraisal record will be conducted on Sept. 1 at 10 a.m. in Common Pleas Court. It is already apparent that at least one major change must be considered in relation to the Alum Creek proposal. Originally the Alum Creek project was to have included a water supply feature for which the City of Columbus would be required to pay about $9.1 million.

But Columbus Council has not ratified the proposed water supply agreement with the SCD, and will not convene again before the scheduled Conservancy Court hearing. This means that the SCD will be forced to alter its presently proposed plans for the Alum Creek project.

Choices include: Deferring the project to a later date, request of court approval to build the project without a water supply feature, or ask a change of the official plan of the SCD to permit the agency to include a water supply feature. The second alternative seems highly unlikely in the face of the critical need for a water supply source, and the third measure would put the district into the water-selling business.

SCD Hearing Is Sept. 1

At the Sept. 1 hearing, the Conservancy Court will be asked to approve an appraisal record which totals about $47 million in basic costs, all to be met through assessments against property owners, political entities and public and private corporations. The estimated costs, including interest, will amount to about $72 million, 80 percent of which would be centered in Franklin County.

But if the SCD-proposed projects are approved, the district will not be bound to expenditures based on "estimated" costs. Under the enabling Conservancy District law, a district can assess up to the full amount of the declared benefits. Theoretically, the SCD could, if construction costs warrant, assess up to an approximate $91 million — the amount of the listed benefits for the district — not including interest payments.

Thus if the SCD estimates for implementation of its proposed official plan prove low, there is an almost 100 percent latitude for further assessment on the original schedule.

JAYCEES TO MAN McDONALD'S FOR DAY

EASTERN COLUMBUS Jaycees will take over McDonald's Golden Arches at 3500 E. Broad-st, from 10:30 a.m. to midnight Saturday, Aug. 8, for "Jaycee Day." Profits will go to philanthropic projects of the Jaycees. Members will serve as cooks, waiters and potato peelers, and the Jaycee clowns will be on hand to pass out balloons and bubble gum to the children. The 1929 Cadillac "gangstermobile" and the 1928 red fire engine will be on display, in addition to a large walking hamburger, milkshake and french fries.

Playground Reports:

At Shepard . . .

Fourteen boys and girls from Shepard Playground presented candle-lighted lanterns featuring elephants, lions, whales, jungle birds and alligators at the Sectional Lantern Parade in Franklin Park last Friday. Their participation award will be displayed on the bulletin board.

Entry forms for the Track and Field Olympics, to be held at Ohio State Stadium Saturday, must be turned in to playground leaders by Wednesday. Those who have turned in their entry forms are Priscilla Horton, Deborah Brown, Dwight Cartier, Stephen Randolf, Donald Johnston, Joan Nell Talley, Mary Aileen Holley, Jolie Patrice Brooks, James Barfield, Walter R. Hicks, Jerome Talley and Debbie Brown. Any entrant whose name is not in this list should see the playground supervisor for corrections.

The Junior Boys added a victory over Brentnell last week. The Senior Boys were rained out of their contest, and Junior Girls lost their game last week.

New names to be added to the girls' team are Kathy Conley, Laura Bredjey, Tona Preston, Shirley Stoker, Coleen Bush, Elaine Rialey and Denise Wood.

Bobby Eiland is back from his New York vacation and will be a hard hitter in action for the senior team. Todd Adams can play more now that he has had a change in his work hours and Chipper Johnston's hurt finger has healed so he is now ready for the coming City Softball Tournament.

Flag raisers this week were Mark Ballard, Brian King, Bobby Carpenter, Kathy Gaye, Linda Steele, Jackie Steele, Joyce Steele, Wayne Bridges and David Roddy.

Brian King likes to watch the men regrind the chalk boards in the Shepard School . . . Kathy Gauge likes to paint, and to watch airplanes and identify them . . . Joyce Steele's hobby is just being good . . . Wayne Bridges just lately lost a tooth. He hobbies in tetherball and four-square . . . Mark Ballard's hobbies are making model cars and jets . . . Billy Banks shows his skills in making pot looper pads and square gimp braiding . . . Many have shown a great interest in the proceedings taken to resurface and blacktop the school yard . . . Some have taken up the hobby of collecting various stones in the gravel used. It came from Frank-rd, south of Columbus.

And all of us would like very much to let the neighbors all along the south side of the playground know we enjoy the profuse display of flowers.

At Pinecrest . . .

Highlight of this week's Junior Jets program was a no-hitter in the American League, when Team A bested Team C 35 to 2. Paul Sparks and Mark Wegenka combined in pitching, which also included 13 strikeouts.

Applications for the Junior Olympic Track and Field Meet at OSU Stadium Aug. 8 are still being taken. There is a need for entries in the 440 yard relay for 14-15 year olds.

At Leawood . . .

Leawood intermediate girls' team lost last week to Pinecrest. The junior girls' team plays Willis Park this week. These will be the last league games of the season.

Schiller Park will be the scene of the annual pageant this year on Aug. 24, with 47 playgrounds presenting plays. Anyone interested in being in this pageant should contact the leader at Leawood.

At Fairmoor . . .

"The Fashions," a local musical group, entertained at Fairmoor on July 27.

At James Road

James Road's softball teams played two games this past week.

The Intermediate team was victorious over Courtright by a score of 13 to 6. This gives the team a final record of three loses and one win.

The Junior softball team won over Courtright by a score of 9 to 3. Their next game against Scottwood, they lost by a score of 9 to 6, to finish their season.

The arts and crafts program at James Road will feature basket weaving and painting during the next week. Children can participate during the hours of 1 to 3 p.m. daily

During the next week, tryouts will be held for participation in James Road's pageant. The act will center around a myth concerning the stars, and costumes will be made on the playground.

At Woodcrest . . .

Wednesday, Aug. 12.

Woodcrest Junior Boys' softball team finished the season by defeating Willis Park 9 to 0 and Leawood 6 to 1. Final record is four wins and two losses.

Children who carried lanterns at the parade at Schiller Park, were Michelle Gardner, Debbie Gratton, Linda Peterson, Cynthia Peterson, David Matchinga, James Matchinga, Paul Scott, Steven Spaulding, Mike Geer and Eugene Rhoades.

the issue. We have fulfilled all requests for meetings and explanations prior to the filing with the court," Midden concluded.

Midden confirmed that there is no legal barrier to an SCD official appearing at such a meeting. He said the decision is a matter of Conservancy Court policy.

Walter Cunningham, president of the West Side Neighborhood Council, said the special Monday meeting was called when residents began to question the meaning of cards sent out by the SCD. The post cards informed residents of their rights to appeal the proposed assessments.

Cunningham said the assessments could represent a real hardship for many. "We have many people who live on social security and pensions and other fixed incomes," he said. "Most West Siders," he continued, "are not in shape to stand an annual tax increase of $50, $100 or more."

Meeting Open To All

Although the meeting is sponsored by the WSNC, Cunningham said that all interested persons from any affected area are invited to attend. "I don't think we should limit the meeting to the New West Side," he said. "It's something in which we are all interested."

Northeast Columbus residents have been voicing objections to the SCD proposal for about two months. A petition signed by 1,000 residents of the Sunbury-rd area was presented last Friday to Congressman Devine by Mrs. Robert Coutant, 4925 Sunbury-rd, and Mrs. Harry Detwiler, 3875 Sunbury-rd. The petitions asked Devine to request federal funds for the Alum Creek and Mill Creek dams as projects of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Dr. Eibling announced Tuesday that he would recommend to the Columbus Board of Education that an exception be filed to the SCD's assessment plan. Eibling said that the school board could not afford the additional annual burden of $75,000 that would result from adoption of the SCD plan.

A similar notice of intent to protest the SCD assessment schedule was announced by John Conner, attorney for Mt. Carmel Hospital. The hospital assessment, totaling more than $1.6 million, would cost an approximate $85,000 annually.

Two men are spearheading a petition drive similar to that conducted in the Sunbury-rd area. Harry Sells, 61 S. Gift-st, and Harold Kruse, 857 Thurman-av, have placed petitions in seven West Side business establishments.

Sunday-

O'Shaughnessy, commenting on aspects of the SCD and the proposed Federal projects, suggested that "We might run a municipal sweepstakes to pay for the darn thing."

Service and finance committees, and interested council members will also meet informally next week to consider the long-delayed improvement project on Collingwood and the E. Broad-st relief sewer.

"The matter was proposed in 1961," Loren Mason said, "and everyone along Collingwood received his estimated cost more than a year ago. We will examine the situation to try to determine what the delay has been, and to find a possible way of expediting the project."

Cake For 500 Guests Featured Attraction At Golden Wedding Party

"Old folks are sweet and wonderful people," said Mrs. Eugene Neumann, "and nothing would make me happier than to add a little joy to their lives in my own small way."

Mrs. Neumann's "own small way" comes in the form of a cake that will feed 500 people! That's how many folks are expected to attend The Spectator Golden Wedding Party. And Mrs. Neumann of 111 Linda-rd, Hilliard, is just the woman who can produce such a cake. She was graduated from the Wilton School of Cake Decorating at Chicago, Ill., and is one of the "donatingest" women in town. She has baked cakes for every occasion and has fed up to 750 people with one huge cake.

Will Take Portraits

Another remembrance of the occasion has been offered by J. Curtis Allen who has studios at 2373 W. Broad-st. Couples who attended in past years are asked to fill out a coupon again. Your coupon will be your reservation.

Civic and business groups will join The Spectator staff in making the afternoon an enjoyable one for our honored guests. All couples will receive a certificate commemorating the occasion.

More Reservations Made

Coupons were received this week from the following:

A CAKE fine enough for brides and bridegrooms of 50 years ago and huge enough to serve 500 guests is no small order. But Mrs. Eugene Neumann of 111 Linda-rd, Hilliard, has volunteered to produce just that. The many-tiered confection will be a feature of the Spectator Golden Wedding reception to be held Thursday, Aug. 20, at the County Fair in Hilliard. In three years Mrs. Neumann has won a total of 50 ribbons for baking and sewing skills.

MORE THAN 150 DEMONSTRATORS, mostly Negro with a sprinkling of white, carried signs protesting "de facto segregation in Columbus Schools" in a peaceful rally Saturday at the new Monroe Junior High. Civil Rights leaders also spoke, explaining their protest of "racial imbalance of schools" and urging registration of eligible Negro voters.

Demonstrators Voice 'De Facto' Protest In Peaceful Rally At New School Site

Monroe Junior High, chosen by Civil Rightists as "a symbol of de facto segregation in Columbus Schools," was the site of a peaceful demonstration by about 350 on Saturday afternoon.

Although far short of their hoped-for 1,000, leaders expressed satisfaction with Saturday's attendance and response.

"This was a record for this sort of demonstration in Columbus," Collin Bryce, Jr., coordinator of the rally, said, "and many important things were said."

More than half the demonstrators carried signs protesting de facto segregation and uring qualified Negro voters to register in time for the November election.

Speakers at the rally singled out Monroe, nearing completion on Monroe-av at Leonard-av, and the new Trevitt Elementary, Trevitt at Toronto-st, also opening in September, for attack as "being inferior to schools for white children."

The need for registration of all eligible Negro voters and the rallying of support for an anti-Goldwater movement were also emphasized.

Rev. Russell Jones, chairman of the Civil Rights Council and head of Community Resources, Inc., served notice of intent to the school board on the plan to place a $34 million bond issue on the November ballot:

"If you want the bond issue passed in November, give us evidence that you are not going to use those millions to create more de facto and we will give you 100 percent support."

Jones added that without such evidence, the Negroes would not support the bond issue.

Rev. Arthur Zebbs of Columbus Chapter of CORE claimed inferiority of Monroe and Trevitt schools on the grounds that there are no playgrounds.

He compared the sites of Monroe, located on 2.7 acres, and Trevitt, 1.6 acres, to Koebel, being built on a 10-acre site at 2521 Fairwood-av.

(School officials have explained that Koebel's site, all open land, was purchased for $43,000 for the 10 acres while Trevitt, whose site was all improved property, cost $124,530, and the Monroe location, $189,300.

It was further explained that site expansion at both schools is included in the school system's projected building program. Both Monroe and Trevitt are located in areas scheduled for urban renewal development, which will provide vacant land for expanding the site.)

Rev. Phale Hale, head of the Columbus Chapter of NAACP, and his son, Phale Hale, Jr., chairman of TAG (Teenagers Action Group), both urged, "Goldwater must go."

The need for registration of the approximately 20 to 22,000 eligible, unregistered Negro voters in Columbus was urged by the Hales and by Tom Williams, vice-chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee, as necessary to defeat the Republican candidate for president.

TAG currently is planning an extensive voter registration project.

The Spectator Says:

By G. C. Hartley

Bigger, Bigger . . .

Central Ohioans from miles around will probably flood the new Northland Center for their grand opening this Thursday. They are in for a real treat.

It continues to amaze me, having been a resident of Columbus since 1926, to try to understand where all the people come from to make all the purchases necessary to support such giant institutions as the new Northland Center featuring such giants of merchandising as Sears, Lazarus and The Union, along with numerous others.

We are told that this is but the beginning of this type of shopping center in the Columbus area, the next one to be known as the Eastland Center, with others to follow.

Each time these institutions seem to get bigger and bigger. At the same time there seems to be no appreciable letdown in the patronage of the other old time centers.

We are fortunate today to live in an age where so many of the world's goods are put at our disposal. Americans have the great ability to produce wonders in this area. There is some question as to our ability to properly distribute them.

One thing is certain, the new and the big of today can not forever hold their present position. Records are always made to be broken.

County's 'Show Of Shows' Opens Monday

TEN GOOD REASONS to visit the Franklin County Fair, Monday, Aug. 17, through Friday, Aug. 21, will be to see these 10 young ladies vie for the honor of being named Junior Fair Queen during the Talent Contest on Friday night. Selection of the court, made up of three boys and three girls, will be made Tuesday, following interviews with candidates in the Activities Tent beginning at 7 p.m. The king and queen will be selected from this court. Fair officials expect nearly 30 young people to compete in the annual contest. Above, from left to right, are: (front row) Pat Bettinger, Pam Pence, Lynda Trego, Gail Distelhorst; (second row) Linda Yeager, Melinda Lacey, Diana Chandler, Sandy Lucilen; (back row) Sue Barr and Karen Beaty.

From the official ribbon-cutting ceremony at 6 p.m. Monday, Aug. 17, to the grand finale on Friday night, the Franklin County Fair will offer something for everyone.

There will be top notch livestock judging, spine-tingling daredevil driving, spectacular night time entertainment and, of course, the crowning of a king and queen.

As an extra bonus, admission tickets have been reduced from 75 to 50 cents this year for everyone over 12. Youngsters under 12 are guests of the house.

FOR A MORE COMPLETE FAIR SCHEDULE, SEE THE COUNTY FAIR PAGE INSIDE THIS PAPER.

Monday through Thursday gates will open at 8 a.m. with final shows presented at 8 p.m. On Friday, festivities start at 9 a.m. and the fair dramatically closes with the king and queen crowning at 9:15 p.m.

In the past the announcement was made earlier in the week, but officials now hope to add more suspense to this colorful event.

Last year nearly 23,000 persons attended the fair. This year, with all the above mentioned activity, that figure is expected to be surpassed.

Highlights of the five-day extravaganza incluoe the judging of 4-H and FFA exhibits and Hereford Oocn Class Cattle on Tuesday morning, Aug. 18. At noon, Flower Judging will take place in the Garden Tent.

Tuesday evening will offer interviews and selection of a king and queen's court. Flippo the clown will be at the Farm Youth Tent and there will be judging of the District 10 Jersey Cattle Show.

At 8 p.m., you'll have your choice of harness racing or the Gene Fullen teenage hop.

Wednesday morning will offer judging of Open Class Swine and Shorthorn Cattle; judging of 4-H and FFA Sheep Breeding and Market Classes; Judging of 4-H Agricultural Demonstrations and Safety Speaking.

In the evening, the Central Ohio District Guernsey Show and the 4-H Dress Revue will be offered, followed at night by Luci and her Toy Shop program. The night program will also offer harness racing and Jerry Rasor's Teen Show.

Plan Golden Wedding

Hartley Newspapers' Golden Wedding Day will start off activities Thursday morning, and many local couples, married 50 years or more, will be honored.

Later Thursday, there will be Open Class Sheep, Ponies and Holstein and Ayrshire judging, followed at noon by Flower Judging.

In the evening there will be a Brown Swiss Cattle Show.

Like To Win $50 Bond? Visit Us At County Fair!

The Spectator is offering you a chance to come away from the Franklin County Fair $25 or even $50 richer.

All you have to do is stop in at the Spectator booth, just off the midway in the Exhibitor's Building, any time during fair week, Aug. 17 through 21.

Register your guess there as to how many classified ads will appear in the following week's Spectator (Aug. 26-27).

If your guess is correct, you will win a $25 savings bond. If the winner is a paid subscriber to any Spectator edition, he will be given a $50 bond. In the event of a tie, winners will be asked to answer a tie-breaker question by telephone.

The booth is also featuring a "Baker's Dozen" sale, which will allow you to purchase 13 months of the Spectator for the normal 12-month rate of $3.50.

Free Refreshments, Bikes At Whitehall Kids' Safety Program

More than 2000 youngsters are expected to attend the first annual bicycle safety program, to be held at the Municipal Building on Yearling-rd Saturday, Aug. 22, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There will be free drinks and potato chips for all, and for lucky winners of the drawing, new bicycles and other gifts. Everyone attending will be given a ticket to be deposited for the drawing.

Sponsored by Whitehall Kiwanis Club and the Police Department, the program is designed to promote safety among youthful bike riders.

All bicycles will be inspected for safe operating condition; minor repairs and adjustments will be made if possible, and instruction will

Planning Commission Post Filled

Keith Edmunds, 4182 McAllister-av, newly-appointed to the Whitehall Planning and Zoning Commission by Mayor William Holzhause, assumed his duties at the regular commission meeting Tuesday.

Edmunds, an employe of Jeffrey Manufacturing Co., fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Darrell Todd, the city's new safety director.

The commission Tuesday took action that will permit the construction of a new indoor movie theater in Whitehall, and reviewed a rezoning request for the proposed Fairway Oaks Subdivision.

By voting to amend a section of Whitehall's codified ordinance to include indoor movie theaters in a general commercial district, the commission opened the way for the construction of a theater on E. Broad-st east of Yearling-rd.

The request for the proposed 50-acre Fairway Oaks Subdivision was withdrawn by developer Todd Tibbals earlier this summer after councilmen had indicated that they would

Decision Is: 'Collingwood Must Wait'

Although Whitehall officials are interested and eager, the city is still financially unable to proceed with the long-delayed improvement of Collingwood and the installation of the relief sanitary sewer.

Members of the service and finance committees arrived at this reluctant conclusion at a joint meeting held Monday evening, according to Marvin Levine, finance chairman.

Their findings were, according to Levine, that the city's ability to improve its streets was restricted by the lack of funds. Public improvements would continue but some of the more expensive projects would have to be deferred to a later date.

"It is necessary," Levine said, "to bypass certain major projects to give the city an opportunity to reduce the size of its obligations. This also puts a burden on council to be extremely selective in its choice of projects."

HARDSHIPS ON LOW-INCOME FAMILIES CITED

Residents Hit SCD Assessments

By FRANK RYAN

If the ears of Scioto Conservancy officials were burning Monday night, it is no small wonder. The SCD was being discussed in harsh and angry tones during a public meeting which drew almost 500 West Side property owners to Gladden Community House.

• • •

The meeting was called by the West Side Neighborhood Council to explain SCD and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' plans for construction of the proposed Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir projects. The overflow attendance crowded all available space in the Community House auditorium.

President Walter Cunningham said it was the largest group ever to attend a WSNC meeting. Cunningham introduced speakers for the program, including Rev. Carl L. Wilson, chairman of the WSNC information and education committee; John Converse, representing the Columbus Board of Realtors; Donald T. Williams, civil engineer with the Huntington District, Army Corps of Engineers, and Marian Paisley, a Galena attorney.

West Side Neighborhood Council President Walter Cunningham is reminding area residents who wish to file exceptions to the SCD assessment that they must do so before Aug. 17. He said volunteer workers will be on hand at Gladden Community House, 178 Hawkes-av at W. Town-st, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9. They will assist in filling out the forms which are available at the Community House.

SCD Wouldn't Come

In opening remarks, Rev. Wilson explained that the SCD was asked to send a representative to the meeting. "These people positively refused to come," he said of the SCD, and termed the action "an affront" to the affected people.

Converse discussed some of the differences between the SCD and Army plans. He told the audience that he was "not authorized to speak for the SCD," and admitted "my heart isn't in it" (the SCD program.)

Converse said it is the feeling of the Board of Realtors that the Army offers a "much, much better plan." He challenged the SCD assessment plan and reminded the audience that there would be no assessment of property for any work done by the Corps of Engineers.

Converse also took the SCD to task for an alleged com-

SCD SCOREBOARD

Objections On Rise As Deadline Nears

Mounting opposition to the assessment plan of the Scioto Conservancy District for its proposed construction of flood control projects has reached fever pitch in the final few days before the Aug. 17 deadline for filing of exceptions to the SCD appraisal record.

Personnel in the office of Joseph Clifford, Franklin County Clerk of Common Pleas Court, are girding for a last-minute rush by individual property owners, Several political subdivisions and private and public corporations have announced filing or intent to file exceptions to listed assessments.

The build-up of opposition to the SCD plan is also reflected in gathering support for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers as building authority for the proposed Alum Creek and Mill Creek dam and reservoir pojects. If constructed by the Corps, the two projects would be financed with federal funds, eliminating local property assessments.

The latest sources of protests include the City of Grandview, the Columbus Board of Education and Franklin County Commissioners. The Grandview exception to assessments is on file in the clerk of court's office and charges that the proposed assessment is arbitrary and inequitable.

School Board officials have requested City Attorney John Young to act in their behalf in taking whatever legal measures are deemed necessary to block the SCD assessment. The protest of county commissioners to the county assessment is scheduled for filing this week.

There are more than 2,000 exceptions currently on file

IN CAMPAIGN

Van Heyde Supporting Army Plans For Dams

The Democratic candidate for Congress from the 12th District (Franklin County), Robert L. Van Heyde, today said the Army Corps of Engineers should build the Alum Creek and Mill Creek flood control dams.

"Many Franklin Countians would pay double taxes if the Scioto Conservancy District (SCD) builds the dams," Van Heyde said. "These same residents are already paying the federal taxes which would finance the dams and they would continue to pay the same amount of federal taxes should the SCD build the dams in flood times. I'm sure the city of Columbus would receive the same flood benefits from either organization.

Van Heyde

"I believe, however, the Army plan offers some additional benefits at no extra cost to the local taxpayers; specifically, recreational benefits," the candidate said.

"On the other hand, an ex-

Bexley Honored By AAA

Bexley is one of seven area municipalities which will be honored by the AAA Club Wednesday, Aug. 19, for its record of no pedestrian fatalities during 1963.

This is the third consecutive year Bexley has received the award, according to Russell Campbell, general manager and secretary of the AAA.

Paul Gingher, AAA president, will make the presentations to the mayors of Bexley, Grandview, Grove City, Reynoldsburg, Westerville, Worthington and Delaware at a luncheon Aug. 19 at the Southern Hotel.

Bexley has been particularly commended by safety experts for its consistently high safety record, in view of the fact that three interstate highways cross the city. It is, perhaps, the only city of its size in Ohio with such a volume of interstate traffic.

Section Can Be Guide To Better Living

The challenges of the modern world are best met with a good education.

Acquiring a good education is a never-ending process. It should not be reserved strictly for the young. Adults in Central Ohio have excellent opportunities to further their knowledge in a wide range of subjects.

These are explained in some detail in the Adult Education special section in this week's edition of The Spectator. Look for it. It could be your guide to a promotion, a new career, or simply more enjoyment of life.

'Honeymoon' Will Be Awarded At Spectator Golden Wedding Fete

Being married for 50 years has many dividends . . . one is that you become eligible for an all-expense paid "Second Honeymoon."

That's what Jack Hale, manager of the Holiday Inn, 4601 W. Broad-st, is offering to some lucky couple who attends The Spectator Golden Wedding Party, Thursday, Aug. 20, 2 to 4:30 p.m., at the Hilliard Fairgrounds.

Many other prizes are in store too, including studio portraits by J. Curtis Allen, who has studios at 2373 W. Broad-st; decorated wedding cakes from Mrs. Helen Shade of Shade's Restaurant in Canal Winchester and floral arrangements from Rosebud Floral Co., 351 N. Burgess-av.

But the prizes aren't the only reasons for the landslide of coupons we have received. Many of the couples who have attended in years past are looking forward to meeting old friends and newcomers will take with them many pleasant memories.

The program will feature the delightful Grandmothers' Drill Team, headed by Capt. Grace Warner and more entertainment is still in the 'an-

Trying For Central Ohio Beauty Crown

Merry Lou Harnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harnett of 2607 Sherwood-rd and a junior at Bexley High, is among contestants for the Miss Central Ohio title.

The contest will be judged Sunday, Aug. 16, 2:30 p.m. at Buckeye Lake. The winner will be a candidate for the Miss Ohio crown, in the contest to be judged in Sandusky next summer.

Merry Lou is active in the Jewish Center, is vice-president of B'nai B'rith Girls, and has a background in a Little Theatre group and in modeling.

tremely heavy tax burden would be placed on some individuals and corporations if the SCD undertakes the projects. I have heard of assessments against individual property owners of $10,000 and one corporation's assessment is set at more than $1 million.

"The assessments against the Columbus Board of Education would inevitably result in higher taxes for each property owner in the Columbus School District," Van Heyde declared.

Fears Delay In Local Courts

The Democratic Congressional candidate said he believes that the dams can be completed sooner by the Army Engineers than by the SCD.

"Persons who have had much experience with land acquisition fear that the SCD would be stalled almost indefinitely by landowners seeking action in local courts for maximum prices for their land required by the projects," Van Heyde said. "The Corps of Engineers indicates that Congressional appropriations for the dams will be no problem if local residents and officials favor construction by the Engineers.

"With the proper cooperation between local and federal officials, I'm sure the Congressional appropriations will be made available. I believe the Army Engineers when they say that the dams could have been under construction now had local residents and officials shown a clear preference for the Army Engineers' flood control plan," Van Heyde said.

Heartbeat 3 Sets Second Tenpin Event

The Central Ohio Heart Association will hold its second annual Heartbeat No. 3 Headpin Tournament at the Lincoln Village Lanes, 4170 W. Broad-st on Aug. 22-23 and 29-30 from 12 noon until 12 midnight.

Anyone can bowl in the tourney ($1 per game) as often as they wish and all tournament proceeds go to the Heart Fund for research.

IN THE MEN'S division, bowlers will be classed in 174 and under and 175 and over classes while in the women's section, the ladies will be classified in 149 and under and 150 and over average groups.

The Junior Division will have 8-15 age groups competing while the Senior section will have entrants 16-18 years old.

A "Queen of Hearts" will be chosen from girls represented by the various Columbus Bowling establishments. Guaranteed cash prizes will be determined by the number of entries and door prizes will be presented nightly.

Zoning—

not approve rezoning a portion of the land for apartments.

Both plans submitted by Tibbals had included multi-family dwellings along one side of the development, with the rest of the land apportioned into lots for single-family homes.

In the new plan reviewed by the commission Tuesday, rezoning was asked for six lots to allow construction of four-family units.

Both Edmunds, the new member, and Mayor Holzhause voted no on the proposal. The other commission members, William Koetz, James Polzer and Ellis Bailey voted in favor of the plan.

A new TOPS Club (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is being formed in the East Side. Anyone interested in losing weight may attend the organizational meeting scheduled Wednesday, Aug. 19, 7:30 p.m. at the Whitehall Municipal Building, 360 S. Yearling-rd.

TOPS is a national organization approved by the American Medical Association. It is a continuing program dedicated to helping the overweight by re-educating one's eating habits.

TOPS is for men, women, teenagers and tiny tots. It has no commercial interest but concerns itself with finding relief and correction of a common problem.

TOPS provides the encouragement and incentive to those who find it difficult to accomplish their goal alone.

Phone Mrs. Roy Kistner, BR. 9-6035, for further information.

Tea Arranged By Stephens AlumnaeClub

Miss Elizabeth Schumacher and her mother, Mrs. E. R. Schumacher, 2825 Dale-av, and Miss Janet Stevens and her mother, Mrs. M. E. Stevens, 1775 Quigley-rd, have been invited to a tea on Saturday, Aug. 15, at the Governor's Mansion honoring new students of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.

The tea is sponsored by the Stephens College Alumnae Club of Columbus. Mrs. James A. Rhodes and her daughter, Saundra, who will be a second year student at Stephens, will be assisted as hostesses by members of the alumnae club.

Miss Kathleen Bidlack, 292 S. Stanwood, and Miss Vicki Cochrane, 2731 Sherwood-rd, who are returning to Stephens for their second year, and their mothers, Mrs. P. M. Bidlack and Mrs. R. Kyle Cochrane, have also been invited to the tea. Others receiving invitations are Miss Kathleen Braley, 135 S. Parkview-av, and Miss Diana Kearns, 2430 Brentwood-rd, both 1964 graduates of the college, and their mothers, Mrs. W. J. Braley and Mrs. R. V. Kearns, Jr.

Janet Parthemer Exchanges Vows With David Nippert At Brookwood

Brookwood Presbyterian Church was the setting for the Aug. 1 marriage of Miss Janet Marie Parthemer and Mr. David Arthur Nippert.

The 7:30 p.m. ceremony was performed by Rev. Keith Conning. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parthemer, 1051 S. Hampton-rd, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nippert, 1615 Berkeley-rd.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta and lace encircled the batteau neckline and waist. A sheer redingote overskirt and chapel train edged in lace topped the belled skirt.

Her veil of illusion fell from a pillbox of peau and seed pearls.

Mrs. Richard Reese, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Donna Sullivan and Miss Nancy Scott.

They wore afternoon-length sheath gowns with floor-length controlled overskirts of pink nylon sheer over taffeta. The matching headpieces were Dior bows with double puff veils.

Mr. Frederick Thomas of Rochester, N. Y., was best man. Ushers were Mr. Jerry Parthemer brother of the bride, and Mr. James Nippert, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception followed at the church.

The bride is employed by the athletic department of Ohio State University. The bridegroom is a graduate of OSU and is employed by Battelle Memorial Institute.

Following a trip to Wisconsin, the couple is residing at 356 Highfield-dr.

MRS. DAVID ARTHUR NIPPERT

MRS. GEORGE ORNSTEIN (seated) pours coffee for her guests Mrs. A. C. Strip, Mrs. Joseph Skilken and Mrs. David Glickman at the National Council of Jewish Women's Workers' rally. Mrs. Ornstein and Mrs. Strip are membership vice-presidents of the afternoon and evening groups. Mrs. Skilken and Mrs. Glickman are respective membership chairmen.

Membership Splash Parties Planned By Jewish Council

An afternoon swim and cosmetics demonstrations, by Gigi Bauer, will highlight membership parties given next week by the Columbus Section of the National Council of Jewish Women.

Council's annual membership drive begins Aug. 18 with a splash party at the home of Mrs. Herman Katz, 725 Fairway-blvd, for women interested in the afternoon group. Mrs David Gerstenfeld, 2721 Sherwood-rd; Mrs. Jack Masser, 1289 Ericksonav, and Mrs. I. David Cohen, 2750 Eastminster-rd, will open their homes to guests interested in the evening branch, Aug. 18, 19, and 20, respectively, at 8 p.m. Cosmetics experts will demonstrate beauty aids at the evening parties.

Heading the committees working with the membership chairmen are: Mrs. H. Eric Gerstle, telephone; Mrs. Marvin Pliskin and Mrs. Jerome Schottenstein, transportation; Mrs. Donald Cohen and Mrs. Albert Tyroler, party hostesses; Mrs. Stephen Rubin, publicity; Mrs. Richard Alpers, invitations.

Mrs. Joseph Skilken, 231-8385, is handling reservations for women interested in the afternoon group; Mrs. David Glickman, 237-4980, will handle reservations for the evening branch.

Mrs. Blair Ruben, president of the Columbus Section, promises that this year, in addition to the usual emphasis on service, education and social action, Council will promote participation in public affairs.

The National Council of Jewish Women is the world's oldest major Jewish women's organization, and has 123,000 members throughout the United States.

OPENS HOME TO ROSE HILL CLUB

The Aug. 18 meeting of the Rose Hill Garden Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Joan Peterson, 1513 Marvin-dr.

The program for the evening will be a workshop on "Arrangements for Tables," conducted by Mrs. Pat Montague and Mrs. Joan Peterson.

Heartbeat 3 Sets Second Tenpin Event

The Central Ohio Heart Association will hold its second annual Heartbeat No. 3 Headpin Tournament at the Lincoln Village Lanes, 4170 W. Broad-st on Aug. 22-23 and 29-30 from 12 noon until 12 midnight.

Anyone can bowl in the tourney ($1 per game) as often as they wish and all tournament proceeds go to the Heart Fund for research.

IN THE MEN'S division, bowlers will be classed in 174 and under and 175 and over classes while in the women's section, the ladies will be classified in 149 and under and 150 and over average groups.

The Junior Division will have 8-15 age groups competing while the Senior section will have entrants 16-18 years old.

A "Queen of Hearts" will be chosen from girls represented by the various Columbus Bowling establishments. Guaranteed cash prizes will be determined by the number of entries and door prizes will be presented nightly.

Merry Harnett

Trying For Central Ohio Beauty Crown

Merry Lou Harnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harnett of 2607 Sherwood-rd and a junior at Bexley High, is among contestants for the Miss Central Ohio title.

The contest will be judged Sunday, Aug. 16, 2:30 p.m. at Buckeye Lake. The winner will be a candidate for the Miss Ohio crown, in the contest to be judged in Sandusky next summer.

Merry Lou is active in the Jewish Center, is vice-president of B'nai B'rith Girls, and has a background in a Little Theatre group and in modeling.

tremely heavy tax burden would be placed on some individuals and corporations if the SCD undertakes the projects. I have heard of assessments against individual property owners of $10,000 and one corporation's assessment is set at more than $1 million.

"The assessments against the Columbus Board of Education would inevitably result in higher taxes for each property owner in the Columbus School District," Van Heyde declared.

Fears Delay In Local Courts

The Democratic Congressional candidate said he believes that the dams can be completed sooner by the Army Engineers than by the SCD.

"Persons who have had much experience with land acquisition fear that the SCD would be stalled almost indefinitely by landowners seeking action in local courts for maximum prices for their land required by the projects," Van Heyde said. "The Corps of Engineers indicates that Congressional appropriations for the dams will be no problem if local residents and officials favor construction by the Engineers.

"With the propor cooperation between local and federal officials, I'm sure the Congressional appropriations will be made available. I believe the Army Engineers when they say that the dams could have been under construction now had local residents and officials shown a clear preference for the Army Engineers' flood control plan," Van Heyde said.

Zoning—

not approve rezoning a portion of the land for apartments.

Both plans submitted by Tibbals had included multi-family dwellings along one side of the development, with the rest of the land apportioned into lots for single-family homes.

In the new plan reviewed by the commission Tuesday, rezoning was asked for six lots to allow construction of four-family units.

Both Edmunds, the new member, and Mayor Holzhause voted no on the proposal. The other commission members, William Koetz, James Polzer and Ellis Bailey voted in favor of the plan.

Janet Parthemer Exchanges Vows With David Nippert At Brookwood

Brookwood Presbyterian Church was the setting for the Aug. 1 marriage of Miss Janet Marie Parthemer and Mr. David Arthur Nippert.

The 7:30 p.m. ceremony was performed by Rev. Keith Conning. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parthemer, 1051 S. Hampton-rd, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nippert, 1615 Berkeley-rd.

The bride wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta and lace encircled the batteau neckline and waist. A sheer redingote overskirt and chapel train edged in lace topped the belled skirt.

Her veil of illusion fell from a pillbox of peau and seed pearls.

Mrs. Richard Reese, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Donna Sullivan and Miss Nancy Scott.

They wore afternoon-length sheath gowns with floor-length controlled overskirts of pink nylon sheer over taffeta. The matching headpieces were Dior bows with double pouff veils.

Mr. Frederick Thomas of Rochester, N. Y., was best man. Ushers were Mr. Jerry Parthemer brother of the bride, and Mr. James Nippert, brother of the bridegroom.

A reception followed at the church.

The bride is employed by the athletic department of Ohio State University. The bridegroom is a graduate of OSU and is employed by Battelle Memorial Institute.

Following a trip to Wisconsin, the couple is residing at 356 Highfield-dr.

Membership Splash Parties Planned By Jewish Council

An afternoon swim and cosmetics demonstrations, by Gigi Bauer, will highlight membership parties given next week by the Columbus Section of the National Council of Jewish Women.

Council's annual membership drive begins Aug. 18 with a splash party at the home of Mrs. Herman Katz, 725 Fairway-blvd, for women interested in the afternoon group. Mrs. David Gerstenfeld, 2721 Sherwood-rd; Mrs. Jack Masser, 1289 Erickson-av, and Mrs. I. David Cohen, 2750 Eastminster-rd, will open their homes to guests interested in the evening branch, Aug. 18, 19, and 20, respectively, at 8 p.m. Cosmetics experts will demonstrate beauty aids at the evening parties.

Heading the committees working with the membership chairmen are: Mrs. H. Eric Geratle, telephone; Mrs. Marvin Pliskin and Mrs. Jerome Schottenstein, transportation; Mrs. Donald Cohen and Mrs. Albert Tyroler, party hostesses; Mrs. Stephen Rubin, publicity; Mrs. Richard Alpers, invitations.

Mrs. Joseph Skilken, 231-8385, is handling reservations for women interested in the afternoon group; Mrs. David Glickman, 237-4980, will handle reservations for the evening branch.

Mrs. Blair Ruben, president of the Columbus Section, promises that this year, in addition to the usual emphasis on service, education and social action, Council will promote participation in public affairs.

The National Council of Jewish Women is the world's oldest major Jewish women's organization, and has 123,000 members throughout the United States.

OPENS HOME TO ROSE HILL CLUB

The Aug. 18 meeting of the Rose Hill Garden Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Joan Peterson, 1513 Marvin-dr.

The program for the evening will be a workshop on "Arrangements for Tables," conducted by Mrs. Pat Montague and Mrs. Joan Peterson.

Vegetables Make Good 'Dunkers'

Appetizers run the gamut from simple dips and spreads to fancy hors d'oeuvres and canapes. Of course, the easiest for the busy hostess to prepare are dips and spreads.

Many of the simple appetizers that are popular today have a dairy product—cream cheese, cottage cheese or sour cream — as the base. Easy-to-make Summer Cocktail Dip combines two dairy products—cottage cheese and sour cream—with hard-cooked eggs, avocado and seasonings.

This dip is good when served with crisp crackers. But, in the summertime, don't forget crisp vegetables are excellent "dunkers." Cucumber slices, carrot sticks, radish roses, green pepper rings and celery pieces are good vegetable choices. These are also good foods to keep on hand in the refrigerator for low-calories, nutritions between meal snacks.

SUMMER COCKTAIL DIP

1 cup creamed cottage cheese (½ pint)
1 small avocado, diced
1 teaspoon minced onion
2 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
½ cup dairy sour cream
Salt, to taste
Dash of pepper sauce
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Drain cheese, if too moist, and beat with avocado until smooth and creamy. Add onion and eggs and blend. Fold in sour cream and seasonings and serve with crisp vegetable relishes or small, crisp crackers. Makes 2½ cups.

Hubbys To Be Guests At Aurora Club Picnic

Hostesses for the event will be Violet Follmer, Rhoda Hale, Alma Foureman, Ella Sealock, Mary Pixley, Mary Bidwell, and Dolly Cox.

Husbands of members will be guests.

Mrs. Josephine Fitch, grand associate matron, and husband of Granville; Mr. Martin Gladwell, grand associate patron of Worthington and past supreme royal matron, Mrs. Golda May Edmonston and husband from Columbus will be honored guests.

Take 5 with JANET MICHAEL

Dear Mama,

Well, I made it back to the city O-K.

You know, I had almost forgotten how the country was, until I spent last week with you.

I get misty everytime I think about those cute little bugs swarming around and finally dying in my Kool-Aid . . . and those chiggers, my goodness, but aren't they friendly!

My sunburn is pealing nicely and I removed the last of the burrs this morning. The swelling has gone down from the bee sting and I can get around pretty well now.

The doctor says a few weeks of shots will take care of that rusty fishhook that got caught in my hand and not to worry about it because it wouldn't help anyway.

Mama, try not to worry about me living in this big, dangerous city. I promise to be careful about plugging in the air conditioner, the garbage disposal and all those other nasty conveniences.

See you next vacation.

Love, Janet.

Proceeds will assist the two alumnae scholarship houses at 195 and 201 16th-av which, together, house 54 girls of high scholastic standing.

Tickets may be secured by calling project chairman, Mrs. George W. Hare, 451-3470, or the alumnae office, Ohio State University, CY 2-2649.

Of interest to Women

By JANET MICHAEL

Women Are Postponing MRS Degree: Prefer Cracking Books Instead Of Whip

American women, long the masters in their own homes, are rapidly and in ever-increasing numbers, becoming masters in still another field —education.

As a matter of fact, between 1964 and 1975 more than a half-million women will earn master's degrees from colleges and universities. This figure is more than double the number of such degrees awarded to women during the previous 11-year period.

Similarly, according to the June issue of Finance Facts, a newsletter on consumer financial behavior published monthly by the National Consumer Finance Association, twice as many bachelor's degrees and twice as many doctorates will be granted to women by 1975 as were awarded between 1953 and 1964.

Finance Facts predict that in the next 11 years more than 3½ million will receive bachelor's degrees while another 25,000 will complete the necessary requirements for a doctorate.

As of March, 1962, there were approximately 2.2 million employed women who had earned college degrees. Projections indicate that by 1975 the number will have grown to about 3 million.

Significantly, this increased emphasis on advanced education by women may mean an added advantage for them in the employment market since the Department of Labor predicts a rapid growth in job opportunities requiring a college education.

College women may even have an added advantage because of their predominance in teaching, nursing, library and social work, which occupations together employed about 1 million woman as recently as 1960.

The need for personnel in these four occupations is expanding, replacement requirements are substantial because of the size of the occupations, and turnover is traditionally high.

Ohio-Grown Peaches Are Now At Their Best

RIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Peaches, cantaloupe, plums, summer apples, grapes.

Vegetables—Sweet corn, tomatoes, Katahdin potatoes, abbage, celery, beets, salad items.

Meat, Poultry — Fryers, beef ribs and chucks, ground eef, wieners, small turkeys, eggs (medium and small).

Other — Canned food "specials," frozen lemonade.

The Ohio peach season is in full swing. Growers in he Lake Erie region, where most of our Ohio peaches re grown, are harvesting in volume.

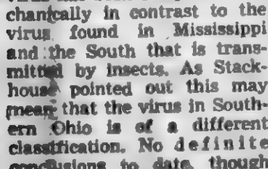
"Nature's bag of tricks is working for the consumer," ay the peach growers. The hot dry eather has given the peaches exceptionlly fine color and tastiness, in spite of educed size. Recent rains were spotty, ut increased the prospects considerably or late fruit, where they fell.

Mrs. Franks

Although a "peach is a peach" may e generally true, the many varieties rown in Ohio actually differ a great eal. Redhaven, the freezer's favorite, re ready so don't delay much longer if ou want these peaches for freezing. hey are good, too, for fresh eating and for canning. Golden Jubilee — an excellent peach to can or use fresh — also are ripe now. Harvest of yellow fleshed Fairhaven nd Southhaven along with white Cumberland will start oming this weekend in many orchards.

Using the recommended varieties for freezing and anning will usually give you the best results. Notice he background color when you select them. It should e a creamy yellowish color. Ignore the pretty blush—it aries with variety and is not a sign of ripeness.

Along with delightful eating peaches are a fairly ood source of Vitamins A and C. Nearly 10 percent of the Vitamin C recommended for a physically active man for a day, according to National Research Council Allowances, is provided by a half cup of sliced raw peaches. Low in energy value, fresh peaches have a place in the diet of those who count calories — a medium sized peach has 35 calories.



Here's a way of using fresh peaches that will give added dash to cottage cheese for a luncheon salad. For a different tang, dip the peaches in fresh lime juice before serving. This will also keep them from darkening.

For a perfect blend of flavors, serve with Honey-Almond dressing:

⅛ cup sour cream
¼ cup mild flavored honey
½ teaspoon lime juice

Mix in order given and serve with peach and cottage cheese salad. Top with shredded almonds.

FARM FORECAST

Your reporter interviewed O. R. Stanfield, executive vice-president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, on "Farm Forecast" this week. Discussion centered on the Battelle research report of the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service. Stanfield served as chairman of the committee, with financial support coming from many contributing organizations.

Several recommendations stand out in this extensive research report. Among them: "The scope of the extension service should be widened to cover more than the rural citizenry," and a general hint was given to "streamline the extension services to better meet the times," etc.

• • •

The director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, John M. Stackhouse, appeared on my TV program and stressed the importance of the research in progress at Wooster in "Corn Stunt Virus." Transmission of the virus has been completed mechanically in contrast to the virus found in Mississippi and the South that is transmitted by insects. As Stackhouse pointed out this may mean that the virus in Southern Ohio is of a different classification. No definite conclusions to date, though new developments are apparent periodically that might change the picture soon.

Many county fairs are in progress this week, and indications are that more than 4.5 million admissions will be chalked up by Ohio's fairs, some 90 plus (county and independent fairs).

While on the subject of fairs, a reminder that Aug. 28 through Sept. 7, is Ohio State Fair Time with one of the best rounded fairs in the history of the Buckeye State scheduled.

An expanded program of general fairgoer interest at no increase in admission, a multi-million dollar lineup of exhibits and displays, considerable evidence of major face-lifting to all existing facilities and new capital improvements construction throughout the big 300-acre site of Ohio's blue-ribbon showcase —all these will contribute toward smashing all previous attendance records. Approximately 750,000 Ohioans are expected to visit the exposition during its 11-day stand, according to Harley W. Mcgee, director of public relations.

About 40 young tractor drivers will compete in state finals of the 4-H tractor operators' contest Aug. 28 as an opening day feature of the State Fair.

Winner of the contest will represent Ohio in the Eastern States 4-H tractor operators' contest Sept. 27-29 in Richmond, Va.

Youths competing for the top state award will be winners of county elimination events held earlier this year.

The 4-H club saddle horse show at the fair promises to be one of the best since the event started four years ago.

Space limitations will hold the show to a few less than 200 entries, but these animals will represent the best of more than 7,800 4-H horses and ponies in the state, selected at local and county levels.

The 4-H horse show will be the fair's first event in the big Coliseum, starting at 10 a.m. on Aug. 28. Horsemanship competition is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. the same day.

• • •

Sept. 25 through 27 the Ohio Plowing Contests and Demonstrations are set for New Knoxville. For information write to Perry Clark, Box 175, New Knoxville.

Be sure to circle Sept. 30 through Oct. 2, dates for the Ohio State Farm Science Review, Columbus. Write Dale Friday, OSU, Columbus.

See Clay Eager's "Farm Forecast," weekday mornings at 6:30 on TV-4.

MOWAC Class To Hold Picnic

MOWAC Class of West Park Methodist Church will hold a picnic on Sunday, Aug. 16, at the South Y Park on Rohr-rd, from noon till dark.

Games and contests will be held for both children and adults.

Milk, ice cream and soft drinks will be provided, but guests are asked to bring their own food.

Members, former members and friends are asked to attend.

Crippled Youths To Attend Fair

Franklin County Society for Crippled Children has received an invitation for local crippled children to attend the Ohio State Fair on Crippled Children's Day, Monday, Aug. 31.

The Ohio State Fair Management has planned a complete day's outing. The special event is sponsored by the Crippled Children's Entertainment Association.

Free admittance to the fair for the children and escorts will be provided along with transportation by shuttle bus on the grounds, and free rides on the midway. Meals will also be furnished and facilities for rest and medical care will be provided.

Any interested crippled child under 18 years of age should contact the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children at 253-5523 before Friday, Aug. 21.

NEED A SPEAKER
. . . For Your Meeting?
The Ohio Insurance Information Service, Inc., a non-profit, public service organization, can provide your group with expert, entertaining speakers, with timely topics . . . and at absolutely NO CHARGE.
Our speakers are all executives of Ohio Insurance companies. However, they speak as representatives of the Ohio Insurance Information Service rather than their individual companies.
Talks are lively and absorbing. They deal with such subjects as what makes auto insurance rates go up, how claims are handled, the effect of jury verdicts on rates, how insurance rates are set, why some people may have to pay more than others for the same coverages.
For more information on securing a speaker for your meeting, contact:

CMS Total Game Won By 11 Fans

Speedsters Ralph O'Day and Don Gregory lived up to all expectations and took the Mid-Season Championship honors, in the late-model and sportsman divisions respectively, in Sunday's program at the Columbus Motor Speedway, before a large and cheering crowd.

But O'Day and Gregory weren't the only winners. In the speedway's game of "Total," there were 11 fans able to correctly pick the first five finishers in the sportsman feature and each took home $9.10 in cash from the $100 jackpot. There'll be another $100 in the free game of "Total" jackpot this week.

RACING AT the Williams Road raceway has been discontinued on Friday night, but Sunday evening the late-model and sportsman cars and drivers will return for an eight-event program, topped with a feature race in each division.

Time trials begin at 7 p.m. and the first race gets moving promptly at 8 o'clock.

1964 HORSESHOE QUEEN

TV 4 Charts Exciting Set On Gridiron

Football will get plenty of TV-4 attention this fall! In addition to a 14-date Saturday schedule of NCAA football games in color, TV-4 will present a filmed one-hour recap of the Ohio State games Sundays at 12:30 p.m.; filmed highlights of a major high school football contest Sundays at 1:30 p.m.; a Friday 11:30 p.m. "Hopalong Cassady Show" of football previews and news; plus a special documentary "Profiles in Scarlet and Gray" about the OSU Buckeyes.

Hopalong Cassady, former OSU and pro football star, will do two shows each week with TV-4 sportscaster Phil Samp.

THE FRIDAY NIGHT "Hopalong Cassady Show" at 11:30 will feature previews of the NCAA game of the week, the weekend pro schedule, Saturday's OSU game and high school games in the area plus football news and film features.

Then Sundays at 1:30 p.m., Hoppy will join Phil for a look at filmed highlights of the top high school football game in the area that weekend with Hoppy making comments on the plays and explaining offensive and defensive maneuvers.

"Profiles in Scarlet and Gray," set for Friday, Sept. 18, at 9:30 p.m. on TV-4 will be a documentary narrated by Jimmy Crum on how Woody Hayes shapes his grid candidates into a football powerhouse by the opening whistle at OSU stadium.

JIMMY WILL film locker room strategy talks by Woody and add interviews with the assistant coaches and players to mold the picture of a football genius at work.

Armchair quarterbacks can review the action of Saturday's Buckeye contest each Sunday at 12:30 p.m. on TV-4 with Jimmy Crum. It's a full hour of filmed game highlights from start to finish.

NCAA FOOTBALL games in color on Saturdays form the nucleus of the TV-4 football fare with a schedule including the Ohio State-Southern California clash Oct. 17, the Auburn-Alabama game on Thanksgiving Day, and the Army-Navy tradition Nov. 28.

The climax of the college football season on TV-4 are three consecutive bowl games Jan. 1 — Sugar, Rose and Orange, the final televised live at night from Miami. NBC Sports will also televise the Pro Bowl live in color Jan. 10.

For the sport at heart, it will be a banner fall season for other sports, too — on TV-4 and in color. There's the World Series of Baseball beginning Oct. 7 followed by the coverage of the Summer Olympics in Tokyo, Japan.

And the weekend of Sept. 12-13, NBC-TV and TV-4 will telecast the World Series of Golf with Arnold Palmer, Ken Venturi, Bobby Nichols and Tony Lemo competing.

AS FOR THE Olympic games mentioned, TV-4 will carry a minimum of 19 separate programs totaling at least 14½ hours. Tapes of the events will be recorded in Tokyo and flown across the Pacific each day following the opening of the games Oct. 10.

S-E Archers Night Shoot Is Saturday

The Southeast Archers will hold their first night shoot of the summer Saturday, Aug. 15. The Southeast Club is the first Columbus range to have a lighted course.
